Baxter Addresses Many High Schools

Also to Deliver O.S.C. and Willamette U. Baccalaureate Sermon

By MARY BARKER
President Baxter left Wednesday morning on a speaking tour during which he will travel in Washington, Idaho, and various sections of Oregon. During his tour he will devote most of his time giving commencement and baccalaureate addresses.

He will first give commencement addresses to four high schools in eastern Oregon. From there he will return to Portland and speak before a group of Life Underwriters. His next commencement address will be given in Ashland, Washington, and Coldwell. He will then return to Oregon in time to deliver the baccalaureate sermon at Oregon State college on May 23.

Having completed these he will leave immediately for Boise, Idaho, and there give the commencement address on May 29.

The next day he will go to the Northwest Nazarene college at Nampa, Idaho, and deliver the baccalaureate sermon. He then intends to address Canby high school and Jefferson high of Portland, Oregon.

On June 4, he will return to Salem and prepare the baccalaureate sermon for the seniors of Willamette University. The following day he will go to the Molalla high school where he will deliver his last commencement address.

INSTALLATION

Installation of student body officers was held today in chapel.

Wallulah Pictures

Wallulah prints are now on sale at the Wallulah office in the basement of Waller hall.

Shaffer and Robertson Return From Southern Conference

Incoming and outgoing student body presidents from all west coast colleges met last week from May 11 to 15, at Berkeley, Calif., for the annual convention of the Pacific Colleges' Student Body association. Meetings were held at the Durant hotel. In attendance from Willamette were Neil Shaffer and Dayton Robertson, this and next year's respective presidents.

In line for discussion were such matters as annuals, school newspapers, and their advertising, forensics and their promotion, etc.

Secretary Sibley of the Alumni Association of the University of California especially impressed Shaffer with his plan whereby each senior pays a lifetime membership fee of 80 dollars, the

Cap and Gown Pledge Five Junior Women

New Cap and Gown members were pledged in chapel on Thursday, May 11. These new members are Miss Olive Clemes, Miss Elisabeth James, Miss Edna Thoman, Miss Verna Vosper and Miss Dorothy Wright. Cap and Gown is the local senior women's honorary and members are chosen on the basis of scholarship, leadership and Christian ideals. Work has been started this year toward compiling information necessary for application to Mortar Board, the national women's honorary. Successful groups will carry the work forward until ultimate affiliation is attainable. The group works during the year with Dean Dahl and sponsors two socials for the benefit of Cresta Cottage—meeting place of Willamette organizations.

Vote on Albert Prize Monday

Candidates for two cash prizes, the Joseph T. Albert and the Colonel Percy Willis awards, have been selected by faculty groups. The Albert prize is given to a student with above average grades who has been a wholesome influence and a service to the student body. The Willis prize is given to a student who has shown kindness, high ideals and genuine helpfulness on the campus. The four class presidents will select a winner among Neil Shaffer, Lois Barton, and Bill Thoman.

Both awards are $25.

Riches, Walker Get Managerships

By recommendation of the newly elected Collegian and Wallulah editors and approval of the executive council Tom Riches and Jack Walker were selected as managers, respectively, of the two publications.

The books are not officially closed until next fall but the managers are at present arranging their programs.

Laughlin Goes On Field Trip

Appointment of Bill Laughlin, junior, to an archeology field trip in eastern Oregon carried on by the University of Oregon, was revealed this week. Indian mounds and culture of early tribes will be studied under the supervision of Dr. Chressman, professor of anthropology. The field trip will last six weeks.

Irvin Wall Will Teach at Union

Irvin Wall, graduating senior in education and transfer from York College, Nebraska, received word yesterday of his appointment as the teacher of English and Music at Union high school, Union, Oregon.

Once-censored Book Taken From Campus Circulation

The book, "Ulysses," famous "stream of consciousness" work by James Joyce, which was banned in the United States until 1933, has been taken out of general circulation by the head of the English department.

PEACHY GOOD FUN

Congratulations are in order for Lucy Fisher who was responsible for one of the most elaborate dances ever to be given on the campus during May Week End. Everyone had a peachy good time, and the high school guests went home to end impressed with college life.

FINIS

ORCHID OF THE WEEK naturally goes to the graduating seniors. There is nothing so beautiful as to see their fresh young faces turned toward new worlds to conquer, eager for the struggle (and I do mean struggle). So best of luck to every one of you eager young folk, and we ordinary people will be following your careers in "Who's Who in America."

BE KIND TO PEOPLE WEEK

Next week is going to be a strain on everyone, being as it's the week before finals, and outside reading, notebooks, and assorted themes will be called in for the final reckoning. So the Collegian is inaugurating a Be Kind to People Week especially adaptable for the faculty.

RESUME

Here is a thought, a beautiful thought, for Final week, when everyone becomes mentally unstable and a little neurotic. It is from Dorothy Parker's collection "Not So Deep as a Well." Well, Well.

SWAN SONG

The big boys tell me this is the last edition of the Collegian this year, and this is the last article in this column, so I guess the logical thing to do is to bid my two readers a fond goodbye. Goodbye Mother and Dad. Kidding on the square, it has been a lot of fun writing this, and if anyone reads it, it's been worth it. I hope everyone of you has a grand summer with lots of happy fun. So Adios, Au Revoir, Aloha, Auf Wiedersehen (I just guessed) and Cherrie to all of you until next year. The advantages of a college education are clearly shown in the preceding sentence. Since going to college I am able to speak fluently (count them) five different languages. Not a paid Adv.

