

Hanauska, Blue Key Head Second Banquet Try Thursday

The student council this week scheduled the Whip Whitman banquet for 6 o'clock Thursday at the First Methodist church. This is the second attempt to revive the traditional rally feast this semester. An effort in November failed because of unfavorable circumstances and lack of student interest.

Bill Hanauska, who was chairman of the previously planned banquet this year, has again been selected to supervise arrangements. He will be aided by members of Blue Key, senior men's honorary.

The council took the action because it was feared that if the banquet was not held this year it would result in the permanent loss of the valued tradition. The banquet will honor both the football and basketball teams and in succeeding years will alternate between the two sports, depending upon which sport plays host to Whitman.

Biggest objection to the cancelled banquet, the price of tickets, has been overcome with the lowering of ticket prices to 50 cents. In many cases cost will be even lower as tickets will be taken care of by sorority houses and the university will defray part of the expense of students eating at Lausanne hall. Tickets will be available in the student body office.

Clarence Wicks, student body proxy, will emcee the banquet and members of the Pep 'Cats will serve. Food preparation will be handled by Miss Lorena Jack and Pop Crary, with members of Blue Key in charge of decorations. Invitations to attend the banquet will be extended to local sports writers, coaches and their wives and honor guests will be members of the football and basketball teams.

Hanauska, determined not to be left holding the ham again, announces that this time creamed turkey will be served.

Advisers Hold Grades

Grades are now in the hands of advisers. Dean Lawrence A. Riggs urges all freshmen and sophomores to contact their advisers as soon as possible in order that grades for this term and courses for next semester may be discussed.

VA Questions Flight Training; Aeronautics Labeled 'Hobby'

Wisconsin state officials inquired into the acceptability of flight training within the GI Bill of Rights at a hearing at Madison, Wis., January 7. Results of the hearing, which may have a bearing on the plans of thousands of vets taking flight training or planning to take flight training, have not yet been released.

The investigation was undertaken at the request of the veterans administration in Wisconsin which has questioned whether flight training is in agreement with the spirit and intent of the GI Bill.

Harry A. Nelson, chief of VA vocational rehabilitation and education in Milwaukee, stated that it was time that the VA decided whether flight training was a vocational subject or a hobby subject.

He questioned whether flight training was vocational because there are jobs for only 32,000 pilots in the nation while veterans taking training number hundreds of thousands.

Wisconsin state officials are holding inquiry after they rejected flying school standards set up by the Wisconsin Aeronautics commission which had been directed to recommend for vet training only those schools complying with Civil Aeronautics Authority.

Senior, Junior Petitions Due

Senior petitions for degrees which are necessary for graduation and junior major certificates are to be turned in to the Registrar's office by the end of the current semester, announced Harold B. Jory, yesterday.

Seniors, completing graduation requirements this term, should submit petitions before leaving school. Juniors, after securing major prof's signatures, should return major certificates to the Registrar's office.

Yocom Names Six Assistants For Songfest

Frosh committee heads for Freshman Glee were named this week by Glee manager Don Yocom, to facilitate an early start on the event, scheduled for March 8. Yocom commented that practices would start shortly after the new term begins, but classes should start work now on music and words, using a novelty theme.

Heading decorations is Geri Bowles, with Jim Ragland, Roger Adams, Johnny Whipple, Grace Morton and Arlene Joseph on her committee. Publicity will be handled by Betty Dahlberg, aided by Travis Cross and DeLore Bauer.

Betty Lou Edwards is chairman of the tickets and seating, with committee members Chuck Patterson, Bev Kenney and Don Burleigh. Music and decorations will be handled by Pat Howard, assisted by Joe Brazee, Bob Sayre, Betty Ferguson and Laverne Schuholm.

Chairman of the stage property committee is Bob Bennet, with Dick Gatke, Gordon Kline, Jim Ragland and Roger Shannon as committee members. A guidance committee, composed of all the Freshman Glee heads, will be the administrative body.

Yocom says he is "wide open for volunteers" and asks any frosh with the desire to be useful to contact him.

Frosh committee chairmen who will direct work for Freshman Glee this year are pictured above as they make initial plans for the yearly songfest. From left to right are Geri Bowles, Betty Dahlberg, Don Yocom, Marilyn Townsend, Pat Howard and Bob Bennett. Betty Lou Edwards is not pictured.

Fall Tuition to Jump $35

WU Faculty Salaries Due For Increase

Salaries of Willamette's faculty will be raised as a result of the recently announced tuition boost, President G. Herbert Smith said this week. Commencing June 15, 1947, tuition will be $160 per semester, a raise of $35 over the present tuition rate of $125 per semester.

Smith cited the fact that living costs have increased 47 per cent since 1939 and that faculty salaries have not risen enough to meet the increased living costs. Willamette must resort to increased tuition to meet the situation, he said. Past small increases in faculty salaries have been largely underwritten by private gifts that are not renewed annually, according to the president.

Willamette has had difficulty in attracting faculty members and in retaining faculty members already here because other universities have been able to offer substantially higher salaries.

Other colleges similar to Willamette have raised their tuition on an average of 60 per cent according to a report issued by Dr. Herbert Bergstetter, president of Ohio Wesleyan university.

It was pointed out in a bulletin announcing the tuition increase that $160 would be a flat fee, eliminating the incidental fee. The student body fee is not included in the $160 and will be collected each semester as usual.

"Blithe Spirit" Tickets Sell In SB Office

Tickets for Willamette's production of "Blithe Spirit," January 25, have been on sale since Wednesday exclusively to Willamette students and although they will continue to be on sale to the student body until the night of the play, they will also go on sale tomorrow to the general public. On sale in the student body office, the tickets are available for an 11 cent tax charge.

Offered to Willamette's students first in order that they might get the better seats in the Salem high school auditorium, tickets for 65c including tax will be sold to the general public at Needham's Book Store January 11, 18 and 25 only. Blocks for the faculty, who can pick up their tickets in the SB office, and sororities and fraternities may be reserved.

With more intensive rehearsals starting this week, publicity posters have been posted and advertisement has been given in local papers, the "Theatre Guide" and "Your Town." Programs, having been proof read, are now at the printers.

