

By GEORGE McLEOD

The wild rumors, the hysteria, the veiled threats, and the rash promises that are made in the last days of a spirited campaign provide the pyrotechnics of American politics. All this is true of Oregon's 1938 gubernatorial race.

The most sensational development of the week was a dispatch from Washington run in the Portland Oregonian indicating that President Roosevelt would endorse Henry Hess for the governorship of Oregon in the Democratic primaries.

Friends of Governor Charles Martin, Hess' opponent in the primaries, wired their protests to the east. James Farley, postmaster general and chairman of the Democratic national committee, disavowed such intention on the part of the national administration.

Had the president intervened the Oregon election would have been thrown into wild confusion and turmoil. Martin's backers heaved a huge sigh of relief upon learning that the report was unfounded. It is said that Dick Neuberger, Martin critic and newspaper man now in the national capital, was behind the Washington dispatch.

Henry Hess, La Grande, former state senator, continues to make a whirlwind campaign. With the endorsement of the ruling bodies of A.F.L. and C.I.O. the Oregon Commonwealth Federation and the backing of veteran Oregon politicians such as State Senator Byron Carney and ex-Congressman Elton Watkins, he is prepared to fire both barrels at Governor Martin a week from today.

Governor Martin is concentrating his attention upon Multnomah county in the closing hours of the campaign. He anticipates his hardest fight in the metropolitan area.

Reports from across the country indicate that the entire nation is anxiously watching for the results from the Democratic primary here in Oregon. The vote is attracting interest comparable to the once famous Borah-Ross contest for an Idaho senatorship, the Copeland, Mahoney, La Guardia mayoralty campaign in New York last fall, and Senator Pepper's colorful battle in Florida a week ago.

On the Republican side organized labor's leaders have endorsed Sprague and Brown, denouncing Henry Hansen.

The undercurrents in Oregon politics shift rapidly. A man surprisingly popular in May may be utterly forgotten in November. Many are betting that the Republican candidate will be a formidable contender next November. The GOP nomination is being hotly sought.

The Republican party, disastrously beaten with Senator Dunne in 1934, is not going to let this election go by default. Every evidence points to the fact that Republican leaders, remembering the days of Governors Meter and Patterson, are set to make a terrific battle.

Henry Hansen, Portland, in forceful, vigorous radio addresses, is climbing into the running, in bold, fearless fashion he is denouncing the Norris-La Guardia and Wagner Acts. Hansen is basing his campaign upon the contention that law and order is the only important issue before the people May 20.

Charles Sprague, Salem, has made a tremendously effective campaign. His securing of labor's blessing is a distinct surprise to many. Sprague, well thought of in the valley, has definitely become the man to beat for the Republican prize.

Faith of Eugene with Townsend backing and Senator Sam Brown of Gervasia, who has never polled less than 40,000 votes in an Oregon election, are still in the thick of an eight-man GOP race.

The most dangerous result of these deep rifts in the primary campaign is that their bitterness may carry over into the November general elections.

For instance, it is widely rumored that if Martin is nominated a large block of Hess voters will support the Republican nominee next fall, and vice versa.

This much at least is sure. Nothing is certain in love, war, or politics. May the best man win.

Program Concludes 1938 Season For Local Gleemen

The Songmen are to be heard in their annual "home" concert on Wednesday night, May 18th, at Waller hall. The club has not been heard publicly thus far, singing only at a few special events.

General comments and reports on concerts given are to the effect that this year's club is superior to any of previous years.

Following the Benson high concert, the Oregonian in a lengthy review, stated that it was one of the finest performances heard this year. The News-Telegram said, "equal to the work of any similar concert heard in Portland this year."

Tickets are on sale by members of the club, prices being 25 cents for adults and 15 cents for students.

Luther spent Friday afternoon and Saturday, May 6th and 7th, on the Reed College campus as the official delegate of the Stanford Chapter of Phi Beta Kappa at the installation of a chapter of the society at Reed. Dr. Robert A. Millikan, of California Institute of Technology presided at the installation and delivered the principal address. Conferences on the subject of scholarship, and a banquet were other features of the occasion.

W. S. Chambers Speaks At May 11 Chapel

Mr. Claude Kells, secretary of the Salem Y.M.C.A., presented Mr. W. S. Chambers, secretary of the northwest division of the Y.M.C.A., as chapel speaker on May 11. Mr. Chambers gave an informing address on this social service organization telling its motives and principles. He also spoke of the possibilities for young men to enter this type of work as a career. The rest of his stay on the campus was devoted to meeting students interested in such a vocation.

