Christmas Vacation Starts at 4; Keen Students Scoop Collegian

No one need tell a Willamette student that school ends for the Christmas vacation today at 4. He can surmise it after arising from Pop's bigger-than-Thanksgiving dinner. He can tell from the way his room-mate spends the night packing instead of studying. But if he is deaf, dumb and has no appetite, he can still manage to catch the Christmas spirit found even in the classroom.

If he pursues the subject further and raises the question in class he will discover that vacation ends Monday, January 7—seven days into leap year.

Informed professors will also tell him that double cuts are given for skipping classes today and the day school resumes. Dormitory officials announce that Baxter and Lausanne hall will not be open during the holidays.

While most Willamette students will be heading for home this weekend, several will be spending their vacation far from familiar surroundings.

Ursula Glaeser, Linz, Danube, Austria, who serves as house-mother at Bishop manor, will journey to Kansas City for the holidays. Beverly Pearson, Anchorage, Alaska, will visit in Dallas, Texas; Lyn Wence, Hilo, Hawaii, will be in St. Paul, Minnesota; while Jan Denney, San Mateo, Calif., is flying to Hawaii with her parents for vacation.

The remainder of the contingent from Hawaii will be visiting in Washington, Oregon and California, as will the Alaskans, with the exception of Nancy Gore, Nancy Hanson, and Arthur Wilson, who will return to their homes in Ketchikan.

Barbara Young, Lethbridge, Alberta, will be able to be home for Christmas, as will Andy George, Mt. Hope, N. J., Ruth Price, La Grange, Ill., Don Rose, Spencer, Iowa; and Bob Walker, Rockaway, N. J. However, Jo Ann Hirtzel, Chir, Mexico, and Alice Jackson, Chicago, will spend their vacations in Oregon and Washington.

3 Men Picked For Contest

Tom Scheidel, junior from Salem, Elliott Motschenbacher, senior from Salem, and Earl Atkinson, sophomore from San Mateo, Calif., were selected Wednesday to represent Willamette university in the forthcoming 1952 Town Meeting Tournament to be held in Portland January 14 and 15.

Speaking on the topic "What should be the terms of a peace that would end the cold war?" the three men were selected in a local campus contest by Dean Robert D. Gregg.

Scheidel, Motschenbacher and Atkinson will take part in symposia on this topic before nearly a dozen Portland audiences during the two days of the tournament. Dr. Runkel has named Jim Wood, junior from Salem, to attend the affair as Willamette's representative on the roster of chairmen.

McKay Commends Convention

Oregon's Governor Douglas McKay recently commended Willamette's GOP Mock Convention as "a highly laudable enterprise." Governor McKay said further, "It is gratifying to note that the college youth of the State of Oregon are taking such an active interest in an activity which represents an integral part of the political affairs of the nation. I commend those universities and colleges which have already decided to participate and hope that all colleges will be able to send delegations to the convention."

Plans for a mock convention on the campus were first discussed by the student council and then referred to the student body for approval. 364 students were recorded as favoring the convention while 63 answered in the negative. Of the students, 223 favored a Republican convention and 91 signified Democratic tendencies. 252 students indicated that they would be willing to participate in the convention. Following student approval, Bob Small, senior from Sacramento, California, was elected chairman by the student council.

A list of speakers being considered as either the keynote speakers or the honorary chairman of the convention was released by Chairman Small. They are: Governor Earl Warren of California, Senator Richard Nixon of California, Senator Owen Brewster of Maine, Senator Henry Cabot Lodge and Senator Everett Saltonstall of Massachusetts, Ex-Governor Harold Stassen of Minnesota, Governor Thomas E. Dewey of New York, Senator James Duff of Pennsylvania, Senator Herman Welger of Idaho, and Senator Everett Dirksen, Illinois.

Included on the list are Senator Karl Mundt of South Dakota, Paul Hoffman, ex-head of ECA, and Governor Douglas McKay and Senator Wayne Morse of Oregon.

A recent addition to the list of participating colleges is the University of Portland. The complete list, of which some schools

To Park, or Not To

Can students park on 12th street without worrying about the time limit? No one seems to know. According to Dr. Robert Fenix, financial vice-president, the mayor and city manager agreed to abolish the two-hour limit and remove the signs.

That was several weeks ago. The "two-hour" signs are still up. Fenix said he wouldn't want to advise anyone to deliberately park there all day, but he was "fairly sure" the limit was off.

No other progress was reported on the construction of a parking lot. The city council allotted money sometime ago for conversion of a lot near 12th street, but no action has been taken. Sites for parking lots south of the Mill stream are also being considered.

Ticket Sales Go Slowly

Ticket sales for Yehudi Menuhin, scheduled in concert here last night, were revealed as "slow" at a Tuesday meeting of the Concert Board. Jim Jackson, chairman of the tickets committee, announced that tickets totaling $320 dollars had been sold. Out of town sale reports had not been received.

Bill Briggs, who is in charge of service club advertising, reported that clubs were asked to announce the concert at their meetings.

Council Rejects Change, Sets 'Glee as Always' March 29

Ruben Menashe is Freshman Glee manager for this year after pulling past Fred Schmale 123 to 87 in the run-off election this week, Larry Smith, election manager announced.

A primary election was held December 12 and 13. The ballot box was misplaced the morning of the 13th and was not found until late in the afternoon. However, the trend of voting had been definitely established, Smith said, so the highest candidates Menashe and Schmale, were picked for the run-off.

Final primary vote was as follows: Bill Briggs, 23; Phil Draper, 13; Ruben Menashe, 60; Fred Schmale, 71; and Jim Verdieck, 36.

The Student Council Wednesday voted 16 to four to retain a Saturday night Freshman Glee, and set March 29 as the date.

Students losing classes during Glee disturbed many of the professors, and students were asked to investigate possibilities of cutting down on Glee and many other activities.

A committee, headed by Amaryllis Jiles, with members Betty Howat, Harold Silke, and Duane Denney, investigated the problem, and decided that Glee should remain on Saturday night instead of Friday night, submitting this reason to the council:

"All preliminaries to Glee will have to be concentrated in four school days, which will result in added pressure and tension on the students involved. Changing the date to Friday will result in the 9 to 11 o'clock hours lost for decorating, last minute preparations, and rest."

The committee recommended that Blue Monday be cut down to a two hour period, making the 11 o'clock hour the chapel period, and changing Monday 11 o'clocks to Tuesday during chapel period.

The committee felt that if the faculty will cooperate by enforcing attendance on Blue Monday, the academic time lost for Glee will be minimal.

