

By GEORGE McLEOD

I sincerely congratulate Ed and his co-signers upon their remarkable letter. Really, Ed, though I sharply disagree with the conclusions that you have drawn, I enjoyed your letter immensely. It is well written, probably the best discussion that has appeared in these columns during the entire year. But though, Ed, I admire its cleverness, I do not consider it unanswerable.

In regard to the suppressed letters, frankly, there was one—only one, however. It was not printed—not because of the arguments it advanced nor the attacks it made, but, as was explained to its author, primarily because of its contents. It carried a harsh criticism of the governor of this state. My objection was not upon that score, though I am for the governor, but I was convinced that since this was a school paper, there were certain bounds of propriety and of restraint that should be exercised—certain rules of fair play that should be observed, and that libel should be avoided by those writing for publication in this column. The young lady, though invited to do so, was unwilling to modify or re-draft her remarks. Hence, this incident.

Ed soundly takes me to task for the article appearing in the last issue. He refers pointedly to my "Democratic colleagues," who he infers talked me into writing it. No, Ed, the blame is not theirs. While this column during the course of the year has frequently been hastily on no doubt poorly written, it at least has been undictated, uninfluenced by anyone—the mistakes made—the sins committed herein, the views expressed are solely the writer's own. The responsibility is undivided. Neither democratic, republican, nor independent "colleagues" have suggested what should be written.

Ed kindly directs my attentions to a more significant than the question of national defense. Some of these indicated propositions have been discussed. Others would have been had not the column's criticism of Kirby Page's address drawn this avalanche of protest which demands rebuttal.

Ed argues that a fleet loses its efficiency 300 miles from its base of supplies. This statement he leaves unsupported. However, keeping in mind the cunning intrigue of international statecraft today, if our fleet were reduced to the point where it no longer would command respect—would it be impossible for the fascist, aggressor nations to gain bases of supplies, say in totalitarian Brazil or in Mexico, or perhaps along the north Pacific islands? The situation would be made to order for them. Invasion would no longer be a "myth." It would be a deadly peril.

Distances too, Ed, are fading before the magic of science. Note the Russian trans-polar flights, and the Italian air squadron that flew from Rome to visit the World's Fair in Chicago and then back.

It is not necessary to capture the entire length of one of our conquests. Let a key port, San Francisco or New York for example, be taken by storm, her civilian population annihilated, and America would be paralyzed with fear, forced to her knees, her defenses shattered and the road to conquest and invasion open. Then in the carnage which would inevitably follow the Kirby Pages who fan the flames of pacifism in America would probably have to die with the rest of us in the name of the false peace which for a lifetime they have preached.

Though it is difficult to subjugate a great territory such as the United States, it becoming less difficult. An unprepared America should not be called upon to suffer the humiliation and the horror that China is going through in her hour of sorrow and death.

Though perhaps no navy can adequately defend our entire coastline, yet as long as our navy is on parity with the larger fleets afloat today, we at least have a fighting chance in a defensive war. We are entitled to this.

I have not forgotten the case of Switzerland and the Scandinavian countries. But may I call your attention, Ed, to Spain, Ethiopia, China, Austria, and Belgium.

Battle Rages For Student Offices

Clemes Wins Coveted Cup In PFL Meet

Another Addition Made to List of Triumphs In Oratory

Pacific Forensic League Selects Pomona As Next Site

In winning first place in oratory in the Pacific Forensic League tournament at Reno, Bill Clemes adds another feather to his hat already decorated with oratorical honors. He was awarded a beautiful individual cup and a school cup which will be engraved and placed in the trophy case. The title of Bill's oration is "Wanted—Agitators." Faxon of O.S.C. won second place and Atchinson of U.S.C. received honorable mention.

Bill McAdam, Willamette's contestant in after-dinner speaking, won third place, his subject was "Why Girls Go to College." Reid of Whitman College received the first place award and Keur of Stanford, second. The debates at Reno were of the non-decisional type. Al Klassen and Lando Hiebert spoke in the first round and participated in the third round, a general discussion.