Music School Gives Review

A "Tin Pan Alley Review" of Willamette university complete with soap opera, music and wit is scheduled for Tuesday's chapel and will feature Glen Williams and his "Jivecats." Sharing spotlight honors on the radio type show will be blonde Edith Fairham in a Gilda routine.

Law School Wins Top Rating

Willamette's Law school gained one of the highest honors in the field of legal education when it was admitted to the Association of American Law Schools during the Christmas holidays. Seward P. Reese, Dean of the Law school, learned of the recognition December 27 while attending the annual meeting of the association in Chicago.

This recognition places the Willamette Law school among 200 similar institutions accredited by the Association of American Law Schools. Willamette's legal department was accredited by the American Bar association in 1940 and now has been recognized by the only two organizations that pass on the standing of law schools.

Representatives of the Association of American Law Schools recently inspected Willamette to ascertain whether the association's standards could be met. Requirements for admission into the association were four full time instructors, expenditures of at least $10,000 on books, treatises and reviews every five years, high quality instruction, strict grading, and careful selection of students.

This year's enrollment of nearly 100 students is the largest in the history of the school and is indicative of the progress made since only three students registered for the first class.

Dean Reese, who took over the deanship at the opening of the fall term, said: "This recognition which we have just received is the work of many people, some of whom have received little credit for their work and contributions but have been happy in the satisfaction that they have contributed to their school. Although from the standpoint of recognition by associations our College of Law has nothing further to achieve, it can always improve in becoming a better and better school as time goes on and in rendering greater and greater service to its students, graduates, and society. Gaining membership in the association marks the beginning of a new era in the history of the school."

"Achtung"

Rep. Rankin (D-Miss.), a member of the house committee on un-American activities recently revealed that one of the first tasks of the new session would be an investigation of "pink professors."

"One of its main problems will be to enlist the aid of patriotic organizations, including veterans groups, to drive from our educational institutions those pink professors who are now being subsidized from questionable sources," Rankin said.

Rankin reported indications that professors of "questionable loyalties" are in positions to "influence the minds of our young people."

Rankin was a member of the Dies committee which named Shirley Temple as a "Red" while most people were still thinking of her as a child star.

It is reported that Oregon's Senator Wayne Morse was accused of "red" tendencies while a professor at the University of Oregon. A letter was written to the governor requesting his dismissal from the faculty.

A university campus is usually considered the place where all ideas, isms and doctrines are discussed and examined. Theoretically an institution of higher learning should be the place where all ideas can be openly discussed with impunity.

Perhaps we ought to urge all veterans on the campus to be on the alert against any professor who might be so rash as to attempt to "influence the minds of our young people."

BEEFS and BOUQUETS

We Send It By Pony Express

Dear Editor:

A Pacemaker paper should have a record of businesslike action in all fields. I'd nominate the Collegian except on one score—subscriptions.

I have placed three subscriptions for friends of the school who look forward to receiving college news each week. Although the subscriptions were placed nearly two months ago, only one or two issues have reached their destinations.

A paper stands or falls on organization, not on individuals, so I blame no one. But a Pacemaker average should be better than that.

Yours sincerely,

An Irate Scholar of the ASWU.

Mudville Gets Streets—

IF the residents of the veterans' housing project, variously known as Mud Hollow and The Great Dust Bowl, depending upon the season, if they see some street improvements in the near future they can give the colony's new father—Allan Barber—a vote of thanks.

Mr. Barber, a resident of Elfstrom Way, after shoving cars out of the mud on his street for some months past, finally let down his red hair and wrote Mayor Elfstrom a letter somewhat as follows: "Dear Mr. Mayor, I reside upon a street named for you—Elfstrom Way—if this way is your way we certainly want no part of it, etc., etc. Not only that but it leaves you wide open for a lot of MUD slinging. Sincerely, Allan Barber."

The result of this bit of applied psychology: Mayor Elfstrom called on Mr. Hopkins, Veteran Housing Administrator, and promised changes soon to come with surfaced streets the ultimate goal.

- Sweepings from the Cavern -

Vacation over, the kids are now trying valiantly to recuperate in time to ruin themselves completely for final exams. Somehow, we think that Christmas vacation was a much more enjoyable time to ruin one's health, but the profs and the school government seem to have another idea.

Some people had nice vacations, and some people had a "wonderful" time, but some people had a very exciting and hectic holidays season. Take the case of Allan Barber for example. His wife presented him with a six lb. thirteen oz. red-headed daughter. Billie Joe arrived December 29 and thus added one more name to the present list of Willamette's student fathers. The mother and child are doing fine, but from all reports the father is a wee bit frayed about the edges.

We Always Said the Fedje's Were Bright

A brilliant time was had by all at the Fedje household when the gifts under the Christmas tree were opened. What should Ray find for him but a package from Santa Claus containing a tie. This Santa Claus happened to be named Al and the tie was something out of this world! Pinks and blues, and violets and greens all fought with one another and a few assorted colors for ## Introducing . . .

Introducing . . . those two women who play female leads in Willamette's forthcoming production, "Blithe Spirit," Joyce McCracken and Addyse Lane. Joyce is having the time of her life portraying Elvira, the mischievous, irresponsible, fun-loving first wife who returns from the grave. She secretly confesses that even though there have been endless rehearsals, she still laughs at the continuity.

This characterization is of special importance in Joyce's dramatic career, for all her previous portrayals have been of daughters. During her high school experiences at US Grant in Portland, she was well known as a member of the cast of the humorous "Lighthouse Keeper's Daughter"—the daughter that is. In last year's outstanding production, "The Man Who Came to Dinner," Joyce scored again as the daughter. Still undaunted, she was seen as the daughter in this semester's prize-winning one-act play, "Silver Nails."

A busy little Miss, she had her share of worries and responsibilities as decoration chairman of Freshman Glee. And just as a reward for her good work, she was honored with the co-chairmanship of the decoration committee for the Homecoming celebration in October. Joyce is majoring in literature, but being a sophomore, she manages to squeeze in a bit of bridge, tennis and dancing between study hours. And woe unto indefinite professors . . . the pet peeve of Elvira (alias Joyce McCracken).

Addyse says she certainly has a suitable part in the play—that of Madame Arcati, a continental spiritualist who is comparatively crazy, but manages to call back spirits and does succeed in bring Elvira back to life. Addyse insists that she probably acted crazy the day of tryouts, hence her assignment to a crazy part. Highlights from her acting experiences lead us to doubt that that was the only reason.

