

'Spirit' Draws Curtain Tomorrow at 8

Four leads in tomorrow night's production of "Blithe Spirit" are Addyse Lane, Joyce McCracken, Margaret Allen and Archie Schultz.

Farce Offers Fun, Mystery At Salem High

Curtain-time for the Willamette university players' first production of the year will be at 8 p.m. tomorrow night at the Salem high auditorium, when the players present a combination of laughs, an intriguing plot, and a walking, trouble-making spirit in the Noel Coward play, "Blithe Spirit."

The Noel Coward farce centers about an English novelist, Charles Condomine, and his wife Ruth, who have invited a medium to their home in order that Charles might learn occult for his next novel. Difficulty arises when his first wife, Elvira, dead for seven years, appears from the spirit world to win back Charles. Elvira, unseen to all except Charles, plots for his death, but her plans backfire resulting in the hilarious conclusion.

Cast as the novelist Condomine is Archie Schultz, with Margaret Allen as his second wife, Ruth. The "blithe spirit," Elvira, is played by Joyce McCracken, while the eccentric medium, Madame Arcati, is portrayed by Addyse Lane. Dr. and Mrs. Bradman, dinner guests of the Condomines, are Joe Power and Velma Davis while Barbara Trappe is cast in the role of Edith, the maid.

Featuring furniture from Elfstrom's modern department, the sets, designed by Jim Elliott, have been constructed by Carl Ritchie and Joe Power in the attic of Waller hall.

Behind the scene staff, directed by drama manager Janie Mathers and assistant Vickie Jones, include Vinita Howard, publicity; Margaret Austin, tickets; Betty Zo Allen, properties; Virginia Hobbs and Margaret Stone, costumes; Virginia Atkinson, make-up; Pat Miller and Barbara Crawford, sound effects. Lighting is directed also by Carl Ritchie and Joe Power, and members of Beta Alpha Gamma, sophomore women's honorary, will usher.

A limited number of tickets are still being sold in the state house and at the high school yesterday and today. The faculty is urged to pick up their tickets in a block section today or these reserved seats will be sold to the general public at Needham's tomorrow.

Faculty Won't Ignore Cribbing, Corrects Riggs

In order to clarify a story which appeared in last week's Collegian, concerning cribbing, the administration has pointed out that the faculty will definitely take action when cheating instances occur in classes.

Members of the faculty have been requested to report all such infractions to the disciplinary committee, headed by Pres. G. Herbert Smith, which will act upon individual cases.

Students are urged by Dean Lawrence A. Riggs, to feel free to report cases of cribbing to the administration and it is hoped that eventually student pressure will curb the amount of cheating. But, it should be made clear, says Riggs, that at the present time there is no honor system and that cases of cheating are handled by the disciplinary committee.

Conferences Due

All women who have not yet had conferences with Dean Olive M. Dahl this semester, are requested to contact her today between 10 and 12 or 2:30 and 5. Last day of conferences for women this term, it is important that the conferences be concluded.

W Club Queen Quest Underway 22 Frosh Coeds In Race

Search for the Varsity Queen to reign over the Letterman's Ball on February 28 began yesterday when the names of 22 freshmen coed candidates were submitted at a special meeting of the W club.

General committee in charge of yesterday's selection of contestants was under the supervision of Cecil Johnson, Marv Goodman, Bill Reder, Hank Ercolini, Con Pavlock and Bob Donovan. Elimination and final decision for the freshman queen and her court will rest in the hands of the entire W club.

Names of coed-queen aspirants are being withheld for publication until the next meeting, Thursday, January 30, when the group of 22 entries will be narrowed to ten. At this time the 22 women will be presented to W club members who will select ten.

At a future Tuesday chapel, in February, the chosen ten will be introduced to the student body. Following this presentation, the lettermen will then take final action and choose the five coeds who will form the newly inaugurated Varsity Queen's court.

Two days before the ball, a ballot vote will be conducted by the club on the final five contestants to determine who will reign as queen. Candidate with the largest number of votes will be queen and the other four princesses.

Result of the final voting will not be known until the Varsity Queen is presented at the ball, Saturday, February 28.

Tentative decoration arrangements were also discussed at the meeting yesterday. Theme of the dance will concentrate on sports.

OFCL Planning Meet

Four students and one yet to be appointed will represent Willamette at the Oregon Federation of Collegiate Leaders, which will be held on the campus of the University of Portland, February 7 and 8.

Those who will attend the conference are Harold Malde, who is president of OFCL, Nancy Stuart, Don Douris and Travis Cross. The delegates will register Thursday night and the discussion sessions will begin the next morning.

Officers of OFCL met January 12 at Linfield college to map out general discussion topics which will be discussed by small groups of the attending representatives.

Friday the discussions will be concerned with intercollegiate athletic relations, relation of campus leaders to administrative council, student publications and campus clubs and honoraries. Friday evening Chief Justice George Rossman, of the Oregon Supreme court, will speak at a banquet given for the delegates. His speech will deal with a phase of government. The banquet will be followed by a basketball game and a mixer.

Saturday, the last day of the conference, the entire delegation will meet in the morning to discuss constitutional revisions and to decide upon a topic for discussion in view of results of discussions on Friday and Rossman's speech. Other topic for discussion will deal with the relation of a campus to a community.

Saturday afternoon the last general meeting will be held, at which time revisions to the constitution will be adopted, officers for next year will be elected and a host school for the next convention will be selected.

Snow Victim Still Confined

Clayton Patterson, Bearcat baseball pitcher who broke his pitching arm throwing a snowball on the campus last week, is still confined to the Salem General hospital his mother said last night.

The accident last week, second of its kind within a year, will definitely prevent Patterson from pitching for WU this year, and may put an end to the promising pitcher's baseball career, his mother stated.

The question mark in this picture will be erased when members of the W-club make known their selection of the Varsity Queen who will rule over the annual Varsity Ball on February 28. Two lettermen taking measurements are Paul Cookingham and Ollie Williams.

Schedule Lists New Courses; Registration Starts Wednesday

Registration for spring semester will begin Tuesday, January 28 when students are to obtain registration booklets at the registrar's office between 1 and 4 p.m.

Wednesday, Thursday and Friday students will secure the signatures of professors in whose classes they are enrolling.

Students who wish to enroll for spring semester classes with their present professors will secure the necessary signatures during the hour they are now in the class of that professor.

Dean Riggs emphasized that signatures of professors with whom students are now enrolled will be obtained only during that professor's regular office hours.

The signatures of Dean Riggs and Dean Dahl are to be secured January 30 and 31 between 1 and 4 p.m., and February 1 from 9 to 11:30 a.m.

Students who are unable to complete their registration by 4 p.m. Friday, January 31 must complete their registration on the regular registration day, February 10, Riggs explained.