Next Convention in Utah

In a kind of clearing house for ideas, established by the convening presidents, the various campus peace drives were probed into in order to find whether or not they were justified. Small and large school officers frequently held separate meetings, due to the different types of problems to be discussed.

"Athletics, of course, were a large factor in the convention," stated Robertson in closing.

Next year's convention will be held at Urovo, Utah, at Brigham Young university.

New Editor

This is the last issue of the Collegian under the editorship of Bill Hall and management of Tom Oye. Next week Editor-elect Fred Bernau will present the commencement edition. The number of issues for the school year is twenty-five.

Senior Week to Follow Traditions

Law School Building To Be Dedicated; State Officials to Be Main Speakers

"Pomp and Circumstance" will be the theme song for Willamette seniors from their farewell chapel at 11:15, Friday, June 2, to their commencement exercises Saturday, June 10, at 4:30 p.m.

The annual rendition of "Farewell, Willamette" and the traditional address of Dr. James T. Matthews will be outstanding features of the senior chapel. Francis Schmidt, president of the class of '39, will express the group's parting sentiments.

The graduates will again don caps and gowns for the baccalaureate service at the First M. E. church Sunday, June 4, at 11:00 a.m. Dr. Bruce R. Baxter will give the sermon on the subject, "The Power of Simplicity." A reception for the seniors will be given by President and Mrs. Baxter Thursday evening, June 8, at University House.

Collegian Manager Wins in Oratory

Business manager of the Collegian, Tom Oye, won first place in the oratorical contest at the Japanese-American Citizens League meet held at Portland, May 20. Ten speakers participated in the contest with the theme of GOOD CITIZENSHIP. Oye's prize-winning oration is "Sold in Exchange for Security."

A final competition will be held on Labor day in Tacoma embodying all league members of the Northwest.

Indian mounds and culture of early tribes will be studied under the supervision of Dr. Chressman, professor of anthropology. The field trip will last six weeks.

Annual Band Concert in Waller Hall

Nohlren Swings Baton in Program of Classical and Semi-Classical Selections

Students will be admitted on student body tickets. The annual spring concert of the Willamette University Band under the baton of Ralph S. Nohlren, will be presented this evening in Waller Hall, at 8:15 p.m. Combining classical and semi-classical numbers chosen to make up a program most enjoyable to the audience, the concert promises to be a success.

Members of the student body will be admitted on their student body tickets.

The program is as follows:

Miss Jack Gets Last Word As Stay-at-Homes Scorned And "Sneakers" Treated

Miss Jack wanted the last word.

It was five minutes to 12:00 p.m. at Lausanne and the halls were noticeably vacant. The housemother began to wonder. No girls . . . Well, she would call a fire drill to count noses. Only 20 appeared out of a possible 100. Yes, it was "sneak" night. She faced the remaining stay-at-homes saying . . . "Well, why didn't you go, you ought to be punished for staying!"

At 2:05 there was a noise on the steps by many people. The locked doors were thrown open to waiting punch and cookies for the "guys and gals."

Surges Outstanding Senior; Most Successful Publicity Man

By JOE VAN WINKLE

One of the most remarkable members of this year's graduating class is Paul Surges, publicity director for Willamette during the past four years. One of his chief duties has been to report all of the Salem sports news as well as all of the news from Willamette University for the Oregonian, Portland.

During the time that he has been publicity director, Willamette's publicity department has been placed on a big-time college basis. Paul came to Willamette in the fall of 1935 with a good previous record in journalism. Johnny Oravic as a result of Surges' publicity was placed on the Little All-American football team and also through a campaign promoted by Surges was elected as a member of the All-American All-Star squad which played the world's champion professional team in Chicago during August, 1938. Dick Weisgerber, Elliot Becken, and George Abbott have also been chosen on the Little All-American football team as a result of Surges' untiring work.

Started as Relief Boy

Paul graduated from Grant high school in Portland, and after his graduation, he worked up through the staff at the Oregonian in Portland. Starting in as relief office boy, he worked up to head office boy from which he was promoted to the night local staff and later to the night police staff. After all these promotions, he eventually entered the sports department.

After he had worked on the Oregonian staff he went to Bonneville where he became city editor of a weekly publication. Later he started another paper in Bonneville in opposition to the paper on which he had first worked. This paper, the Mid-Columbia, is still in operation. Paul worked as the editor, manager and reporter of this paper for 3 1/2 months and then quit his job to attend Willamette University.

During the summer after his freshman year he worked on the Longview Daily News in Washington and, in the remaining summers since he has been in school, has worked in Secretary of State Snell's office.

Paul Surges is Willamette's first publicity director since the office has been placed on a big-time basis. Besides getting several Willamette football stars named in the Little All-American team, Paul innovated the weekly mimeo-

Student Body Decides Monday on Proposed Amendments; 6 Slated

Advertising, Auditing, Dramatics, Student Committee and Funds Included

Polls for voting on constitutional amendments will open Monday at 10 a.m., and close at 4 p.m. The executive council at a special meeting on Wednesday ruled that the voting be by ballot.

The constitutional revisions committee—A.S.W.U. student opinion mill for turning out new constitutional amendments—went into operation last week and succeeded in grinding out six worthy revisions to be submitted to Willamette's masses for the approval or disapproval as voiced through vote by ballot. The proposed amendments hit mainly

Banquet Honors Blue Key Pledges

National Service Frat Initiates Nine Men; Klassen New Prexy; Abbot Retires

Blue Key members honored new pledges with a banquet at the Argo hotel Wednesday noon, May 24. Dean Schultz and Professor Thompson were special guests. President George Abbott acted as toastmaster.