Holiday Parties Due Seniors; Benson Hotel on January 3, 4

Charles A. Paeth, director of admissions, announced that parties will be held in Portland on January 3 and 4, Friday and Saturday, to acquaint graduating seniors of the area with Willamette. The parties will be held in the Crystal Room of the Benson Hotel and 500 seniors have been invited.

Mark Hatfield, dean of students, will speak and musical programs will be presented. The film, "So You're Going to Willamette" will be shown to the seniors and counseling with a dozen members of the Willamette faculty will be available.

Students going home for the holidays are asked to refer the names and addresses of acquaintances in their communities, who are completing their last year of high school, to the Admissions office. Each senior will receive a complete set of Willamette materials. Charles Paeth said many students now on the campus have learned of Willamette in this way.

The admissions office announces schedules for coming visits in 1952. Fifty schools will be visited.

Schools in the Willamette valley will be first on the schedule with the visits planned for January 28. Northwest Washington is scheduled for February 4-8. Four days, February 18-22, will be spent visiting Seattle high schools. Southern Oregon schools are on the schedule for March 3-7. The Oregon coast high schools will be covered during March 24-28. The final visit will take place April 21-22 on a trip to Eastern Oregon high schools.

'Studio A' Plans Holiday Programs

Several programs have been scheduled for the holidays by radio planning and production classes.

The "Studio A" production for next Thursday, December 27, is "Jane Eyre," starring Wanda Makinson, Bob Kaplan, Marion Sparks, Dick Geer, Sue Mellor, and Audrey Bliss. This is a tape recording of a program presented last year.

On January 3 "The Jade," by Laura Andrews Fowler, will be presented by "Studio A." This production will feature Dick Geer, Judi Wood and Eunice Peckenpaugh. Bob Witham adapted the script for radio and will direct.

Thursday's production of "The Telltale Heart" was directed by Paul Nieswander with Garold Meinke adapting the script.

Governor Douglas McKay congratulates Bob Small, chairman of Willamette Mock Republican convention. McKay said, "The Willamette Mock convention is a highly laudable enterprise," and he was pleased to see college youths take an active interest in national political affairs.

20 Riflemen Vie for Teams

The AROTC rifle team began its fourth week of regular practice yesterday. The team has a regular attendance of about 20. From this number 12 must be picked to represent the unit in the intercollegiate matches. From this number, five must be picked for the National William Randolph Hearst match that will be fired the first week after the Christmas vacation.

Progress has been slow but definitely constructive, said Capt. T. M. Velde. "The team is shaping up very well considering the inexperience of the members and many of the bugs of the firing methods have been eliminated but there are still a good many rough edges that must be knocked off and smoothed up before the team will be ready for the Hearst match."

So far only the prone position has been fired for record, while the sitting position is being worked on in practice. Kneeling and off-hand positions have been touched on lightly but no actual firing practice has been done from these positions as yet.

Practice for those able to attend will continue through the Christmas holidays beginning December 27. Practice will begin at 3 p. m. on that day but further practice dates will be announced from day to day.

This week's results for the prone firing position are: Elton Lafkey, 96; Bob Carlson, 95; Terry Showalter, 94; Jerry Murray, 91; William Baldwin, 90; Norm Battaglia, 90; Ted Smith, 90; Terry Wheeler, 88; Bob Whitaker, 86; Don Hayes, 84; Frank Stephens, 84; Bill McKinney, 81; Bill Mosier, 81.

No Christmas

By P. Paddock and B. Stone

The Christmas Spirit idea the air,
 And everyone is gay;
 But take a care, my friends,
 Beware,
 There still is hell to pay.
 I have a friend who knows a guy
 That heard a conversation.
 It's not a lie that's gonna die,
 It is a revelation.
 The gist is this, dear reader
 fair,
 When Christmas morn draws near
 There will not be a thing to see,
 Cause Santa won't be here.
 His sack is full, his sleigh is set
 You students have your warning
 And you can bet that you will get
 No presents Christmas morning.
 The reason, gals, is plain as this
 No co-ed chose discretion.
 For Mark, my miss, has seen you kiss
 At Lausanne's closing session.
 You fellows, too, don't need to laugh
 You studied not, you know.
 So in behalf of Ewalt's staff

I say your grades are low.
 My friend explained it all to me
 G. Herbert sent a wire.
 It seems that he said angrily,
 "Don't make me out a liar."
 "I told them all what books
 to hit,
 Before the term was ended.
 I must admit they read a bit
 But still their grades descended.
 "I said, 'Now, Santa won't alight
 Unless your grades are higher.'
 So that's my plight; I had to write.
 Don't make me out a liar."
 So this is it, Willamette chums,
 There'll be no Christmas cheer.
 Though Santa comes to our alums,
 He'll not be stopping here.
 P.S.
 What ho! dear students, arise,
 awake!
 It's just a terrible mistake.
 We just received G. Herbert's call.
 We aren't guilty after all.
 So on your way—be gone
 today,
 And Merry Christmas to you all.

"From the College Campus"

Is the title of a column now being written by this reporter which will appear weekly in The Statesman. Its purpose will be to give Statesman readers a fairly comprehensive report of the activities and achievements of Willamette students and faculty.

Higgins, Ruark and Alsops too,
 Look to your laurels, I'm comin' through!

There Must Be a Moral Here Somewhere

We saw the stage play "Mr. Roberts" in Portland Friday night at the Mayfair and were much impressed with the acting, the staging and the play itself. Nowhere but on the legitimate stage (the term always slays me) could so much MAN pass for so much fun with so little offense to anyone as in "Mr. Roberts."

I was amused at a sweet young thing nearly hidden behind a huge purple orchid escorted by a young man who probably didn't realize that the play was so — shall we say realistic? Both were a little uncomfortable at the language and conversation matter of the sailors in the play until she burst into gales of laughter over one of the most pungent lines in the play.

Musart

Emanating from Colgate university at Hamilton, New York, is a new college publication named "Musart," an intercollegiate journal of music and arts. To quote from a letter addressed to the Collegian music editor (which we have not) or music writer (which we have and have not).

"Musart may be the answer to a college prayer. Professionals to amateurs, classicists to jazzmen, second bassists to carillonists — and music-minded laymen — now have the opportunity to demonstrate and see what can be done and what IS being done musically on the college level."

An invitation has been extended to Willamette to participate in contributing to this intercollegiate publication and we are happy to accept. We would like to have subscribers from the Willamette campus. "Musart" is published monthly and the price is fifteen cents. There will be a sample copy of the publication on the bulletin board in the Collegian office and a sheet which those interested in "Musart" may sign without obligation but only to show their interest in a publication of this sort.