The Pacific Forensic League voted to continue the discussion type of debating, with competitive speaking in oratory, extemporaneous and after-dinner speaking. Next year the league will meet at Pomona college, Los Angeles, California.

At the P.K.D. tournament in Stockton, Bill Clemes went into the semi-finals of oratory. The extempore speakers and the debaters were eliminated in the preliminary rounds. Bill McAdam served as judge for several debates and contests. Bill Thomas and Lando Hiebert debated in the A division, winning four of the six preliminary debates. Doris Darnielle and Albert Klassen competed in the B division, also winning four out of six. In each case five wins were necessary to get into the semi-finals. Josephine Gilstrap entered women's oratory and Doris Darnielle was in women's extempore speaking.

From Stockton J. Gilstrap went to Los Angeles, returning to Salem after a stop-over at San Francisco Friday night. D. Darnielle stopped to visit at Eugene, arriving in Salem, Tuesday. Prof. Rahe and the five contestants in the Reno tournament made a delightful trip across the Sierras on Saturday drove to Lako Tahoe on Sunday, participated in the tournament and arrived in Salem Thursday p. m. driving all night Wednesday.

Prof. Rahe drove his own car. He served as judge in both tournaments. At Reno he served as chairman of the oratory contest and also of the debate committee. In the discussion of the new type of debate he proposed a plan which would be a compromise between the two types. The plan may be adopted with alterations.

Prof. Rahe and Bill Thomas are attending the state convention for the teachers of speech at Corvallis today. Bill Thomas will engage in a demonstration debate, his colleague will be Frank Roberts from Pacific university. Finkbeiner from Linfield college and Burke from O.S.C. compose the negative for this debate. Several of the winners of the high school contest held by Prof. Rahe at Willamette have been asked to give their pieces at the convention.

NOTICE

We wish to call attention to Collegian readers that wherever names of student body candidates are mentioned they are arranged in alphabetical order.

Anton, Gallon, Nunnenkamp and Shaffer Vie For ASWU Presidency

Elected

There is at least one candidate who will lose little sleep during the next week while the campus awaits next Friday's election. She is Helene Trulsen, who was unopposed for editor of the Wallulah. Helene appeared to be the only person qualified to hold the position. For experience she boasts enviable records on the publications at Oregon Institute of Technology, and on the Wallulah and Collegian staffs here. Helene has efficiently served as assistant editor of the Collegian during the past year.

Speeches Today--Election Next Friday--Revotes Appear Likely

"Mass" To Climax May Festivities

"St. Cecilia Mass" by Gounod will be presented as Willamette Philharmonic Choir's annual production on Sunday, May 8, at 8. It will be held in the First Methodist church. The choir and the soloists have been working for several weeks in order to make this presentation a successful climax to May week-end activities. The soloists are Alleen Moore, Kendall Teisinger, and Curtis Preston. Professor Cameron Marshall, of the music department, is directing.

Last year Professor Marshall's music department presented "Stabat Mater," which was well received along the Pacific coast.

And everybody and his brother in the race and the campus free at last from the countless petitions, Bearers who have been bearing down on unsuspecting individuals all week for signatures for "the aspirant who is just the man for the job," interest in the 1938 student body elections centered today on the speeches of the candidates in Chapel.

In the race for student body president are Basil Anton, Art Gallon, Lawrence Nunnenkamp and Neil Shaffer.

George Abbott and Bob Clarke are running for second vice-president.

For first vice-president Virginia Bendiksen, June Johnson, Phyllis Phythian, and Kathryn Thompson are the candidates.

Jean Anunsen, Lois Burton and Margaret Gillette are competing for the position of secretary.

Up for Collegian editor are William Hall, Dan Moses and Carolyn Woods.

Arnold Hardman and Henry Kortemeyer are competing for the position of yell leader.

Helene Trulsen, junior, of Portland, associate editor on the 1936-37 Wallulah staff under Guy Heimsoth, and for the past year assistant editor of the Collegian, is the newly elected editor of the yearbook. She was unopposed for the office.