Nine men were initiated into the Blue Key National Service Fraternity. They include: Bruce Williams, Henry Franz, Wally Turner, Bill Thomas, Winston Bunnell, Ed Cone, Dick McNeese, Quay Wasson, and Al Ferrin. Officers were also elected for the following year. The new prexy is Al Klassen; vice president, Cecil Quesseth; secretary, Dick McNeese; treasurer, Henry Franz.

Other Blue Key members attending the dinner were Bill Cemes, Bill Hall, Gene Hill, Cecil Quesseth, Robert Wilson, Al Klassen, Larry Nunnkamp, Bill Anton, Leighton Blake, Clayton Wheeler, Neil Shaffer, Dayton Robertson, Robert C. Clarke, and George Abbott.

Last Sunday afternoon members and their guests enjoyed a picnic at Hazelgreen.

Spencer Announces Reading Committee

Mr. Spencer, librarian, has announced that the following persons will constitute the Recreational Reading committee for the coming year: Della Willard, Virginia Bendiksen, Bruce Williams, and Dick McNeese. The group met for the first time last week to make plans for considering books for the new list, and elected Virginia Bendiksen as chairman.

During the next few weeks the committee expects to pass upon the adaptability of several books for contest use, but the majority of the selections will not be made until next fall. Mr. Spencer states that he expects to have the entire list completed by December.

HOLD TIGHT

Amendment three prevents the shifting of money from one fund to another, as has been the case in the past.

HACK, HACK

A new fund, the Dramatic fund, will be created if another of the proposed amendments passes. The Dramaticians will receive 1 1/2% of the total student body fee. The committee hacked 1% off the General fund to create the new endowment.

HOLD TIGHT AGAIN

Another amendment prevents the student body funds from being used to build swimming pools, tennis courts, hanging gardens, or anything else that would tend to make the campus look like Palm Springs—that is up to the university itself.

HOT STUFF

Still another amendment creates a Student Relations committee which is supposed to act as a thermometer to indicate student temperature in regard to opinion toward members of the student body. To avoid embarrassment, the faculty is not to be represented on this proposed committee.

Wallulah Out Friday, June 2

It was announced by Kay Thompson, editor of the Wallulah, that this year's publication will be ready for distribution on June 2.

Because of the usual custom of keeping details of the annual in secrecy, very little information was obtained. One novelty, however, will be the washable covers. It is in general recognized that the book is very much different than previously. More money has been spent engraving in place of having so many almost blank white pages with only a small amount of printing on them.

Many Leave Classes Early To Accept Jobs Elsewhere

A great many more students than usual are taking exams early this year in order to go immediately to jobs in various sections of the northwest. Among those leaving this week are the Willamette Girls' team, composed of Carol Head, Helen Dean, and Irene Blais; and Glenn Olds, all of whom will be employed at the Oregon Caves during the summer.

IDEAS on the HORIZON

By George Self—Law '40

EDITORIAL NOTE:

George Self has completed nine months as head columnist of the Collegian. Surrounding his column has been a halo of discussion and dissent. Behind it truth has been discussed without fear of factions or of consequences. In result many things have emanated from it that were the direct cause of progressive steps on the campus. At any event ideas on the Horizon has been a bright spot in the paper that has impressed the students and alumni. Self is known for his intrepidity, his lucid wording and the undebatable bases of his reasoning.

Unfortunately the article he submitted this week on "Sex and the College Student" had to be cut; it does not appear in full version. The editorial policy, though vowed never to cut anything has backed down. It can't be done. The article is true in reasoning but would not fit the engrained tradition of the school and a great many who read the newspaper.

However, a copy of the complete article will be in the Collegian office for all who wish to read it. Thanks George . . . It's tough; but it had to be.

THIS WEEK

The WEEK the writer would like to present a discussion on the topic least written about, directly, in the college paper, but which is most discussed on the college campus. That subject is sex and its relation to college students. As an introductory remark, the writer would like to point out his motive for writing this column—it is simply that he would like to point out to numerous students that sex is a discussable topic, and not one to be shoved into the posterior recesses of the mind to an extent which might result in a deformed outlook on life.

THE UNHAPPINESS created by maladjusted thinking on sex quite periodically confronts the average college student. A minimum of sound education, on a subject that packs a minimum of "wallop" to one's physical and mental make-up, is probably the prevalent cause. It is understandable, though regrettable that the home is the most often to blame for lack of wholesome understanding by young people of the truth about sex. But it is largely unexcusable that more effort is not made in the school systems, where the educated people are supposed to govern, from grade school to college, to enlarge the scope of mental health possessed by the individual pupil or student. The education usually received by high school and college students, on the problems and solutions of sex, is that sotto voce method of spreading "evil thoughts." The odds are tremendous that a college Freshman will hear a dozen shady ("had") things about sex, and its ramifications, before he (or she) will be told one positive feature of that topic.

SEX IS BASICALLY a personal problem. Each individual must determine for himself what he feels to be the action most consistent with his beliefs, and then mold ideal with practical, physical conditions. So long as he, or she, deals with an equal in mental equilibrium on the subject of sex topics, then there cannot be BASIC criticism from folks who "look down their noses" at such practices. The personal nature of the problem of sex finds students with deep-rooted convictions against any manifestation of physical satisfaction between the sexes, until a marriage ceremony is performed.