BEEFS

To the Editor:

What is the purpose of the school scheduling social functions when students are unable to attend due to the uncooperative attitude of certain faculty members in scheduling tests the day following these functions?

Many students were unable to attend the annual pajama dance because they had to spend their evening studying for tests which certain faculty members saw fit to schedule. Students are expected to maintain a relatively high GPA; however, when everyone doesn't participate in outside activities, there is a question as to their "school spirit." Which is more important? Certainly full participation in the school program can't mean studying and attending social functions at the same time.

ACP Writer Feels 'Saturday's Hero' Shows Lack of Sincerity

Editor's note — Since football and sports in general have been under fire for some months, Hollywood put out a little gem entitled "Saturday's Hero." This reporter, having seen the picture, wanted to say something, but didn't quite know how. Howie Ryan, staff reporter for the Associated Collegiate Press, says it this way.

Apparently Hollywood this year has declared open season on some of college life's more vulnerable components. First it was the Greek-blaster "Take Care of My Little Girl," and currently it's Columbia with "Saturday's Hero."

This picture centers around Steve Novak, the son of Polish immigrants, who is a real nice kid despite the head-swelling distinction of being a high school football star.

As numerous college offers come rolling in, Steve overcomes the temptation to stay home and help support his aging father and war-disabled brother, finally accepts his football scholarship at Jackson University, Va. (a safe distance from Hollywood).

It is made clear that the only reason he accepts is to get an engineering education.

At school Novak is troubled to find that he must work for his keep several hours a day on the practice field, a schedule which naturally interferes with his studies. As time passes, Novak doesn't. But this is a mere detail to a school with ambitious football hopes, and the marks are doctored to a healthier status.

Our boy finds no trouble in making the team—everybody's crazy about him. But as the seasons roll by and his name gets bigger and bigger, Novak's conscience begins to bother him.

To complicate matters, he falls in love with the niece of T. C. McCabe, his alumni benefactor, who is carrying the financial load of building alma mater's football reputation.

Finally, after permanently injuring a shoulder, Novak decided it's a bad deal, takes the girl away from jealous guardian McCabe, and goes home to get an education at night school.

"This is how one man beat the Saturday afternoon racket," according to the build-ups given this movie.

The less said about the acting the better. John Derek lets his expressive eyebrows do most of the work as he furnishes a dozen soulful scowls per reel. Donna Reed, as the poor-little-rich-girl heroine, appears to have more frustrations than a tap dancer whose shoes are soled with bubble gum.

The football action scenes were well done, but would have been better had they included a few feet of film showing the other team on offense. (Anyone can win if the opposition isn't allowed to have the ball once in a while.)

Another hanky-dampening scene comes when Novak's teammate admits through sobs that he swiped a handful of coins from the chapel collection box. He was made out to be a real nice kid who had been corrupted by the Big Game.

We'll go along with the film in its shaming the fans, the coaches (the one in this movie looks more like a bookie), the alumni and the sports writers. But the point has been missed.

The players are portrayed as good, clean, red-blooded, 100 per cent rah rah American boys who are unfortunate enough to be able to play football. Not a word is offered about the school administrators who hypocritically turn their heads from the questionable activities within their colleges.

In fact, the deepest single impression made by this film—if accepted at face value—is that college athletes must be enormously stupid. Who can sympathize with these "kept men" who play a dangerous game for a paltry $100 per month?

In short, this film has too many weak spots. It was heralded as "the story never before told." We won't argue that, but we wish they had told it better.

Half an Acre of Concrete

By Bill Barrows

Half an acre of concrete lay deserted before me that afternoon. Completely deserted it lay except for people and cars and glittering shop windows. There were even the ugly two and three story buildings frowning down from above if anyone cared to notice, but no one did. No one seemed to notice anything.

They hurried along, the people and the cars, with a determined set on their faces. Automobiles sneaked along on their haunches like a hundred cats stalking the same bird. An orderly row of them lined up at the curb and gaped wide-eyed past their ticking watch-dogs at the tinselled display in the windows.

And the cars watched the people walking past on the sidewalk. Old people, young people, men, women, and children of all sizes and shapes walked past in either direction. Countless faces loomed up to disappear behind hats, hair-dos, and time.

High-heeled women jogging by in the unflattering, delicate winter sunshine squinted grimly ahead above too-red cheeks that quivered loosely with each crisply tapping step. On they came by ones and twos and threes in wool coats and skirts and black heels as if newly issued from a printing press at the next corner. Women in an endless assortment of styles and variations bounded past on either side clad only in the standard expression of yuletide blankness.

Even the loudspeaker high atop the building a block away disinterestedly blared forth the notes of "Adeste Fideles" in the screamed tones of a popular tenor. If the people heard, they showed no sign, for they hurried on behind the same mask of indifference when that impersonal boom boomed its loudest as they did when it was silent. The people heard, but they did not hear. The carols were merely another unconscious irritant, a drug that kept their minds from straying into thought . . .

What thoughts lay behind the deeply lined face of the old man as he looked with sheepish eyes from within the tavern window? He stood there, an old-looking child with no occupation or playmates, staring absently at the crowded street. His face, motionless, frosted with a one-day stubble, was but a minor variation on the pervading theme in the streets. If three score and ten such seasons had bought this mask for one elder citizen, then what accelerated experience had purchased it for the boy of nine or ten and the young woman of twenty? Was this the badge of the American people? Or, did I imagine it all? Was it the trick of a sullen, cynical imagination?

No, it was not. I looked again before leaving the street. New faces drifted past through the noise wearing the same passive grimness and determination as the others. They were no worse nor better—unchanged. Each added something in an unindividual sort of way to the pandemonium of silence that drifted and settled in the deserted half acre of concrete.

Choir Plans Busy Season After Vacation

The Willamette university a capella choir climaxed a full pre-Christmas season with the singing of a program of Christmas music for the Salem Rotary Club Wednesday. The program was given at noon by the 60-voice, robed choir in the Mirror Room of the Marion Hotel.

The choir gave two similar programs this week, when they caroled in the State House on Monday afternoon. Immediately following the caroling, the Choir transcribed a program of Christmas music which is to be broadcast at two separate times. The program will be heard first over KSLM on Saturday, December 22, at 7 p.m. It will be re-broadcast over KPOA in Honolulu, Hawaii, on Christmas day.

