

Faculty Makes Course Changes

Program Includes New Classes, Aid to Mid-year, Pre-med Students

Introduction of several new courses, beginning courses for second-semester freshmen and a new provision for pre-medical students mark curriculum changes made at a faculty meeting early this week, Dean Chester F. Luther announced yesterday.

Economic geography under Dr. Robert Lantz and physical geography under Prof. Herman Clark will be introduced next semester. Beginning and intermediate course in Russian under Dr. A. A. Vazakas will be included in the regular curriculum program offered next fall. Certain changes in present education and literature courses are also contemplated for next year.

Students entering Willamette in February will be able to start their English, mathematics and physics courses from the beginning, an opportunity heretofore available only to freshmen entering in the fall. This change comes in accordance with the plan to take care of the larger-than-usual enrollment expected next semester, Dean Luther said.

Pre-medical students entering medical school at the end of their junior year at WU will be granted an AB degree by Willamette upon successful completion of their first year in medical school.

Wallulah Ends Pic Schedule

When the senior class picture schedule is completed Wednesday, all the class pictures and many of the events pictures for the 1943 Wallulah will be finished. Faculty pictures are being taken now, with the deadline set for November 21, Nadene Matthews, editor, said yesterday.

Martha Weaver and Margaret Pemberton, staff members in charge of the faculty section, are trying to get an entire new set of faculty pictures this year, since the use of a new type of metal in making the plates necessitates a new set of plates. The 10-page faculty section is scheduled to go to the printer on December 14. Jack Glasse has been taking special pictures of the administrative heads and the deans this week.

Those students who have not yet had their pictures taken are being contacted by Jean Fries and Betty Adkins, class editors, who report that cooperation has surpassed their expectations, but has not yet reached 100%. All student pictures must be taken by a week from Wednesday, since no more class pictures will be taken after Thanksgiving, with the exception of those new students who register next semester.

'Guide' Ready For Delivery To Students

Delayed for some time by shortage of labor at the printing shop, the Fusser's Guide will finally be ready for distribution tomorrow, according to Miriam Jensen, editor.

Copies of the guide may be obtained at the graduate manager's office in the gymnasium beginning tomorrow upon presentation of the ASWU card.

The prints and cuts are in blue. The cuts were made from linoleum blocks and are "exceptionally fine work," Miss Jensen said. Expressive of school reminiscence, the pictures are modern art and some of them will take quite a bit of study to understand," the editor added.

The guide is a student directory containing names, addresses and phone numbers of all students and faculty members, the phone numbers of the university offices and a social calendar. The social calendar gives in full all social events scheduled for the first semester.

Rally Team, Rooters To Attend PU Game

The last game that students can travel to before gas rationing begins will be with Pacific University at Forest Grove tomorrow at 2 P. M.

The rally team will be there and expect to have a good rooting section with cooperation as good as that at the Homecoming game, according to Charles Wieks, rally chairman. Transportation will of necessity be in private cars.

Dickson New Secretary

Darlene Dickson, senior scholar in speech, was elected executive secretary of the Intercollegiate Forensic Association of Oregon at the meeting last Saturday at Pacific university.

At that meeting the topics were chosen for the state contests in extempore and after-dinner speaking. The men's topic for the extempore speaking contest, to be held December 11 at Linfield will be "Mobilization of Man Power," while the women's will be "Education in the War Crisis." For the state after-dinner speaking contest to be held January 14 at Oregon State College the topic chosen is "American Ersatz."

British Flier Tells of War

Wing Commander R. Ashley Hall, British flying officer, described the place of British university men in modern war when he spoke to Willamette students at a special chapel program held Monday. Wing Commander Hall characterized the highly accelerated college program in England by stating that RAF men with educational deferments are expected to complete a four year science course within two and one-fourth years.

Wing Commander Hall has fourteen years of flying to his credit. He now holds a post in the British training program for college men enlisted in the Royal Air Force.

Drama Coach Calls Tryouts For 'Arsenic, Lace' Hopefuls

Tryouts for "Arsenic and Old Lace" of Boris Karloff fame are to be held Monday, Wednesday, and Friday afternoons of the coming week in the Little Theatre. Mrs. Margaret Ringnald, drama coach, urges any and all their veins to show up and make a bid for one of the parts.

Presentation of the comedy farce is scheduled as the next WU dramatic production to be given at nearby army encampments in cooperation with the USO following the forthcoming tour of army camps by the members of the cast of "The Philadelphia Story." It is hoped that preparations for the production of "Arsenic and Old Lace" will be completed by early February. No definite date has yet been set for the USO performance of the "Philadelphia Story."

The Little Theatre group, whose last week's meeting was postponed, plans to meet Thursday night at 8 p. m., in the Little Theatre on the third floor of Waller hall.

Youthful Pianist Here Next Week

Lamar Crowson, 16-year old Portland pianist and winner of more than 30 piano contests in Oregon and British Columbia, will present a varied program at the University music hall next Friday at 8 P. M.

Tickets for the 200 available seats may be secured in the music hall next week at 40c a seat.