At Salem high school, she played the lead in "Tomorrow The World," and also coached various drama performances. As a freshman last year, she was seen as the CRAZY maid in "The Man Who Came to Dinner" and in addition she designed and secured the costumes for "Family Portrait." And just to make things up to date, we might mention that she had the character role of a flouncy socialite in the one-act play "Low Bridge" this year.

Plans to enter the field of radio upon graduation are in the offing, but Addyse really likes the legitimate stage better. For some certain reason, we'll just say that you never can tell what the future will bring.

"What a Mess You Are!" Greeting of Compton and Straumfjord

Cleanest men on the campus, Stu Compton and Jon Straumfjord, work hard at it. Agents for the Valley Cleaning service, 48 hour service insured and guaranteed, they dreamed up the idea to deliver and pick up garments at all the campus living organizations, and fell right into their own plot.

Since the big inspiration, their respective lives have been filled with dirty clothes, dirty clothes, dirty clothes. Walking from class to class eager girls stop them to inquire if their new angora has been shrunk, and you cads if it is, and if their favorite white formal with the five inch grease spot has been completely cleaned.

The whole thing started when the fellows began peddling candy bars, gum, and peanuts round and about, a service still in effect. Since then they've been familiar figures with their '41 Chev convertible pulling up for pick-ups (cleaning, that is) Monday, domination in this masterful creation of man's wear. No foolin' the whole thing leaves you rather senseless.

Pity the poor postman over the Christmas rush. And if you really want to hear some tales about the rugged life said man leads you might try talking to Tom Badley. The fellow's got some very interesting stories to tell about the time he spent delivering packages and meeting strange characters on his mail route. There were the young girls who drove him wild by always trying to lure him into their homes, and then there were the old women who drove him wild by not allowing him to come in and see the young girls. Oh well, it's all over until next year, but Tom still turns green whenever he sees a mailbox.

"Light" of the Week

Prof Clark is putting on an air of prosperity, superiority and affluence as the result of having a new secretary, a brunette, Marilyn Townsend. Always before he has had to have a blonde in order to have a light overhead.

A great deal of attention and interest has been given to the manner in which Prof. Simpson leaves his Psychology Seminar Tuesday nights. Seems that he barrels out of his office, making about 20 knots an hour, and vaults into his car. One of his students tried to waylay him the other day and find out the reason for so much bustle. Prof stopped not one second in his made dash but managed to fling back this bit of information: "My car's got no lights, so I have to make it home before it gets dark and the cop catches up with me." Maybe this statement isn't verbatim, but have you ever tried to take notes in a cyclone?

Quote of the Week

Somebody asked Dr. Moellering why he's leaving Willamette U where he's head of the Language Department, to go to San Jose State where he'll be "not head" of the Department.

O. K. You Name It

O.K., O.K., the staff got rather confused reading this too, but we finally found a sure-fire way making sense out of it. Hold the article at arm's length, stand on your head, stutter to yourself as you read it, and break up the syllables of each capitalized word, not as a normal person would do it, but rather haphazardly. Really, the third time through it's awfully amusing. Our thanks go to Dr. Huffman of the Religion Department, for his contribution to the Feature page . . . and we hope he comes through with the second installment.

CLOUDY weather soon withdrew, producing a typical Oregon morning in CAIRO—CLEARY with CHERIE RAINES, although JACK FROST made BETTY COLE and HOWARD DEWEY.

There was a LARKIN the BLOSSOM WOODS and a BOB WHITE was singing as JESSE JAMES, JR., rode D—HILL along the BANKS of the YORDON. WILLEFORD it? Maybe FLORENCE 'L. FERREY him. Where's he HEDEEN? To help BARBARA TRAPPE our LIONess, and they could have KELDER but A. WARDIN put them in the STOCKS. Was JAMES PURDY!

In the meantime DAVID TOLLE VIRGINIA WEEKS ago, and then had SARA WARNER, that he liked SHIRLEY WIRST. That made GEORGE HURT and GERALD GRIMM and gave MARGARET A. HARTSOCK too, until ROBERT KESTER in their old VIRGINIA KITCHEN and BILL REDER a love story. Now it's a DIMOND, CAROL, a real STONE, but did DON PREISS it high! Now with her NICHOLS sad GERI BOWLES alone.

Listen to next WEEKS' story. Will MAXINE MUCKLE things up? Or will CONLEY WARD her off?

Wednesday and Thursday, and delivering their wares Wednesday, Friday and Saturday.

Many are the instructions accompanying their work. On one dress from Lausanne they found a note, "Sticky stuff on front, lipstick on back." Next they're thinking of starting a laundry service—anticipating a lot of shirts from Alpha, Laurel, and the Y with the same lipstick trouble.

With their new job their popularity has increased by leaps and bounds. The story has it that fellows even offer to take them on their rounds to the sorority houses on pick-up days—or even take over their job for them.

Biggest shock came when they were delivering candy to the Pi Phi house and Kathy Secord came tearing down the stairs screaming for Hershey Bars. "Whee—I'm passionate for Hershey Bars," she indiscreetly cried. Since then Compton and Straumfjord always have a supply on hand—and Kathy has received bribes of at least a carton and a half.

Legislators Convene Monday

Lawmakers, Aides to Edge Out WU Coffee Shop Dawdlers

When the 90 some odd members of the Oregon State legislature and their accompanying helpers converge on the State Capitol building Monday, the Willamette university patrons of the State House coffee shop are due for some stiff competition.

It has always been a simple matter for anyone with a free hour to spare to just walk across the street and into an atmosphere of importance and refinement along with governor's secretaries and what not, and there to savor the study-shattered nerves with a cup of coffee.

Monday, however, with the coming of the legislators, will be committee clerks, and there are somewhat like twenty committees in each house, and there are two houses. Each legislator has his or her own secretary and in addition to this there are typists by the score. Then the lobbyists doubtless will make their presence felt just around coffee time.

Scholastically, the sessions of the legislature may provide a good laboratory for speech and political science classes.

According to Dr. Herbert E. Rahe, professor of speech at Willamette, as soon as the legislature gets into full swing and some sort of arrangement of class time can be made, attempts will be made to have one or two class sessions meet in the gallery of the chambers to obtain practical application of the speech and discussion techniques employed.