Dean Melvin Geist also announced several tentative plans for the Choir's spring semester activities, which include at least three full-program appearances in the Tuesday convocations. The Dean also plans to have the Choir participate in a joint concert with the Salem-Willamette orchestra under the direction of Dr. Willis Gates, similar to the one last spring in which the Choir sang Kodaly's "Te Deum."

The Choir will also make their annual spring tour, although no definite plans have been made as yet.

Smith Travels To Conventions Until Late January

President G. Herbert Smith will leave January 2 for the Association of American Colleges convention in Washington, D. C.

The theme of the convention this year is "Colleges and Public Service." John Foster Dulles will be one of the speakers. Addresses will include topics such as government service, community service, public office, and co-curricular activities.

Smith will return late in January, as this trip will be combined with several other conventions taking place in the east, some church and some school.

The a cappella choir, Pres. G. Herbert Smith and five Willamette students from Hawaii recorded a radio show Tuesday from the rotunda of the state capitol building. The program will be rebroadcast over station KPOA in Hawaii and in Salem tomorrow at 7 p.m. on station KSLM. The Willamette choir, directed by Dean Melvin Geist, is also planning activities for next semester. (Cut courtesy Statesman)

3 Plays, 'Overtones,' 'Marriage Proposal,' 'Riders to the Sea' to Be Staged January 10

Three one-act plays will be presented January 10 in the Little Theater under student direction. "Overtones", "Marriage Proposal" and "Riders to the Sea" will be presented as workshop productions.

"Overtones", under the direction of Dorothea Anderson, depicts two women in conversation, the overtones, and their real selves, the undertones. Harriett, who married for money, is visited by the love-matched Margaret whose husband Harriett was interested in but rejected because he was a starving artist. Since he has now made his name, her interest is renewed. Hetty and Maggie reveal the true state of affairs despite the efforts of the overtones.

"Marriage Proposal", directed by Audrey Bliss, is a Russian play by Anatone Chekhov and relates the problems of a middle aged, wealthy and hypochondriacal land owner as he attempts to find a wife.

"Riders to the Sea", a study of Irish life by John Millington

Synge, is directed by Margaret Conklin. It portrays Maurya, an old woman who has lost six of her family to the sea, as she experiences the deaths of her two remaining sons at the hands of the same sea.

Four other one-act plays will be presented later in January to complete the series of workshop plays. These will include two arean staged productions which will introduce that style of staging to the campus.

RE Week Poster and Essay Contest Deadline February 11

Poster and Essay contests for Religious Emphasis week are now under way, announces Carl Blanes, chairman of the contests. Deadlines for the contests will be February 11.

Posters should be on 12" by 22" tagboard, and should be done in color, keeping in mind that the drawing will be reproduced in black and white on the RE week program covers.

Students Handle Legal Research

A research service is free to practicing lawyers, who, because of limited library facilities, are not equipped to obtain authorities on questions of law, Seward Reese, dean of the Law school, announced this week.

The practicing lawyer is invited to send the exact legal questions for which he wants citations to the Willamette Student Legal Research Service, College of Law, Willamette University, Salem, Oregon. Each question is assigned to a student who prepares a memorandum of authorities.

About one or two weeks should be allowed for preparation of the memorandum. This service is available from September 15 to May 15 of each academic year.

Posters will be displayed in the library. A $15 first prize, and $10 second prize are offered for the winning posters. The theme of Religious Emphasis week this year is "Christ's Way Today."

Essays will run approximately 500 words, and should center around the theme, but original titles should be selected. The winning essay will be printed in the Collegian, and prizes of $15 and $10 are being offered.

Ad Shows Prexy In Sunset Mag

Sherm Bliss and the merits of attending Willamette university will be shown to readers of "Sunset" magazine. The opportunities at Willamette will appear in a two column, five-inch advertisement in the January issue of the magazine.

Featured in the ad are pictures of the Willamette library, and Sherm Bliss, who, the ad explains, attended American university at Washington, D.C. last spring.

The advertisement explained that "Willamette's high scholastic standing has resulted in advantageous relationships with leading graduate and technical schools."

Bearcats Set for Clashes With Whitworth, CWCE

Willamette's cage squad will make their last home stand until after the holiday vacation this weekend when they will attempt to stave off the invasion of two Washington quintets.

Tonight the Bearcats will face a dangerous court crew from Whitworth and Saturday night they meet the Central Washington College cagers from Ellensburg, Washington.

The Whitworth tilt promises to be a highly exciting one, as the Pirates, coming out of the Inland Empire city of Spokane, are rated very favorably in their league. The Crimson and Black will have two all-conference stars in the lineup in big Ralph Polson, six feet seven inch center and captain and Jim Doherty, six feet four inch guard. Bill Freeman, placed on the second all-conference team last season, will start at a forward spot. Freeman is a sophomore and is six feet five inches. Rounding out the Whitworth lineup will be guard Roy Beach and forward Ray Beach. Roy and Ray are identical twins.

Loop Record Good

The Pirate coach, Jim McGregor, is starting his sophomore season at the helm. He brought his boys in second in the Evergreen flag chase last year with 10 wins and four losses in conference play.

In the second game of the weekend series, Central Washington College of Education will come out against the Cardinal and Gold. The CWCE squad is coached by Lee Nicholson, now in his 23rd year as head coach at CWCE.

Although they will undoubtedly be tough, the Wildcats probably won't be as hard to handle as their league brothers from Spokane. The Wildcats ended up in sixth place in the Evergreen conference last season.

'Cats Hot

Billy Lee, the team's leading scorer last year with 225 points, will be at one guard spot along with Gene Keller, sophomore letterman. Lee is a senior and a three year letterman. The other letter-winner is six foot three inch Zebb Wedekind, who will start at a forward position. Don Kremer, six foot five inch junior will be at the other forward position. In the pivot spot will be Ken Teller, a six foot five inch transfer from the University of Wyoming.

As for the Bearcats, they will be looking for their fifth and sixth consecutive wins against two losses. The 'Cats walloped Chico State earlier this week with scores of 98-58 and 87-67. However, they are not expected to walk away with either of these two games.

The Bearkittens will play preliminary games before each contest. Tonight they will go against the Campbell Insulators of the City league and Saturday night they face Newberg high school.

The prelim begins at 6:15 and the main event at 8 p.m. in the Willamette gymnasium.

'Kittens to Meet Insulators, Newberg; Smother Multnomah College, Sandy

Willamette's eager Bearkittens, who notched their fourth and fifth straight wins of the year as they trounced Multnomah college 96-42 and Sandy high school 54-28 Monday and Tuesday nights respectively, take on the Campbell Insulators of the City league tonight and Newberg high school tomorrow in prelims to the varsity clashes.