The race for the presidency looms as one of the hottest battles in years with the candidates all appearing on even terms at this stage of the battle. In-as-much as one candidate must receive a majority to win the office, a re-vote between the two who rank highest in the first vote, will be held on next Friday. The second election will be held on Monday, May 2.

Basil Anton is a graduate of Commerce high school in Portland, is a freshman in the Law school, a member of the varsity basketball and baseball teams, and was his class president as a sophomore.

Arthur Gallon is a graduate of Franklin high of Portland, has served for the past year as president of the junior class, and was voted most valuable man to his team on the football eleven last fall.

Larry Nunnenkamp is from Tigard, plays on both the basketball and baseball teams, and has served as second vice-president of the student body this year.

Neil Shaffer is from Kent, Washington, is a member of this year's constitutional revision committee, and plays on the football team.

The battle for first vice-president is also to be a hotly contested affair with four candidates in the race while the fight for second vice is a sudden death affair for one of the two candidates in next Friday's election.

The races for secretary and editor of the Collegian also

To the Campus Commentator

A Student Letter

April 17, 1938
Salem, Oregon

Dear Mr. McLeod:

So it is your policy to print the letters of dissenters? Why, then, did you choose to write personal replies to letters from a certain feminine member of the W. U. liberal contingent?—letters which were considerably more to the point than that which appeared in your column of last week. There are two conclusions that might be drawn: (1) You like to espouse the principle of freedom of speech without actually putting your principle into action, or (2) you consider the cause of the Democratic party more important than the principle of freedom of speech.

You say that your article accurately reflected your opinion. Perhaps it was an accurate reflection of opinion but certainly not the reflection of an opinion based on accuracy. First, let me define my grounds for argument. We both start with the same major premise: we want peace. A major premise may be a belief or an opinion. Not so with the minor premise (how we shall attain peace). It cannot be unfounded belief or opinion. It must be an opinion based on fact. Let us proceed on the basis of really accurate information.

Your argument seems to build down to: We do not want war. The best way to avoid war is to have "Atlantic and Pacific fleets stand ready to repel attack" and "shut back the armed forces of Europe and Asia." The myth of invasion! Let us see how much basis there is for this idea.

1. A fleet loses 75 per cent of its efficiency when 300 miles from its base of supplies.

2. All the combined fleets in the world could not capture the entire length of one of our coastlines (much less invade with armed forces).

3. There's never been a country even one-fourth the size of the United States invaded successfully from such a long distance (witness the struggle of Japan in China, just a few miles away).

Let us concede, for the sake of argument, that we might be attacked. Our navy, at present,

No Rook Reports Are Handed In

There were no freshmen reviews among the seven book reports turned in for the Reading Contest this week.

Only one book of fiction was reviewed. "Bread and Wine," by Ignazio Silone, relates the story of an Italian priest who is dissatisfied with the Mussolini regime. The original Italian version of this book entitled "Pane e vino" has never been published.

Two students reported on the book "Endurance," an epic of polar adventure written by Commander Frank Worsley.

Mr. Mills is working on a project to determine the circulation of the books on the reading list. Next week he will disclose interesting news about this.

Attention, freshmen! The time for freshmen book reports for the contest has been held over until Tuesday, April 26.

Students Are Glad to Return to School For Recuperation From Effects of Spring Vacation

Yeah, we had a swell vacation too. We had to come back to school to recuperate. We spent a "relative-visiting" vacation. What kind of a time did you have? There's the "catch-up-on-study" vacation, "give-the-town-a-break" trip, "love-and-fun-with-the-gal-or-boy-at-home" sojourn, "stagnate-at-home" rest, and "the-stay-at-school-and-sleep" period.

We all had such high ambitions for our vacations, but something seemed to happen to them, and you can't blame it on spring fever—not with the Easter weather we had. The "catch-up-on-study" braggart is usually the first vacationist to have his ideals blasted. After reading five pages of "The Outline of History," the so-called student usually picks up the last copy of "True Confessions" or "Life" and spends the rest of the vacation having a good time with a perfectly clear conscience.