COLLEGE STUDENTS have a right to think and talk sex. Ages ranging from seventeen to twenty-three (on the average) do not permit relegation of "sex" to a category of "unmentionables"; nor do they allow the same answer to the questions existent in each student's mind.

ALL OF WHICH goes to say one fundamental thing—that college students are realizing that there is no taboo on understanding of sex relations—and with this realization comes the appreciation of the fact that each student has a chance to find his, or her own solution to what attitude should be taken by that individual on the general problem as well as his, or her, own position in relation thereto. Certainly, this a wholesome situation, and will do much towards development of richer personalities among the younger generation.

Convention Has 36 W. U. Grads

The annual Social Workers' convention was held in Salem May 19-20 at the Harmon Hotel. Of the 370 registered, 36 were Willamette graduates and six students. Of the graduates 30 are in active social work.

The convention covered all social welfare groups.

Editorial . . .

As the last edition of the Collegian is put to bed and gently tucked in with all its worry, trouble, and not to forget the greatest enjoyment a man ever had, it seems that it might be fitting to step down from the lofty lingo of the editorial chair and speak in tones fitting the occasion—one of extreme nostalgia.

Unknown to the student body and perhaps to any non-editor, the task of editing a college newspaper gradually seeps into one's living. For a year the editor is required to reflect the activities of the student body and to keep an eye toward the future and beneficial reforms. He must project his personality into the university life and yet keep his personality IMPERSONAL. The times that the paper has not hit its mark were the times when the editor's personality became too apparent and the paper was in danger of not accurately reflecting the student body.

But poppy cock! The job is done . . . for good or for worse. And it was fun . . . a pleasure that no one can imagine . . . the feeling of the pulse-beats of the student body, the working with the staff, the unintentional disturbing of the powers that be, the wondering and "tongue in the cheek" feeling after certain articles appeared in the paper, a hesitation and "what in the heck" reaction upon the presentation of criticism, the dismal acknowledgement of mistakes . . . and Mechanically the Collegian is evolved under the capable hands of the employees of the Statesman Publishing Company, owned by Governor Sprague. The task is intricate to execute and to follow. It is even more intricate in the case of the Collegian because of the periodic bursts of ambitious and "revolutionistic" editors who take things over every year. The employees are in constant anticipation and consternation for what will come next. They never know . . . neither does the editor.

But they are extremely patient and good natured and

An editor without a paper is worse than a man without a country . . . he can't even talk to himself. Actually, the intermittent appearance of the paper has made it extremely difficult for the editor to perfect his paper. And at the same time the school has suffered. There is only one way to reach the whole student body, and that is through the newspaper. A news-organ gathers momentum, interest and value as it rolls through the school year. If it doesn't roll a lot of other things don't roll.

We must have a newspaper!

Due to the restricted number of publications it is impossible to exhaust all the editorial possibilities. One possibility however, cannot be passed up. We refer to Paul Sturges. Sturges has acted as publicity director for Willamette University for the past four years. He handled the sports end of the task, which is a job in itself, and other university activities. Many "scopes" and successful publicity campaigns were put in the daily press that brought Willamette much notoriety and favorable publicity. The public has been made conscious of Willamette.

A newspaper is made up of its integral parts. This year these parts operated with a smoothness and efficiency that would rival any machine. The number of good writers on the Collegian is phenomenal. They are writers who received their compensation by the pure enjoyment of writing. Seeing lucid and concise thoughts in printed matter has its own peculiar allure. Because of this atmosphere the Collegian was unique and interesting.

It is impossible to review the complete staff and give an appreciation that will fit each one. Work usually goes unrecognized and oftentimes unrewarded, except for personal satisfaction. But to those who carried on the brunt of the attack as editors, in columns, in art work, in contributions, in reporting, and in management goes a profound appreciation. It was a great year.

Coach Keene gave an extreme tribute in chapel Wednesday stating that the Collegian is an excellent newspaper. With a "Charlie McCarthy" complex the Collegian wishes to respond: "Thanks 'Spec,' there's nothing to it. But we sure liked it!"

That Charles A. Sprague, Governor of the State of Oregon and owner of the Oregon Statesman morning newspaper, leads a business-like life, is emphasized in the fact that he

the supreme pleasure of praise and appreciation . . . all make the job tingle with whatever it is that makes life worth living.

And now, while present on the campus as a free unaffiliated student, the once labeled "virtual voice" of the student body can once more proceed calmly to his classes, get his lessons on time, enjoy the roses on the vines, and contently observe the progress of a few forward steps he has helped initiate. In years to come he can also watch Willamette and her student body grow into a great university.

With this little speech, it is one with the show! Strike up the band! Give the cue for the next editor! And the stream of life moves on . . . But we aren't going to drift. No! We are going to paddle like the very dickens!

Thanks . . . goodbye, and good luck.

Following is a fitting contribution from the All-American editor of the Oregon Emerald:

"What have you done?" St. Peter asked, "That I should admit you here?" "I ran the paper," the editor said, "At my college for one long year." St. Peter shook his head in pity, "And gravely touched a bell; 'Come in, poor thing, select a harp, 'You've had your share of hell.'"

Statesman Crew Long-Suffering

silently try to put into fact every vision as it comes. For this there is a thankfulness and an appreciation.