It is the opinion of both Rahe and Dr. Robert M. Gatke, professor of political science and history, that it would be considerably helpful to the individual

Rahe to Send Dale Morgan To Tourney

Dale Morgan, Willamette's representative to the state after-dinner speaking contest, will journey to Linfield to attend the tournament Monday night at 6:30 o'clock. Under the general topic, "American Political Potpourri," Morgan has chosen for his subject, "Elephant vs. Donkey Power."

Although the Reimann Furniture Manufacturing Co. of Salem was completely destroyed by fire during the vacation, Dr. Herbert E. Rahe has received word that the $50 prize money which had previously been given by the company for the first place winner of the state peace oratory contest will still be given. Tryouts for the contest to be held at the University of Oregon, February 10, are being held in the speech department.

In preparation for the Linfield tournament February 27, 28 and March 1, forensic meetings have resumed at four o'clock Monday afternoons. Rahe urges that all students interested in the tournaments should contact him for appointment or attend the speech meetings.

student to make it a point to sit in on sessions of the legislature any time that it is possible.

They believe that the sessions would provide a useful means of applying the techniques studied. They hold the opinion that the classroom becomes artificial too easily and that if more interest were to be taken in the sessions of the legislature greater interest and appreciation of the classroom work would be had.

Rahe said that the students should not only witness the proceedings, but should make any suggestions that would be suitable and in this manner take an active lobbyist's interest in the state government.

National Spanish Honorary Plans Local Chapter Initiation

Sigma Delta Pi, national Spanish honorary, has granted a charter for Beta Zeta chapter of Willamette university. The chapter will be installed on the campus this month by Prof. L. O. Wright from the University of Oregon, who was national president of the honorary for many years.

New members to be initiated

Cavern Slates Higher Prices

WU students will be paying slightly higher prices for some food in the newly decorated 'Cat Cavern, it was announced by Mrs. Susan La Vatta, Cavern manager. Rising food prices have made such an increase necessary until food prices decrease.

A jerk, soda-jerk that is, is needed to work in the 'Cat Cavern on Monday afternoons. Anyone interested in being a jerk to make a living and who has the natural attributes may get further information from 'Cat manager, Mrs. Susan La Vatta.

Nationalization of fraternities is the theme for new Cavern decorations, says Mrs. La Vatta. Crepe paper streamers of light blue and gold, Beta colors; blue and old gold, Sigma Chi colors; and the Phi Delta Theta sky blue and white are hanging from the ceiling and the fraternity's Greek letters are on the walls.

Pre Meds Take Aptitude Test

The medical aptitude test, which must be taken by pre-med students in their last year before applying for entrance to medical school, will be given tomorrow. Applicants must register before 12:00 noon Saturday.

The five and a half hour test, which this year is administered by the graduate record office of the Carnegie Institute, will be given in room 213 Collins, by Dr. Cecil Monk, 9:00-12:00 and 1:30-3:00 Saturday.

Editor Makes Plea For Wallulah Proofs

A final plea for all students to bring back their Wallulah picture proofs was made today by Nancy Hoak, Wallulah editor. Those who have not returned their proofs by January 25 will automatically leave the decision of choosing a yearbook picture up to the photographer.

Students who have not had their picture taken yet must do so during the week of January 20 to 25 or their pictures will not appear in the Wallulah.

Anyone who has ordered additional pictures is urged to check with Bishop-Moderne as soon as possible to see if the pictures are completed.

are Pat Holtz, Vera Jack, Janet Rogers, Dale Jones, Frances Sopp and Claire Zink. Pat Carter and Carola Hays, who were taken into the honorary last year at the University of Oregon, will be members of the Willamette chapter also.

Dr. William D. Moellering, professor of modern and classical languages at Willamette, is first vice-president of the national honorary.

Membership is not limited in number, but requirements, based on high scholarship, state that a prospective member must have three years of college Spanish or an equivalent, three hours of a third year course in literature, at least a B average in all college work, and no grade in Spanish below a B.

Sigma Delta Pi was founded in 1919 at the University of California. At the present time there is only one other chapter in Oregon, located at the University of Oregon. National headquarters for the honorary are located at the university in Kent, Ohio.

Chresto Gets Heat System

Congregations, meetings, gatherings and bull sessions will be much more comfortable in Chresto since the installation of an automatic gas heating system which was put in today.

The use of Chresto as a meeting place had dropped off noticeably with the commencement of cold weather. Perhaps the elimination of fire building chores will encourage more usage of Chresto through the remaining winter months. The room temperature will be maintained at 55 degrees but can be turned up when the building is in use, said Mr. Schwalen.

Willamette Students, A Capella Take Part in 'Color' Production

Two Willamette students, Joe Power and Carl Ritchie, and the University A Capella choir are important parts of a production "Symphony in Color" to be presented at the Salem senior high school. The production, which is an experiment of the university workshop, will be given on Monday, January 27, at 8 p.m.

The Ballet House of Portland will present a group of ballet solos for the first section of the performance.

The second section will be comprised of secular selections representative of the English school of choral writings, sung by the A Cappella choir under the direction of Dean Melvin Geist. Included in the group of four or five compositions will be one by Ravenscroft, a 17th century composer, and one by Vaughn Williams of the 20th century.

The third division, produced by Power and Ritchie, combines ballet, color, lighting effect and patterned form movement. He will occupy the entire stage, having as a background Sibelius' Fifth Symphony. An original poem has been written by Joe Power for this interpretation.

Sets from the university play "Blithe Spirit" presented January 25, must be cleared from the stage and replaced by sets for the production of "Symphony in Color." Tickets for the general public will be on sale soon; Willamette students being admitted with student body cards.

Chocolates Reveal News

The engagement of Margy Whitaker, WU sophomore, to Martin Lane Squires, was announced at the Chi Omega chapter house Monday evening, by the passing of the traditional box of chocolates.

Miss Whitaker, the daughter of Mr. Jock A. Whitaker, of Bellingham, Washington, is a student in the College of Liberal Arts and a pledge of Chi Omega. Her freshman year was completed at Western Washington College of Education.

Mr. Squires, a Delta Chi at the University of Washington, has been majoring in Fisheries since his discharge from the army.

The wedding is planned for early summer.