The boy or girl who has gone "Joe College" or "Betty Co-ed" and goes home to "give the home-folks a break," are usually the ones that are broken. The weather was too bad to show off the Easter suit that Pop had spent months paying for, and the town had forgotten that "Joe" and "Betty" were once the most popular couple in town.

When the lovesick boy who has sighed all year about the won-

May Weekend Plans Foretell Huge Success

Student Body Dance Is Slated For Armory Friday Night

Coronation Scheduled for Saturday Afternoon On Campus

Starting with a student body dance, May Week-End, to be held May 6, 7 and 8, will entertain numerous high school students in order to acquaint them with Willamette traditions and activities.

The dance will be held in the Armory Friday night with Morrie Bideford's orchestra coming from Eugene.

May Morning Breakfast, sponsored by the Y.W.C.A., will start Saturday's events. Included will be the exciting freshmen and sophomore tug-of-war across the Mill stream, a track meet between C.P.S., Pacific and Willamette at Olinger field, and the early, yet long awaited, dedication of the milestone in Willamette's progress, the new library.

The coronation of Queen Irma Oehler and honoring festivities, has been the subject for many elaborate plans. A stage will be erected on the lawn of the campus with several platforms. Queen Irma will grace the highest one; the smiling Princesses Alice and Mary Jeanette will be on the next highest, and the senior women will make up the last. Many colors of crepe paper will cover the stage.

The entertainment following the coronation is under the direction of Miss Curry. There will be the traditional Maypole dance with the presentation of other novelty dances and a skit from "Alice in Wonderland." This skit will be the highlight of the afternoon's entertainment. Gay costumes worn by the participants will color the program.

On Saturday night the Junior Play, Edna Ferber and George Kaufman's "Stage Door," will be presented in Leslie high school. The plot of this Broadway comedy revolves about two stage-struc girls, one of whom finally goes to Hollywood. The dialogue is clever and fast moving. Most of the scenes take place in the living room of a boarding house for stage girls. The play, which calls for 31 characters, is not based on the recent motion picture by the same name, although some of the characters are the same.

Introducing . . .

Deep in the recesses of a chamber well shadowed by many books may be found the sanctum of the guardian of Willamette's wealth of printed pages. Herein sits Robinson Spencer, B.L.S., surrounded by more books and a battery of clattering typewriters. He sits with his back to the rising sun poring over the complex problems facing the Librarian of Willamette University. With his very able assistant, Mr. Forrest Mills, these complex problems are faced and conquered and the University exults still a little longer.

Mr. Spencer obtained his A.B. degree at Ohio Wesleyan, and his B.L.S. from the University of Illinois. He joined the Willamette people in 1932. (Please note that the word "family" is painfully avoided).

In spite of the fact that the library is at times a trifle noisy, Mr. Spencer is likewise always ready to help a bewildered student find apparently hidden material for a theme or paper the value of which is similarly hidden. Another not to be forgotten philanthropy by Mr. Spencer is his custom of furnishing typewriter paper to be used by any student needing such surfaces for writing a hurried assignment. This custom has been discontinued recently, but those who have been accommodated by this gracious practice are truly grateful.

Soon the library will be transformed, or transported perhaps, into a modern fairyland, and when this change evolves the vocabulary used in describing the Willamette Library will not consist of such words as dark, noisy, shadowy, hidden, or inadequate, but rather will consist of all the words of beauty used in the superlative. In the little matter of moving, it appears to us that the demands made on the librarian for patience, perseverance, clear and precise planning will be a strain that would tax the strength of any man. We offer our moral support, Mr. Spencer—we wish we could do more.

Further competition for the position of Collegian editor was eliminated by action of the executive committee yesterday when that body refused to recognize the petitions of Bruce Williams and Asa Liewellyn on the grounds that both were ineligible under the constitution which provides that to be eligible for the Collegian editorship a candidate must have served on a previous Collegian staff.