Six Greek Letter Organizations Are Established On W.U. Campus Immediately After World War

Following the World war fraternities and sororities were in an experimental stage at Willamette. Organization was in the form of clubs of a social or dramatic nature. Much consideration was required before the board of trustees in January, 1921, recognized the organizations to be for the interests of the school. It was realized that the societies would render desirable effects in the development of the university.

Today Willamette boasts six living organizations: three sororities and three fraternities. The houses are all organized and each provides suitable living accommodations for an average of 20 students.

Of the sororities, Beta Chi was the first to be organized, having been founded in 1919. The present house is located on 1445 State street.

Baxter Teaches Homiletics Class

Young Ministers Given Assistance This Year

Dr. Bruce R. Baxter, taking a sincere interest in the student pastors and religious workers of the student body, has given a homiletics class every other week this semester. He has been assisted by Professor H. E. Rahe. Both have given freely of their time to inspire and instruct the student religious leaders.

Bruce Grosclose is the pastor of the Methodist church at Turner. His church has been visited by the Willamette Wesleyans several times. Bruce plans to be admitted into the membership of the Oregon Conference before long. Under the direction of Rev. Grosclose, Lawrence Guiderian recently conducted a week of evangelistic services in the Turner Methodist church. Lawrence is serving the Roberts Community church at the present time. It is interesting to know that Lawrence has an active Men's Brotherhood as well as Ladies' Aid.

Ralph Kleen, senior, preaches in the Woodburn First Methodist church. A large percentage of his congregation, says Ralph, are young people. Rev. Kleen is a soloist and enjoys to present sacred concerts. After graduating here at Willamette this spring, Ralph Kleen will complete the detail plans for continuing his education at a seminary, perhaps Drew or maybe Berkeley.

The Brooks Methodist church is being served by Robert Laws. Robert has had this charge for about a year. He reports that the church is growing. Mr. Laws has sponsored a series of evening meetings inviting outside speakers. At present he is making plans for a series of evangelistic meetings.

Carl Mason is the pastor at Donkin Community church. In getting new interest and enthusiasm aroused Carl leads a choir, has an Epworth league and gives sacred concerts, beside his regular services. He is taking solo work with Professor Marshall, has two years left at Willamette and plans to enter a seminary after graduating.

Minneman, Voss Get Scholarships

Ed Minneman, Salem, a major in speech, and John Voss, St. Helens, a major in history and political science, have each been awarded $400 scholarships to Harvard for next year. It was announced Thursday.

While the amount allotted on the scholarships will have to be augmented a great deal by the two recipients in order to complete a year's study, it is considered an unusually high honor to receive such awards and both boys expect to take advantage of the offer.

Minneman has compiled an auspicious record in forensics and other extra-curricular activities, while Voss has been active in Y. M.C.A. and Vespers.

Contest Awards To Be Given On May 26

The awards for the recent library contest are to be presented at the regular chapel exercises, May 28.

The speaker of that morning will be the Reverend George H. Smith, pastor of the Episcopal Church of Salem. His subject will deal with library reading. Following Reverend Smith's address, the prizes will be awarded.

Considering The Changes

Changes suggested for the constitution of the associated student body organization were presented to students by this year's constitutional revision committee in last week's issue of the Collegian. The suggested changes are four in number:

- 1. To take away membership on the executive committee from the Collegian and Wallulah editors; 2. To remove the clause from the constitution which enables students to pay student body fees with promissory notes; 3. To allot 2% of the A.S.W.U. budget to dramatics, cutting 1 1/2% from the amount now allotted the forensic department and 1/2% of 1% from the Wallulah fund; and 4. Setting the date for appointment of a dramatic manager and a freshman handbook editor. They should be considered carefully by every member of the student body before a vote is called for on May 20. Too easy is it for a group to put over an unsound proposition at a meeting such as our student assemblies if the measures have not been carefully surveyed prior to the meeting.

WHY KICK 'EM OFF?

Probably the most inane constitutional change suggested in recent years is the plan to remove the two editors of the student publications from the executive committee. In presenting the idea members of the revision committee mentioned that "the two editors weren't actually student body officers," that "they weren't usually included on executive committees of other schools," and "that the paper wouldn't necessarily be under the censorship of the committee."

