Election of Officers Climaxes Northwest Methodist Conclave

Bill Hobbs, sophomore, is Willamette's representative on the executive committee selected here Saturday by Methodist students of the northwest. Ken Westfall, University of Idaho sophomore, was elected president of the region, succeeding Margarita Irlé of College of Puget Sound.

The 75 students and adult leaders who met on the campus Friday through Sunday elected as other officers Genevieve Working of University of Oregon. (Continued on Page 3)

Scenes Shot For Booklet

That black box which was pointed around the campus early this week was getting a cameraman's view of students and their surroundings for the Wallulah and a booklet to be issued in connection with the centennial celebration, members of a faculty subcommittee on centennial publications said last night.

Aside from the more commonplace pictures, the cameramen shot one view from an airplane over the campus.

Members of the committee are Dr. Helen Pearce, chairman, Registrar Walter Erickson, Prof. Murco Ringnald and Miss Constance Fowler.

Sophomores!

You haven't had your Wallulah picture taken yet, have you? The freshmen with a 90 per cent record for two weeks have made '44 look sick. Saturday, October 25, is the deadline. Hurry to Kennell-Ellis studio on the fourth floor of the Oregon building at the corner of State and High now.

Campus Discusses 'Guide'

By Bob Mathews

The appearance of the Fuser's Guide yesterday has provoked much comment upon its unusual art work. Byron Randall, young Salem artist has caught a sophisticated interpretation of college social life in a group of seven linoleum cuts used as illustrations for the social calendar in the front of the new student directory. As they are a radical departure from the cartoon type of illustration used in former Guides, discussion of student reaction is invited by the Collegian.

Byron Randall, the artist, graduated from Salem high school two years ago and has since received national recognition for his exhibits of water colors in

WU Students In Collegiate Listing Told

14 Upperclassmen Named in National Campus Who's Who

Honors are announced today for 14 Willamette upperclassmen who are being included in this year's issue of "Who's Who Among American Universities and Colleges." The following students will be listed in the annual publication: Carolyn Brown, Beulah Briggs, Ruth Cramer, Tom Hall, Elizabeth Hamilton, Robert Hamilton, Barbara Hollingsworth, Betty Marie Keller, Westley McWain, Dorothy Moore, Hale Tabor, Winston Taylor, Bob Voigt and Marjorie Waters.

Character, leadership, extra-curricular activities, scholarship, authority relative to student government and potential future in business were qualities used as basis of selection.

Willamette's quota of 14 was based on the enrollment last year. Biographical material will be furnished by students themselves.

Five students who were on the list last year, Winfield Achor, Ralph May, Glenn Olds, Marion Sanders and Bill Thomas will be listed again because they are still in school.

The nominating committee consisted of the following faculty members: Dean Daniel Schulze, chairman, Dean Olive M. Dahl, Dean Chester Luther and Walter Erickson, registrar.

Forum Set For Vespers

"What is Wrong with Religion on the Campus?" will be the topic of discussion by the student forum at University Vespers Sunday night. Winston Taylor has been named forum chairman, and members of the panel will be Doris Laney, Marion Sanders, Paul Whipple and Ralph May.

Following their discussion the forum will be opened to participation by Vespers members. Leo Baldwin, Vespers president, extended an invitation to all students to attend and take part in this forum.

Waltzing Al Walden, Willamette's fullback candidate for Little All-American honors continues to lead the Bearcat pack in scoring and yards gained from rushing. He will be one of the chief factors in Willamette's bid for a sixth straight victory when they invade Moscow tomorrow for a clash with the Idaho Vandals.

20th Homecoming Plans Readied

Prolongation of Frosh Initiation At Stake; Sign Contest Readied

Possible prolongation of freshmen initiation is at stake in the annual bag rush and greased pole contest between the freshman and sophomore classes on Saturday afternoon of Homecoming, November 7, on Sweetland field. If the freshmen win, initiation will cease, otherwise it will continue until Christmas.

The annual freshman-sophomore contest, which has been moved up to Saturday afternoon at 2:00 from between halves of the game as last year, contains a new feature in the greased pole contest. Freshmen will attempt to break through the sophomore lines to capture the sophomore class colors waving at the top of the nine foot greased pole. Clarence Wicks, junior, heads this contest.

To help Willamette's Chinese homecoming play "Yellow Jacket" get a touch of the Orient, Alice Libby is contributing several of her Chinese costumes and tapestries, and her own experience.

Alice Libby, a freshman on the campus, was born in China where her parents were missionaries and has lived there approximately 15 years. Having lived among the Chinese people, learned their customs and manners, and being able to speak their language, she will have many suggestions to give to the play cast. She has offered to listen to the actors to see if they have a Chinese flavor to their dialogue.

The play is a typical Chinese play presented without stage settings, and will climax the homecoming activities on Saturday, November 8.

Moscow Team Favored Over Unbeaten WU

28 Gridders Entrain Tonight to Meet Heavier Vandal Club

Willamette university's romping Bearcats, winners in five straight one-sided contests, will meet their match tomorrow when they invade Moscow, Idaho to tangle with Francis Schmidt's powerful University of Idaho Vandals.

The Cardinal and Gold club which entrains for the inland empire city at 7:10 this evening, will be protecting a once crossed goal line against a team that has scored at least once on every opponent including the Rose Bowl bound Oregon Webfeet.

Willamette's hopes for a sixth straight victory lie with a versatile set of backs that have scampered and passed to 173 points, and in the psychological advantage of holding the short end of the odds against a Vandal team fresh from victories over Gonzaga and Utah State.

The Idaho eleven holds a weight advantage of three pounds to the man in the line and better than ten pounds to the man in the backfield; but this is expected to be somewhat equalized by the fast charging Bearcat forward wall and the speed of such backs as Walden, Ogdahl, and Furno.

Every member of Willamette's 28-man traveling squad is in top physical condition for the game with the exception of Tony Fraiola, who, though recovering from a stomach ailment, is expected to be ready for a starting assignment by game time.

Several carloads of students are planning to make the trip to Moscow to witness the inaugural gridiron clash between the two institutions.

YM Schedules Knopf Speech

First meeting of the year for the campus YMCA is slated for Monday night in Christy cottage, a dinner at 6:15 o'clock. Pres. Carl S. Knopf is the principal speaker, according to Tom Hall, YM president.