When all registration forms are completed students may obtain fee slips and veterans clearance forms from the registrar's office Saturday morning, February 1, from 9 to 11:30 a.m.

The sociology department is adding three courses at the new semester, cultural development of the Pacific Northwest, penology and applied sociology.

Cribbing - Worthwhile?

Cribbing is evidently rampant at WU. We haven't observed a great deal but the students who protested to Dean Riggs must have had good reason to do so.

These students probably weren't merely being self-righteous. It isn't difficult to see why they would consider cribbing as unfair competition. Honest study can't very well compete with open books at examinations.

Students who bring only their memory and a blank piece of paper to an exam are sure to suffer from the distorted grade curve that results from widespread cribbing. To make the curve come out right either all should crib or none should crib.

In addition to making it tough for the rest of the student body we wonder if the "pony artists" are doing themselves any good. A student who slides through classes on the strength of open books and ponies doesn't have much to show for his time. He won't work enough to become interested so he is bored with the course. He won't study so he gains almost nothing from time spent in class.

Life is too short for even a small part of it to be spent in boredom. Life is also too short to be spent in activities that give the participant no reward to speak of. It is possible that a student who finds it necessary or desirable to crib at exams would lead a happier and more productive life in activities other than college.

BEEFS and BOUQUETS

Dear Editor:

What will the student body do now that the faculty has given them the responsibility of maintaining honesty during examinations?

The apparent increase in cribbing, caused by many weak willed students following the lead of the more daring, has caused many injustices. One, which many students have noted and complained of, is that honest students with majors in certain fields are compelled to compete against students having no special interest in a given subject and using open books during the examination period.

It seems to me that there are two solutions to this problem. To either follow the example of the U.S. Military Academy and have a complete honor system, with violation meaning instant dismissal or have the student government appoint disinterested students of the various service groups to thoroughly police the examination rooms with dismissal also resulting for dishonest practices.

Whatever steps the student government takes have to be immediate as semester finals are coming up in two weeks.

Member of A.S.W.U.

Ed. Note: These are good suggestions. However, although a Collegian error gave the impression that the faculty was to take no action in the cribbing situation, that is not the case. Dean Riggs has stated that the faculty will take action. See story, page 1.

Curbstone Men Restore Oldsters Faith

Dear Sirs:

While passing through Salem, Oregon one day I chanced to stroll past Willamette university, "The Oldest in the West." Progress was difficult because there seemed to be a great number of youths clustered in small knots along the block. I later discovered that this was an institution known locally as the "Curbstone club."

My attention was arrested by one group of these youths. I surmised they were athletes because of the informality of their dress. They seemed to prefer T shirts, red sweaters, and their trousers were conspicuously unpressed. Another clue was that their beards were heavier and one or two days longer than those of the other students on the walk.

One thick-necked youngster of perhaps 27 was saying, "Well, if he made two points in the first game and two points in the second game he's made four points."

His companion, a husky lad and probably also an athlete, looked doubtful and fumbled in the bib of his overalls for a pencil to use in checking those figures.

I passed on and heard a fuzzy cheeked youngster, I gathered that he had just come from a class in religion, whine, "Well, gee, if what the prof says is true, then I don't know what to believe."

His listener, a young man in a necktie, nodded a grave, understanding, silent affirmative.

The next group appeared to be arguing vociferously. Their eyes were shining and their cigarettes glowed hot as they talked.

"You've got to admit that free enterprise and competition have done—," one of them started to say.

"Well maybe, but how about—," another interrupted.

"I don't see how you can say that when—," another broke in.

"Watch it fellas, here comes a lawyer," someone said.

They all suddenly stopped talking and observed a moment of respectful silence as a law student strode by drawing on a burnished briar and engrossed in private reflections.

I passed out of earshot of the group discussing economics and I was thankful that the nations youth is exhibiting such tolerance toward the free exchange of ideas.

I walked on toward the law school and passed a youth standing alone. He was quietly whittling a chew from a plug he had taken from the hip pocket of his army fatigues. I recognized him as the class of

'45 from a small town just outside of Scio, Oregon.

"Good morning," I said.

"Howdy," he replied.

By this time I was abreast of the Law school. I noted a more serious mien in this group. All wore neckties and many mellow pipes were in evidence. They talked in subdued tones too low for me to overhear. But their near-professional standing was obvious from the restrained and refined manner in which they ogled the limbs of the passing undergraduate girls.

Then a far off bell rang and a rain of cigarette butts landed in or near the gutter as the groups disbanded to re-enter the old red buildings.

Then nothing remained but a haze of cigarette smoke and a series of sound waves in the atmosphere, inaudible now, but nevertheless carrying the words of these quest-searching young minds through eternity.

I hope you won't think me a fuddy duddy but I feel compelled to write this letter of thanks to the scholars of Willamette university. No longer am I among the oldsters who feel that the rising generation is a lost generation. The "Curbstone club" has revealed to me the deep-searching, honest, and intelligent qualities of present generation American youth. I now have unbounded faith in the future, thanks to the revelations of the "Curbstone club."

Yours truly,

Clarence Clatterbucket,
Sweet Home, Ore.

Introducing

Yipes! what a situation to get oneself into . . . imagine having two wives. That's bigamy or something, but guess they can't prove anything as long as one of the wives is dead. Ah ha, but that's where the trouble begins for Archie Schultz, who has the male lead in tomorrow night's production of Noel Coward's "Blithe Spirit." The fellow plays the part of a well-to-do successful author who becomes involved with too many wives and later too many spirits of the human variety, that is. Well, anyway, the situation proves to be most intriguing, especially when both of the wives are as good looking as the one's he's managed to become entangled with.

Earlier this week, things were in a most confused mess. Everyone running about in a very excited state. Seems Archie caught the flu bug and got himself laid up in bed for a couple of days. Oh well, that excitement over, Wednesday afternoon Joyce McCracken decided she had the mumps . . . as the paper goes to press, that condition has not been verified.

Mr. Schultz has other talents, however. He managed to take time off now and then to shoot a three handicap. In fact, golf's an obsession with him, as he believes, it gets to be with most people. Anyway, his main ambition is to play the leading role on the local golf links some day.

Archie is a junior and majoring in speech, in which field he hopes to continue his teaching after graduation. He's already got quite a background behind him, having taught for three years in various elementary schools of the middlewest. During the war he saw service in Africa and Italy as a platoon leader.

Back to school again. Archie seems to be keeping himself pretty well occupied, in fact he just can't understand "how a person in his right mind could let himself get into a thing like a play. Oh well, he's probably happier this way.

"An' to think it all began with me cribbin' in an English Exam."

- Sweepings from the Cavern -

Boy, what a busy week . . . everyone tearing around like mad. Bill Hanauka rushing about counting tickets for the Whip Whitman Banquet hoping he can get some money for them. We hope so too. Good dinner and all that sort of thing. And did you notice all the good looking women that the football and basketball players have for wives?

