CLARK WILL LEAD HIKERS TO SILVER CREEK

Low-heeled shoes and hiking clothes are recommended by Prof. Clark for the all-school trip to Silver Creek Falls August 3, especially for those who will jaunt around the north falls, a distance of about four miles. (Cars will wait for the return journey.)

Those who do not wish to make the long expedition are strongly urged by Prof. Clark to make the short trip under the south falls in order to familiarize themselves with details of its structure.

Time for leaving the campus will be 1 o'clock.

Beginning with Monday of next week notices will be posted on the bulletin board in Eaton hall. Two lists of names are asked: those who can take cars and those who must depend on other means of transportation.

Lunch for the evening picnic will be left to the individual. Outside fireplaces and tables are available for public use.

The party will leave the falls park at 9 p.m.

Knight, Folkert, Miller To Leave; Two Appointments Made

Definite word that three more Willamette faculty will not return in the fall was confirmed this week by President G. Herbert Smith.

The three are Prof. John

L. Knight, who has been made chancellor of Nebraska Wesleyan University in Lincoln; Dr. Carl Folkerts, who has accepted a position as a faculty member in the economics department at the University of Toledo in Ohio; and the music department's voice instructor, Miss Esther Miller, who will be on the faculty of the Eastern Illinois Teacher's college.

Prof. Knight came to WU in 1943 and since that time has acted as counselor on religious life and assistant professor of religion. He was appointed assistant to the president this March.

Two appointments to the faculty were made public this week. Announced yesterday was the selection of Chester C. Kaiser as assistant professor of history. Completing his course work for his Ph.D. this summer at the University of Minnesota, he will specialize in American history and the history of Latin America at Willamette.

Earlier this week was made known the addition to the faculty of Colonel Seward P. Reese as dean of the law school. He formerly taught at Syracuse university, before being with the army, where he was a trial judge advocate and later was assigned to the staff of General Henry Arnold.

PERIODS SHORTER NEXT WEDNESDAY

Next Wednesday morning classes will be shortened ten minutes in order that time may be provided for the first of a group of scheduled events. The same arrangement will be made for the other events later.

The speakers' schedule is as follows:

Wednesday, July 31--Dr. Robert M. Griffin, representing the Readers' Digest, will speak on reading problems on the college level. Dr. Griffin will be available for conferences and class talks.

Tuesday, August 19--Professor J. E. Hixson will lecture on "Language and Culture."

Monday, August 19--Mrs. George Moorehead will begin her series of lectures with a talk on personality and family adjustment. The lectures will be held at 2:15 in the afternoons for the rest of the week.

Thursday, August 22--Dr. G. A. Werner will lecture on the status of the problem in the Pacific.

CLASS SCHEDULE FOR WEDNESDAY A.M.

Per. I	7:50-8:40
Per. II	8:45-9:35
Per. III	9:40-10:30
Per. IV	10:35-11:25

AN INTERNATIONAL CALIFORNIAN

Dr. G. A. Werner, visiting professor from the College of the Pacific on the summer session faculty, states that he is particularly impressed with the splendid opportunity which Willamette students of political science have for observing government in action here at the state capitol. He feels that the proximity of the campus to the state library, legislature, and supreme court offers a decided advantage to those interested in the study of the science of government.

Dr. Werner, whose hobby is international affairs, is professor of history, political science, and philosophy.

He has been in California since 1904, with the exception of seven years spent in educational work in the Argentine. He received his bachelor of arts and master of arts degrees at the University of California at Berkeley, where he taught for two years. His teaching at the College of the Pacific at Stockton began in 1923 one year before the college was formally opened, and Dr. Werner held classes for freshmen in an old newspaper building.

At the College of the Pacific, Dr. Werner is director of the summer session tours, a popular feature of the summer school. These tours are a combination of travel and lecture and offer an opportunity for summer students to obtain an unusual education as well as a most satisfactory vacation. Dr. Werner is looking forward to next summer's trip which will be in the Caribbean area.

This is Dr. Werner's longest stay in Oregon, and he finds the climate pleasant in contrast to the heat of the San Joaquin valley.

A STATE OF NEGLECT

That time and tide have had no respect for historical landmarks in the Salem area was evident to those making the Oregon history trip last Friday. Overlooking what actually met the eye, Dr. Gatke, authority on Oregon history and guide for the tour, gave graphic descriptions of early landmarks and mission activities in Jason Lee's time.

The 186-year-old home of Lee, still standing at the intersection of Liberty and High streets, was found in a sad state of neglect. This once fine house, the first built in Salem, has been divided into apartments, and appears to be bulging and sagging with its overload of tenants. Neighbors seem unaware and Salem citizenry unconcerned as the home of the "Father of Oregon" spends its last days in an attempt to relieve the housing shortage.