Sigma Chi Fills New Office Posts

The first meeting of the Delta Zeta chapter of Sigma Chi was held in the newly decorated downstairs dining room of Nohlgren's restaurant Monday night, January 6. The election of officers to fill vacant posts in the chapter was completed and installation of those officers, not yet formally installed, will take place this week.

Assisting the Worthy Consul L. Charles Fairham will be Pro-Consul David Geddes, Annotator William Bonnington, Queasior Keith Evans, Historian Willis Person, Tribune Ray McCoy, Associate Editor Jerry Anderson and Magister Leslie Roberts. Appointive offices of Social Chairman and Athletics Manager were named as Reid Shelton and Dave Bristow, respectively.

Helping to start the tradition of the White Cross was Burns Crooksten, field secretary of Sigma Chi from Utah. Crooksten will remain on the campus long enough to familiarize the newly installed chapter with the various aspects of the fraternity.

Triad Completes Installation With Weekend Initiations

The joint installation of the Miami Triad here following the holidays signal an epoch making change in fraternity history on the campus when Willamette's three locals, Alpha Psi Delta, Kappa Gamma Rho and Sigma Tau were formally initiated into the ranks of national fraternity orders.

The Triad installation which introduced Phi Delta Theta, Beta Theta Pi and Sigma Chi to the university for the first time was the only joint installation of its kind ever held on an American campus.

Following a presentation in Waller hall by the Balfour Company of Massachusetts, of elaborate guest books bearing the respective crests of each chapter, the locals adjourned to separate halls for installation and initiation of both actives and alumni. A large congratulatory pennant which will serve as a trophy for a inter-fraternity contest at some future date was also presented by the Balfour company.

An installation banquet for members of the three fraternities and visiting dignitaries climaxed the week-end's activities Saturday night at the Neighbors of Woodcraft hall in Portland.

Corinne Engdahl (Bishop-Moderne Studio)

Engagement Told by DG Last Night

A telegram received during the dinner hour at the Delta Gamma house last night and the passing of the traditional box of chocolates announced the engagement of Corinne Engdahl, Willamette junior, to David Johnson, junior at the University of Idaho, in Moscow.

Miss Engdahl was forensic manager last year and is "senior" scholar in English for Dr. Egbert S. Oliver this year. She is a member of the Willamette speech squad and is rush chairman for Delta Gamma. Johnson is an affiliate of Beta Theta Pi on the Idaho campus and is majoring in electrical engineering.

Miss Engdahl is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. L. Engdahl of Portland and he is the son of J. Hugo Johnson of Moscow, Idaho.

No date has been set for the wedding.

Couple Wed At St. Pauls

In a family wedding in the chapel of St. Paul Episcopal church, Miss Mary Ann Brady became the bride of Robert Siddoway December 22, at a 2 o'clock ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white marquisette gown with heavy lace at the neckline and a trailing veil. She carried a bouquet of red carnations in a fan shaped arrangement. Miss Carolyn Brady, wore a red crepe dress and carried white carnations as her sister's only attendant. Best man was the groom's father. Soloist, Reid Shelton, sang "Beloved it is Morn."

Following the ceremony a buffet dinner was held at the home of Miss Brady's parents. After a short trip to the coast, the couple returned to Salem for Christmas. They are living in Portland now while Siddoway finishes Oregon Dental school there.

WU Professor's Wife Wins Oregonian Praise

Not many people can say—"I met my husband in jail—" but Mrs. Claire A. Argow, wife of Willamette's sociology professor, can make just such a statement. It seems that Mrs. Argow met her husband-to-be while making a jail survey in the east. She was a member of the committee conducting the survey as was her husband.

"Portland has a pert, vivacious, yet sincere crusader in one of its recently acquired citizens," says the Oregonian in a recent article written about the work of Mrs. Argow, who is executive secretary of the Oregon State Prison association.

Mrs. Argow will speak on the campus January 24 as part of the current series of sociology lectures.

Working as she does with the prison association, Mrs. Argow has a chance to observe both preventative and curative measures in crime control. Differing with psychologists who believe criminals to be mentally ill, Mrs. Argow says that delinquency can stem from many causes, such as poor neighborhoods, lack of education, inadequate parents, and even poor housing.

Graduating from Vassar, Mrs. Argow went on to law school at Yale university and was admitted to the bar in Connecticut and Ohio. She believes that her law training aids her in her work as she "learned to relate a case to others which were similar and to arrive at a conclusion upon that basis." "Law training," she says, "helped to analyze a problem, looking at it clearly and scientifically—not emotionally."

Mrs. Argow has never been plagued by a dull life. Before coming west with Prof. Argow she worked as a director of psychiatric training at the New York State Training School for Boys, conducted a night school class in social science, filled the post of executive secretary of the Council of Social Agencies in Jacksonville, Fla., and was assistant director of a Connecticut prison survey. Aside from her busy life as a social worker she is the mother of a 9-year-old son.

Y Delegates Give Reports

Four Willamette students, Ray Yocom, Winona Dillard, Tom Nakagawa and Muriel Oliver returned this week from the National Assembly of YM-YWCA which was held in Illinois.

The four delegates will give reports of the assembly at a joint meeting Tuesday at 8 o'clock in Chresto cottage.

The assembly, located on the campus of the University of Illinois in Urbana, was attended by nearly 1200 delegates which included many students from South America as well as foreign exchange students.

The National Assembly is the "town meeting" and the legislative and program planning body for 914 student YM-YWCAs. Forms and policies for the next three years are determined at the assembly with the program for legislation headed by William Miller, University of Nebraska, and Mary Ann Mattoon, Pennsylvania State College.

WU Courtmen Play Host to Pacific Tonight

Meet Badgers in Gym at 8:00 In NW Conference Opener

Seeking their tenth Northwest Conference title since the loop's birth way back in 1925, the WU quint opens the regular 1946-1947 basketball season against Pacific U tonight in the university gym. This game starts at 8 p.m., with a 6:45 Jay-Vee affair preceding the varsity clash.

Although Willamette holds a 31-11 advantage in games played during the 21 year rivalry, past scores are of little value in determining the victors between these two outfits. Pacific will be attempting to add this year's crown to their lone loop title garnered 12 years ago. Since the Badgers have already dropped two to UBC, they will be after the 'Cats' scalp to raise their loop percentage.