Other numbers on the program are vocals by Bob Mealey, and versions of "Flight of the Bumble Bee" and "Boogie Woogie" by Russ Hackett and Del Henderson on their trumpets.

Weaver Elected Freshman Prexy

Bob Weaver of Ashland was elected president of the Freshman class last Friday. Other new officers include Jerry Anderson, treasurer; Carl Young, song leader; and Bill Habernicht, yell leader.

Since no candidate received a majority vote on the first ballot for the office of secretary, vice president or sergeant-at-arms, a special election will be held soon to complete the Freshman class administrative body.

Sumner Gallisher, vice-president of the student body, presided at the election.

College vs. Defense Jobs

With the start of a new school year there are many questions being raised as to the relationship between National Defense and college. There are many who have left college, or are contemplating doing so, in order that they may be employed in National Defense jobs. Their argument is that they are doing more for their country by working in its program of immediate needs, than if they continued with their studies.

But are they? Is it more important to leave their training for life work and enter into something that is temporary and that has little potential value? Nine chances out of ten are that they will never return to school. After the war is over the defense industries may throw thousands into unemployment. If we remain with our studies we shall be on a much better footing after the war, than if we had given them up for something that seems more timely and immediately profitable. It is better that we finish our college work; try to gain broad understanding of human problems; for we are the generation that must manage the post-war period.—L. M.

Thanks!!

I wish to thank everyone who helped to make last Friday's program a success. Especially am I sincere in praising the Freshmen for the real Willamette spirit they have shown. It certainly reached its peak Friday when they turned out en masse for our clean-up program and for the rally and game at night. It is a cooperative and unified spirit which I hope you, Freshmen, can keep throughout your days here at WU.

You now have your permanent officers—select persons from a select class. Get behind them and we'll make this Centennial year the greatest in Willamette's history. Your talent is excellent and your Kangaroo Courts are full of fun and amusement.

Let's work hard to make our Homecoming a success. Toughen yourselves for the big Frosh-Soph bagrush. If you win, your lids and shopping bags are taboo; if you lose—well, let's just not think of that.

Again I say "Thanks" to the Freshmen, the other classes, the Vigilantes and the Rally committee for the marvelous cooperation that has been shown so far this year. It is sincerely appreciated.

President, ASWU
RALPH MAY.

Matinee Dances?

Are matinee dances without a place on the Willamette campus this year? One would think from conversational opinion of many students that they should not be—but that craved-for nickelodeon stands in a rut, not in the groove, over in the gym.

It's just waiting for a chance to play again, and students are waiting to give it a chance. The matinee dances give an opportunity to get acquainted, to learn better how to dance and to fill in an often entirely wasted part of the day.

The lack appears to be the only bare spot in an otherwise well arranged and conducted social program prepared by the first vice-president.

Soon, with the start of basketball practice, the gym may not be available for dancing. If we're to have matinee dances, we should have them now.

—W. T.

Here's An Idea, Art!

After looking over the proofs of a number of freshmen boys, it is the opinion of this individual that something should have been done. On the whole, the majority of them were pretty good. That is, at least the serious poses. But those pictures taken when we were supposed to be smiling were, in many cases, a flop. Instead of a smile, they turned out to be more of a sneer.

This does not concern those fellows who can just 'up-and-smile' naturally when the photographer tells them to. Personally, I am of the other type, who before cracking a smile, needs a definite incentive.

To remedy these unnatural smiles in pictures of upperclassmen for the Wallulah, I have a suggested plan. It is a well-established fact (even the seniors are aware of it) that the freshmen girls are the best looking in school. Instead of placing a birdie before us (I don't think the photographer has one anyway) he should use a freshmen gal. Which one it would be should be left entirely up to the person having his picture taken. This, in my opinion, would be the foolproof and ideal way of getting good pictures.

—A FRESHMAN BOY.

Beefs and Bouquets

Letters to the Editor

Editor's note: This week marks the beginning of a new feature, "Beefs and Bouquets." Letters to the editor are welcomed—in fact, encouraged. If you have a "beef" to make or a bouquet to hand out, do it in this column.

To The Editor:

When Ron Gemmell, Statesman sports editor, recently wrote half a column expressing his dislike of football facilities at Sweetland field he wasn't just being unnecessarily caustic. He really has something.

Most every high school in the state of Oregon has a better looking, more satisfactory athletic field than has Willamette. To the new student, the beauty of the Willamette campus is almost nullified when he sees the rickety grandstands, the weedy surroundings and the sawdust covered grid field.

Visiting sports writers express their disgust at press facilities not only to their fellow journalists, but they discuss the matter in their daily columns. Surely this is not the type of publicity which will set Willamette off as an attractive college.

Can something be done to correct the situation?

Since high school games are played at Sweetland, and since the field is as much Salem's eyesore as it is the University's, Mr. Gemmell suggests that Willamette, the Salem school district, and the city fathers cooperate in the endeavor. If a new grandstand was built with the playing field running north and south (and there is plenty of room) two or three fields would be available. This would allow the main field to be turfed and used only for games, not to be torn up by daily scrimmage sessions.

It is not impossible to raise money for such a project. The initial move would be to get the proper persons sufficiently interested. Perhaps the student body could start the ball rolling, and try to get the aid of the administration. At least, isn't it worth the attempt?

—Keith Hansen.

Other Centennials

By Madge Thompson

The term '41-42 appears to be the year of college centennials. On the eastern coast this term, six colleges will celebrate their 100th birthdays. Fordham University in New York was founded in 1641, and Notre Dame in Indiana was organized in 1842. Small eastern colleges founded also 100 years ago are Bethel and Cumberland University in Tennessee, and Athens College in Alabama.

Easterners boast of years of tradition, but these colleges of the early colonies would do well to look to Willamette University, their centennial rival on the far-away Pacific coast. It is probably a shock to proud Easterners to know there is a college in the "wild west" as they would call it, that can equal them in age, tradition, and dignity. Willamette's formal campus, and its Georgian architecture (a type of architecture that is early Philadelphian in character) are symbolical of its dignity of 100 years.

Fiftieth anniversaries, too, are prevalent this year. Last June, a week-long series of academic festivities were held at Stanford University to celebrate its founding in 1891. Other colleges founded 50 years ago were the College of Idaho, and the American university in Washington, D.C. When these colleges in the far future celebrate their centennials, W. U. will be thrice their present age.