The site of the log mission building, built in 1834, was located by a stone and bronze memorial marker. The building had been washed away when the Willamette changed its course in 1861. The LaFayette family, present owners of what used to be the mission farm, have given an acre of ground to Willamette to hold in trust for public use. That this historic land might provide a suitable memorial retreat was indicated by several persons.

"God's Acre," the burial plot of the missionaries, situated on a wooded knoll in the Jason Lee cemetery, was viewed by the group with mixed feelings of reverence and sadness. Dr. Gatke voiced the hope of all present that something might be done to restore the broken headstones to provide a more worthy memorial with legible names and epitaphs engraved on the white marble slabs.

Returning to Willamette campus in the late afternoon, it was reassuring to view historic Waller hall, flanked on both sides by complementary buildings of red brick, with all framed by nature with green trees and grass. Here at the point of departure was a monument worthy of Jason Lee -- a missionary, social worker, educator, state founder.

ENROLLMENT TO EXCEED 1000 IN FALL

Enrollment for the fall term will exceed by far the previously fixed limit of 850. The trustees have granted an increase up to at least 1000, not including law students, according to Registrar H. B. Joy.

Registration for fall is closed, but a waiting list is being compiled. Only students who have attended Willamette before and left school for military service are being accepted.

The law school has at least 100 registered, with about 20 upper classmen and 80 freshmen.

BIOGRAPHIES ON DISPLAY

A display of recent biographies is to be found in the library this week. One of the books featured is the winner of the Pulitzer prize for biography for 1946.

This is Wolf's "Son of the Wilderness", the story of the life of John Muir. Among the many other interesting people whose biographies are available are Robert, Kipling, Dickens, Theodore Hook, and Woodrow Wilson.

New books of fiction, which the library has received are "The Fields", a story of pioneer home life by Conrad Richter, and "The Buiwar", the Theodore Dreiser story of the bewilderment of a devout Quaker faced with the problems of materialism of the present century.

Change of Major Requires V.A. Approval

Even a change of major course within the same school or college by a veteran studying under the G.I. bill or public law 16 requires approval of the Veteran's administration and should be requested immediately, warns K.H. Baker, Veteran Administrator, Guidance Center, Corvallis Oregon.

HOUSING SOUGHT FOR VETERANS

A committee to seek housing for the several hundred male students anticipated this fall, is being appointed this week under the guidance of Gil Lerser, director of publicity. He is receiving co-operation from the offices of Dean Olive M. Dahl, Dean of Women, and Dean Lawrence A. Riggs.

The campaign will be carried out through newspapers and radio appeals, to be followed by a house to house inquiry conducted by members of the committee.

Housing for only 40 single men is available on the campus at the present time.

RECORDER TO LEAVE

Mrs. Helen Simpson, the recorder in the office of the registrar, is leaving Wednesday to spend the remaining part of the summer with her parents, before moving to Washington, D. C. where she and her husband will do graduate work in the field of teaching the deaf, at Gallaudet College.

Mr. Jory is immediately in need of someone to replace Mrs. Simpson either for full or part time work.

Course changes call for different cost estimates and these necessitate new VA approvals. Letters of request must state reasons for the changes, just the same as in requests for transfers to other schools.

Oregon's VA office is able to handle these requests rapidly now, but a last-month rush of request is feared before opening of school in the fall. A counselling and advisement service is available to all veterans applying for educational benefits.

WEEK OF TESTS COMING UP

Most of the professors plan to give tests for the mid-session grading period. A few who have a basis of projects or daily work may not give formal tests.

The mid-term grades are due in the office August 9. Notices will be placed in the boxes of all students whose work is D or under, on August 12. Other students may call for their grades.

The grades will not be included as part of the permanent records but are to let both the students and the professors know if the work is not satisfactory.

In case of failure the student will be notified.

AUGUST 9, 10 SET FOR PLAY PRODUCTION

August 9 has been set as the opening night for "The Guardsman" which will be presented by the high school play production class in Waller chapel with a repeated performance on the evening of August 10.

The supporting cast has now been chosen with Sally Kennedy and Yvonne Simpson double-casting the role of "Mama" in the unconventional household of actors. Mrs. Kaye Dick Edwards is already bringing definite nods of approval from the directing body in her portrayal of the wide-eyed though not so naive maid.

SALEM BAND DRAWS CROWD

The second concert of the season was given by the Salem Municipal band last night at 8 o'clock on the west steps of the Capitol building.

The season's program calls for concerts on Mondays and Thursdays for a period of five weeks, according to present plans. The Salem band is under the direction of Maurice Brethren, member of the university music faculty, and director of the university band. The city band has 28 pieces composed of local talent, mostly professional musicians and war veterans.

Professor Schnelker, also of the music department, will give an organ recital the afternoon of August 4 at the Presbyterian church.