The two editors are as much student body officers as any other member of the executive committee. They are elected by a student vote just as the president, vice-president, and the secretary are elected. In schools where the positions are filled by appointment from a publication's board or by working (Continued on page 2)

May Week-end Judged Huge Success; Schedule Fullest in Years; Coronation Colorful

May Week-End, held for the purpose of acquainting high school students with Willamette university, was officially opened last Friday evening with an A.L.W.U. dance. It was one of the most enjoyable dances of the year. The armory was beautifully decorated for the affair and Moris Hinford's orchestra played, distinguishing the evening with several clever novelty numbers.

Festivities were opened Saturday morning with the traditional Y.W.C.A. breakfast held on the lawn to the right of the Science hall in honor of Queen Irma I. Queen Irma I and Princesses Mary Jeanette Sargent and Alice Speck, Crown Prince George Abbot, and Princess Charles Neville and Herman Estes; and the court Barbara Crookham, "Ton" Cummings, Jean Hollingworth, Willard Petre, Charles Dunbar, and Ralph Nohlgren.

At 10:00, the academic procession began, followed immediately by the dedication of the new library. Dr. Zillman gave the dedication address.

The freshmen pulled the sophomores to a bitter defeat in record-breaking time at the annual tug-o-war between the two rivals.

The afternoon began with the coronation. True to tradition, Gwendolyn Gallaher McCullough who ruled over last year's festivities, crowned Irma Oehler, Queen Irma I. Queen Irma reigned graciously and charmingly assisted by the two lovely princesses over her willing subjects. Kloth Sherman, Burris Preston, Manning Nelson and Kendall Tysinger acted as heralds to the queen. The program prepared by loyal subjects began with a solo, "Life," by Burris Preston. Then the villagers came to dance and due homage to their queen, followed by Rose Anne Gibson, who danced alone and was later joined by her entire band. An amusing excerpt from "Alice in Wonderland" was also given. Enid Wittingham made an effective and pleasing "Alice." The court jesters enacted by Mary Head and Marjorie Herr were high-light of the whole event. The program was climaxed by the May-pole dance which proved very effective.

A double-header baseball game followed the coronation exercises between Willamette and Pacific university. Willamette being victorious in each game, winning 3 to 0 in the first and 10 to 5 in the second.

The production, "Stage Door," starring Mary Kells, was presented Saturday night to a huge audience in the Leslie junior high auditorium and was enthusiastically received by all.

The week-end was brought to a close with the presentation of Gounod's St. Cecilia's Mass by the Willamette Philharmonic choir at the First M. E. church, Sunday evening.

This year's celebration has been one of the most colorful and delightful that Willamette has seen in some time. Also, it brought an exceptionally grand group of young people to the campus whom we all hope enjoyed themselves and made the most of traditional Willamette hospitality.

May Week-end Huge Success

Last week's junior May week-end ceremonies were the most successful in recent years. One of the highlights was the crowning of Queen Irma I, on Saturday. Miss Oehler and her princesses, Mary Jeanette Sargent and Alice Speck, are shown here in a typical campus scene.

Change of Policy For Y.M. Slated

Robertson, Schmidt To Seek Presidency Monday

Planning complete reorganization measures for the next year the Y.M.C.A. on the campus announced this week plans that will enable every boy on the campus interested in joining and working in a Christian organization to become a member of a live-wire group.

The purpose of the club has been conceived to "sponsor and encourage Christian character in school life," and to "provide an adequate social program."

Election of officers for next year will be held in Eaton hall Monday morning. Anyone interested in Y.M.C.A. or Hi-Y activities is eligible to vote. The candidates include: President, Francis Schmidt and Dayton Robertson; vice-president, Sumner Galaher and Raynor Smith; secretary, Bill Thomas, Bill Parker, Ralph Woodall; treasurer, Max Hauser, Charles Donaldson, and Leonard Laws.

Delta Theta To Sponsor Banquet

The annual district Founders' Day formal banquet of Delta Theta Phi, national legal fraternity, is to be held at the Waverly club, in Portland, May 14.

The banquet will give recognition to members who are presently on the bench and will honor those distinguished jurists after whom the district senates have been named: Williams, Portland Alumni Senate; Deady, University of Oregon Senate, and Wolverson, the Willamette University Senate. Mr. Justice Hall S. Lusk of the state supreme court, Judge Don Long of the circuit court for Multnomah county, and Judge J. Hunt Hendrickson of the district court for Multnomah county and their wives will act as honorary patrons and patronesses. They will appear appropriately on the program.