Coincidence! There is another college in another town of Salem in the United States now celebrating its centennial: Roanoke College in Salem, Virginia, but we're still without rival on the west coast.

notes from the law school

NEXT in the series of lectures to be given at the law school in addition to the prescribed curriculum will be that of Circuit Court Judge James W. Crawford of Multnomah county. Judge Crawford is recognized all over the country as an authority on the life and times of Chief Justice John Marshall. To a lawyer practicing in the United States, a comprehensive knowledge of the background for the decisions of Chief Justice Marshall, which established the line of interpretation of the Constitution which has culminated in the precedent-shaking disputes over questions of constitutionality under the present regime, is essential.

A few decades ago, the practitioner who embarked upon his career armed with a complete understanding of Blackstone and who had digested one or two of the voluminous works on the "Life of Marshall" had won half the battle.

The lecture of Judge Crawford will concern the life of Marshall, and should be of particular value to students of American History and of Constitutional History.

The admissibility of "dying declarations" into evidence came near proving the death of Taul Watanabe in Professor Claire Inman's Evidence class the other day. Had the decedent survived the mortal wound, Taul presented a forceful argument on the possibility of bringing him into court as a witness to corroborate his own statements made just prior to his demise. And Taul even had us believing the practicality of it, too.

BEING from Eastern Oregon, the incubator for the "Side-hill" horse stories, we have been on sleigh-rides many's the time . . . listening to the jingle of the harness-bells, wrapped in woollens and exhaling clouds of frost into the clear, cold and starlit atmosphere. But, although we have mowed it, raked it and pitched it, we have never yet settled into a load of good, old alfalfa-hay—a-chew! . . . for the express purpose . . . sniff-sniff . . . of going on a . . . griff . . . hayride. We are therefore soliciting suggestions from all and sundry as to the most reliable remedies for hay-fever. The reason? Well, come Saturday night, the student body of the law school is embarking in toto on the most colossal hayride yet to be staged in the vicinity of Willamette's ivy-covered towers.

The launching of the rack will take place at Jack Bohannon's farm home, and the six-horse team will be driven by Beth DeSulley, with Hank Foley riding the lead mule, tobacco in mouth. Just in case the team becomes a little high-spirited for Beth to handle, Otto 'Baillif' Skopil has been appointed brakeman, and Cece Quesseth will ride the tailboard, log and chain in hand. The rest of us? Well, don't you worry about us, even if we DO have hay-fever.

THE busiest man in law school last year was Bill Thomas, who, aside from running the Willamette student body and traveling all over the country, managed to get through the year with some extremely enviable grades. This year, Bill has more time to devote to the law, and we are frantically endeavoring to get some group or other to elect Bill president or manager of something or other which will take so much of Bill's time that he won't pass some of the rest of us up quite so swiftly as he definitely shows signs of doing at the present writing.

BACK in the STACKS

The last books to be entered in the reading contest are now here. Mr. Spencer ordered a book on the history of clockmaking, another on Lloyds of London, and a biography of Helen Hayes. These three books will complete the contest list if they are approved by the library subcommittee.

Kabloona . . . By Gontran DePoncius

One of the most fascinating books on the recreational contest list is Kabloona—a story of the author's travels and life among the Eskimos of King William Land. He spent fifteen months among them studying their customs and character, living, hunting, and fishing with them, in a land where there were only two other white men.

The fine sketches and photographs by the author make illustration an outstanding feature of the book. Clifton Fadiman, reviewer for the New York Times says, "No book about the Far North that I have read is written with so much sympathy, vividness and dramatic imagination."

Here is a book to relieve the mind of the student from the chaotic spirit of the day.

Collegian Conducts Miniature Gallop Poll on Matinee Dances

Matinee dances—pro or con? The Collegian and Marge Waters, vice president in charge of social affairs, are interested in student opinion on this question of post meridian terpsichore.

A Collegian reporter out this week on a "Gallop" poll, received enthusiastic comments from seniors down to freshmen. One senior in the know thought 'they are swell—a mighty nice way of meeting people,' and a frosh said "It sounds like fun to me. I think a lot of us in the class of '45 would support matinee dances."

A popular time and place suggested for the dances was Thursday afternoons in the upstairs room of the gym, with music furnished by the school nickel-odeon.

How about it? Want to dance, students, want to dance?

of 15 men each from the freshman and sophomore classes will engage in a rough and tumble bag rush. Sophomores won the contest last year.

Frosh Rake Leaves

Traditionally, freshmen rake the leaves and clean up the campus in the early morning of the Friday of Homecoming. Freshmen will fill the bags with leaves for the bagrush during the campus clean-up.

Don Burton, sophomore class president, and Bob Weaver, president of the freshman class, will direct the activities of their respective classes.

Sign Contest Preparations

Rules for the annual Homecoming sign contest are in the hands of the Willamette living organizations today. Bob Blanding, senior, is in charge of the contest.

Signs will be judged according to the use made of the 1941 Homecoming slogan, "Shellic the Lumberjack," originality of idea, and general appearance of the sign. Results of the contest will be announced at the dance following the game Friday night. 1940 winner of the sign contest was Sigma Tau.

Other features of Homecoming weekend include the football game between College of Puget Sound and Willamette on Friday evening, the Homecoming play, "Yellow Jacket," and the alumni banquet preceding the play on Saturday night.

Vespers Slates Silver Falls Trip

The annual Vespers Silver Creek trip is scheduled for Saturday, Nov. 1, according to Leo Baldwin, president. "It is hoped that every student will mark the date of this yearly outing on his calendar," Baldwin said.

Harvey C. Brown, associate secretary of the Methodist student movement and speaker at the Northwest Methodist Student conference this weekend, is slated to speak at Vespers Sunday evening.

Highlighting the conference were talks and discussions led by Pres. Carl S. Knopf, Harvey C. Brown of the Student Movement and Harvey Seifert of the Methodist Youth Fellowship. The theme was "Essential Christian Beliefs."

The students voted to send Westfall as delegate to the National Methodist Student conference at Urbana, Ill., during Christmas vacation and to promote the magazine "Motive" on their campuses. Gratitude was expressed through Willamette's delegation for the use of the campus and the state capitol.

The second annual session closed with communion service Sunday morning. Recreation for the weekend included attendance at the WU-Whittier football game Friday night and folk games in the gym Saturday night.