Lt. Carl Parker Gies

Honored WU Flier Here

Lieutenant Carl Parker Gies, the first Willamette student to receive the Distinguished Service Cross in the present war is now in Salem on a ten-day furlough visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl A. Gies. He arrived in Stockton, Calif., last week from Australia and traveled to Salem by plane for his first visit here since the war began.

Gies received the Cross during the first week of March, 1942, for distinguished action in the Philippine air fights. "Participating in aerial activity over Luzon, he conducted himself with exceptional heroism against superior enemy forces, setting an example for the members of his squadron," said a Life magazine of early March, which placed Lt. Gies on the Life Roll of Honor.

While at Willamette, Gies was a member of Sigma Tau fraternity and was active in basketball and track.

Men Enlist In Services

Robert Taylor, junior, and David Geddes, sophomore, were sworn into the enlisted reserve corps of the army by officers at Corvallis this week. Several more enlistments of WU students will be completed at Corvallis this weekend, Dean C. F. Luther announced.

Jim Neal of Warrenton and Mervin Woodraska of Noti left the university this week to join the navy. Both are freshmen, Neal having begun second semester last year and both are affiliated with Alpha Psi Delta fraternity.

Also leaving the campus to join the armed forces is Charles Mowry who dropped school Wednesday, following his enlistment in the navy.

WU Man in Africa Fray

Living in the very center of the African battlefield this week is a Willamette alumnus, Russell M. Brooks, head of the US consulate at Casablanca. Brooks, whose mother and aunt are residents of Salem, became consul at Casablanca, French Morocco, last April. No word from him has been received by his relatives here since the Allied attack on Casablanca began last Sunday.

Russell Brooks, graduate of Salem high school, received his liberal arts training at Oregon State college and University of Oregon. He then spent almost three years in the Willamette Law school, graduating two months before schedule in order to enlist in the US army during the first world war. From the spring of 1917 until early summer in 1919, Brooks was a soldier in France and Italy.

After his two years of foreign service, Brooks returned to Salem, intending to practice law here. Within a month he was offered a position as vice-consul in Rotterdam. Brooks accepted this task, thus beginning a long career in the Consular service. He served as vice-consul in the cities of Rotterdam, Newcastle, Belfast and Dresden. When Brooks went to London in 1939, he was promoted to the post of consul. Two years later he moved to Curacao, going from

Third Fall ASWU Dance Scheduled

"Strictly sport" is Dorothy's dictum for Willamette students tripping the tershore tomorrow night. Novelty is the theme for this third student body dance of the fall semester, according to Miss Dorothy Tate, first vice president and social chairman of the student body, who adds further, "We think that things will go so that everyone will dance and that there will be no stage-line standing around."

Mood music will be furnished by the school nickelodeon and dancing will be from 8:30 till 11:30 in the gymnasium.

Jim Glasse, student activities director, is working on activities for the dance. Three committees have been appointed by Miss Tate to work with her and Glasse arranging the dance. Jane Findley, Betty Andrews and Thrya Jean Currey, are working on the decorations. David Foster has charge of the advertising and Janet Blake will be responsible for securing chaperones. Men of Sigma Tau fraternity will see to the clean-up.

Libe Display Features Art

Constance Fowler, head of the art department, and Dr. H. C. Kohler this week arranged a display consisting of various examples of modern and abstract art for the case and bulletin board in the library. These books and prints will be shown for three weeks when the display will be changed to examples of modern sculpture and architecture.

Picasso's "Women Asleep" and "Bull Fight", Dalí's "The Font" and "Illumined Pleasures", and Metzinger's "Still Life" are some of the well known examples of surrealism and modern art included in the display.

Dr. Smith Leaves On Speech Trip

President Smith left Wednesday night by train for California and points East. He arrived in San Francisco yesterday, and spoke there to WU alumni. Tomorrow he will leave the bay area and Sunday afternoon he will address the Los Angeles WU alumni. From there, Dr. Smith will proceed to Chicago where he will again address Willamette grads.

He is expected to return to the campus on December 14.

there to Johannesburg, South Africa. At the time of American entrance into the war, Brooks was called back to Washington, DC. After spending the winter in Washington, he and his wife sailed to Casablanca in April.

In a letter written just one month ago, to his mother, Mrs. Mildred Brooks, the consul described the plight of the inhabitants of French Morocco. Food and fuel had become very scarce. According to Brooks, rationing of clothing was so rigid that even handkerchiefs were sold only when rationing cards were presented. Brooks stated that 95% of the Frenchmen in Morocco favored Free France rather than the Vichy regime.

Armistice Day, 1942 . . .

This week the nation paused in the midst of the greatest war in its history to commemorate an armistice which now seems almost to mock us with a hollow ring. We were remembering November 11, 1918, when the "war to end all wars" ended, but observance of Armistice day must have seemed rather ironical to the fighting man facing war's reality in North Africa, the South Seas or one of the many other major or minor fronts.