Those in charge have been fortunate in securing as principal speaker Mr. John Logan, a distinguished member of the Oregon bench, and presently counsel for the Oregonian. Mr. Logan, better than any other living man, knows the intimate details of the lives and of the practice of the three jurists from whom the respective chapters take name. He knew them intimately and is a historian of no small reputation, as well as being distinguished, witty and a clever after-dinner speaker. His choice as principal speaker was made after the services of Dr. Bruce Baxter could not be secured.

Mr. Ralph Hoelber, presently an instructor of Northwestern College of Law and at St. Helens hall, will be toastmaster for the evening. He was formerly instructor at the University of Oregon and has been engaged as guest professor at the University of Hawaii for the coming school year.

Cap and Gown Honors Five New Pledges

Dean Jamison, Mortar Board of O. S. C. Installs

New Initiates Honored With Banquet On Thursday

Betty Craney, Salem; Suzanne Curtis, Portland; Betty Dotsou, Salem; June Johnson, Salem, and Martha Okuda, Salem, were pledged to Cap and Gown, women's scholastic honorary on the campus, Thursday morning during chapel.

Assisting in the ceremonies was Dean Jamison of Oregon State college, the principal speaker of the morning, and the Oregon State chapter of Mortar Board, national scholastic honorary for women.

Thursday evening the new pledges were feted at a banquet by the graduating members of the organization, Irma Oehler, Ina Bennett, Barbara Crookham, Lillian Hart, and Betty Taylor. Dean Olive M. Dahl, adviser, was also present.

Elsinore Theater Plans WU Night

Martha Raye and Ben Blue, really strut their stuff in the new musical hit, "College Swing," with Burns and Allen and a great supporting cast, which opens at the Elsinore next week. Also scheduled for Thursday evening, May 19th, will be "Willamette Night," with songs and yells, and gala stage show composed of some school's best talented performers. Ralph Nohlgren will lead the band boys and girls in some novelty numbers that has made the band famous. Acting as mistress of ceremonies will be June Johnson, last year's capable song leader, and today the school's able leader of social events. Topping the program of fun and gags will be the Big Apple contest with $5 cash prize to the winning couple, and many other prizes to those placing down the list.

Arrangements have been made with Manager Carl Porter to reserve a section of the Elsinore theatre to Willamette students only, in order that the students might retain his "just one big happy family" spirit during the entire evening show. Don't make another date; make sure you attend "Willamette Night" Thursday, May 13, at the Elsinore theatre.

Paintings Are Loaned By Leo Fairbanks

Leo Fairbanks, head of the Art Department of Oregon State college, has loaned two lovely oil paintings to Lausanne hall. The paintings, which will be left at the dormitory for the remainder of the semester, have aroused much favorable comment.

Fraternities and Sororities Take Pains With Rushes On May Week End; Question: Who Suffers Most

Another May Week-End over, another queen crowned, another junior play finished, and I have another nervous breakdown. The poor rushes looked almost as exhausted as the college students as the last carload was waved goodbye. With the departure of the last guest, the boys took off their shoes, and the girls let down their hair and went into quiet fits of hysteria or the nearest bed.

It's a wonder that some of the rushes got home intact and all in one piece the way the fraternities and sororities packed seven or eight prospective students in a room and bed meant for two. When the rushes, with the memory of a glamorous week-end, return next fall, they will find conditions changed. Instead of a date, they will have a broom thrust at them. Instead of the best bed in the house, they are given a mattress in the basement. Instead of chicken and noodles for dinner, they are given stew and applesauce—and like it.

We were certainly disgusted with the sophomores in the freshman-sophomore tug-o-war when we saw the teams lining up, we were placing bats right and left on the smiling sophomores, who were twice as big as the poor frosh. The poor freshmen spectators were quaking in their boots, and we sophomores smiled confidently, sure that this would be as overwhelming a victory as the Freshman Glee and Inter-Class Speech contest. But something happened. The sophomores must have been sitting up too many nights and wearing out too many park benches, because the freshmen played with the sophomores like a cat with a mouse. The frosh would let the sophomores get just enough rope to get out of the Mill Stream, then they would pull them in again. Oh, it was a lot of fun—for the freshmen.