Two points, however, might be emphasized: the Collegian should not always be relegated to the last position of importance on the slate and thus many times appear late; there should be bigger and better quarters for staff workers and, incidentally, chairs that will not fall down when set upon.

Outside of these points the Statesman crew does an admirable job. The Collegian is appreciative. (No cigars, we're broke!)

Buy a Press and Save Money

Why can't the school buy a small press and a linotype and put them in the basement of Eaton Hall? We can print our own newspaper. It is estimated that $3,000 would purchase equipment for a five column tabloid sheet. And we could have a paper twice a week. Not only that but a journalism department could be developed that would be of value to the school.

The present printing costs would be reduced and in a short time the equipment would pay for itself.

This is a good investment that should not be passed up.

Sturges Goes to Greener Fields

A successful publicity director must have a firm interest in the object of his work. He must not only correctly give the news but he must also have a "vision" of a bigger and better Willamette. His responsibility is thus heightened. The career of Sturges is outlined in another article in this paper. We find that he has an interesting past and a promising future. Willamette wishes him the best of luck in the publicity field. And we hope the next director will carry on the job with equal proficiency and interest.

The Staff Makes a Newspaper pays sixty cents a month to have his own newspaper dropped at his door every morning.

As this issue includes a touch of censorship it might be wise to comment on that noble art. . . . It is self-defeating. Where they can't go they want to go. And they usually do. But usually there is nothing after they get there. Take James Joyce's "Ulysses" for example. It was at one time banned by the Supreme Court. It is now banned on the Willamette campus. And it is popular for one reason. . . . It was censored. Otherwise it is a very poor book.

EDITOR-ELECT WANTS ADVERTISING AMENDMENT

Amendment V to the A. S. W. U. By-Laws entitled "Advertising" is designed to meet a crying need on Willamette's campus. It would centralize through the Collegian and the Wallulah managers the solicitation of advertising from the Salem merchants and so increase the income from that source as to enable the publication of more issues of the Collegian next year. This centralization, although seen as dictatorial by the Revision committee, would eliminate conflicts that now occur to the disadvantage of all concerned. In answer to the committee's objection let it be remembered that the managers, who require student cooperation for the successful completion of their work, could not and would not antagonize any group large enough to be deserving. The passage of this amendment is therefore sought in order to aid in securing more money for more papers for the students next year.

"IT'S TIME TO PADDLE"

Six Amendments Cover Current Discussions of Student Affairs

The following amendments represent changes in the constitution in accordance with student opinion. All amendments must appear in the Collegian before they are voted on; they are arranged by a constitutional revision committee consisting of Art Gallon, chairman, Bob Smith, John McNeese and Bruce Williams. The voting will take place Monday.

AN EVALUATION OF AMENDMENTS

By BILL HALL
Six amendments to the A.S.W.U. constitution have been properly filed, reviewed by the constitutional revision committee and posted. They will be voted on by the student body on Monday. In essence there are as follows:

No. I.—An amendment stating that all advertising shall be handled by the consent of and through the two publications.

This amendment was designed with a good purpose in mind, that of centralizing advertising efforts on the campus. But it is not exactly clear in its purpose or result. The centralization is not definite or possible. And it cannot restrict any individual from soliciting advertising as an individual. Another criticism is that too much power is placed in the hands of the managers.

Advertising supports the two publications. Recently revenue from this source has fallen off. But the second largest city in the State can and will support the two publications. Organization will do it. In past years the Collegian received more advertising than it does now. This circumstance can again be brought about by a managerial staff that will "quit shaking their heads and shake a leg" and go out and organize the student body and city.

(The Collegian and the Wallulah ARE the official publications of the student body. What more could be wanted by ad solicitors is not known.)

The amendment will in no way increase the revenue. It will do nothing.

IT SHOULD NOT PASS.

No. II.—An amendment providing that the A.S.W.U. books should be audited by a certified public accountant.

The books are already audited by a certified public accountant, Lester Barr, a C.P.A. employed by the University, and the University books and the A.S.W.U. books at the close of every school year. The report is available in the fall for anyone who wished to see it.

The amendment is a duplication and an oversight by the party who presented it. It should be thrown out.

IT SHOULD NOT PASS.

No. III.—An amendment stating that funds shall not be shifted.

This amendment is not necessary. The constitution already states that no fund shall be manipulated except by consent of the executive council. The proposed amendment differs in the "unanimous" provision. This is too drastic and not necessary.

IT SHOULD NOT PASS.

No. IV.—An amendment arranging the Student Relations Committee within the constitution.

The Student Relations Committee has done nothing. It probably will never do anything. But it will do no harm to arrange it within the constitution.

IT SHOULD PASS.

No. V.—An amendment rearranging the distribution of the student fee apportionments: 34% of the General fund and 1% of the Wallulah fund shall be placed in a Dramatics fund.

The amendment does not increase the men's intramural fund but does establish a dramatics fund. Both the General and Wallulah funds should be able to stand the cut. Dramatics will benefit the school and students.

Eventually the Wallulah should be "optional" to the students.

IT SHOULD PASS.

No. VI.—An amendment prohibiting the use of A.S.W.U. funds for permanent improvements on the athletic plant.

The A.S.W.U. has already purchased two tennis courts which are now being paid for. The student body is unable if these obligations are not met. The amendment will only affect any possible future improvements.

IT SHOULD PASS.

Pres-Elect Has Executive Talents Says Palmist Mrs. Sparks

By HERMIE PALMER

Good health, high principles, a splendid mentality. What more could Willamette ask of its student body president-elect than this combination of characteristics, which Dayton Robertson's palm revealed to Mrs. Sparks Tuesday evening?