CAMPUS CLUBS

E. church, at their regular meeting Wednesday evening, April 20. Housing and working conditions were explained in answer to the questions of members. Dan Moses gave a review of the book, "The War Myth in United States History." A nominating committee was appointed consisting of Ruth Tacharnar, chairman, Mildred Pederson, and Orville Whittman.

enable, Ed, world affairs are not being directed by reasonable men. A strong fleet might deter them, like the G-men frighten the average criminal, but an undefended America would be too great a temptation for the power-insane dictators to overlook. The risk, Ed, is greater than I care to assume. It is national suicide. It means war, not peace; death, not democracy.

HOLLYWOOD FILM SHOP

By ALEXANDER KAHN
United Press Staff Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD—The secret of Luise Rainer's success is that she tries to look interesting instead of beautiful, declared Clarence Bull, portrait photographer.

Bull speaks from the experience of having photographed almost every famous star in motion pictures for almost a generation. "Luise never bothers whether the correct side of her profile is towards the camera, or whether the last strand of hair is in place, or whether the lines of her costume are perfect," he commented after completing a sitting of the star to be released with her next film, "The Toy Wife."

"Of course, she is careful about her preparations for a portrait, but she doesn't sit and fuss with last-minute makeup. She is one of the very few stars I know who is completely in character even before production starts. She really knows her art."

Greta Garbo and Joan Crawford are the only other two stars Bull could mention offhand who need no coaching in their still photographs. It isn't a matter of training, he believes, as much as a complete willingness to enter into the spirit of the role.

"Notice how Miss Rainer poses herself," he remarked. "She tried every possible variation. She imagines herself in the scene, she does everything but speak her lines; sometimes, in fact, she does whisper a line to herself to make sure of the complete characterization."

"I make no suggestions. I only say, 'Fine, hold it, please.' The star whips a line to herself to make sure of the complete characterization."

Bull says he would like to open a school of photographic sitting and if he ever does, Miss Rainer could be both model and instructor.

HOLLYWOOD—If only to get even with women who have taken over almost every habit of men, Jimmy Gleason, comedian, playwright and movie director, favors the masculine use of makeup.

"The women have been showing us for years how they admire our ways," Gleason said. "Don't they prove this by wearing our sport clothes, down to the pants? And cigarettes no longer are a man's pastime. Oh, for the good old days when a guy could get into a smoky corner and enjoy a cocktail with his hat on!"

Gleason's recent outburst was prompted by increasing reports of men using lipstick, rouge and powder.

"The girls wear us a lot of things, and it's natural for men to take something in exchange. It's getting so a man can't call a thing his own except the lawn-mower and a corncob pipe."

"There isn't anything effeminate, or exclusively feminine, about everyday use of cosmetics (or men; just as there no longer is anything exclusively masculine about smoking a cigarette."

"Men will use makeup if they decide they want to do so and feel that the women will like it. Of course, it will take a few daring souls to start the men off, but that's always true of anything different."

"One chap, who reads books, tells me Julius Caesar painted his face when he rode in his triumph. Then he became a dictator. I haven't checked on modern dictators."

"Still, I'd like to be around the day Clark Gable goes hunting with that gun as big as an anti-aircraft cannon under his arm and mascara on his eyes. That should be some sight."

"Who, me? No, buddy, I'm no trullblazer. Besides, that lipstick stuff might come off on my cigars, and I like cigars very much."

And with that Jimmy ducked away to avoid any more questions.

Rampant Activity

Lachmund and it was moved to the campus from a location on Court street. The large frame building has seven rooms and is finished in hardwood floors throughout; it has recently been completely renovated. The structure was purchased at a cost of $1600. Opinion and administration plans wish to have the structure painted white so as to harmonize with the color-scheme of the campus.

Dr. Baxter, who now lives in the Roberts Apartments, stated that he was very much satisfied with the prospect of having a new home. He added further: "The principle of the idea is this: The value of having a home on the campus lies in the fact that it will be possible to have social function in connection with campus activities. Mrs. Baxter is already planning teas and similar functions."