Two of Willamette's most successful years in conference play were 1937, when the 'Cat five won 10 straight, and 1939, when they ended the season with 13 victories and a single loss. Two stretches of three years each saw the Methodists cop the bunting, in '29, '30, '31, and again in '37, '38 and '39.

In preparation for this year's conference season, Coach Elmer Schaake's basketballers completed the eight-game warmup schedule Monday night with a 50-39 victory over St. Martin's college. This game was preceded by the disastrous jaunt to California, where the Bearcats split with Humboldt State and dropped two to San Jose State, 38-53, and 41-47.

Individual scoring for the WU squad has narrowed to a four-man race with angular Wes Saxton holding a precarious one-point margin over Scotty Sebern, 55 points to 54. Frank Page and Al McRae are tied close behind with 52.

'Cat Juniors Yield in Final Minutes to OSC JVs, 29-27

Coach Otto Skopil saw his Jayvees go down to defeat once again to the Oregon State junior varsity, by a close 29-27 margin. The game, played last Wednesday on the Corvallis floor, was the first post-yuletide contest for the Jayvees. Willamette played its best ball in the first half, leaving the floor at halftime with a 14-10 lead. However, as in the first game at Willamette four weeks ago, OSC came back in the last half to overhaul the locals by a thin margin. High point honors of the game went to three Bearcats and one Beaver, all of whom dropped in seven counters apiece. They were Johnson, Cline and Bates of Willamette and Ballantyne of Oregon State.

The defeat was the second in four tries for the Jayvees, both at the hands of the Beavers. Vanport, so far, has been put into the loss column twice by the Bearcats. A 60-29 score was the verdict of the first game and a somewhat duplicate score of 60-34 was rung up in the second contest on December 19 at Vanport.

Tonight at 6:30 the Jayvees will enter into their fifth contest and third win, they hope, against Pacific university's junior varsity in a preliminary contest to the main event. Games against Lewis and Clark Tuesday, and with Pacific Friday away. Both contests will be played at 6:30 p.m. preliminary to varsity games.

Lineups and scoring of last Wednesday's fracas were:

Organization Of Ski Group Starts Tuesday

All men and women who are interested in the possibility of forming a Ski club on the campus are urged by Donald Douris, who has been appointed by the student council to get organization underway, to attend the first meeting in Chresto cottage Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Questions about skiing accommodations at Mt. Hood and on Hoodoo Bowl will be answered by representatives of the Sanliam Ski club at the meeting.

The club will be a student body organization and is open to all who are interested in skiing. If plans materialize and enough student interest is shown, it will be possible for Willamette to be represented in future competitive ski events.

CAT CAGERS

By Mulkey

Wes Saxton

Not exactly a new face around the campus or the basketball court, Wes Saxton, who plays a competent game of forward for the Bearcats, did a stretch here in '42.

The easy-going 'Cat learned his sports ABC's at Clover Park high school just outside of Tacoma, Wash., in the great North country. Wes played three years of basketball under the famous ex-Willamette star, Bill Lemon. "This," says Saxton, "was a great influence on my coming here."

After finishing his first year at Willamette and earning a letter in basketball; Wes served three years in the navy. He was in the air corps and later became an athletic specialist under Spec Keene. This constituted recreational work in the 12th Naval District in San Francisco.

The 6'2" forward proves he's air-minded by indulging in model airplane building as a hobby. But he also has his feet on the ground in the role of being a father of twins. (In a recent survey, it was found that no other Willamette athlete has been the parent of two of a kind while in competition.)

However, all his outside interests do not seem to interfere with court capability or with his easy, relaxed style of play.

The likeable Wes is a political science major and a sophomore.

Frosh Cagers Play Opening Tilt Monday

Willamette's frosh casaba squad, representatives in the local commercial league, open their schedule this Monday night in a contest with the Talbot Mint Men.

Up to this time, the frosh, coached by Bill Hanauska, have participated in only one practice game besides playing in the league's jamboree opener last Monday at Leslie junior high. The practice game, played on December 18, against the Presbyterians of the Salem church league, resulted in a 33-25 triumph for the locals. The outcome of the four-minute jamboree opener with the Master Bread basketweavers was a 6-4 victory for the breadmakers.

Adam Hat Trophy Committee To Honor Willamette Athlete

Willamette university has recently received official notification from the Adam Hat Welfare committee that it has been selected as one of the colleges to be awarded the Jack Dempsey Adam Hat Sports Welfare Trophy.

This trophy, which is to be awarded annually, will be given to the outstanding athlete at each of the selected colleges. To date, 400 universities in the United States have been included as recipients of the trophy.

'Cats Nip Halo-Men in Close Post-Holiday Court Tilt, 50-39

Willamette university's basketballers caught fire in the last six minutes to win their final pre-season tussel Monday night against St. Martin's college, 50-39, in a loosely-played contest at the partly-filled Bearcat gym. The warm-up clash was the last outing before Friday's conference-opener with Pacific U.

Although the Saints from Lacey, Wash., paced by guard Vince Pashkowski, demonstrated a second-half scoring spurt that narrowed the gap to one point, 30-29, they shot their wad with the effort, and the 'Cats pulled away after the mid-point. Wes Saxton, WU forward, was the big gun as the Methodists racked up the 50-39 final tally.

The second half developed into a duel between St. Martin's driving Pashkowski and Willamette's lanky Saxton, each man canning 11 markers. Pashkowski concentrated on unstoppable left-handers from the corner, while Saxton countered with rebounds, spectacular over-the-head shut-eyes, and occasionally an orthodox goal.

'Cats Lead at Half

Don Barnick opened the 'Cat

scoring at the one-minute mark, but the Saint quint tied it up 6-6 with three minutes played. Willamette eased ahead after that, aided by Bob Perry and Duane Ragsdale, to tally a 20-14 half-time score.

The Schaake-coached five started the second half in earnest, going ahead 26-15 after just four minutes. But then came St. Martin's aforementioned splurge, to almost eliminate the margin midway through the second canto, before Saxton and Al McRae combined forces to sew up the outcome.

Saxton led the winners with 13, closely followed by McRae with 10. St. Martin's attack was directed by Pashkowski with 13.

Sport Curios

Throughout the nation this week the fans, who rooted for the Bambino when he was belting those tremendous homers for the New York Yankees during the golden 20's, were pulling for Babe Ruth to overcome another one of the many ailments that have plagued him in his 51 years.