"You have a practical, successful hand," she said, "the kind of a doer. You make many plans, but don't stop there; you carry them through. The lines show executive ability too, and a power of concentration."

Our palmist believes that next year's prexy has an unusual capacity for leadership, which can be seen in his serious-mindedness, self-assurance, and philosophical nature.

"The finger of Saturn says you sometimes get the blues," she warned him, "and quite unnecessarily, too."

When she began to delve into his love life, Dayton looked worried.

"Your course of true love doesn't run smooth," Mrs. Sparks revealed. "Two times your heart is deeply involved—but finally I see the cross of a happy marriage." As the young man sighed with relief, she also pointed to the lines which show him to be a loyal, affectionate friend of both boys and girls, to be interested in all people and adaptable to many different situations.

Money Jingles

"How about money?" asked Dayton, who, although he is half Scotch, is generous and is ruled by his heart rather than his head.

"Everyone asks that," Mrs. Sparks said laughingly. "Well, you'll have enough to jingle. In fact, your palm tells me that you are a very fortunate boy. With a strong career line, a vivid imagination, the marks of travel, and two different artistic talents, you should have a useful, successful life."

Opinions Given On Law School Withdrawal from Student Body

Law School vs. Liberal Arts students is the set-up in regard to the payment of student body fees. Action on the part of the law students has taken the form of a petition to be presented to the board of trustees, requesting that they be freed from the obligation to pay the $20.00 a year student body fees. The payment of this $20.00 is at present compulsory for all Willamette students. The proposal would allow the law school students to pay their $20.00 each year into the law school, to be used in securing additional volumes for their library and to make other improvements in the law school.

George Self, who presented the arguments for the change, said "The standardization we have now, which is from the American Bar association, is not complete. Improvements could lead to standardization by the American Association of Law Schools. The requirements for this are higher, and this further standardization is needed to make our grades transferable to other schools and to allow us to do graduate work." The students feel that they are at present paying $20.00 a year from which they are getting no returns.

Lockenour Has Solution

While the opinions among the law students are practically 100% for the change, there are some opposition arguments. Returns could be realized from the student body fees if the law school students were willing to take part in the opportunities offered. The Collegian and the Wallulah are for them as much as for any liberal arts student. There are chapel programs and other activities which would be valuable to them if they did participate.

Dean Roy M. Lockenour, when questioned about his opinions, had a different solution for the whole matter. He felt that the payment of student body fees should simply be made optional to law students, and that, incidentally, the amount of the fee paid by all students might be increased.

Baxter Must Back Building Huntley Says - - and Explains

THE Boys with Brains around the campus are getting it all figured out; they tell us we're going to have a Memorial Union that will be equalled only by the Taj Mahal. That's great. We are really enthused. The Freshman Prexy, who seems to be one of the financial wisest behind the structure, tells us it will have ping-pong tables and other nice things. Now there is only one little trifle that is bothering the Boys—it takes money to build the blasted building. Aforementioned Prexy also hastened to add that the Union is to be built with union labor—if Prexy has his way they'll probably wear union suits, too.

But our debile mind has conjured up a method for raising the money—perhaps not original, but it should offer light to the Boys with the Brains who are searching for such solution. Why not have a naughty word tax on all Willamette students? Every time a profane word is used—bingo! tax the cad. There should be a minimum, of say, 53 cents per every un-Websterian adjective. Certainly, under this system, the building could be started almost immediately. It funds should lag a bit, mention the raise in tuition next year and collect on the ensuing cadenzos of curses. Just to show that we're willing to back the Union: Oh, damn!

SERIOUSLY, though, the whole thing lies right here: Whether or not Prez Baxter will back it. We like to think we are big grown up people who run our student body the way we want. We may bustle about frowning seriously with plans and blueprints building from each pocket—still we have little to say. We are a kind of glorified kindergarten—a place where our elders let us play big politics and finance all we want while they politely chuckle up their right sleeve. We can play our little games—but we mustn't throw spit-wads. Witness: the national advertising deal (cigarette ads). Our know-betters considered that to be a throwing spit-wad. We weren't spanked, but oh how they scowled!

It's up to our school marm, Baxter. And he, in turn, is subordinated by the Board of Trustees—the big guns who control our little kindergarten. Meanwhile, we can continue to frown and play Ring Around the Union. The decision, though, lies with our elders.

Last June, Southern Blue-companied Ed Embree, president of the Rosewald fund, said in a commencement cast at the U. of Georgia that there should be a triple ideal in education: the educated man should be a scholar, a gentleman, and a judge of good whiskey. It appears we are missing about a third of our education at Willamette.

Seabeck Week Sponsored Locally By Y-W and Y-M

Spend seven glorious days on the beautiful Puget Sound at Seabeck, Wash. Every day is filled with stimulating discussions led by such leaders as Douglas Steere, of Haverford college; Miss Hilary Nowitt, English author; John Casteel, of the University of Oregon; and our own Prof. Thompson. This isn't primarily a religious conference, but it is one which challenges student thinking. Seabeck offers an excellent opportunity for students to broaden their horizons through an exchange of ideas with leaders and other students. Ask any old Seabecker and see what they say! This week, May 22 to 26, has been set aside as Seabeck week by the Willamette Y.M.C.A. and Y.W.C.A. You will see posters and be personally contacted.