The Campbell Insulators game will be the toughest assignment for the Bearkittens so far this season. The Insulators have captured five straight wins this year and look to be sure shooiners for the league title. The

New Records Set By Butte, Baxter

SAE No. 1	21	3	28
Beta No. 1	17	7	24
Sig No. 2	16	8	21
Baxter No. 1	15	6	20

Carl Butte of Baxter No. 1 led his team to a 4 to 0 win over the Phi Delt No. 1 squad last Thursday and at the same time broke two league individual records while the Baxter team set a couple also.

Butte set the league high individual game record with a rousing 229, then went on to smash the solo series mark with a 634. These marks laid the groundwork for the Baxter team's record game and series scores of 948 and 2792.

Second in high individual game now is Dick Brouwer with 225. Elmer Haugen has 223 and Jerry Coen 222. Coen and Brouwer also run second and third in high series with scores of 587 and 656.

Just the first four teams in the league have been listed in the standings because they are so far ahead of the rest of the pack. Other results last week: SAE No. 1 took the Sig one's, 4-0; Baxter two's 3, Beta No. 2, 1; Beta No. 1 beat the Phi Delt two's, 4-0; SAE and Sig No. 2 teams split, 2-2.

Insulators are led by Al Bellinger, Bill Colvard, Jack Fitzmaurice, Duane Shield and Gene Timms.

Both tilts played as forerunners to the Willamette-Chico State games were ragged and free scoring, but Coach Sam Vokes' charges were too much for the invaders.

The initial night the red hot frosh jumped to a 27 to 5 first quarter lead and ran roughshod the rest of the way. At halftime they had a 50-13 bulge. The entire squad saw action after the third quarter at which time the future Bearcats led 74 to 26.

A pair of Larrys, Baggett with 14 points and Scheelar with 11, paced the Frosh while Ken Floyd collected 14 to lead the Portlanders.

The following evening a determined band of Sandy high Pioneers held their own during a tight first period, but then the locals got back into the swing and, paced by Chuck Lewis, built up a 23 to 11 halftime lead.

From that time on the outcome was definite as the Cardinal and Gold machine hit from every angle and had a convincing 42 to 15 third period bulge.

Bearkittens Stop Quakers Twice 76-55, 86-40; Baggett, Huff Lead Teammates to Double Win

Coach Sam Vokes' Willamette Bearkittens knocked off the George Fox Quakers in a twin bill last Saturday night at Newberg. The Bearkitten first and second teams dropped the Quaker varsity by a score of 76 to 55 while the third and fourth stringers scored an easy 86-40 victory over the Quaker Jayvees in the preliminary match.

The double win for the frosh squad gave them their second and third straight triumphs of the year. The wins also kept up their record of not scoring less than 75 points per game. Their first win was over Multnomah college by a score of 75 to 28.

In the main event, the game was not sewed up by the Bearkittens until midway through the final period. But with Larry Baggett, Dick Bertram and

'Cats Await Conference Opening Tilt

The Willamette Bearcats, Northwest conference co-champions with Linfield, will windup pre-season play and open league action during the Christmas vacation.

Coach John Lewis' Bearcats will travel to Tacoma next Friday to meet Pacific Lutheran and then move over to Ellensburg Saturday night to round out non-conference play for the season against Central Washington College of Education.

Willamette will open conference play against College of Idaho Coyotes in a two game series starting January 4. The following Monday night, the Bearcats move over to Walla Walla to face the Whitman Missionaries in a single contest.

Pacific Lutheran, an Evergreen conference member, have established themselves as a title contender and will give the Bearcats a rough battle. The Washingtonians have dropped Chico State twice and College of Puget Sound and Pacific once. Pacific Lutheran is led by Ray Lund. Other sparkplugs are Bob Hefty, Ron Johnson and Dick Huffman.

The game with Central Washington College of Education will be a return match as Willamette meets CWCE tomorrow night on the home floor. The Washingtonians are led by Gene Keller, Billy Lee, Zebb Wedekind, Don Kremer and Ken Teller.

Nick Weddle has taken over head basketball chores at College of Idaho and faces the job of rebuilding. The biggest loss suffered by the Coyotes was losing Lloyd Neville via graduation. Neville was the conference's leading scorer last year and placed on the conference all-star team. The success of Coach Weddle's rebuilding is not known because no information has been received by the Collegian.

Coach Bob Burgess is starting his third year at Whitman and he uses the double post system.

Chuck Lewis leading the way, the freshmen managed to make a clean sweep of the double-header.

The Quakers led the Bearkittens most of the way during the first half, but trailed 32 to 29 at halftime. The third quarter and part of the fourth were nip and tuck, but the fine playing by the 'Kittens finally won out as they walked off the floor with the game.

Baggett topped both teams in scoring with 18 points. Shockey of George Fox was runner-up with 17 counters. Bearkittens Lewis and Bertram followed with 16 and 15 points respectively.

In the preliminary game, the freshmen completely dominated the play as they captured for themselves an 86-40 win. Don Huff and Bill Griffiths led their teammates to the triumph with 20 and 14 points respectively. Louie Espinosa was the stand-out for the Bearkittens defensively. Field was high point man for the Quaker Jayvees with ten points.

All-Americans, Phi Delts Snare Wins As Vacation Interrupts Hoop Slate

The All-Americans and the Phi Delts established themselves as threats in the "B" and "C" leagues as both squads captured easy victories last Saturday morning in intramural basketball play. In other play held last Saturday, the Phi Delt "B" team took a close decision while in the "C" loop the Oregon State hospital and Baxter quintets won.

There were no "A" league games this week because the gymnasium was not available. Intramural play will be discontinued until after the Christmas vacation. "A" league play will start January 7 while "B" and "C" league action will resume on January 12.

In the "B" circuit the AA's moved into a first place tie with Baxter with their easy 46-18 win over the SAE's. The AA's jumped to a 14 to 0 lead before the SAE's could muster a single point. The SAE's never threatened as the All-Americans won their second straight game of the season. All-Americans Al Bellinger, Lefty Shield and Irv Roth led the scoring parade with 16, 15 and 12 points respectively. Russ Ferg was high for the losers with nine.

The Phi Delts dropped the Betas 16 to 14 in the only other "B" league game. After trailing 6 to 4 at halftime, the Phi Delts behind Keith Myrick and Buz Oerding pulled ahead to take their first win in two starts. Beta Bob Packwood shared high point honors with Myrick at six points apiece.