The biggest laugh of the Junior play was when the picture of Maude Adams fell of the wall. Only it wasn't Maude Adams—it was Eleanor Duse; and the second time it didn't fall accidentally—it was pushed. We liked the line of "There goes Duse—off again!"

Now there's nothing to look forward to but final exams and summer vacation, and who wants to look forward to that? Why is it that whenever something nice is coming to you, you have to go through such misery first?

 one's way into the job, the editors are rarely on the executive committee. However, when elected, as they are here, by a student ballot, they are almost invariably members of the board of officers.

The committee is now composed of 12 members—the six student body officers, four class representatives, a faculty representative, and a law school representative. The committee meets bi-monthly to consider ways and means of regulating student affairs. Who on that committee is more capable of knowing the details of these pertinent problems concerning student activities than either of the editors whose work comes in closer contact with these activities and the people concerned than any of the other members? Why, if the interest of the students of the A. S. W. U. is really at heart, has the constitutional revision committee suggested cutting the two people who can best look out for these interests from the committee. If it is to save two meals a month (the committee meets at a local restaurant once monthly) why not start the cutting somewhere else—some of the class representatives, two of whom have spoken less than two dozen words all year at committee meetings; or the second vice-president whose job and work is least important of all the A.S.W.U. officers and who hardly, unless extremely active in student activities, can be expected to voice too valuable an opinion. No—the editors must remain if students desire to have just consideration of their affairs in the executive committee and want continued freedom from censorship on their publications. VOTE AGAINST THE PROPOSED AMENDMENT?

MONEY FOR DRAMA?
 Why not? The drama department, completely devoid of equipment or money to purchase the same, has struggled along under the capable hands of Mrs. Genevieve Thayer Oppen, gradually improving upon its work until we have a department that is a credit to the school. All that department needs is a bit of financial encouragement from the student body to accomplish the results we would have it attain. In return for that money from the A.S.W.U. the department would produce two plays free to student body members each year and sponsor a play contest.

Where is the money coming from? The proposal is to cut the greater share of it from the forensic budget which, at present, receives 5 1/2% of student funds—or 1% more than goes to the social fund. The inconsistency appears when the number of people each of these funds benefit. The paring of the forensic fund is not to benefit the social fund, but is intended to spread the benefits of student funds. At the same time the change will aid a growing, struggling department—drama. Vote for the proposed amendment which benefits drama.

The other amendments seem appropriate and should receive student backing.

Introducing . . .

Professor R. Franklin Thompson, A.M., is one of the most recently acquired members of the Willamette faculty. It is fitting that Professor Thompson arrived on the very crest of a new Willamette spirit for he brings with him a new method, a new philosophy, and a host of new ideals. His feet are firmly implanted in ancient thought and philosophy, his arms are placed in complete control of medieval ideology, and his mind sweeps the present and extends well into the future to the result that he represents a dynamic, conscientious educator and philosopher.

Two universities in the United States and three in Europe represent Professor Thompson's claim of Alma Mater. First he attended Nebraska Wesleyan, the university situated in the same state as his home town, Primrose, then he continued his work at Drew university where he gained his A.M. Later he tried for and won the Deltaplume-McDaniel Fellowship by virtue of a very scholarly thesis and through the fellowship attended Oxford. And then, still wishing to stay in Europe, he studied further at Zurich in Switzerland, where, we might add, all discussion and lectures were presented in German. And lastly, he attended the University of Basel in Switzerland. In his complete study and extensive travel, Professor Thompson has drawn for himself a broad outlook, a pleasing personality, and an unusual quality for tolerance in an endeavor to aid wavering individuals to find themselves.

In 1934 Professor Thompson was appointed an elder of the First Methodist church. He had been appointed to his first church at an earlier date, however. He is at present a very popular speaker, and a very versatile one. He has been known to have talked to groups anywhere from fishing clubs to ladies' aid societies. An athlete of no little prowess, he presents a very formidable opposition in nearly any sport.

Willamette, we believe that in consideration of his new and interesting methods of presentation, and of his wide and philosophical education you have in Professor Thompson a man that fits beautifully into pedagogical idealism.

The sophomores won the Freshman Glee but the freshmen were just waiting to get the suckers on a rope. Captain Bruce Williams and his burly crew took to the water so quickly last Friday that some of the spectators thought the whole bunch must have been standing on banana peels and a 90-degree incline.