Those who have observed Willamette's president—Dr. Bruce Baxter—on the campus with blueprints under his arm, talking to contractors and members of the board of trustees, and who have overheard him discussing plans for the building of a science hall and a boys dormitory, can well expect a continuation of the "reign of progress" and eventually a "greater Willamette."

Baby blue skies beamed Thursday and a week of games passed without a single postponement because of undue precipitation.

The P. E.'s chalked up their first win of the season by turning back the Alpha Psi B's, 11 to 5, as Drury homed. The Fish Chokers not only turned back the Kimball Hall boys but trampled all over them to win by a score of 26 to 1.

Weather report: Generally overcast and cloudy, wind from southeast, precipitation on Sweetland field, and no ball game for Monday.

P. E. Wins

Having reminded us that we still reside in Oregon, the weather again turned sunny. The P. E. Staff, feeling the call of spring in the air, shook the mothballs from the old gloves and settled down to real work. Having thus awakened from their winter dose, they displayed a very commendable brand of slugging, slugging that, by the way, dropped the highly touted Fish Chokers by the roadside. At the close of the bitter struggle the score stood 12-11.

The Alpha Psi Bees, partaking of some of the same spring tonic, turned back Kimball Hall, 24 to 9, with homers by Phillips, Cleveland, Moses and Baker, and Vosper for the losers.

Alpha Psi Wins

On Wednesday the Alpha Psi A squad, not to be outdone by their little brother, administered a 33-to-4 lesson to our ill-treated Kimball Hall as French hit three home runs. To kill a nasty little rumor that their win had been just luck, the P. E.'s proceeded to light on the Kappa's with all fours. The final result was another football sized score of 19 to 9.

In yesterday's games the Fish Chokers easily defeated Sigma Tau, 16 to 4, as Art Gallon hit the longest home run on Sweetland field this year when he batted the ball into the new grandstand; and the Alpha Psi Bees, in a comedy of errors by both teams, finally edged out the victory, 20 to 15, as Phillips and Ace Llewellyn for the losers.

The Law School plays the Alpha Psi A's today at noon, while the Kappa's meet the Sig's.

Alpha Phi Alpha has been declared the winner of the intramural basketball competition as a result of the final game held the Thursday before vacation.

Margaret Macy, who was in charge of the games, made arrangements for a double competition so that each team would have two chances. This intramural idea is by no means a new attempt here; but the plan this year was to give as many girls as possible a chance to play. The expressed purpose, too, was to play for the fun of playing rather than just to play to win, although there was a championship cup involved.

Six Teams Enter
There were six teams competing this season—the Independents, the D.T.G.'s, Lausanne Hall, as well as the sororities, Alpha Phi, Beta Chi, and Delta Phi.

Miss Carrey was encourager and impartial backer for the teams, and Mr. Sparks acted as referee for the games.

Tomorrow is the Play Day at Oregon State. About twenty girls are planning to go down and compete in the wide variety of sports. Transportation is being provided; and, when they get to Corvallis, the W.A.A. girls will have this list of sports to choose from: Swimming, tennis, badminton, archery, volleyball, baseball, golf, and fencing.

Bearcat Nine To Open Conference Season Today At Pacific

Willamette Baseball Team Will Face Badgers In Double-Header

Local Diamond Players Scheduled To Oppose State Penitentiary Mavericks Tomorrow

Coach Spec Keene's Willamette Bearcats, improving with every game, today swing into a drive which it is hoped will regain the Northwest conference diamond championship when they square off against Pacific university's Badgers at Forest Grove in a double-header. Victorious over University of Oregon's bombarding Ducks in their last start, Keene's men face their first conference opponent with high hopes of scoring a double win.

Bearcats To Play Pen Tomorrow the Bearcats return to Salem to face the State Penitentiary nine on the 'Mavericks' diamond at the other end of State street. The Pen nine, one of the most experienced teams on any diamond, has not been defeated in any start this year.