WU Artists Talk to Club

Speaking on present day trends in art and its relation to society, Constance Fowler, art instructor, Nadine Orcutt and Bob Voigt, seniors in art, talked to the Kiwanis club Tuesday in connection with the Willamette display at the art center this week.

Paintings now on display at the art center are to be included in an Art fair which will begin on the campus on November 7 in observance of National Art week. Featured in the fair will be sale of student work to townspeople and students.

Observance of Art week will be carried throughout November with an exhibition of oils and watercolors by Bernard Gaiser of Portland, which will be hung on the third floor of Eaton during the entire month. Artist Gaiser painted the murals in St. Mark's church in Portland and has shown numerous exhibits in Portland and Seattle.

Business Office Shows "Messages of Merit"

N. S. Savage, business secretary, this week called attention to a series of framed mottoes which will appear each week in the business office.

"Hello. Is this the correct time?" asks a boyish voice. And once again one of the inhabitants of the Alpha Phi Alpha house patiently explains that the time can be obtained by dialing 2-8911, not 8911.

The other morning Olivia Olson dashed madly to the telephone at 5:28½ a. m. only to discover that the other end of the wire was held by a pen guard who was wondering how soon he would be relieved.

"W" Club's Reign of Terror Brings Varied Results

"Present, professor!" panted a haggard, breathless, soph-ridden freshman in elementary Spanish class last week, as the door banged in the faces of two burly W clubmen.

Preston Ebert's comment on the hair-raising episode is that it's a fine thing when you have to go to classes as an escape.

Professor Haworth's comment was perpetual: "Buenas dias, clase."

The spurned burly clubmen took up positions on Eaton steps, directing cord-wearing frosh to the mill stream and conducting personal investigations of green hair ribbons, hand books and information on songs, yells, etc. from frosh coeds.

Then the paint arrived and the oft-painted, many-hued senior bench was splashed again, play-

Fall Styles Are Shown At Tea

Latest fall fashions were modeled by Willamette coeds and faculty wives Wednesday afternoon at University House, when the campus YWCA sponsored its annual fall fashion tea. The living room, attractively decorated in the autumn motif, was a lovely background for the display of styles.

Modeling college fashions were Donna Belle Savage, Barbara Byrne, Miriam Jensen, Esther Gunnesdal, Virginia Ann Loop, and Marjorie Bressler. Matrons styles were shown by Mrs. R. Franklin Thompson, Mrs. Howard Maple, Mrs. Melvin H. Geist, Mrs. Ralph Purvine, Mrs. Robert L. Lantz, and Mrs. Maurice Brennan. All styles were from Miller's.

Mrs. Carl Sumner Knopf acted as hostess for the tea, and was assisted by Grace Cramer, Wilma Matthes, Jane Patton, Charlotte Miller, Pat Short, Laella Ibach, Helen Davis, Glenerva Harnsberger, Barbara Hermann, Luanne Green, Doris Laney, Mary Elizabeth Ross and Harriet Monroe, YWCA cabinet members.

Presiding at the tea urns were Mrs. William E. Kirk and Mrs. Esther W. Little. Serving and helping about the rooms were new members of the YWCA.

Hall Coeds Go Juvenile

Lausanne hall goes juvenile tomorrow night when the girls and their playmates get together for a kids' party. The evening will be spent dancing and playing games, with all members and guests in costume.

Ruth Burgoyne was elected president of the Alpha Phi Alpha pledges in their first meeting Wednesday evening. Virginia Barber was elected vice-president and Betty Provost was elected secretary. Marie Baughman was elected by house members as pledge captain, to supervise the activities of the pledges.

Betty Andrews was elected president of the Beta Chi pledges at their first meeting held Wednesday night. Mary Laughlin was elected secretary. The new pledges, numbering 30 in all, were informed of their duties, and a party is tentatively scheduled for November 15.

Dinners Compliment New Sorority Pledges

Alpha Phi Alpha's preferential dinner Saturday night centered about a South Sea Island theme, as the new pledges were entertained. Figurines, palm trees, and bouquets of chrysanthemums in shades of yellow, claret, and white centered the tables. Imported Hawaiian perfume in small natural wooden boxes fastened with woven leather thongs were given the pledge guests.

Mrs. Carl S. Knopf, Miss Olive M. Dahl and Mrs. William E. Kirk were bidden as special guests.

Gayle Dennison, president of the house, was toastmistress for the affair. Toasts were given for the senior, junior and sophomore classes by Mary Barker, Olivia Olson and Dolly Cullens. Ruth Burgoyne gave the pledge response. Miss Olive M. Dahl spoke informally to the girls. Mr. Donald Wilson, accompanied by Margaret Anderson, gave a group of vocal selections. Alpha Psi members Pete Faminow, Dave Putnam and Bob Walker served, with Vinton Ellis acting as head waiter.

Traditional Theme

Silver and white, the traditional color theme for the Delta Phi preference dinners, was used about the rooms of the chapter house Saturday night in honor of the new pledges.

Bowls of white pom-pom dahlias, chrysanthemums, silver berries and leaves were placed on the shaped table, while silver leaves and berries interrupted by white candles, centered the table.

Corsages, carrying out the silver and white coloring, and pastel Caliente pottery flower baskets, favors for the guests, completed the table decorations.

Esther Gunnesdal, toastmistress, introduced the new pledges to the Delta Phi house mother, Mrs. Frank James, to Mrs. L. S. Covert, president of the Mother's club and to house members.

Sigma Tau pledges served during the dinner hour. Chloe Anderson was general chairman for the affair and her committee included Iras McCurdy, Carol Clark, Corliss Clark, Louise Lucas, Betty Keller and Mrs. Robert Rieder.

New pledges honored were Frances Kells, Bette Burkhart, Shirley Hunt, Martha Lowery, Sally McClelland, Elaine Murray, Margaret Tonseth, Margaret Hood, Carol Young, Margaret Wonderlick, Dorothy Calderwood, Grace Stowser, Norma Calbom and Evelyn Wiley.

Nosegays Given Guests
Willamette Centennial was the incentive for the Beta Chi preference dinner. Tiny old fashioned nosegays on wrist bands were given each pledge. Chrysanthemums, asters and dahlias in pastel shades decorated the tables.

During the dinner hour, Michael Carolan was guest soloist and Jean Jackson played piano numbers.