After reading this we dug out our Encyclopedia of Sports for some revealing statistics on baseball's big guy who made the home run a national institution.

In individual records, Babe Ruth has over half of them, 12 out of 22. He played in the most world series—10; he has the best average in one series—.625, four games in 1928; most series over .300—.6; most runs, series lifetime—.37; most runs in one game—4, Oct. 6, 1926 (has been tied since then); most hits single series—10, 4 games, 1928; most home runs, series lifetime—15; most home runs one game—3, on two occasions, Oct. 6, 1926, and Oct. 9, 1928; most total base series lifetime—96; most extra base hits series lifetime—22; most bases on balls—33; and most times struck out—30.

Giants Take Mural Hoop Lead With Win Over Independents; Phi Delt A's Trounce Betas

By Bill Reder

Forward Marv Goodman of the Giants took over leadership in the intra-mural individual scoring race, by passing Betoui of the Law school, who has set the pace the last two weeks. Goodman picked up 11 points this week in the game against the Independents, while Betoui's team had their game postponed.

Only two games were played this week, but these two games brought about some big changes in the team standings. The Giants with their win over the previously undefeated Independents move into undisputed first place, with the Independents moving down to the number two spot. The Phi Delt "A" squad finally broke into the win column with their victory over the Betas. This win moved the "A" from the cellar to fourth place.

Phi Delt's Win

The Phi Delt's and Betas both went into their game Wednesday with neither team having much to lose. However the usual rivalry between these two squads arose, which brought about a fast and furious game. Neither team were hitting the hoop with any degree of accuracy. At the half time score was 16 to 14 for the Phi Delt's, who maintained a one or two point lead the whole first half.

The second half brought out an inspired Phi Delt five, which went on a 7 point scoring spree to increase their lead over the fighting Bears 23 to 14. The Betas, however, cut this lead to 4 points only to have the Phis cut loose again to bring the final score up to 27 to 20.

Jones for the Betas was high for the losers with 9 points, and James of the Phis also with 9 for the winners.

Giants Break Tie

The game that all were waiting for, between the two teams tied for first place, was played Wednesday with the Giants walking off with the long end of the 21-14 score.

The favored Giants were pressed the first half, as the Independents penetrated the Giants' tight zone defense to tie the score, repeatedly. The Giants however held a 3 point advantage at the half time whistle.

In the second half the offensive of the Giants started to click, and with Goodman potting a couple of lay-ins, the Giants pulled away with a safe 16 to 8 lead. From here the big boys coasted to victory, the final score being 21 to 14.

Johnsrud for the Independents not only was the high point man with 6, but was also the outstanding player for his team. No man on the Giants' team could be chosen outstanding, as all of the big boys played stellar ball.

Goodman was high for the Giants with 11 points.

Lettermen to Meet Monday, Discuss Dance, W-Queen

A meeting of the Varsity club on campus has been called for this coming Monday, January 13, at 11:45 a.m., in the chapel. The meeting will be brief, but important, as it is felt necessary to plan preliminary organization for the forthcoming all-school dance to be sponsored by the Lettermen, and also to decide issues with regard to the election of a Varsity Queen.

The dance is scheduled on the social calendar for February 28, which is still a month and a half away, but an early meeting will enable advance publicity to arouse interest in the Varsity Queen, who will rule over, and be presented at the dance.

The Varsity Queen selection is to supplant the Wallulah Queen of last year, and it is hoped that this will inaugurate a yearly tradition. In order not to conflict with the May Queen, present plans call for the queen of the varsity ball to be chosen earlier in the spring, and only candidates from the freshman class may be considered.

The W-Men advanced tentative information that the set-up may run something on the order of a princess to be selected to represent each sport, with the final selection of one of those princesses to rule as queen.

More definite information is expected following the meeting Monday.

Co-Action ..

By Cannon

Starting of the New Year with a flourish are the many women's recreational activities which are scheduled for this month. A play day, a ski trip and banquet are all on the program for the near future as well as the more normal routine activities.

Archery Tournament

Currently drawing attention is the call which has been issued forth for all talented archers on the campus to report to the gym Tuesday afternoon when the last day of the archery tournament will be held. All scores should be turned in by that time to Jerry Jewett, archery manager. The tournament is open to any coed desiring to participate.

WAA Banquet

A banquet at which new members of WAA will be installed into the organization will be held in the Lausanne dining room on January 17. Berniece Hughes is general chairman of the affair. Assisting her will be Nan Wilcox, who is in charge of entertainment, Jerry Jewett who will handle programs, and Helen Larson, chairman of the invitation committee. All of the old members as well as the new additions to the club are invited.

Interscholar Playday

On January 18th, the members of women's athletic association of Willamette will be hostesses to a group of Linfield women who will participate in a playday to be held in the gym that day. Volleyball and badminton will be the main program for the day with a snack bar furnishing refreshments a feature in the afternoon. Muriel Oliver has been appointed to head the committees for this event.

Ski Trip

A warning is hereby issued to all ski enthusiasts to save January the 25th. The women's athletic association is sponsoring a jaunt to skiing country for that day for its members and anyone else interested in going. Further information may be received from Mrs. Williams in the gym office or Ellen Forslund.

That Old Bearcat Spirit . . .

Not to point the finger at any body, or at any of a thousand bodies, did any of the few spectators that were present happen to notice that huge vacant building that some kids were running around in Monday night??? They were playing basketball, I'm told, over in the Willamette gym, which can hold easily the 1000 students in our student body, but it was so empty that the few spectators got lonely, and at one time, about four of them managed to group together to respond to the futile cheerleading attempts.

All kidding aside, Monday night was a disgraceful showing of school spirit and school support, and the hope is fervently raised that we will at least have more students in the gym tonight than will Pacific. It's your team, students, so back it! Once again we'll remind you that Willamette students and rooters are to enter the EAST door, and occupy the SOUTH bleachers and balcony. We think that the team can withstand the shock of a fully-packed, supporting crowd, and who knows, it might do them some good!

The thought also comes to mind that here might be a chance for our fraternities and sororities, (which, after all, are supposed to be more than social organizations on campus), to make a real stride forward in the boosting of school spirit and team morale by wholeheartedly supporting our teams with complete attendance, and so set the pattern for the rest of the school.