Crosswhite, eight-year veteran who has handcrafted nearly every team in this vicinity and boasts more stripes than any hurler Keene could send to the mound, will in all probability get the call from Coach Warden Lewis. Lewis is also expected to hold in readiness several experienced chuckers who have seen considerable "bull-pen" duty.

Pacific Strength Unknown Little is known of the strength of the Pacific nine, except that a good turn-out of veterans are back to form a nucleus for this year's team. Hurlers Derrieux and Dick Perasso are the mainstays of the mound staff.

Mike Gearin, another veteran, catches, with Carl Schwab and Chuck Silstrom, both heavy hitters, playing first base and left field, respectively.

W. U. Plays Pilots Who Keene will pitch against Pacific is problematical. Wait Weaver, Bob White, George Windsor, Francis Gatchell, and Bill Anton are the hurlers from whom the pair of starters will probably be chosen.

Games scheduled for next week include a pair of games at Sweetland field. Portland's Pilots furnish the opposition on Tuesday, with a return engagement against Oregon Normal school scheduled for Friday. The Bearcats defeated the Wolves 9 to 5 in a previous game, played during spring vacation.

Track Men Get Fourth In Relays Willamette's cinder squad carved fourth place in the Third Annual Portland Relays, April 9. The team, still in poor condition, came within one point of tying for third place in the meet.

Portland University, the favorite and the winner, and Linfield University in its win took its third straight crown. Pacific finished third, one point ahead of Willamette, and Oregon Normal finished last.

Willamette's men who placed are: Ed Maerz, second in 120-yard high hurdles; Sheldon, Van Cleve, Harris, Hogensen, fourth in the two-mile relay; Kelly, Russell, Van Cleve, Hogensen, fourth in the 880-yard relay; Grabenhorst, third in high jump; Justin Weakley, first in javelin.

Seniors Win Golf Interclass Match

The seniors won the Willamette university interclass golf tournament Wednesday, scoring 29 points to edge out the sophomores who scored 27. The juniors collected 12 points and the freshmen with only three men entered, 3 1/2. With varsity squad members ineligible, no startling scores were turned in. Putnam of the seniors being medalist at 85. Nassau scores were:

Seniors: McLeod 5 1/2, Rich 8 1/2, Putnam 9, Doughton 6 1/2. Juniors: Preston 4 1/2, Gallon 4 1/2, Kelly 1 1/2, Kahle 1/2. Sophomores: LaVatta 7 1/2, Williams 5, Bertelson 6, Mason 8 1/2. Freshmen: Phillips 1/2, G. Clark 1 1/2, W. Clark 1 1/2.

W. U. Golfers Will Play First Meet, Oswego

Nicholls, Johnson, Powell Bickner Represent Bearcat Team

By CHARLES BICKNER The Willamette golf team plays its first big match April 22-23 at Oswego Lake Country club, which is located near the city of Oswego, overlooking beautiful Lake Oswego. Reed college of Portland is the host and has issued invitations to a number of the colleges, and a large representation is expected.

The team which will represent Willamette and the positions the members hold are: (1) Fritz Nicholls, (2) Curtis Johnson, (3) Bob Powell, and (4) Charles Bickner. Under the able coaching of John Varley, professional at the Salem golf course, the team has showed marked ability.

Oswego Scenic The Oswego Lake Country club was designed by that famous builder of many of our best golf courses, H. Chandler Egan, former Walker Cup player. It enjoys the reputation of being one of the toughest tournament golf courses in the country. Walter Hagen, while playing on it, once said that it was one of the most beautiful courses he had ever seen. It is situated on a large hill overlooking beautiful Lake Oswego and from the top of the hill several mountains are clearly visible.

Wayne Doughton, the manager of the team, has arranged a very full and tough schedule for the season and the boys are challenging back and forth and having to fight to keep their places on the team.

Aden Returns The game was a homecoming to Willamette's Dwight "Elmer" Aden, who last year signed a contract with the Boston American league Red Sox, being farmed out to Lewiston, which team was transferred this year to Bellingham.

Johnny Oravec with three hits out of four trips to the plate sparked the Willamette hitting attack, while Verdell Ragsdale garnered a double and a single out of five times at bat.