Cleanest man on the campus, and he cleans everything, is an apt title for Stu Compton. Seems he loaned his convertible to Beta brothers Mark Hatfield and Prexy Fedje for the Triad dance. Well, Stu got his car back but he's still cleaning it out and trying to imagine what happened to it. He's got all sorts of imaginable junk in the back, including dried flowers, bobby pins, shoes and even the Beta flag. Certainly leaves one wondering doesn't it?

Hubba Hubba Hubba . . . don't miss Edie Fairham's singing at the Sophomore-Junior party tonight. She's going to warble with Glen Williams and his band just like she did in Chapel the other Tuesday. Ah yes, the band's gonna give out with some mighty smooth rhythm for your dancing pleasure. And don't worry about getting a partner . . . Pat Miller's got some nifty idea about a date bureau going around in her head.

"Double or Nothing?" If you care for some unprintable ideas on the sixty-four dollar question in reverse, why not ask Warren James? Warren, ex-gob, received his terminal leave pay to the tune of some $350.00 in bonds, and the balance in a check for $46.00. No one except Warren knows in how many ways this check was spent enroute to the bank, but the whole town heard the explosion when Mr. J. discovered his error. As the cashier pointed out, the check read not $46.00 but $00.46.

Some people "plant" pins and some people get "pinned" and then there are those who get "pinched." Uh-uh that's not what we mean. But, have you seen the pin that Louis Bonney hung on Joan Roddy? . . . Police Inspector's Badge and does it ever show up fine on her cashmere.

Glee Experiences Recalled

Shelton's Shinanigans, Quillin's Quandary Fair Warning to Yocom

Don Yocom's streaks across campus in his already demanding post as Freshman Glee manager are watched laconically by two oldtimers, Reid Shelton and Jerry Quillin, who also served in their day.

Reid's tales of his experiences in 1943 bring a glint to his eye—the frosh had a swimming good time that year. Not to give Bill Reeder any ideas, tradition was that the manager should be thrown in the Mill stream before Glee, as well as swimming with his class, if necessary. It was; Reid recalls laying flat on the football field surrounded by his class while the big bad men stormed him and rolled him into the creek.

The big difficulty confronting Reid was shortages caused by the war. Decorations were scarce because the paper mill was hoarding paper in fear of a stampede. The financial situation was critical because no one knew how much money should be spent and still be patriotic. Reid veered between despair and exultation.

One of the most despairing moments concerned the programs. For two days Virginia

Hobbs, also back in school, and her committee, pasted yellow hair on the 2,000 novelty programs, only to find that the printer could have done it in half an hour, if informed.

Quillin, manager of the '46 song competition, blames his receding hairline on Glee alone. Besides the poser of putting Glee on its feet, he was racing the stork for time. An alternate was selected to speak for him the night of the event in case Mrs. Quillin scheduled the blessed event for that night. Instead Sheryl Lynn made her entrance the night before finals a week later.

Last year the new platform was constructed, due in large part to Jerry's efforts. Opinion was divided as to whether the old platform should be repaired or a new one purchased. With the united support of the freshman class the platform was set up a week before the fatal night, and the audience was spared "ooing" over creaking boards and sagging steps.

Both men agreed that being Glee manager was a task that called for a politician, an organizer, and a dynamo, resulting in a sleepwalker. However the experience was too crammed with laughs and good times for either of them to regret being BMOC for a packed two months.

Mumps, Colds, Appendicitis Strike Campus

Mumps, appendicitis and throat infections head the list of ills of Willamette students this week and university nurse, Minnie Mortimer, reports that probably more cases of mumps will break out soon.

So far, cases of mumps have been limited to the Chi Omega house with Joan Thomas and Jeanne Robinson still confined to the infirmary and Mary Libby, just returned from the infirmary. It is expected by Mrs. Mortimer that perhaps more of the women who have not yet had the mumps or who have had them on one side only will come down with them.

Chuck Patterson, Bearcat football player, was taken to the hospital yesterday morning to undergo an appendicitis operation.

$ Sheckle Snatch $

Sheckle-snatchers know this is the slack season in the number of part-time jobs listed by Dr. Lawrence A. Riggs, dean of students. However, slack season is lucky for the male who applies for the campus job of selling men's slacks on a commission to male Bearcats, or even coeds who like that tailored look.

Riggs also reports he is still looking for a secretary for his office, so veteran's wives should look to their typing laurels and apply.

Chambers Talk Attracts 250

Between 250 and 300 people attended the lecture which was given by Dr. O. R. Chambers on January 16 in connection with the series being presented by the Salem Council of Social Agencies and Willamette university. The large audience necessitated the transfer of the series from the Music hall to Waller hall.

Chambers returned to the campus last night for his second lecture of the series. Chambers, who is head of the psychology department at Oregon State college, spoke on the subject, "Marriage and Your Work."

Dr. Lester Beck, a professor of psychology at the University of Oregon, will speak on January 30 on "Your Emotions in Marriage."

Sigma Delta Pi Initiation Set For Sunday

Beta Zeta chapter of Sigma Delta Pi, national Spanish honorary, will have its formal initiation on the Willamette campus Sunday at 4 o'clock at the Alpha Chi Omega house.

Prof. L. O. Wright, of the University of Oregon and former national president of the honorary, will present the charter to the group.

Members to be initiated are Claire Zink, Frances Sopp, Dale Jones, Janet Rogers, Vera Jack and Pat Holtz. Prof. Paul B. Beal will be initiated as an honorary member.

Dr. William D. Moellering, professor of modern and classical languages at Willamette, who is national first vice-president of the honorary and largely responsible for its being brought to Willamette, will be present at the occasion.

Graves Issues Fee Reminder

Dan Graves, head librarian, announced today that the university's policy of withholding grades from students who have not paid their library fines or who have in their possession books long overdue would be continued.

All fines must be paid and adjustments must be made for the books that students have lost or destroyed before the Registrar's office will furnish students with a record of semester grades, further stated Graves.

In the near future two lists will be posted, one in the library and one on the bulletin board in Eaton hall with the names of those students who fall under either of the two categories.

Chapel Slates Two Sculptors

Two Oregon sculptors and the governor's committee of the legislature have been slated by Pres. G. Herbert Smith for Thursday's chapel.

The sculptors, Proctor and son, have made several well-known statues in Oregon and will soon start work on statues of Jason Lee and Dr. John McLoughlin which will be placed in the Hall of Fame in Washington, D. C.

University Workshop Presents Color Symphony Monday Eve

First production of the year, "Symphony in Color", to be offered by the University workshop will be presented Monday night at 8 p.m. in the Salem high auditorium.