Beulah Briggs was general chairman and serving on her committees were: Lois Phillips, Mary Jean Huston, Doris Laney, Susanna Schramm, Lois Gladden, Cleo Nissen, Barbara Pitts, Margaret Sehon, Barbara Kester, Ruth Finney and Betty Jeannot.

Just LOOKIN'

By Ruthanne Thompson

Pledged! Pledged to campus clothes and here are a few candid shots of current successes.

We all know that we simply must have an armful of silver-bangle bracelets to jangle along with our skirts and sweaters. Sweaters?? Well, twin sweaters are all right but pull-overs pulled over a tailored shirt have a slight edge on them. (Natchery we're speakin' of Margaret Townsend's fuzzy blue one.) We like the looks of a white collar above them or just stick in a "Richard" (dickie to you.) Men's shirt sleeves with the folded-over link button cuffs are what's new in sleeves.

A streamline style accepted as a 1942 headliner is still the jerken—such as the red checkered one worn by Margaret Ewing.

The chief idea of coed clothes is not to be fancy—Be tweedy—be sweated. Be anything but all dressed up! Try corduroy in jackets, suits or dresses for comfortable—ness! Sybil Spears has a blue-wale corduroy dress that's a honey.

Bright bits to enliven dresses and Beulah Briggs' dress was plenty lively last week with a mamma and baby kangaroo pinned on her collar. Honest! We're not foolin' and if you don't believe us, just ask Beulah!

This year's crop is a gold mine for all of us who can't leave pretend-jewelry alone for a minute. Lafune Snyder's gold cross necklace, Margaret

Alpha Psi Delta Members, Alums Fete Knopfs

Members of Alpha Psi Delta and alumni last night entertained President and Mrs. Karl Knopf for dinner at their Chemeketa street house.

Claude Barrick, house president, gave a few words of greeting on behalf of the members, as did Dr. Waldo C. Zeller, president of the Alpha Psi Delta alumni association.

Tinkham Gilbert, first president of the fraternity and member of the Willamette board of trustees spoke, as did Frank Bennett, Salem superintendent of schools and George McLeod, dean of the law school. Present were three charter members—Frank Bennett, Tinkham Gilbert and Dr. Waldo C. Zeller.

Alumni present were Mr. and Mrs. Tinkham Gilbert, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bennett, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hauk, Dr. and Mrs. Waldo C. Zeller, and George M. McLeod and Graydon Anderson, alumni members of the Willamette faculty.

Sororities and Dates Dance at Houses

Following the preferential dinner last Saturday night, Delta Phi sorority honored their new pledges with an informal dance at the chapter house. Betty Keller was in charge of arrangements for the affair.

Special guests were Dr. and Mrs. Robert E. Lantz and Mrs. Frank James.

Others present were Elaine Murray, Sally McClelland, Margaret Wonderlick, Margaret Hood, Dorothy Calderwood, Bette Burkhart, Norma Calbom, Carol Young, Aileen Sechrist, Betty Cooper, Jean Kohagen, Dorothy Estes, Betty Keller, DeLores Netz, June Woldt, Florence Lilburn, Frances Lilburn, Joan duRette, Nadine Orcutt, Betty Wirth, Helen Zimmerman, Eleanor Todd, Esther Gunnesdal and Zoe Fretz.

SPORT LIGHTS

By GIL LIESER

First definite proof that Pacific Lutheran follows up in the land of falling bridges are just a little miffed at having the spotlight of gridiron attention shifted from their orphan proteges to the rampaging Willamette Bearcats of webfoot territory comes to light in an excerpt from the column of a Tacoma sports writer.

The writer in question, undoubtedly an ardent Lute supporter, charges in no uncertain terms that Spec and his Methodist wrecking crew are intentionally trying to undermine "The great record which our Pacific Lutherans seem likely to hang up this year, by pouring it to their opponents."

He further adds that, "all the national publicity which Pacific Lutheran gained last fall and early this year has made the Salem institution green with envy, and they're out to show by figures that Willamette is the king-pin of the Northwest colleges." Unquote.

Well, pardon us while we take down our hair and look in the mirror for signs of turning green. If, Pacific Lutheran's so-called "great record" established by victories over several Washington teachers' colleges and a Gonzaga team that is proving but a hollow-shell of Bulldog teams of former days, is anything to be envious of, we're afraid the Tacoma writer will be disappointed to learn that we overlooked a choice opportunity to pull a "green-eyed monster act."

We are not in a position to argue about the "national publicity" the Lutes are claimed to have attracted since we are too close to the noisy drums being beaten by rabid P.L.C. followers to judge whether the Lutes are being talked of by anyone else in the nation besides the population of the little city on Puget Sound.

Since Willamette's second and third teams have seen more action than the first string in the five games to date the only solution we could suggest to Spec, so that he might show his good faith by lowering future scores, is to round up a starting team from the intra-mural boys who cavort in a passball league on Sweetland field during the noon hours.

Big Frog in Little Puddle

Want to know how it feels to be a big frog in a little puddle? . . . Ask any member of the Pacific Lutheran team.

Our "publicity stealing" Bearcats would like nothing better than to have it out with the Lutes on the gridiron to decide which team is tops among the smaller institutions of the West. But when the Cardinal and Gold squad unanimously voted several weeks ago to give up the only weekend of rest in an arduous 12-game schedule so that they could meet the Lutes, the Washington team and their supporters, who had been howling charges of "glory stealing" in Willamette's direction, protested that P.L.C. just had to have the weekend of Nov. 1, to rest up, for their own strenuous schedule.

Comparing the two eleven's schedule we found that P. L. C. plays an eight-game schedule; four games against Teachers' colleges; two against cellar dwellers in the Northwest conference, one of which the 'Cats have already whipped 43 to 0 under wraps; and one each against Gonzaga and Portland, the only teams on the Lute schedule that could, by any stretch of the imagination be called strong competition.

On the other hand Willamette's 12-game schedule includes games against such outfits as the University of Idaho, University of Hawaii, Portland University and Whittier College besides another strong California opponent listed for a contest in the islands following the U. of Hawaii game.

Adding to this the fact that Willamette meets Idaho on the Saturday before Nov. 1, and then plays two Northwest Conference games within 10 days after their open date, while Pacific Lutheran meets a Teacher's college team both the week before and the week following the suggested date for a game with the Bearcats, we can draw the only conclusion possible . . . that the Lutes' claim of needing their open date to "rest up" is merely a nice "out" to settling the issue of superiority with Willamette on the gridiron.