Batteries and summary were: R H E Bellingham 18 17 4 Willamette 3 10 9 Bellingham—Stefan, Farmer and Howard, Rush; Willamette—Windsor, Anton, Nunnenkamp, Gatchell and Robertson, Moe.

W. U. Netmen Lose To Oregon

Willamette Nine Defeats O. N. S.

Willamette's men varsity tennis team lost its first match of the season, April 12, to the University of Oregon at Eugene, 7 to 9. The victory was the third consecutive while washing which the Webfoots have scored over opponents this year.

The feature match of the encounter was the victory of Larry Crane, Oregon number 1 man, over Talbot Bennett, Bearcat coach and captain. Freshman Bud Gilmore, Willamette's number 2 man, extended Oregon's Werschul to three sets before losing.

Summary: Singles—Crane, Oregon, defeated Bennett, Willamette, 6-1, 6-3; Werschul, Oregon, defeated Gilmore, Willamette, 6-2, 4-6, 8-6; Ellis, Oregon, defeated Gutknecht, Willamette, 6-1, 6-2; Zimmerman, Oregon, defeated Estes, Willamette, 6-1, 6-2; Mann, Oregon, defeated Bertleson, Willamette, 6-2, 6-4.

Doubles—Ellis and Crawford, Oregon, defeated Estes and Gutknecht, Willamette, 6-3, 6-3; Zimmerman and Crane, Oregon, defeated Gilmore and Bennett, Willamette, 6-4, 6-1.

Bearcats Lose Three Contests To Oregon Nine

Webfoots Win Baseball Tilt, 5-3, 9-5, 6-0; Rain Halts 1st

Victims of the bludgeon wielding of "Wimpy" Quinn, Webfoot third sacker, Willamette's Bearcats dropped their first three diamond encounters with the University of Oregon, 5-3, 9-5, and 6-0.

A battle in the rain at Eugene, April 8, was called in the eighth inning with Oregon's Webfoots leading 5-2. The Bearcats 3-to-2 advantage in the fifth inning was overcome by the Ducks when Quinn tripled, scoring Gordon and came home on Pierce's error. Oregon added her fifth counter in the seventh.

Johnny Kolb was at the plate with two follow Bearcats on board and one out, when Umpire Summers called the halt.

Oregon Wins Second In the return battle on Sweetland field, April 9, Quinn drove in six markers to pace the Oregon to a 9-to-5 victory. Willamette found the offerings of Webfoot Creighton in the fifth inning as Shinn, Southard, Kolb, and Robertson bunched safe blows for three tallies.

Oregon won the third tilt behind the effective three-hit pitching of Creighton, a right hander.

Hagedorn began a Willamette four-tally first inning spree, reaching the plate on an infield out. Shinn, who had walked, came home on Kolb's two-banger, and Kolb scored on a double by Pierce, who took advantage of two wild heaves by Wolf Flinger Erickson, to complete the circuit.

Weaver Hurls W. U. To Win Over Oregon

Kolb Collects 4 Bingles To Lead Bearcat Hitters

Behind the six-hit chucking of big, careful-working Walt Weaver, Willamette's Bearcats Tuesday slammed their way to a 4 to 5 win over the Oregon Ducks in the last of a four-game series between the two rival collegiate nines. Oregon won the first three.

Although Weaver was relieved by Bob White in the 8th, with two down and Jimmy Nicholson canned on first base after cleaning the bags of two tenants with a lusty single straight over the keyhole, it was his at-bady effectiveness throughout the early innings that brought victory to the 'Cats.

Johnny Kolb, hard-hitting freshman third baseman, annexed four hits in four trips to the plate for half of the Bearcat total of eight hits for the day. Hal Moe, Willamette catcher, received four walks in his four times at bat, officially being credited with no times at bat. Jimmy Nicholson garnered two for three for the losing Webfoot.

Double Header Today The 'Cats have a double-header with Pacific in Forest Grove today, and play the Mavericks at the penitentiary tomorrow.