The Phi Delts tied the Sigs and Baxter for first place in the "C" league as they dropped the AA's 42-16. After holding a 14-11 lead in the third period, the winners began to roll and were never in danger after that. Bill Briggs was high point man for the game with 15 counters, while Erwin Weber led the AA's with six points.

The Baxter quintet maintained their hold on first place along with the Sigs and Phi Delts as they dropped the Beta team 20-17. Don Clark led the winners with eight counters while Al Siebert was high point man for the losers with five points.

In the finale the Oregon State hospital crew walloped the SAE's by a score of 39 to 24. Harve Koepf and Tom Summers led the OSH team with 12 and 11 points respectively. Jim Morgali topped the SAE scoring with nine counters.

Recovered

Hugh Bellinger, all-conference guard, has made a fast recovery from stomach flu as he came back to lead the Bearcats to victory over the Chico State Wildcats Tuesday night.

Bearcats Stop Chico State In Wild Scoring Tussles

Willamette's basketball aggregation waxed white hot Monday and Tuesday as they downed an outclassed Chico State crew 98-58 and 87-67 in a pair of pre-league tussles on the Willamette maple boards.

Monday night it was Doug Logue with 12 field goals and a trio of free tosses for a total of 27 points. Tuesday evening Hugh Bellinger started the Bearcat ball rolling with a torrid scoring spree netting 12 counters for the sharpshooter at the end of the first quarter.

The first encounter saw Johnny Lewis' boys jump right off to a 23-14 first quarter lead which continued a steady increase until the final 40 point margin. Six-foot six-inch Doug Logue stood in the center of the key and converted passes from his teammates all night, adding to his worth with numerous tip-ins and outstanding backboard play.

Hugh Ball Hawk

Logue was followed in total points Monday by Larry Smith with 15 and Dick Brouwer with 12. Ellis Rolls topped Chico scorers with 16.

Tuesday night, aided by Bellinger's 12 point splurge, the Bearcats rolled to a 26-15 lead at the end of the initial period. Bellinger was all over the floor, playing hard on the backboards and several times stealing the ball out from under the invaders' noses.

In the second quarter it was six counters apiece for Ted Loder, Logue, and Dick Mase, and a field goal for Scrivens to give the 'Cats 20 more and a 46-27 halftime lead.

Loder Gets Hot

The third period saw Loder tally 13, and although he played only the second and third quarters, his 19 counters made him high point man for the Bearcats. The torrid Bellinger poured through 6 more to help along the Cardinal and Gold to a 73-49 lead at the three-quarter mark.

The Bearcats took it easy in the final period to coast to an 87-67 final victory.

Scoring Tuesday night was well divided. Following Loder's 19 were Bellinger with 18, Logue with 17, and Mase with 14. Four other Bearcats, Brouwer, Dick Hoy, Lou Scrivens, and Larry Smith also broke into 'Cat scoring for the night.

Officials both nights were Al Lightner and John Kolb.

Lewis Employs Old Formula

When Willamette's basketball squad includes the Eastern colleges of the conference, namely College of Idaho and Whitman, in the latter half of their early season road trip, they will be doing the same thing that they did last year and that is to get that tough trip to the interior out of the way early. The boys failed miserably last year, losing two-out-of-three to the Missionaries and Coyotes with the former accountable for the double loss. Coach John Lewis still insists that the idea of getting those games over early and winning them, which is part of the plan of course, is a good, sound move. So back they go again this year with the hope of carrying out the plan as the strategy calls for.

Should the Bearcats achieve their purpose of the early jaunt and sweep the three games with the inland colleges, it will establish them as the definite favorite to cop the conference crown. A two-out-of-three sweep would leave them sitting in a comfortable position also giving them a clear head start in their title shot. The trip to Caldwell and Walla Walla is the annual one that is dreaded by all Willamette valley teams in the conference. However, Whitman and C of I have it much tougher than the teams around here because they have to make invasions of the valley colleges. That is why the conference champion in basketball almost always comes from one of the Oregon schools. Whitman used to win it once in a while, however, when CPS was in the league.

No One is Favored Now

It is swiftly becoming a hot race in intramural teams' battle for points to see who gets the plaque at the end of the year for piling up most of the precious little counters. The touchball season ended with the All-Americans, champs of last year, just a hair ahead of the SAE's who look to have the best chance of succeeding the AA's if anyone does. The current basketball race, with its three leagues, does not give evidence of telling much, instead, two more units, the Phi Delts and Baxter, are rapidly piling up points along with the SAE's and AA's, both of which are having a tough time of holding their own. At any rate, no one can be considered a shoo in to take the coveted plaque at the end of the year.

Awards Given Archers As Competition Ends

Preceding the AWS meeting last Tuesday, awards were presented to 20 women participating in archery this year by Dr. A. Gale Currey, professor of women's physical education.

Each year, archery scores are sent to a previously designated university in conjunction with a national inter-collegiate archery contest. This contest is carried on a postal basis.

Willamette university has placed second in this contest for two years. It is hoped by Dr. Currey that Willamette may place first this year as scores have been excellent. The most serious rival to Willamette in this contest has been the University of Connecticut.

Relays Set

Chester Stackhouse, head track coach for Willamette, has announced that the second annual Willamette Relays will be held next April 5, 1952, on McCulloch track.

The meet last year was run off with 1002 participants and was witnessed by 3,000 track enthusiasts. Again this year the competition is open to all track athletes in the northwest.

Presentation of 'Messiah' Brings Increased Support

By Lyle Engelmann

The Sunday afternoon performance of Handel's 'Messiah' marked the prelude to the holiday season for many Salem citizens, visitors, and Willamette students. It is an event that more people are becoming conscious of in this vicinity as an annual event, this being the ninth consecutive performance in Salem.

The soloists are generally chosen early, a fresh quartet each year. They are selected for their artistry, merits, and training, and, as they come from no great distance, give a feeling of "home-owned" talent. J. Patrick Smith, tenor, was heard first. He gave a bright performance.

60 Deferments Up for Study

Willamette's AROTC Selective Service Deferment Board will meet this afternoon at 1:30 to consider approximately 60 more applications for draft deferments on the basis of intention to continue with advanced AROTC and accept a reserve air force commission if tendered.

Over 60 applications were accepted as a result of a board meeting about six weeks ago. The applications to be considered this afternoon were submitted about the same time as those already accepted, but were held out until this later date for various reasons, principally due to low grade points.

All applications submitted prior to November 15 will be considered. Those accepted will be notified immediately following Christmas vacation. Those accepted for deferment on this basis will be classified 1-D.