"Card of Thanks"—Pete Williams wishes to thank all of the freshmen for their splendid cooperation in setting up the bleachers. Don't you, Pete? Yah!

Say, who are those second-rate musicians we've seen lately on the campus? Well for gosh sakes—beneath the deep and luxurious foliage we've discovered—yes, you guessed it, Bud Koehler and Stan Klau. Come on boys, we recognize you.

We always thought Mary Head was a hick, but put "Hoopitup" Head and "Hurryup" Her together and you have a hootin' hot holiday. Anyway, they are put plenty of pep into the May Day exercises.

The partnership of Crow and Braumard which recently incorporated in the purchase of a model T has succeeded in creating a paint job that would scare the ordinary Sunday driver right up the most convenient telephone pole. Look and be dazzled.

If anybody thinks they're having a bad time, they should listen to a song from Schreiber and Hinkley then they would feel bad.

Wendell Patch is practically supporting Laganne hall, paying right on to the iron men in lines for bringing his god in late. Those last few minutes are pretty expensive, aren't they "Mounrfo"?

If you really really want a trout, come out and watch "Toothless" Philippe play softball in Be Panama. He really is an attraction. Hi Hink—So lunt Kids.

Then there's the one about the little lad in Germany who suffered a lameness because he played hooky. He went to school instead of tazel practice.

Bob Burns, homespun philosopher of screen and radio, who plays his first "straight" role in Frank Lloyd's epic, "Wells Fargo" which opens soon at the Hollywood Theatre. Burns is cast as an Indian scout.

Just between you and me, I wish those softball players had as heavy a touch of spring fever as I have. They would then cease playing those games that make this column necessary. You ask, "Why is it necessary?" I answer quite frankly that I don't know. Perhaps, some time-honored tradition brings this scourge upon you.

P. E. Wins
On Thursday last, Kimball Hall acquired a 15-run bite while the P. E.'s enjoyed a 35-run meal. On the scorecard it credits the Kimball Hall boys with 17 hits and the P. E. with 32, but as far as I'm concerned that's just a rumor. It can't be so; I didn't see it. In the second feature of the day, the Fish Chokers trimmed the Alpha Psi Bees 10 to 2.

We enter a new week and I still do not bubble over with energy. The Alpha Psi A team kept their slate clean by turning back the Sigma Tau's 9 to 1. The Law School, my friends, forfeited their game. Perhaps, they have the same you as I that urges them to do nothing, fast.

Bees Lose Close One

Tuesday: Fish Chokers stepped in the face of Kimball Hall to the rhythm of 5 to 4. The P. E.'s nudged out the Alpha Psi Bees 3 to 2, with a run in the last inning.

Again on Wednesday the Law School boys slept and the Alpha Psi A squad brought home a slab of bacon that was all fat. A pickup team, however, held the league leaders to a close 3-to-0 win. The Kappa's topped the Sigma Tau's by a count of 9 to 7 to raise their outlook on the world another notch.

E. third sacker, bottled in the winning runs with a two-base hit in the third inning, scoring Humphreys and Pete Williams ahead of him. Terry hit a homer for the victors, while Don Brandon pitched five-hit ball.

In the other game, the Alpha Psi Bees shut out Kimball Hall 8 to 0, behind the four-hit pitching of Dan Moses. Guiter, Patch and Schroeder each with two hits led the Bee batting attack.

The infield single was a slow roller to Third Baseman Johnny Kolb.

Hagedorn with a triple and two singles and Kolb with a home run and two singles led the Bearcat hitting in the first tilt.

With Willamette leading three wins to none, the Bearcat-Red tennis matches last Thursday were halted by rain on the local courts.

Three Bearcat netmen, Bill Clemes, Bud Estes, and Bill Lewis, had turned in wins before the showers started.

Western Division Conference Title To Be At Stake

Bearcats Must Win Both Contests To Clinch Championship

The 1938 diamond championship of the Western Division of the Pacific Northwest is at stake here this afternoon as Spec Keene sends his Bearcats against Linfield's Wildcats in a double-header on Sweetland field.

In order to assure a place in the conference finals with Whitman for the second consecutive year, Spec's nine must win both of the all-important tilts.

Just who will start on the mound for Willamette in the clash of the 'ats is problematical, but big Walt Weaver, veteran right-hander, and Rookie George Windsor are expected to get nods from Keene.