Seabeck is an experience no one should miss. College students all over the northwest come and exchange problems and play together. Do you like to go swimming, boating, fishing, hiking and play tennis, volleyball, indoor baseball, golf and ping pong? Or maybe you enjoy sitting around a camp fire at night and singing. Seabeck offers all of these opportunities so keep your eyes and your ears open this week and learn about it.

The men's quartet, composed of Watson Dutton, Irvine Potter, Mark Waitz and Ray Drakely; and the women's trio—Carol Reid, Helen Dean, and Irene Bliss—were especially featured on the programs. Different members of the group were also presented as soloists in the various concerts. Included in the trip were visits to the Grand Coulee dam and to the candy factory at Wenatchee, Washington, so that the trip proved both educational and recreational. The excellent performance of the choir made a fine showing for Willamette. Many alumni and friends were helpful in making arrangements for lodgings and other details of the trip in their particular locality. Accompanying the group of students were Dean Cameron Marshall and Miss Helen MacHirron of the school of music.

Sororities Hold Spring Dances at Many Settings

On Saturday, May 13, Willamette students still had time to think of dancing and entertainment. Exams were still gratifyingly in the future. On that evening the three sororities held their annual spring dances.

The Beta Chis were hostesses for a semi-formal dance in the Mirror room of Hotel Marion. The decorative motif was furnished with spring flowers, and the programs were green and gold. Patrons and patronesses were Mrs. Charles McCarger, Professor and Mrs. L. J. Sparger, and Professor and Mrs. Franklin Thompson.

The Alpha Phi Alpha's motored out to a bit of Holland at Hazelgreen where the windmills sturred up a gentle breeze, the tulips blooming in the window boxes, and Dutch shoes clattered on the mantle. Miss Betty Williams was in charge of the dance. She was assisted by Miss Jere Simmons and Miss Gayle Denison. Special guests were Mrs. W. E. Kirk, Dr. and Mrs. Lovell, and Professor and Mrs. W. Jones.

The Delta Pils entertained informally with a tennis court dance on the Bush court. Miss Jessie Wood, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Keene, and Mr. and Mrs. Walter H. Smith were chaperones for the occasion. Arrangements were made by Miss Jane Charboneau, Miss Eleanor Sherman, and Miss Dolores Netz.

By Joe Van Winkle

This week marks the end of a successful season in all athletic events for Willamette university. With the varsity track team competing in the Northwest Conference meet at Walla Walla and the undefeated golf squad playing their final match with Pacific at Forest Grove. The past week saw Willamette's tennis teams conquer the best competition that the Northwest Conference could offer to win three out of four championship matches. Willamette's baseball team, although not faring quite so well, found some consolation in the final game of the season, shutting out the Whitman Missionaries, who won the conference crown by defeating Willamette in the first two games of the series.

GILMORE BLASTS OPPONENTS

In the most convincing style in the tennis tournament held at McMinnville on the Linfield courts last Saturday, Bud Gilmore, representing Willamette easily won the Northwest Conference singles crown for the second straight year. Bud is only a sophomore and will have the opportunity to win the crown two more times before his eligibility expires. Barbara Kurtz and Ruth Yokum after losing several matches during the season pulled a surprise to annex the conference women's doubles crown. Although their championship match was rained out on Saturday and they lost their first set 6-1, George Gutekunst and Don Dillingham also added a crown to Willamette's list of wins when they defeated Linfield's team Monday after rallying to win the final two matches.

McABEE HURLS SHUTOUT

Young Harold McAbee afforded the Bearcat baseball nine some consolation in the third game of the Whitman championship series when he shut out the Missionaries 4-0 behind the nine hit attack of his mates. This was McAbee's third win against no losses for the season which is a pretty fair record for a rooky fresh out of high school and with no varsity experience. McAbee depends mostly on his control, which was nearly perfect in the Whitman game, and a good curve ball. When on the mound he illustrates a perfect example of supreme confidence.

A word of praise in passing should also be given to Whitman's Carl Schneidmiller, who shut out the Bearcats 6-0 in the deciding game of the series. Schneidmiller is an all-around athlete, being also placed on the all-conference football team. He finished his college athletic career by pitching the win which gave the Missions the conference championship.

TRACK TEAM IMPROVES

Under the mentorship of Howard Maple the Willamette track team, composed mostly of first year men, has shown immense improvement as the season has rolled along. Against Linfield last Saturday although they were defeated by a big margin, the Bearcat cindermen garnered several places which were not expected of them. Bob Ewing raced around the track to garner his first win of the season in the mile; then returned to also take a third place in the strenuous two mile race. George Olseth besides finishing second in the mile showed a much improved sprint finish which garnered him a first place in the two mile race by a margin of over 75 yards. Bob Grannis also showed promise for a chance in the conference meet as he pounded through with a win in the 880 dash. The above three Freshmen boys have worked strenuously all season and deserve credit that is justly due to them.

Others who have shown outstanding ability on the track squad this year are Ken Lilly, Norman Hoganson, Rex Putnam, Lancer Robertson, and George McGlynn.

WILLAMETTE SOFTBALL CHAMP

Two Willamette teams tied in the intramural softball league for the leadership represented Willamette at the Reed College sports carnival in Portland last Saturday. In the semi-final games the Alpha Psi Delta team, defending champions, smothered Albany College by a score of 21-0. The Kimball Hall Brethern met last year's runner-up, Oregon Normal, although they played a very good team, easily won by a margin of seven or eight runs. The two Willamette representatives were rained out in the finals and played the championship game Tuesday. The Brethern won the championship 8-5, thus chalking up another crown for Willamette.