A "natural" in the cast is carried by Dean Bigler, who has a reputation in real life of playing benefactor to homeless veterans.

Admirers of the main characters in "The Guardsman" may anticipate seeing their favorites in the romantic costumes which are WANTED!!!

Anyone who can type, cut stencils, letter headlines or do art work is urgently asked by the staff of the paper to turn out Monday afternoon in the Collegian office in Waller to help out on next week's edition.

WU SENIOR WED SUNDAY

Sunday afternoon Miss Margaret Geisler, Willamette senior, became the bride of Delbert C. Shippman of Salem in the United Brethren church in Hopewell.

The bride's attendants, Evelyn Chapman and Marian Bertoglio, Portland, Ann Elliott, Roseburg, and Helen Wilson, Gates, are all Willamette students.

After a week's honeymoon in San Francisco, Mrs. Shippman will return to the campus where she is completing credits for her graduation August 31.

now being designed.

Leonard Steinbock will appear in a lavish Russian blouse and tunic topped by an elaborate cosack and boots, and "Puck" Phillips Blodgett, who in former days has exhibited costumes ranging all the way from Chinese to pioneer ensembles, will be seen in exotic lounging pajamas and sophisticated evening dress. Dale Colihur will follow her lead in "tails."

Jim Elliott, designer of the set, is being assisted in construction by Melvin Gilson, Roy Burns and Dean Bigler.

POP TO COOK IN CAMP FOR HIKERS

Pop Crary will be absent from his duties as chef of Lausanne hall between August 1 and 17 when he will cook for the Chemeketans, a Salem hiking club, on their three-weeks hiking trip.

The hikers will pack in a distance of nine miles to Horseshoe Lake in the Willows mountains.

This is the fifteenth annual camping trip of the club and the second trip to this site. The first was in 1934.

Twenty-four members plan to make the journey, including Pop and Miss Lorena Jack, director of the dormitories. Mrs. Fern Daugherty will have charge at Lausanne during the absence of Pop and Miss Jack.

WALLER HALL REMODELING UNDER WAY

Extensive alterations in Waller hall are under way to make room for the enlarged enrollment which is anticipated for this fall.

The speech department, including the "Little Theater," the speech office and seminar room, now occupying the third floor is being moved to the second floor to make way for the psychology department. A psychology laboratory will be installed in the "Little Theater" room. The large classroom on the third floor will be retained to take care of the large classes. Workmen began Tuesday moving the museum from the second floor of Waller to the halls in Eaton and Collins.

MUSEUM ON MOVE AGAIN

"What at first appeared to be a hardship may prove to be a blessing," commented Prof. Clark in reference to the moving of the museum. "Putting the show cases containing the exhibits in the halls on the 2nd and 3rd floors of Eaton and the 1st and 2nd floors of Collins and rotating the contents may allow more students to become familiar with the exhibits than when they were concentrated in one room." Moving the museum is not an unusual experience for Prof. Clark. When the new library building was completed about ten years ago and the books were moved

SOFTBALL

Summer softball season was unofficially opened last Wednesday afternoon when the Hot Rocks won an 8 to 7 victory over the faculty in a six-inning preliminary practice game. The Hot Rocks forged ahead to an early five-run lead which was held until a last-inning faculty rally narrowed the margin to a final score of 8 to 7.

Batteries for the game:

Faculty: Cookin' a m-
Wojohn --- Lieser-Bennett-
Williams.

Hot Rocks: Acker-Nicholson.

Scheduled play in the intramural league begins next Monday when the faculty tackles the law school. The Hot Rocks will play the Rubes on Wednesday. All league games will be played on Mondays and Wednesdays at 4:30 p.m.

TENNIS

The tennis tournament begins this week with the first round of the men's singles being played.

Those who have entered are urged to make arrangements with their opponents so that first-round play-offs may terminate Wednesday and the second round started on Thursday of next week.

The doubles tournament will also start next week. Those who wish to participate should see Mr. Sparks in the gym as soon as possible. Choice of partners will be left to the individuals.

from Waller hall, the museum took over the space and occupied the whole floor except for one corner where a classroom was reserved for Prof. Clark.

But the war came along and the Navy V-12 program was instituted. Large floor space was needed for the drawing boards of the engineering course, so the museum exhibits were boxed and moved into the north half of the floor to remain until this year.

The biological display which included Dr. Peck's collection of birds and mammals from Central America and all other scientific groupings will be located in Collins hallways.

The mineral exhibit, of which Willamette is justly proud, since it is the largest of its kind in the West, will also be on the first floor of Collins.

The items dealing with history, including the extraordinary Oregon Indian group instituted by Major McCleary, will be placed in Eaton hall. At one time the London Illustrated News featured a 2-page write-up on the nearly 10,000 specimens.

The old piano, the first brought to this coast around Cape Horn from Leipzig, Germany, to be displayed in the music hall.