In the program, which will combine ballet, music and lighting effects, are two Willamette students, who will do lighting effects for the third portion of the program, and the A Capella choir will take part in the second portion of the "Symphony in Color."

The first section of the program will come from Portland and will be produced by Norman Martin, and the Ballet House of Portland. The ballet group will feature numbers arranged by Maria and Donald Dare and the climax, after a presentation of colorful Spanish and Russian dances will be excerpts from "The Clock", by Haydn. This group will also feature "Chinese Devil-Dance", by Repper, Chopin's Mazurka from "Les Sylphides", and excerpts from "La Nuit Ensorcelee."

The A Capella choir, under the direction of Dean Melvin H. Geist, will sing "In the Merry Spring", by Ravenscroft, "Just

As the Tide Was Flowing", by Vaughan Williams, "Waltzing Matilda", by Cowan, "Old Folks At Home", by Stephen Foster, and the American ballad, "Old Man River."

Joe Power and Carl Ritchie, both freshmen at Willamette, will produce the third portion of the program, which will combine pillars, staircases, platforms and ever-changing patterns of light to produce the symphony in color. The finale will employ the ballet ensemble, with the lighting effects evolving about the "Fifth Symphony of Sibelius."

Tickets are on sale in the student body office for 11 cents plus student body card and will be sold at the door Monday night.

Classes Cavort Tonight As Students Give Parties

Getting into a pre-gee spirit, four classes will hold class parties this evening.

The freshman class, under the leadership of chairman Betty Dahlberg, will hold their party at the Labor Temple from 8:30 until 11:30. Theme for the affair will be Exam Week and decorations will present to the freshman, the fears, and emotions they will struggle through at the time of exams. Readin', writin', and 'rithmetic will be printed on the walls with the Frosh's doom to be expressed by a tombstone at the end of the hall where murals will show the effect of the exams on the student.

Chaperones are Dr. Norman Huffman, Professor and Mrs. Murco Ringnalda, and Dean Olive Dahl.

Serving on committees are Marilyn Townsend, decorations; Grace Morton, refreshments; Geri Bowles, chaperones; Bill Gussey, juke box; Beverly Kenney, clean up; Tom Nakagawa, publicity and advertising; and Chuck Patterson, Nadine Roberts, Bob O'Neill, Carol Paesche, games.

Sophs, Juniors Caper Tonight
 The sophomore and junior classes under the co-chairmanship of Joyce Reeves and Pat Miller, are holding their parties together at the Moose hall, located on South Twelfth street, from 8 until 11 o'clock.

Under the theme of Classy Capers Canteen, the Sophs and Juniors will dance to the music of Glen Williams and his ten-piece orchestra, who will play a full dance program.

There will be many mixer dances, and further entertainment will consist of songs by Edith Fairham, a Hawaiian dance by Bob Douglas and a reading by Dale Morgan, who will also act as emcee.

Committees for the affair are: entertainment, Mildred Norton and Corky Engdahl; decorations, Dale Morgan and Winona Dillard; and clean up, Bob Douglas and Dale Bates.

Chaperones for the junior class will be Dr. and Mrs. R. Ivan Lovell, and Professor Raoul Bertrand.

Seniors Trek to Silver Creek
 According to senior class vice-president, Lorraine Murdock, the seniors will hold a barbecue at Silver Creek Falls.

Rides will be provided for all interested, leaving Waller Hall at four o'clock.

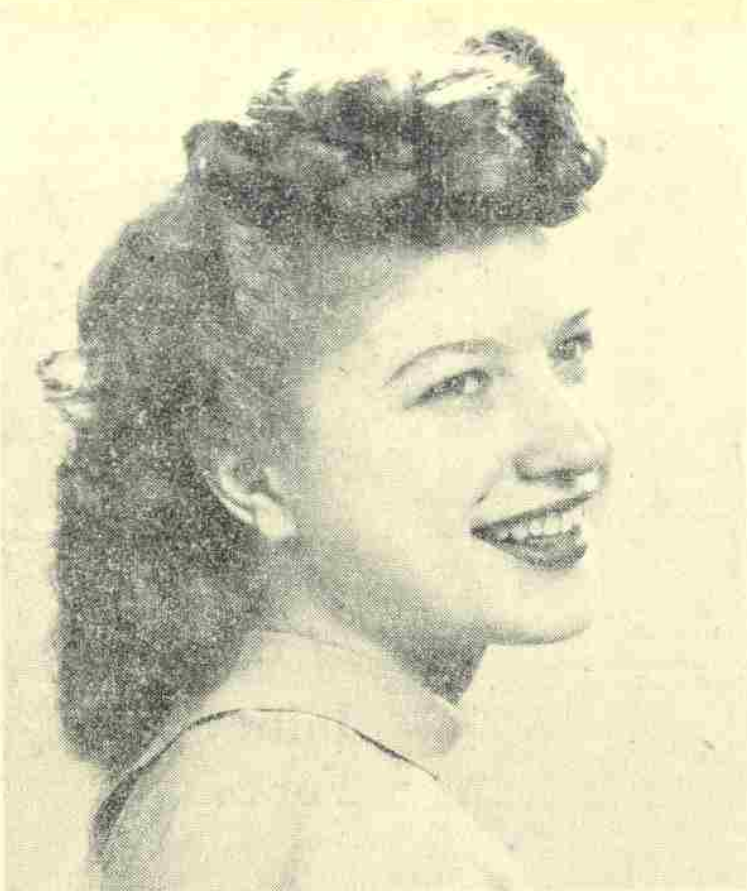

John Macy, in charge of the party, announces his committees as Conrad Pavlock, the barbecue; Mush Barbour, transportation. Chaperones are Dr. and Mrs. Robert Lantz, Professor and Mrs. J. E. Simpson, and Dr. and Mrs. Rethke.

Lestle J. Sparks and Mr. and Mrs. Earl T. Brown.

Couples comprising the guest list were Marjorie Smith, Don Douris; Harriet Houghton, Albert Miller; Mr. and Mrs. Cloyd Harrell; Yvonne Simpson, Don Tasker; Marcella Pabrum, Horace Mounts; Mr. and Mrs. John Stockman; Roberta Batey, Tom Yates; Eloise Rarey, Jim Purdy; Helen Larson, Bill Harris; Janice Smith, Tom Nakagawa; Virginia Weeks, Ira Jones; Nan Wilcox, Mark Crunican; Margaret Fisher, Bob O'Neill; Bonnie Daugherty, Lee Ryan; Velora Williams, Ralph Ohling; Beth Sherman, Paul Benage; Marilyn Townsend, Don Yocum; Helen Cordon, Jim Struck; Florence Waespe, Jim Gilmore; Shirley Fancher, Al McMullen; Dot Tasker, Jerry Girmm; Pat Yordan, Arthur Davis; Sue Irwin, John Kooy.