Climaxing a brilliant season, Willamette's varsity racquetmen blasted their way to the 1939 Northwest Conference tennis championship by seizing victory in both singles and doubles events in the tournament matches held on the McMinnville courts Saturday and Monday. The Bearcat women's doubles team, composed of Kurtz and Yokum, made Willamette's conquest even more impressive by capturing the title in their division.

Gutekunst, Dillingham Win
Rangy Bud Gilmore, most versatile of the Sparks tutored squad, successfully defended the singles crown he annexed last year as he scored wins in straight sets over the Whitman and College of Idaho representatives and downed Milt Robbins of Linfield, 9-7, 6-1, in the finals.

George Gutekunst and Don Dillingham, doubles duo, who had drawn a bye in the first round of play, grabbed an easy victory over their semi-final opponents. Barrett and Hite from College of Puget Sound. Halted by rain, Saturday, the Willamette pair defeated Linfield's Beall and Breeding, last year's doubles kings, when play was resumed Monday. After dropping the initial set, 1-6, the Bearcats took the remaining two, 6-3, 6-1.

Reed Match Called
Barbara Kurtz and Ruth Yokum defeated Kaufman and Bender of Pacific University, 5-7, 6-4, 6-2, to take the women's doubles. In the women's singles division, June Brasted, Willamette entry, bowed out of the race as she was eliminated by Linfield's Rattey, 6-1, 7-5.

A match, scheduled for Tuesday with Reed college, was called off cancelling a chance for Bud Gilmore to even a score with Reed's Maccoby who gave the Bearcat his only defeat in the northwest collegiate play this year.

The Bearcats won three out of four possible chances in tournament play.

Captain Shinn

Captain Lee Shinn from Baker, Oregon, was one of the bullwarks on this year's Bearcat baseball nine. Shinn played second base and was captain of this year's team. Last year he made the All-Northwest Conference nine, and his hitting this year and excellent fielding should once again afford him a similar honor.

(Ed. Note: Esther was sore because this wasn't printed two weeks ago. Here it is now!)

This can't go on forever! First Pacific takes the tennis team 6-1, and now Linfield trounced it 6-1 it wouldn't be so bad if the girls really lost their points, but when they just give the other team the score, that is bad, very bad!

E. Rattey defeated R. Yokum 6-0, 6-1.

M. Ralph defeated B. Kurtz 6-2, 6-2.

M. Milligan defeated J. Brasted 6-0, 6-1.

M. Henderson defeated E. Vehrs 6-3, 9-7.

L. Gaines defeated R. Detweiler 6-0, 6-1.

Milligan and Ralph defeated Yokum and Kurtz 7-5, 6-4.

Brasted and Vehrs defeated Rattey and Henderson 6-4, 6-4.

Right now the gym is ringing with tap dancing, whirling dervishes, may poles, swaying flowers and day and night suddenly taking on human form. After all these hours of practice, the many sore muscles, and the rushing around to find costumes, it will take but a few short moments to present this program. To those who are taking part, good luck. At least you realize it took real work to make a success of the numbers.

Brethern Win State Softball Crown, Take Lead in Playoffs

The Kimball Hall Brethern took a safe lead in the Intramural Softball league play-offs this week with wins over the Alpha Psi A team, 8-5, and the Fish Chokers, 6-3. Besides counting in the playoffs as a win the 8-5 win over the Alphas gave the Brethern the State Collegiate Softball Championship, a title which was held last year by the Alpha Pisis. George McGlynn pitched the championship game for the Brethern.

The Fish Chokers won the right to enter in the playoffs when they broke the tie for fourth place by trouncing the Sigs by a lopsided score. The Chokers then went on to humble the Cellar Stellers, who were in third place and, gained the right to play the Brethern.

The Alpha Psi A team dropped the Cellar Stellers from the playoff series Wednesday afternoon by swamping them by a score somewhere close to 15-3 and bounced back with the win to a chance for the championship in the double elimination tournament.

The Alpha Psi A softballers must now play the Fish Chokers, and the winner of that game plays the Brethern for the title. Should the once defeated team down the Brethern; then, still another game would be necessary to decide the championship. The tournament is not complete until every team except the champions has been defeated twice.

Whitman Wins Baseball Championship

McAbee Hurls 4-0 Shutout Win in Final Game of Championship Series

The Whitman Missionaries took the Northwest Conference baseball crown in the championship series with Willamette in Walla Walla last Friday and Saturday when they downed the Bearcats 6-2 and 6-0 in the first two games. Greer and Schneidmiller hurred the wins for the Whitman championship nine.

The game which was to have been played Thursday was rained out. In the Friday contest Chuck Greer, ace of the Whitman mound staff, bested Bob White in a pitching duel 6-2. White pitching behind the two run lead garnered by Willamette in the opening frames shut out the Missions until the seventh inning when three walks, several errors, and a few hits let in six runs.

From the opening frame in the first game until the third game of the series the Bearcats were shutout. Carl Schneidmiller let them down with no runs in the deciding game of the series winning 6-0 over Bill Anton.

With the pressure off in the third game, which was played Saturday, Willamette came back behind the shutout pitching of young Hal McAbee to win 4-0.

Whitman was defending champion in the conference and won the right to play in the championship series by beating the College of Idaho Coyotes in 9 out of a 12-game series.