Conference Tilt . . .

This game that our 'Cat cagers are playing tonight will be their initial attempt this season within conference circles. Even in view of their rather awkward showing last Monday evening, we're still of the opinion that "we're better 'n' he are" tonight, and we'll be pulling for Bearcats all the way.

Added interest to tonight's fracas might lie in the fact that one or two ex-Willamette men will be on the floor in Badger uniforms.

Intramural Runaround ???

We realize that undoubtedly varsity sports of any kind certainly rate over 'mural play, but the slowness of intramural play of late, and the rather incompleteness of the whole 'mural program leads us to wonder if maybe the lesser sports aren't being relegated to a position far below what they should hold.

Even in a college the size of Willamette, a very small percentage of the students ever get to participate in varsity sports, and we feel that the position of a university should be to provide a well rounded complete sports program available to all. Our varsity program is well-established. Is our intramural department doing all it can??

Ski Possibility . . .

We're glad to note that there's still some talk of ski-clubbing around campus, and they've even gone so far as to slate a meeting for next week. That's all very well, because over and above the fun and enjoyment that the club will have in itself, out of this humble beginning, we hope to see, maybe not this year, but surely next, a varsity ski team to represent the Cardinal and Gold in various collegiate meets hereabout.

'Spirit' Directors Carry On Earthly Tasks

Set Building Taxes Muscles, Ingenuity, Producers Discover

Modern Willamette set directors must be adept in everything from climbing about Waller's gable with drilling tools in their teeth to searching for sets in the girls' locker room in the gym, or at least that seems the case with Carl Ritchie, executor of set designs for WU's production of "Blithe Spirit."

Ablly assisted by Joe Power, Ritchie's partner since school days at Salem high, he has confronted one problem after another in leading up to the climax January 24 when the "Big Movement" begins. This movement, anticipated with crossed fingers and prayers for sunshine, involves lowering the entire set from the attic workshop in Waller to the ground and onto a truck. Lifting 2x4s and old sets into the attic by means of a pulley were difficult enough, but when it comes to shoving a 33-inch wide fireplace through the 35-inch window, that's really going to take planning.

Bertrand Hit By Cold Blast

Raoul Bertrand, professor of the philosophy department, recently returned from an extended business trip in Canada where he reported temperatures as low as 40 degrees below zero and had the rear fender of his Mercury dented by a truck the first morning after arriving in Salem.

Said Bertrand, "I had that auto shipped over the Rockies by freight, drove in Vancouver, B.C. in ice and fog, then the first morning in Salem while traveling at a very moderate rate of speed I am bumped by a truck."

Bertrand will speak next week to Salem's 20-30 club.

Weds to Pay Dues

Dues for the Weds, campus married students club, will be one dollar per couple, officers of the club recently announced. The dues will hold for the remainder of the school year and may be paid at the student body office in the basement of Waller hall.

$ Sheckle Snatch $

Male sheckle-snatchers are much in demand this week as part-time jobs offering employment to the stronger sex (whether in brains or brawn) dominate the extra-sheckle column.

Alert male students who wish to emulate advertising magnates in "The Hucksters" should apply for the first-rung-in-the-ladder position at the Statesman advertising office. Afternoon work of three to six hours, and one hour's work in the morning at 75c an hour are specifications.

Stomach ulcers and acquiring of great wealth are generally accepted attributes of the insurance business, but the hardy sheckle-snatching student (male) who will find a part-time job selling insurance for commission to his liking should apply to Dr. Lawrence A. Riggs, Dean of students.

Recommended as consolation sheckle-snatching for veterans' wives are the full-time secretarial jobs at the university, with shorthand a necessity.

Social Work Talks Resume Today at Noon

Lectures, which are sponsored by the sociology department will be resumed today with the sixth, in a series of eight, to be given in Eaton hall at noon. The lectures are held in room two and begin at 12:15 o'clock.

Today's lecturer, Edwin Rounds, is state relations officer with the American Red Cross and is from Portland. His subject will be "Red Cross and the Volunteer."

Next Friday Joseph J. King will speak on the subject "Personnel." King is regional personnel farm security officer.

The last lecture of the series will be on January 24 when Mrs. Clair A. Argow will speak on "Social Action." Mrs. Argow is the wife of Willamette sociology Professor Argow and executive secretary of the Oregon Prison association.

Purpose of the series is to bring students in contact with social workers, to help them to discover the vocational aspects of the field and to arouse their interest in social work as a profession.

The US public, which had begun to doubt the old adage that what goes up must come down, got a pleasant surprise last week according to Life magazine who states that for the first time since the beginning of the war, department stores over the country had offered their first real bargain sales. Though, experts say, last week's price dive was partly a liquidation of unbalanced inventories, the news seemed to forecast lower levels to come and may indicate the passing of the high cost of living peak.

labor continues its round of strikes for increased wages, domestic peace and prosperity will be unattainable. However, events of the past two weeks have made the President feel more optimistic about both these issues than ever before.

Street orator Phillip Baker demanded that Portland, Oregon police protect his right of free speech and said that every time he opened his mouth a listening drunk tossed in a penny; while across the country in Grand Rapids, Mich., 13 year old Marjorie Baker made news by marrying a 23-year-old ex-convict and explained her actions by saying: "I just couldn't stand the thought of going through the seventh grade again."

Pajama-clad ex-paratrooper Thomas Thomas bailed out of his second-floor bedroom, landed unhurt and then explained, "I could swear I heard the sergeant yell 'Jump!'" In Tokio, ricksha boys and pedestrians sprinted their damndest to comply with the US Army installed 35 mph speed limit signs.

A former Kamikaze pilot, 22 year old Robert Nishiyama, is going to America, some day, for a college education offered by the parents of US army private Robert Johnston of Dowington, Pa., who say that the scholarship was suggested by their son before his death in battle on Luzon, in the hope that it would cause better understanding between Japanese and Americans. Nishiyama, who is married to a 1940 graduate of Stanford university said: "I want to try my best to repay Mr. and Mrs. Johnston for the loss of their son; I can do this only by giving my small bit toward establishing good will between our two countries."

President Truman, according to his closest advisers, feels that there are only two outstanding problems confronting America today: Russia and labor. So long as the Soviet remains suspicious, recalcitrant, or aggressive, world peace is an illusion. So long as