WU Players To Present 'Blithe Spirit'

By Dona Adams

A traditional event following the production of a play by Willamette University players is an after-play party given by Dr. Herbert Rahe. Following the production of Blithe Spirit tomorrow evening members of the cast and production staff will be entertained at an informal party in the rumpus room of Rahe's North Winter street home.

Starring Archie Schultz as Charles Condomine, an English novelist, Margaret Allen as his second wife, Ruth, and Joyce MacCracken as the spirit, Elvira, his first wife, the play is slated as one of most sensational and hilarious action. Featured also in the cast is Addyse Lane in the role of Madame Arcati, the energetic, but eccentric medium. Other members of the cast are Barbara Trappe as the maid, Edith; and Velma Davis and Joe Power as Dr. and Mrs. Bradman.

Production staff members under the direction of drama manager Janie Mathers and Vickie Jones, assistant, have been busy preparing publicity, selling tickets, and arranging properties, costumes and make-up. Beta Alpha Gamma, sophomore women's honorary, will usher.

Under construction for several weeks in Waller's attic, the unique sets were moved by pulleys onto trucks yesterday by their creators, Carl Ritchie and Joe Power.

St. Helen's Hair Farmer, Carl Brandenfels, has been charged by the Assistant District Attorney with violation of the pure food and drug law in that he labels his so-called restorative product as "Scalp and Hair Treatment" which the government says implies it is a medical treatment. Brandenfels, recuperating in a Tulsa, Okla. hotel room from a fractured ankle incurred when he fell off a curb, said that he was willing to cooperate 100% and would change the name to "Brandenfels for Hair and Scalp" if necessary to avoid facing the charges.

Former Secretary of State, Harold L. Ickes came out for higher pay through state and federal aid in his recent statement "Too many children are being taught by what might be called academic gigolos—men and women who want to teach, but who, in order to exist, must be subsidized from private sources. It is simply out of the question for a great many teachers to live on salaries that they receive. This is true, not only of public school teachers, but of some who teach in our institutions of higher learning." Ickes maintained that small communities were unable to bear alone the full burden of school expense and were unable to properly collect the necessary taxes which the state is much more effective in doing and that federal aid is essential if adequate professional salaries are to be paid. "In view of the present situation", said Ickes, "it is imperative that additional federal aid for public education be provided by the congress."

nor is there any chance that atomic energy will toss people out of jobs since these experts hold that it is extremely improbable atomic power can revolutionize the cost of power in the US in this generation or displace coal as the primary power fuel. As a result of their opinions, the UN economic and employment commission decided it would be premature not to assess the consequences of atomic power upon world economy and employment.

Final Deadline For Pictures Set Tomorrow

Today and tomorrow will be the last chance for freshmen, sophomores and juniors to have pictures taken for the Wallulah. All stragglers are urged to cooperate and meet this deadline. Next semester only the new students will be able to have their pictures taken.

If the proofs are not returned to Bishop-Modern studio by Saturday, unless otherwise stated by the studio manager, the Wallulah staff and studio will make their own choice as to the picture to be placed in the year-book.

To those students who have cooperated Bishop-Moderne studio and the Wallulah staff wish to extend their appreciation for the excellent cooperation shown announced Nancy Hoak, year-book editor.

Ultra-Violet Light Reveals Hidden Beauty in Drab Rocks

Lights out, ultra-violet light turned on, and ordinary drab-looking rocks burst into an array of intensely brilliant colors. Physical geography and physical science classes last week witnessed this demonstration by Mr.

Arcie Smith of the Smith Agate Archie Smith of the Smith Agate As a result of the dazzling show several students expressed a desire for fireplaces of fluorescent minerals in their homes.

When ultra-violet light was shone on the minerals of Smith's collection they glowed with various neon-like hues ranging through bright rose, yellow and green. Specimens of uranium ore from central Oregon emitted a blue-white glow. Oregon tungsten, found by prospecting with an ultra-violet light was also exhibited.

Smith, who was a music major at Willamette from 1915 to 1919, took up collecting and dealing in fluorescent minerals a few years ago and now has the finest and largest collection in America. He presented Willamette with a small collection of fluorescent minerals.

Many uses of fluorescent minerals were pointed out by Smith, who has, for example, supplied the satins and silks dyed with ultra-violet dye used in Lee Capades costumes. Prominent Hollywood artists have bought fluorescent materials for use in scene painting.

He has supplied police and fire departments fluorescent powders which will make the fingers of a suspect who has touched them glow under ultra-violet light. Fluorescent materials can be injected into the veins of a person to show if he is still living.

Smith's exhibition included a small Christmas tree trimmed with ornaments with fluorescent paint and sprayed with a phosphorescent spray which continued to glow after the ultra-violet light was turned off. He told of a restaurant which used fluorescent glassware for special guests, turning on a concealed ultra-violet light.

WSSF Heads For Campus Drive Named

With the appointment of Marion Reamer and Joe Brazie as co-chairmen, plans are progressing for the Willamette drive to raise money for the World Student Service Fund. The drive, which is scheduled for the last week in April, will this year be an all-school affair conducted through the student council.

Committee heads chosen so far are Con Pavlock, publicity; Kathleen Secord, solicitors; and Muriel Oliver as chairman for the variety show which will be put on during the drive. Help will be needed in soliciting and in making signs for publicity.

A central planning committee, which will consist of the heads of the various committees, a faculty representative, a representative from each sorority and fraternity and from the WED's, Clarence Wicks representing the student council, will meet the beginning of next semester to make further plans.

The WSSF is an organization through which students and faculty in 14 countries send aid to students and faculties in schools in Europe and Asia. The money is spent for necessary supplies such as books, pencils, food, medical supplies, lamp oil and clothing. Lists of needs are sent in to the central distributing office in Geneva, Switzerland, which sees that each country gets a fair share.

ette college of music at the Portland Art Museum, will be a piano-violin recital by Schnelker and Fisher on Sunday afternoon, February 23. The following Sunday, March 2, Mr. Ralph Dobbs will give a piano recital. A Capella choir will sing on April 20 for the third in this series of recitals.

Schnelker will be featured with several other organists in an evening program on February 25. This program is sponsored by the Portland chapter of the American Guild of Organists.

The Willamette school of music, in connection with this same Portland chapter, will sponsor a violin recital at the First Methodist church sometime after Easter.

At this time Miss Larsen, authority on hairstyling and use of cosmetics, will demonstrate advantages of hairstyling, care of hair and use of cosmetics. Miss Larsen will be assisted by several of her colleagues who will serve as models and will also use members from the audience to help demonstrate.

All women on campus who are interested are urged to come and of course—"Live Y'ers" will be there.

Badgers Edge WU in Second

Willamette university split its two-game series with the Pacific U cagers by dropping a hard-fought Northwest conference decision to the rejuvenated Badgers at Forest Grove Friday night, 40-36. The Bearcats had captured a previous encounter on the Salem floor by a 64-41 margin.