Lutheran Players Dodge Game

Usually it is the coach who desires a "breathing date," for his charges, while the players themselves jump at the opportunity for as much action as possible . . . but not in the case of the Lutherans. When Lair Gregory, widely known Oregonian sports writer, journeyed to Parkland, Washington to find out just why the suggested Willamette-P.L.C. game had misfired, he was unable to contact coach Olson, but members of the Lutheran team, backed up by their captain Marv Harshman, stated in no uncertain terms that they were not interested in playing the Bearcats on the mutual open date; giving as their reason that they did not want to endanger their chances of winning the Washington inter-collegiate conference by giving up their weekend of rest.

Though the Lutherans by their own choice have robbed Willamette of an anxiously awaited chance to settle the issue of superiority, and have cheated Northwest football fans out of a dandy ball game, we have the satisfaction of knowing that the football public of Washington and Oregon know of one team that would like a crack at the Lutes but can't get one because the Tacoma boys have indicated they must feel our Bearcats are more than they can handle.

Willamette teams were playing first class football teams before the Lutheran school was founded, and it is our opinion that Cardinal and Gold teams will be marching to victories long after the Lutes have fallen back into the obscurity from which they were lifted less than a year ago.

Bearcats Roll to 2380 Yards

Top Western Elevens in Yards Gained

Willamette university's high scoring Bearcats continued to pace western grid teams in total points and yardage gained from scrimmage and passes.

Scoring 173 points in five games the Cardinal and Gold machine has rolled over their collective opponents for a total of 2380 yards from rushing plays and aeriels.

Meanwhile the hard charging Methodist forward wall has held opposing backfields to a net gain of 361 yards on the ground and in the air.

Willamette's speedy backs, led by Waltzing Al Walden have scampered to 83 first downs in 340 offensive plays, while opponents have garnered but 23 first-and-tens in 230 plays.

The Bearcat offense has been most effective on rushing plays from which they have gained 1626 yards; but their passing record of 39 completions in 98 attempts for 720 yards is a factor that cannot be overlooked.

Pass Receiver Reder Bids For National Honors; Snags 14 for 297 Yards

"Wild" Bill Reder, ace pass snatcher of Spec Keene's aerial circus is making a bid for leadership among the nation's pass surpassed his 1940 freshman record of 196 yards from 11 catches which ranked him seventh on the coast. Four of Reder's catches this season have been good for touchdowns.

Ted Ogdahl, Spec's slippery man-in-motion halfback ranks second to Reder on the Bearcat squad, having caught seven passes for a total of 113 yards and two touchdowns.

Walden Leads Scorers With 30 Points

Al Walden, by virtue of two third-period touchdowns against Whittier college Friday night, took over the scoring leadership of the rampaging Bearcats previously held by Bill Reder. Walden's 30-point total not only makes him tops among the Methodist gridmen but puts him in the scoring lead of the Pacific coast.

Bill Reder, high stepping left end, who has turned several spectacular catches into touchdowns, is close on the heels of Walden with 27 points earned from four touchdowns and three conversions.

Gordon Moore, veteran three-year letterman guard has been one of the bulwarks of the big Cardinal and Gold line for several seasons. He is expected to be ready to man a starting guard berth tomorrow after seeing little action since incurring a painful arm injury in the College of Idaho game.

'Cats Wallop Whittier

Willamette's unscored on record in four straight games went by the boards last Friday night when Whittier scored early in the first quarter on the second play after recovering a Bearcat fumble on the latter's 30 yard line.

The game which Willamette subsequently won 33 to 7 ended at the half with the Keenemen on the short end of a 7-5 score. But the third quarter produced a rejuvenated Bearcat crew that punched and passed their way to three touchdowns in ten minutes, with Walden scoring twice and Ogdahl netting his second touchdown of the game. Barbour scored the final touchdown on a pass from Conner midway in the final period.

WU Men Undefeated In Table Tennis Play

Three Willamette men make up the roster of the Dr. Pepper table tennis team which is leading in the city ping pong league standings this week. They are Mac Dunbar, Art Wilson and Dan Moses. The team has been undefeated since league play was begun.

Buddy Reynolds, sharpshooting halfback from La Grande should prove plenty of trouble to Idaho's pass defenders in tomorrow's clash at Moscow. Reynolds has completed 23 of 58 attempted passes in five games for a total gain of 462 yards.

Bums Bounce Alpha Psi 12-6

Fratman First to Score on Bums

Dem Bums rolled to their third straight win as they overcame a stubborn Alpha Psi team 12 to 6 yesterday on Sweetland field. Jack Richards tossed up a long floater that Bill Hudson went high in the air to snag for a touchdown in the early minutes of play.

A few minutes later Frank Reiersen batted the ball out of the hands of Alpha Psi's pass pitcher Don Hawes. As the sphere bounded into the air, Reiersen plucked it and scampered 10 yards to score.

Walden Maintains Lead In Total Offense Records

Waltzing Al Walden continues to set the pace in the gridiron limelight of the Pacific Coast with a total gain of 573 yards in a little more than four games. His record was amassed in 67 trips with the pigskin, giving him an average of 8.56 yards per carry.

Sharpshooting Buddy Reynolds remains at the top of the passing records with 23 completions in 58 tosses for an average of nearly 30 percent of his throws completed. Reynolds total of 462 passes netted plus 62 yards gained from rushing gives the La Grande halfback a total offense gain of 524 yards.

Gene Stewart, triple-threat halfback ranks next to Reynolds in total offense with 335 yards garnered from 151 yards on seven completed passes and 184 yards from 37 rushing attempts.

'Mural Mirror

Kappa Gamma Rho and the Alpha Psi passball teams battled to a scoreless tie on Sweetland field last Monday. The Kappas drove deep into Alpha Psi territory time after time, but were unable to reach the real estate that pays off in sixes.