The five-man board consists of Major Gilbert H. Charters, president, Major John W. Thompson, M/Sgt. Benjamin E. Morgan, Dr. Howard W. Runkel, and Dean of Students Mark O. Hatfield.

Colonel Francis W. Mason, deputy state director, selective service, urges all students to take the selective service qualification test, whether receiving an AROTC deferment or not.

ance. His voice was clear and rich, and his pronunciation distinct. The bass was rendered by Mark Daniels, whose voice showed strength, velocity, and a dramatic quality. The bass role is perhaps the most difficult, as it ranges almost two octaves in Number 11, "The People That Walked in Darkness."

Dwyer Sounded Nervous

The alto soloist was Madeline Dwyer. She sounded nervous, but showed her skill as the program went on, watching her director and the concertmaster carefully. Grace Ashford Groh gave a beautiful performance of the soprano role. She seemed at ease, was confident, and glided smoothly over her runs. The air, "I Know That My Redeemer Liveth," was sung lightly and clearly, thrilling the audience with its perfection.

The chorus deserves the gold star this year. They were more precise in timing than ever before, and seemed to enjoy the singing to the extent of drawing the audience completely into the performance. Number 22, "Behold the Lamb of God," was sung by the chorus as if each person had had years of experience in perfecting his part.

Orchestra Well-Balanced

The orchestra was well-balanced, giving richness in certain passages, and dynamics in others. It accompanies the singers, instead of leading them, this year. The organist, Josef Schnellker, should be credited with giving the orchestra the body that was needed to enrich the melodious score.

Dean Melvin Geist showed exceptional form in leading the chorus and orchestra members. He worked faithfully with each phase, and the work represented here that his efforts were rewarded.

The "Messiah," being a religious work, is not generally applauded. But, when held in public places, as it was here, extensive applause proved to the performers that the audience recognized the work that had been exerted.

Winter!

There is by far no season I love better than good old winter, for it means skiing, ice skating, sledding and building snowmen.

Today is the first day of winter, so let me tell you how I enjoyed myself.

My alarm buzzed off at 6:30 a.m., and I bounced joyously out of bed. I bounced back much faster, though, for my roommate had left the windows open all night, and there was a foot of snow all over the room.

Sits on Radiator

After sitting on the radiator for an hour, I felt sufficiently warm enough to venture into the calm, white outdoors. I stepped on the porch of Lausanne, ready to inhale nature's snowy wonder. My inhale was halted momentarily, as I tripped down the steps one by one until I hit the walk. Some nice Baxter boy had snuck over during the night and had iced the steps!

Oh well, I wasn't going to let anything mar this lovely first day of winter. I was gulping deep breaths of fresh, cool air when I felt something hit my leg.

Reporter Finds Art Students Preparing Christmas Cards

By Ron Swanson

With Christmas here everybody is in the holiday spirit, and the art students of Willamette are no exception.

During the past few weeks they have been working on Christmas cards as their part in the preparation for the holidays. In so doing they have used their own ideas in making very original cards which some students plan to give to their friends and relatives.

Ideas used in these cards range from the old yule-tide festivities to more modern and unique types using madonnas and other Christmas figures.

A few students have taken one idea and worked it out with silk screen, block print, stencil, and other methods to make all of their cards the same. They believe that hand-made cards carry more of the holiday spirit and individual personality than those bought in stores. This project has been used before and has always been successful as student work and appreciated by those who receive the cards.

The project is under the supervision of Dr. Cameron Paulin, and the Christmas cards will be on display in the art building today.

Other work taken on by some students includes the study of record album covers and the use of stencil in drapery mat material.

Pretty soon I was being pelted on all sides by mean, vicious boys with armies of snow balls. I felt like a duck pin, being ready to be hit by a bowling ball.

Build Snowman

After escaping the fate of the snowballs I decided to build a snowman. The only place that wasn't occupied was the railroad tracks. I had to interrupt some of the Lausanne girls taking their daily trip to the tracks, but they said they didn't mind. For two hours I worked and slaved making the snowman, and finally I had achieved perfection. I was standing back admiring my artistic touch when some students from the art department strolled over.

"Terrible," said one.

"No depth or feeling," said another.

"Pure trash," said the third.

I was trying to explain that it was only a little old snowman, but before I could utter a word, the three of them gave a mighty heave, and down toppled my beautiful snowman, hat, cane and all.

"Next time," they said "model from Picasso or Dali." And with that, they left.

Poor me! My beautiful winter day was a miserable flop! All summer long, in the warm sun, spending lazy days, I had dreamed of winter — good old winter with the cold, the hustle and bustle, the wetness and rain, always rain, pouring down on me.

As I was deep in my meditation, I lost my balance on a board covering one of the bigger lakes on the campus, and fell headlong into the stream.

I am now in my room, sitting with my feet in a tub of boiling water, blankets piled around me, and a pile of Kleenex at my disposal. I am also getting ready to be moved to the bright, cheery infirmary. All I have to say now is, please let summer come soon, so I can forget all the snow and rain, and spend long, lazy days of swimming, playing tennis and getting warm again.

This is the Collegian's last warning to all unmarried men. The next issue of the Collegian will be printed during Leap Year. No other warning will be given.

Janitors Face Heavy Work

Student vacations will mean extra work for Willamette's janitors. Several cleaning and repairing projects are being planned for Christmas holidays, announced Dr. Robert Fenix, financial business manager.

The storeroom for the bookstore is being enlarged and rearranged for more efficiency. The hallways and rooms in main buildings will be polished and repaired. Some deferred painting will be taken care of, and there will be general washing of windows, walls and woodwork.

A check of all food supplies and storerooms will be made in the dormitories and overall cleaning of kitchens and dining rooms will take place.

Students Send Christmas News Home to Hawaii

Salem station KSLM recorded its annual broadcast to Hawaii Monday in the rotunda of the Capitol building. Included in the broadcast were several distinguished speakers, the Willamette a capella choir, and five students from Hawaii.

After the choir opened the program with a portion of "It Came Upon the Midnight Clear," Emcee Dave Hoss of KSLM introduced Governor Douglas McKay, who has a special interest in Hawaii as he has been there several times. The first was in 1941, when as a senator he witnessed the bombing of Pearl Harbor.

President G. Herbert Smith and George Murphy of Northwest Airlines also spoke briefly.

Five Willamette students from Hawaii dressed in their native costumes were introduced to send Christmas greetings to their parents in Hawaii. They were Jenna Vee Moore, Helaine Lung, Hiroko Murakami, Lynn Wence and Annette Lottis.