Friday's defeat was the second straight loop loss for Coach Elmer Schaake's 'Cat quint, the Methodists yielding Tuesday to Lewis and Clark. It was the second straight win for the Forest Grovers, as they had previously dumped a strong Linfield outfit Tuesday night.

Returning from a 20-14 half-time disadvantage, the 'Cats rallied behind forward Al McRae to knot the affair with four minutes left, 32-32. Again the score was tied 34-all, but the late-coming Badger crew fired up with High, Olson, Robertson and Coffman, all reserves, canning counters to secure the win for Coach Ozzie Gates' Puers.

McRae was high man for the contest with 16, while the winners' Ernie Gettel and Hal Whitbeck were tied with eight, the former's point all being from the free throw line.

Sport Curios

Athletes, as a group, are at their superlative best between the ages of 27 and 29 inclusive, according to Prof. Harvey C. Lehman, of Ohio university, who has devoted years to this research.

Football players reach their peak age at 24, with two years as their span of best years, and 25 the general average. The peak age of baseball players is slightly higher, 27-30, with three years as the limit of their best years, and 28 the general average.

These facts seem to be well supported on the basis of the performances of veterans as they return to the field of sports after an absence of several years.

Did you know that we spend about FOUR BILLION dollars annually in pursuit of our favorite sports. More money spent on angling than any other sport ($1,200,000).

'Cat Jay Vees Extend Win Streak to Six Straight

Willamette's jayvees continued their winning habit by hanging up three more wins last week. The first two victories, posted over Pacific U, there, last Friday and Oregon College of Education, here, Monday evening, by respective scores of 42-22 and 67-33, merely served as appetizers for the important 49-43 win over Page Woolens of the Salem City league Tuesday night.

The "Page" victory put a feather in the jayvee cap because Page Woolens currently holds down first place in the City league. A loss could have been embarrassing since Willamette's Frosh team, a member of the league, has not played the Woolens as yet and may pull out with a win.

At any rate, Tuesday's con-

Bearcats "Whip Whitman," Sweep Casaba Series From Cellar-Dwelling Missionaries

Future prospects for Coach Elmer Schaake's hustling 'Cats appeared considerably brighter as a result of their two-game sweep of the Whitman series. These two victories, combined with last week's loss to Pacific, leaves the Bearcats holding onto a comfortable third place in the Northwest loop standing with a 3-2 record.

The next contest scheduled is the Lewis & Clark Pioneers at Portland on January 31.

Coach Elmer Schaake's "on-again, off-again" cagers were definitely "on" Monday night, as they maintained a blistering scoring pace throughout the evening to trounce Whitman by a 63-32 count. After the first four minutes they were never headed and simply outclassed the visitors all the way.

Whitman opened the scoring test was the best of the three. Page Woolens got off to a quick start by grabbing a 4-0 lead. The locals tied it up later at 6-6 and went ahead to take a 11-6 advantage. A few minutes later "Page" tied it up again at 13-all and from there to the end of the half the score was knotted three more times. Willamette managed to hold a 1 point, 21-20 lead at halftime.

The Woolens grabbed the lead momentarily at the start of the last half by dropping in the first basket. However, the Bearcats quickly came back and held the lead all the way except for a 43-43 tie, a few minutes before the gun.

High point honors went to Wolf, starting forward of the Woolens, who garnered 15 points for the losers. Fred Graham again took high honors for the locals by dropping in 14 counters.

This week the Bearkittens will try for their eighth win of the season and sixth in a row against Lewis and Clark. The game will be played there on Friday in a prelude to the varsity contest.

in the first leg but their lead was short-lived as Ron Runyan tallied the first four counters for WU to knot the score 4-4. Runyan, who was all over the floor and played the devil with the Missionaries all evening, combined his talents with Frank Page, Wes Saxton, and Milt Baum to run the count to 12-4 near the mid-point.

Coach Ben Dobbs' basketballers then staged a rally of their own, however, to come within one bucket of tying it up, 12-10. Schaake countered with a complete new lineup, and they immediately proceeded to widen the margin between the clubs.

In the second half the Methodists protected their gap and went beserk in the last two minutes to make the final tally 63-32. Don Barnick got hot as a two dollar pistol and paced the 'Cats to 14 points in the closing seconds.

McRae was high man for the winners with 12, closely followed by Runyan and Barnick with 10 apiece.

Second Game "Hot"

Tying the count 12 times, the Whits made it much rougher going for Willamette Tuesday night in the second encounter, but Schaake's cagers staged a second-half spurt to outlast their opponents, 63-55. Accuracy at the foul line proved the difference, as the Bearcats held but a one-bucket field goal advantage, 24-23.

Dobbs' Whitman crew, like Pacific, threatened to come back in the final meeting of the clubs, and led most of the opening period. Paced by sharpshooting Chuck Anderson and Bob Estrada, with 19 and 10 points respectively, they made it a slambang contest right down to the wire.

Ron Runyan opened the scoring with a WU bucket but Estrada soon knotted it 2-2 for the Missionaries. After a furious saw middle session which saw the visitors leading most of the way, the 'Cat five caught up and went ahead toward the end of the canto on counters by Al McRae, Frank Page and Al Fedje, to make the halftime score 28-24, Willamette.

Fedje opened the second half with a swisher to put the 'Cats ahead 30-24, but the Whits quickly retaliated in kind, and it again developed into a dog-eat-dog affair. Eight minutes before the end Duane Ragsdale scored for WU to break a 44-44 deadlock, and the Bearcats then began to pull away. Ragsdale, McRae, Don Barnick, and Mush Barbour teamed to give the Schaakes a 10 point advantage with just four minutes to go, but the gap was narrowed at the finish as Anderson and Wayne Pennington scored for the Missionaries.

Anderson was top point-maker for the contest with 19, while McRae again headed the Methodists with 13. Page and Ragsdale were tied with eight each.

WU 1947 Grid Sked Verified

After considerable negotiating the 1947 football schedule was finally decided upon and announced. The same teams that played Willamette are on the schedule for the coming season with the exception of College of Pacific substituted for San Jose. Willamette has been trying to get College of Pacific on their schedule and this year starts a series of home and home games. It is hoped that this will develop into other sports also.

Willamette will no longer play Whitman on Thanksgiving day, but hostilities will be on the preceding Saturday. The reason being that it was felt that people are becoming more prone to staying home on Thanksgiving day instead of going to football games.

At a recent meeting of the Northwest conference, it was decided that each team had to play a minimum of five conference games. However there is a possible seven games, so it was also decided that the championship will be determined on a percentage basis. The number of conference games won will be the basis of the decision, with the provision that a tie will constitute co-champions.