A blonde bombshell in the person of Jack Richards who fires from the port side exploded his charges in the first half of Tuesday's game against the Sigma Tau gang and when the smoke cleared away, Dem Bums had struck paydirt. Richards took the ball on a reverse from Larry Drury and pumped a 35-yard heave to Fran Reiersen who took it on his own 20 and scored easily. Jocular Joe Murray toed the oval between the uprights to give the Bums a seven point margin. The Sigs behind the effective passing of Des Jardin came back strong and threatened to score but it fizzled when a touchdown-labelled pass was broken up in the end zone by Bill Hudson, alert tackle of the Bums. At this point the Sigs got another taste of the Bums rush

Stewart May See Action As Fullback

Gene Stewart, versatile triple-threat halfback has been groomed for a new position by Spec Keene during scrimmage sessions this week. Keene, who has had to rely entirely on freshman to back up Al Walden in the important fullback slot, has been using Stewart at the fullback position in an effort to have an experienced letterman to fall back

The cars for the two squads will be sidetracked at Pullman tomorrow morning where the Beavers have an engagement booked with Washington State college; the Willamette team will journey the remaining eight miles to Moscow by bus.

Lady luck smiled at us with a wider grin than usual last weekend and we survived without having even one prediction go wrong, though San Jose State let us down a little by getting no better than a 7-7 tie with Hardin Simmons.

Now for the one we've all been waiting for... Willamette 19, U. of Idaho 13; call it rash if you will but we honestly believe Spec Keene's boys have the stuff to win this one if they are in the right frame of mind, and this writer for one feels they'll be at their keenest pitch of the season around 2 p. m. tomorrow afternoon.

Another tough brawl to call this week is tomorrow's battle in Seattle between the hot and cold Washington Huskies and the once-halted Stanford T. Knowing the Evergreen climate as we do, we'll wager there's better than an even chance that the Indians will hit another Saturday of rain similar to their WATERLOO in Corvallis two weeks ago. Gambling on Seattle's weather man not to let us down we'll give the Huskies a 13 to 7 nod.

Both Oregon teams should chalk up another one in the win column though victory may come hard for the Beavers over in Cougar territory... Oregon State 19, WSC 7; Oregon 26, UCLA 6.

Elsewhere on the pigskin front:

- California over USC.
- Santa Clara over Oklahoma.
- Montana over Montana State.
- CPS over Linfield.
- Whitman over Pacific.
- Gonzaga over Portland.
- St. Mary's over Loyola.
- San Jose over Col. of Pacific.

Furnos Ex-Foe Now No. 1 Fan

By Irv Reiersen

Walt Erickson has undisputed claim to the title of being Churning Chuck Furno's No. 1 fan. The Willamette Registrar can be seen at every game nervously sitting on the edge of his seat waiting for Coach Spec Keene to send his halfback speedster into the fray.

As soon as there is an inclination of Chuck's going in, Walt immediately starts to give great odds that on the very first play the ex-Vancouver high school star will score. If Furno doesn't live up to Walt's predictions... this mere fact never sways the confidence possessed by the Registrar because on the next play he will double the odds that the kid with speed to burn will go over standing up!

During three years of Furno's high school athletic career, he toed the pigskin against Vancouver's arch rival, Camas high school, a team coached by none other than Walt Erickson. Doubtless, Chuck caused Walt many sleepless nights those days as the Camas coach planned his defense to stop the bullet back. But here at Willamette Chuck is the No. 1 man in Erickson's mind. Maybe it is sentiment... more likely it is good judgment.

So, the next time you are in the stands and hear someone shout—"Let Clark County carry the ball" we'll give you big odds that it is Walt Erickson calling 'em from his perch on the fifty yard line!

when Drury tossed a long parachute pass that while it was being batted down by the Sigs bounced crazily into the arms of Jack Steiger who scampered 30 yards unmolested to score. Dem Bums failed to convert. A few moments later Referee Earl Toolson's whistle blew and school was out... Final score... 13 to 0.

A fighting Frosh team threw a big scare into the Kappa ranks Wednesday when they drew first blood via the airplanes late in the second half to grab a six point lead. Runyon flipped a soft pass to Bigbee who took it just over the goal line. They failed to ring the bell for the extra point. In the dying moments of the game, a desperate Kappa crew pitched passes all over the cow pasture and from the one yard line, Ackley laid the tying points into the arms of Leiser, who was parked deep in the end zone. Ackley's try for point was fruitless and another tie game (the third in two weeks) goes into the records...

Over The Back Fence: Why not have six instead of eleven men on the passball teams? Seems to me that it would put a halt to these tie games. With six men on the field there would be more open play, higher scores, more action and every man would become a key in the team. With this set-up, fresh subs could be used frequently to speed up the plays. If you don't like this suggestion—well, you have an ash can, haven't you? If you agree... tell it to Jimmy Robertson because he is the BOSS!

on should Walden be put out of action in tomorrow's tussle with the University of Idaho.

Though diminutive Glen Norquist and Earl Hampton have performed well under fire in recent games, Spec has not had an experienced fullback on hand to fill Walden's shoes in case of emergency since Neil Owens was called into the army several weeks ago. Stewart will not entirely forego his left halfback spot from which he has done a good job of both running and passing, but will be ready to shift into the fullback position should it become necessary.

Music Educators Confer On WU Campus Today

The Oregon Music Educators Conference will meet on the Willamette university campus today and tomorrow. President Clifford A. Elliott, supervisor of music at McMinnville, will preside over the meetings taking place during the assembly. Lillie E. Darby, music supervisor at Klamath Falls is secretary.

Friday evening's program will see outstanding musical performance by the University of Oregon string quartet, Rex Underwood, director; a choral concert by the Linfield college a capella choir, Virginia Ward Elliott, director; and a choral concert directed by Waldemar Holtensted, voice director at Jefferson high school, Portland.

Following the concerts, the annual reception, with Helen MacHirron of Willamette university in charge, will be held at Lausanne hall.

Lectures and discussions by Oregon's leading musical directors will take place on Saturday. Speakers will include Bernard Meiger, Walla Walla, Washington; Vern Wilson, Portland; Maude Garnett, University of Oregon; Wallace Hannah, Vancouver, Washington; Lillie E. Darby, Klamath Falls; Delbert Moore, Corvallis; Jean Acorn, Grant high school, Portland; Homer Waltz, Bend; Chester Duncan, Portland; and A. C. Gralapp, Klamath Falls.

Science Club Plans Trips

Trips through factories and an evening at the Bradley observatory in South Salem are being planned for members of the Science club according to Robert Pentney, president. The Science club, formerly the Mathematics club, receives members who are scientifically interested or inclined. No specific abilities are necessary for members, merely an interest in one or more fields of modern science, Pentney states.