Selections sung by the choir were "It Came Upon the Midnight Clear," "The First Noel," "God Rest Ye, Merry Gentlemen," "Deck the Halls," "The Holly and the Ivy," and a portion of "Silent Night."

The program will be rebroadcast over KPOA, a Mutual station in Honolulu, and in Salem during the holidays, although the exact date has not yet been decided.

Prospects for Jobs Shown in Handbook

Job prospects for the future are outlined in the new 1951 edition of the Occupational Outlook Handbook, according to Secretary of Labor Maurice J. Tobin. The publication is prepared by the Bureau of Labor Statistics and contains up-to-date facts on career planning for more than 400 occupations.

The data on immediate and long-range employment outlook will be of special interest, said Tobin, to college students since mobilization efforts in the last year have changed employment prospects for nearly every job in the country.

According to the Handbook, which may soon be available to college counseling offices, more than 75,000 new elementary school teachers were needed last year while only 35,000 persons qualified for certificates.

Mobilization has increased the demand for engineers and there is a shortage of scientists (particularly of those with advanced degrees) for basic and background research, development and applied research and teaching.

The legal profession is, and may remain overcrowded during the next few years, the handbook said. Opportunities for radio operators (telephone and telegraph), radio announcers, newspaper reporters, and photographers are expected to be limited for the next few years.

The need for trained women is great in all occupations in which women have led in employment such as nursing, dietetics, physical and occupational therapy, social work and library work.

More accountants are needed, especially cost accountants and certified public accountants. College graduates with courses in other fields of business administration as well as in accounting have better chances of employment than those whose training has been limited to the accounting field, the Handbook said.

Information on each occupation includes long-run employment trends as well as the employment outlook resulting from the impact of the defense program.

Personal copies of this 575-page, illustrated Handbook may be purchased from the Superintendent of Documents, Washington 25, D.C., for $3.

Army Opens Commissions

Commissions in the United States army are awaiting qualified civilian specialists in the transportation, engineer, chemical, signal and ordnance corps, according to an announcement from Sixth Army headquarters at San Francisco.

The commissions, ranging in rank from second lieutenant to captain, require no prior military service, but a degree from a recognized college and some experience in the specialized field are necessary. Each year of completed graduate study will count as experience for higher rank.

More than 100 vacancies will be filled by applicants from the eight western states. Upon receipt of their commissions the new officers will be ordered to active duty for a period of three years with a 30-day delay prior to reporting for active duty.

Monthly pay and allowances for those commissioned will range from $445.50 to $315.75.

Information concerning application for these commissions may be obtained at any army installation or at the U. S. army recruiting office.

Freshman Student In Auto Accident

Jim Stewart, freshman from Salem, was involved in a car accident with a woman employee of the Capitol coffee shop on Wednesday at 11 a.m. on State street directly opposite Eaton hall.

Stewart was driving west on State street and the woman was backing from a parking stall behind the capitol building when the collision occurred. Also involved with slight damage was an Air Force car in use by the AROTC detachment at Willamette which was parked in the adjoining space.

The woman reported that she did not see the approach of Stewart's car while he said he did not have time to stop before the accident occurred.

Eight Willamette students from Hawaii recorded greetings to their homeland on a broadcast that was recorded Monday for airing during the holidays. They are Jean Shepherd, Pepeekeo; Lyn Wence, Hilo; Jenna Vee Moore, Honolulu; Kiroko Murakami, Hilo; and Helain Lung, Keilauea. In the back row are Bennett Holt, Waimea; Annette Lottis, Hilo and Charles Koani, Honolulu.

Profs Visit High Schools

Prof. Les Sparks, head of the physical education department, and Dr. George Martin, head of the education department, recently visited Oregon high schools in which Willamette graduates are now teaching. During their two-day trip they visited 34 Willamette graduates teaching in Taft, Coquille, Roseburg and Salem high schools. In addition, they visited several school administrators, two of whom are fathers of present Willamette students.

The purpose of their trip was to get suggestions from Willamette graduates who have just begun to teach, on ways of improving their preparation. The professors also wanted to become better acquainted with school teachers in Oregon other than Willamette graduates and to see the conditions under which they are teaching.

They are planning another trip in the spring. During this tour, which is an annual event, they will continue the circle of the state.

Keep It Clean

Members of Sigma Alpha Chi and Beta Alpha Gamma have requested that students keep the bulletin board in Eaton hall as neat as possible when posting notices. The board is a project of the group.

Students Requested to Aid Civil Defense Through Local Service, Classes, Booklets

Leaflets about civil defense were recently distributed at Willamette university. The need for civil defense, or preparedness on the home front, was explained.

To begin where the letter left off, what can university students do for civil defense?

According to defense officials there are definite things everyone can do during a preparatory period. Everyone can make use of self-survival information, which will protect home and family.

Civil defense information has been made available through press releases, local civil defense meetings, talks, films, and booklets. Such information is hard to put over to a population that has never seen war at home, even if civil defense people could find the funds to compete for attention in this "Age of Print." But the facts are available for anyone who would like to make use of them.

One of the first things the public can do is to take first aid or home nursing courses, provided free by Red Cross chapters. This is the type of thing which might come in handy eventually, war or peace. Students can donate blood, recently demonstrated on the Willamette campus.

Students can learn how to fight fires. The rudiments of fire fighting, the subject of a civil defense booklet, can easily be learned. Students can have a factual civil defense library that does not take up as much space as an average-size text book. The entire "library" costs less than a dollar. Getting copies of these booklets is a good start

Check Books

The library advises all students to make certain books have been returned or renewed before the vacation begins today.

in preparing against war at home.

The next category is the civil defense volunteer. University students, in addition to learning about self-protection, might wish to offer their services to the CD organization in Salem or in their home town. Always volunteer locally. It is the local directors who know their recruitment demands. If anyone wishes to work with the Marion county civil defense organization, he should contact Capt. Wallace Wharton, whose office is in the old high school building.

In regard to volunteer work, some will be needed now for a variety of jobs, which might include public education work, training, and clerical duties.

Drill Team Elects Officers

The Willamette university AROTC drill team showed definite signs of taking shape when it met last Friday to elect officers and formulate a plan of action. Bill Van Horn was elected team captain and Louie Prediletto received the post of adjutant.

According to Prediletto, "The purpose of the team is for the demonstration of military marching movements, both on and off campus.

"After the team has become better organized, there will be an opportunity to join any one of several national air force drill team organizations, two of which are Arnold Air Society and Command Squadron.

Activities of the drill team will be on marching exhibitions at on and off campus activities and competition with AROTC marching units at other schools.