RON RUNYAN

Ron "run 'em ragged" Runyan broke into the sports world back in Sidney (Montana) high school. Although he participated in football, basketball and track, he doesn't like his home town from a sporting standpoint. "Too cold for a skinny guy," he said with a grin.

The 5' 10" Bearcat entered Willamette way back in the year of prosperity, 1941, when every athlete was issued two pairs of socks. Ron capitalized on his speed from the start by playing frosh ball. He lettered in his sophomore and junior years in basketball.

Runyan entered the V-12 training program in 1943, but didn't mention anything about the valuable training received under the auspices of the Navy. Ron then served time on a destroyer escort as a first Lt. (not a grade—a responsibility) head of the deck gang.

Ron entered Willamette the '46 fall semester and is a senior physical education major with coaching as his goal.

Ron married a Willamette girl, the former Mary East, last November. They will both graduate this spring. Ron is a member of Blue Key and was a class representative in '43. Other interests are fishing and golf although he says he never catches any (fish, not golfs).

SKI-TRAX

Ski enthusiasts who constitute the newly formed ski club on the campus, met recently for the second time. The first order of business was a proposed ski trip to the Hoodoo Bowl Saturday, February 8. Busses will provide transportation and every student in school is invited. Tom Edwards will be ski master and he will be on hand to give instruction.

Melva Williamson was appointed to draw up the constitution for the club. It was decided that any student who has made one ski trip will be eligible for membership. The wives and husbands of Willamette students are also eligible.

The next meeting will be in the evening to give everyone an opportunity to be present. The date, place and time will be announced later. The main purpose of the club is to promote skiing and will not be considered as a social organization.

When the club program gets under way, a ski trip is planned for every other week, alternating between the Mt. Hood and Hoodoo Bowl areas.

Other high scorers who headed their individual classes includes Corrine Engdahl with a score of 738, Marjorie Powell with 702, Florence Ferrey with 684, and Phyllis Gerth with 663.

Willamette students are again entering the inter-collegiate archery tournament this year.

'Murals Plan Volley Round

Plans have been presented by 'Mural Organizers Les Sparks and Paul Cookingham for the formulation of a volleyball tournament to start with the beginning of the new semester. The play-offs, as to whether round robins or double eliminations will prevail, will be determined largely by the response to the call for entrants.

It has been announced that this journey, for the present, at least, will remain strictly male, while it is hoped that a mixed league may be adopted in the near future. Any campus organization or any group of WU students may enter a squad, and the hope is expressed that the faculty may sponsor a team as an added interest.

All entrants must be in to the organizers not later than next Friday, January 31, and once drawn up, the schedule will have no additions or changes.

Frosh Resume League Play

The Frosh casaba five resume conference play this coming week with two contests. They will be played against Valley Motors and Warner Motors on Monday and Wednesday, respectively.

Previously, the Frosh have won one and lost one contest in conference play. The week's coming games will be the third and fourth of an eight game schedule.

A non-conference game with Lebanon high will be played Tuesday at Lebanon. The return game will be played here on a date that as yet is undetermined.

ON THE BALL

WITH PAV

Whitman Whipped . . .

Nothing but bouquets this week to our basketballing Bearcats who ran up a double 10-count over the Walla Walla cagers, and at the same time a note of thanks to all the attending students who forced Coach Schaake's banquet promise to be upheld that "we will WHIP WHITMAN" . . . !!

Two Inactive . . .

Noticeably absent from any of the Cardinal and Gold quintets to take to the floor during the series was hard driving Scotty Sebern, who is currently battling a tough round with the flu. Joining him on the inactive list is big Bob Medley, who is nursing a sprained ankle sustained in Monday night's fracas.

Best wishes for a speedy recovery to each.

Still Room for Improvement . . .

Attendance has been picking up at our games lately, but it's still far far below what it's capable of being. To quote one very popular Willamette athlete, "I've never seen so many spiritless students all thrown into one college at one time in my life!" So, for the umpteenth time, for the Portland game a week from Saturday, first of all puhleeze come to the game, and then take a quick look around and sit in the WU section instead of grabbing the first vacant seat.

Figures . . .

Items of note in our campus sports world might also include affable Wes Saxton, whose forced exit via the foul lanes Monday night was the third successive game that he met with such a fate. Of further interest is forward Al McRae's sudden scoring splurge to rack up some 40 points in the last three games, pulling rather comfortably ahead of his cohorts in the varsity hi-point race.

Of similar note, to a lesser degree, in the intramural hoop league, we think the fact commendable that Roy Priem, having played in but three games with the Phi B's, has still managed to break into the Upper Ten 'mural scorers.

Skiers . . .

Of momentous import with reference to our embryo Whizz Ski club on campus is one of the resolutions adopted by the nucleus group at the last meeting, to the effect that upon activation, the club should join the Pacific NW Ski association to promote and sponsor a Willamette VARSITY ski team.

Enter Playoffs With Rubes, Independents, Phi Delt A's

By Bill Reder

"Hail the Conquering Giants" became the theme in the intramural race, as the Giants drew a bye this week, but took the first half championship race, with their six wins and no losses. The Independents came in second with the Rubes taking third spot. These two teams however did not play each other in the first half round. Their initial encounter comes tomorrow morning in the play offs.

The second half play will be limited to a tournament to determine the top team. Only the current top four squads will be permitted to compete in this tournament. The Law school, one of the top four, dropped from competition, thereby qualifying the Phi A and the Betas who are tied for fourth for further competition in the second half. They will play a single elimination game Saturday morning to determine which team will continue into the final play offs. The Independents will also play tomorrow in this single elimination, the winner of this game to face the Giants Monday in the opening tilt of the double elimination play offs.

"Hula" Bob Douglas walked away with the individual scoring crown for the first half play, jumping from fourth to first this last week by scoring 13 points against the Phi B's.

The Lawyer's Betoui dropped to second place and Goodman to third, both player's team however drew a bye for the week. Slanchik, loose jointed forward for the Phi's, was the only new man to break into the Hi-pointers.

Rubes Cut Loose

The hotter-than-hot crown-aspiring Rubes again scored over 40 points to down the winless Phi Delt B's 43 to 15. The loss only sunk the B's further into the cellar while the win firmly entrenched the Rubes into the third place in the team standings.

The Rubes swished the net from out in front, and came in for lay-ins with ease, to run the half time score to 18 to 6. Douglas was responsible for 9 of the 18 points the first half.

After the intermission the Phi's couldn't cope with the onslaught, nor could they break through the Rubes' defense to score. The Rubes had one of the best looking squads on the floor to date.

Douglas with 13 and Furno with 10 were high for the Rubes. Priem for the Phi's was high with 8.