In addition to the several trips, frequent meetings are planned where the members will be entertained by various speakers on scientific subjects.

Work Continues On Music Hall

Dean Melvin H. Geist of the music school announced today that six new Knabe practice pianos will be installed in the practice rooms in the new music hall as soon as the masonite floors of the building are completed this week.

Plans are under way for installation of other equipment including chairs and desks for the special Carnegie room, the auditorium, and class rooms during the next two weeks.

Open house is to be held as soon as building completed and the equipment installed says Dean Geist.

Jobs, Board and Room Offered Men Students

Men! Men! Men! First there's too many of them and then not enough. Dean Schultze says there are plenty of jobs open and waiting for anyone who wants to work even if it's not necessary. Also, board and room is offered at several places in exchange for work.

Spanish Gains Most Students

Advanced Spanish classes show the biggest gain of all language classes this year, according to Dr. Alexander Vazakas, professor of modern languages. Thirty-three students are enrolled in intermediate Spanish. This large gain is probably due to the great demand for teachers of the language, said Dr. Vazakas.

There are 87 beginning students in Spanish which is slightly greater than last year's enrollment. The increase has made it necessary to have three sections instead of two as formerly. Dr. Vazakas is teaching two hours and Miss Nell Reeder, senior scholar in Spanish, three hours in the extra section to make up for a lack of teachers.

Biz Ad Department Helpful, Jan Says

By Jan Johnson

There is nothing the Business Administration department won't do for news, evidently. When asked for some startling bit of information for publication in today's Collegian, Dr. Harper first looked rather dazed, then downright harrassed. It seems he was racking his brain for some newsy little item but all to no avail.

Suddenly, a light flashed over his countenance and he stated that perhaps he could accommodate us by making some news. This he was to accomplish by arranging for the senior scholar in public administration to fall out of the second story window, because if that didn't provide an exciting story in any man's newspaper, nothing would.

We'd say that Dr. Harper has a swell sense of humor as well as a definite nose for news and spirit of cooperation.

Southwestern Motif Planned For Knopfs' Social Room

Dr. and Mrs. Carl Sumner Knopf are arranging a social room in the basement of University House where informal get-togethers will be held each week during the year. Tentative plans call for a small group of 20 to 30 students as guests each week, so that every member of the student body will have an opportunity to be present some-

Schmidt's Sketches Suggest Sabotage

"Artists, stick to churches," advises Reeva Schmidt, junior from Pendleton.

She took time out from her job in Portland recently to do a little sketching along the waterfront. She was sketching from a bridge near a coast-guard cutter when a patrol wagon stopped and she was accosted by two policemen. They questioned her, looked dubious when they heard her name, looked suspicious when she spelled it, and became grave as they continued to question her and receive plausible answers. They then studied her drawings and, finding them to be of other than military character, looked disappointed and let her go.

Miss Schmidt tells it. "They took one look at my drawings—and let me go."

Campus Host To Institute

Willamette University is to be host to a speech institute on November 1st. In attendance at this institute will be high school and college coaches and students from a large number of schools. Practice debates and extemporaneous speaking contests will be held, and problems of approaches and techniques will be discussed.

A business meeting of the Inter-collegiate Forensic association of Oregon will be held in connection with the institute. Participating members of this group are Linfield college, Pacific university, Pacific college, University of Portland, Marylhurst, Oregon State college, and Willamette.

YMCA Offers Square Dances

Willamette students can learn to dance as "ma and pa" did years ago by attending the square dancing sessions being held at the YMCA every Saturday night from 8 to 10:30 p.m., Dr. Oliver, associate professor of English, states. Admission is 15 cents per person or 25 cents per couple.

Western Civ Talks Started Over KSLM

Encouraging to freshmen who occasionally miss their 3:40 Western Civ class will be the news that Dr. Thompson is beginning a new series of radio lectures based on that course. The program now in its third year of presentation is heard Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 10:45 a.m., on station KSLM.

Jewelry, Fossil Collections Added to University Museum

Oriental jewelry and fossil sea shells make up two new collections placed on display this week in the Willamette university museum, located on the second floor of Waller hall.

The collection of jewelry was loaned by Mrs. Benjamin Knight of Independence, mother of Virginia Knight, Willamette junior. Mrs. Knight gathered this collection while traveling in the orient.

Included in the exhibit are a carved ivory statue dating back to the Ming dynasty, necklaces of turquoise, amber, jade and rock crystal, and hand-worked metal bracelets.

The fossil sea shell group consists of shells gathered from Normandie, France; Germany; Ohio and California. Dr. W. W. Youngson made possible the gift of this collection, formerly belonging to Reverend and Mrs. F. A. Schumann, long associated with the Rodney Avenue Methodist church in Portland.

The public as well as students are invited by Professor Clark, curator, to visit the museum on Tuesdays and Thursdays between 8:30 a. m. and 4:30 p. m., noon hours excluded.

Recent group visitors to the museum have been a women's club and the pupils of Harry Stone, Willamette graduate, now teacher in the Scotts Mills high school.

WUAS Trip Findings Told

Results of field trips made by the Willamette university Archeological Society during the last two years were published in the October issue of American Antiquity in an article by William Laughlin, '41, entitled, "Excavations in the Calapuya Mounds of the Willamette Valley, Oregon."

Laughlin, son of Dr. S. B. Laughlin, professor of sociology and anthropology, is doing graduate work at Haverford college in Pennsylvania. The illustrations appearing with Laughlin's article were made by Nadine Orcutt, Willamette senior.

American Antiquity is a publication of the Society for American Archeology.

Y Plans Trip To Ohio Meet

Singularly honored is the Willamette campus YMCA in being chosen from all the smaller colleges and universities in the United States to exhibit its program at the National Intercollegiate Christian Council at Oxford, Ohio, during Christmas vacation.

Eight students are making tentative plans to attend the convention from December 27 to January 2. It will be necessary to receive partial aid from resources in order to make trip. According to Tom YMCA president, the YW are relying on those interested in the Y program and in Willamette to make sure that Willamette and Salem are represented this year at the Oxford conference.

Law Students Hear Rose City Attorney

Charles E. McCulloch, Portland attorney, spoke to the student body members of the law school last week. This was the first of a series of talks by prominent lawyers and judges who will address the law school students during the year.