Indeps Nip A's

Bowing in their second straight defeat, the Phi A basketballers lost to a strong Independent squad in a tight close-scoring 20-16 ball game. The Indeps were in the saddle throughout the entire game and never once relinquished the lead that they acquired at the opening tipoff.

Both teams employed a very thorough man to man defense, checking so closely that opportunities to shoot were golden. This proved to be especially so during the second half, in which the losing Phi's almost overcame a 16-7 halftime disadvantage by limiting the non-Greek quint to but a single bucket for the remainder of the game.

Link sparked the losers with 10 counters, followed by Todd for the winners with 7.

Beta-Sig

In the low-scoring battle of the week, the sixth and seventh place Betas and Sigs fought it out to determine the lesser of two evils in order that one of the two aspiring squads might advance into the Saturday morning quarterfinals of the 'mural hoop race. Holding a 12-4 edge at halftime, the Betas proved themselves to be the better men, withstanding a valiant Sig assault in the second half to emerge victors in the contest on the long end of a short 17-13 score.

Jones bore the brunt of the Beta scoring with a total of 9 markers, and in so doing captured top honors for the tilt, comfortably outdistancing the Sig contention of 4 points by Copenhagen.

Phi Delt All the Way

Brother met brother in the intramural court scene Wednesday evening when the cellar-dwelling Phi Delt B-squad yielded a playoff spot to their more fortunate better halves, the Phi A's, and in so doing, the Phi Delt second quint bowed out of the intramural picture for the current casaba tourney.

Jumping the gun on their bigger brothers, the B's drew first blood with a rapid counter, to give them the lead for the only time in the ball game. The A-squad lost no time in retaliating, then pulled ahead to keep the lead at half-time, and at the final gun amassed a winning score of 26-16.

With the exception of Don Link's 10 points for the winners, scoring was intermittent and scattered throughout the remaining players at a bucket or two apiece.

March of Dimes Booth Nets $192 Daily Average

With the March of Dimes campaign now well under way, the booth operated by Willamette students on a downtown Salem street has netted in the first four days a total of $771.25. Largest amount collected in one day was last Friday, when a total of $241.00 was contributed by passers-by.

The daily average of contributions, $192.00, is slightly lower than the daily average of $200 which was received during last year's campaign.

Figures released for the first four days of this year's drive show that $78 was received the first day, $162.50 the second day, $241.25 the third day and $189.50 the fourth day.

Workers, who are recruited from the living organizations and from the independent groups on campus, number about 80, with two men and two women working a shift together.

WU students continue the daily maintenance of the March of Dimes Booth in downtown Salem. Part of the national campaign directed against infantile paralysis, Willamette has had charge of the booth since 1944. ## WU Alumnus Copies Ready For Mailing Latest issue of the Willamette Alumnus rolled off the presses this week and will be in the mail the first part of next week, addressed to 2500 alumni.

The quarterly publication, similar in format to the Collegian, contains four pages of campus news and notes on doings of alumni.

Featured in the current issue are Freshman Glee, scheduled for March 8, election of the College of Law to membership in the Association of American Law Schools, the organization of a law alumni association, the resignation of the coaches, the change in tuition charges for next year and the installation of fraternities in the Miami Triad.

The Alumnus is prepared in the Alumni office by Mary Jean Huston, secretary, assisted by Prof. Murco Ringnald.

Miss Huston has sounded a call for help from students in the huge task of mailing the papers.

WU Coffee-Imbibers Given "Out" Signal

WU coffee-imbibers who are in the habit of sipping their java in the Capitol coffee shop, will have to change their place of loitering as of now, according to word sent from the Secretary of State's office.

Since the coffee shop is too small to accommodate legislators, regular state workers and students and as the shop is primarily for the use of the state employees, students are urged to drink their coffee and do-nuts someplace else, especially while the legislature is in session.

Revision Committee Submits Proposal For Quorum Change

Recommendations and proposals for changing Article XVI and Article XVII of the Constitution were made at a meeting held this week by the Constitutional Revision Committee. The amendment states that a vote could be passed by a majority of 2/3 of all the votes cast. A change in these two amendments has been needed urgently in the past two years and it was not until the last vote on the Law school and Cavern amendments that action was proposed.

No matter how much publicity an amendment is given, the students that vote are a very small proportion of the total enrollment of the school, and as the constitution now reads there must be a two-thirds vote of quorum in order to pass any amendment. In previous votes no attention has been given to the quorum clause and it is believed that in few votes in the past two years has a quorum voted.

In order to make the vote legitimate, the student council and Constitutional Revision Committee feel that on a given day of voting there is present on the campus a quorum and everyone is permitted to vote whether they choose to do so or not. Wording the amendment 2/3 of all votes cast would legalize the amendments without the continuous revotes that the students have been going through.

In order to make sure that this Amendment will have a quorum voting, the students will be required to vote at the time of registration for the new semester.

This seems to be the only possible way of obtaining quorum to vote and making the proposed amendment legal.

Amendment to Article XVI and Article XVII:

In Section I of both Article XVI and XVII the words "two-thirds vote of quorum" would be struck out and "two-thirds of all votes cast" would be inserted. The provisions of this amendment shall be deemed retroactive to the time of the adoption of this constitution.

Article XVI, Section I, would then read: "Any act of any officer, committee or board existing under this constitution may be repealed or amended by two-thirds of all votes cast at a meeting of the Association."

Article XVII, Section I, would read: "Amendments to this constitution shall be proposed by the Constitutional Revision Committee at a meeting of the Association, shall then be posted for one week, and must appear in the Collegian. At a subsequent meeting they may be passed by 2/3 of all votes cast."

Westminster Reorganizes

Reorganization of the Westminster group of students on the campus was completed this week. The group represents the Presbyterian church on the campus and meetings are held every Sunday at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Chester W. Hamblin.

Officers were elected at the regular fireside meeting Sunday, with Boy Sayte chosen as moderator. Other officers are Dale Bates, vice-moderator; Roberta Batey, secretary and Bob Burleigh, treasurer. Lea Lowry is program chairman; Betty Lou Edwards is social chairman and Ralph Ewing is youth council representative.

Latimer Slates Home Ec Trips

Field trips for home economics students are due this week as the foods class visits the Valley Packing company and the Mayflower Dairy, while the clothing class is given a tour of the woolen mills, Lois Latimer, home economics teacher, revealed today.

"Tours will last an hour or more, depending on the company and the guide," Miss Latimer added. Definite dates for the tours are not known.

Faculty Plans To Remodel Advisor Set-up

Plans are now underway by administration members to strengthen and reorganize the advisory system now used on the campus.

It is hoped by faculty members, says Dean Lawrence A. Riggs, that through revising the system, students would be able to consult with their advisor on problems concerning registration, major course planning and grades.

The advisory system, said Riggs, has not been functioning to a complete enough degree for the past few years and the strengthening of the plan would result in closer relations between members of the faculty and students.