The 1942 anniversary of Armistice day did serve one major purpose, however. It reminded us not to lose ourselves so completely in war activities that we will not be ready for peace when it again comes to the world's battlefronts. True, we cannot afford to be cocksure about the results of the war, but if we do come out on top, we must be ready to face the major battle which will still lie ahead. We, as college students and tomorrow's leaders, will be expected to carry out the peace plans following this war.

This challenge which the future holds for us was outlined by President Roosevelt this fall at the inauguration of Colgate university's president. His message read in part:

"The challenge of the new day for American colleges is very great. All our energies at the present must be devoted to winning the war. Yet winning the war will be futile if we do not throughout the period of its winning keep our people prepared to make a lasting and worthy peace. This time the peace must be global the same as the war has become global.

"Around the peace table the voice of the United States will have great weight. It is of tremendous importance that that voice shall represent the aspirations of a people determined that mankind everywhere shall go forward to its destiny. The soul of that destiny is maximum freedom of the human spirit."

Old man budget caught up with us this week as we were preparing your regular Collegian and said, "Uh-huh, only four pages this week"—so four pages it is. Consolation for staff and readers alike still lies in the fact that occasional reduction now may help avert complete suspension in the weeks to come.

For MEN Only

By Gil Lieser

We have never hesitated to deal out criticism where we believe it is deserved, i.e. our recent column on "Flagless Willamette," and likewise we try to give credit where credit is due; so reversing our tact this week we'd like to give out with a little praise and also with some interesting details we've unearthed.

Though we'd like to think our remarks carry a little weight we have to face the fact that President Smith didn't run downtown on a recent Friday morning and purchase the voluminous flag which we were privileged to carry down the aisles of Waller at 11:30. Willamette did own a flag when our column was written . . . in fact they had it in their possession nearly a year. But its 12-month residence in an Eaton hall storage closet until it was uncovered a few weeks ago by our energetic president did not erase its very interesting history.

The flag which we saw for the first time October 30, once covered the casket of Mr. Frank James, who was killed in action overseas 22 years ago as a chaplain in the first world war. Receiving the flag as a gift from the United States government, Mrs. James, housemother at the Delta Phi sorority thought it could be put to no better purpose than to give it in turn to Willamette university, which she did nearly a year ago; the flag being turned over to then Vice-President Franklin Thompson.

Why no public thanks was made to Mrs. James at the time, and why the flag was permitted to remain in seclusion in Eaton's storage closet until this date are things we will never understand. But now that it has been brought to light, let's hope it will continue to hold a position of dignity and that someday it will look down from a lofty perch upon a student body free from the burdens of world conflict. If a campus flag pole is out of the question at this time perhaps a suitable standard could be obtained and the flag made a part of our chapel stage furnishings. Meanwhile we might suggest that a sadly delayed vote of thanks be extended to Mrs. James for a mighty nice gift.

And now a barrel of orchids for Dr. G. Herbert Smith, new president of our old institution, discoverer of the long forgotten flag, instigator of the greatest display of spontaneous enthusiasm ever witnessed at a pep assembly, and author of the swellest letter of appreciation and encouragement a football team ever received, now posted in the Bearcat locker room . . . we believe it wasn't the class of '42 that Willamette waited a hundred years for but our president of September 1942, Dr. G. Herbert Smith.

To enumerate all that Dr. Smith contributed to our recent homecoming celebration alone would fill every column of this issue, but examples of his youthful enthusiasm, spirit, loyalty to his newly adopted school, and thorough understanding of student nature are too outstanding to overlook.

. . . We will never forget being called into Dr. Smith's office that Friday morning and told in pleasant but firm words that to us would befall the honor and no slight embarrassment of carrying the flag which we so shortly before had intimidated Willamette didn't own.

. . . We will never forget the final yell of the rally assembly in chapel, which Dr. Smith himself led, and which inspired the ensuing spontaneous demonstration of which ended in the rotunda of the state capitol building . . . one that hearts in to the throats of a lot of us who waited four years to see such a show of school spirit.

. . . We will never forget Dr. Smith's romp across muddy Sweetland at the expense of dignity and a pair of shoes to lead the student body in another resounding yell.

. . . And we will never forget the letter he wrote the football team, thanking them for winning the CPS game, praising them for their sportsmanship and spirit, and sending his best wishes for the two remaining contests which he will be forced to miss.

All of which proves without saying that to Dr. Smith, football players aren't muscle-headed outcasts who are expected to play a good game without thanks or credit because that is all they can do, but just as great a group and just as much a part of our university and its lift as any other students who tread the walks of Willamette . . . and that to him school spirit isn't something that grows on trees or is shouted about in Friday's Collegian, but an essential part of college life that needs to be encouraged instead of overlooked.

Dear PRIVATE JOHNNY

DARLING:

Just flashed out for a coke with "Wino" Albert and "Canned Heat" Blanding; thought I'd better tell you before someone else did. It was fun though, learned a new song. It's to the tune of the "Stars and Stripes Forever;" try it.

"Be kind to your web-footed friends,
For a duck may be somebody's mother.
Be kind to your friends in the swamp."

Don't you love it?

Speaking of tunes we-all like the new "Five-by-Five," and nominate for a corollary, wee Peggy Byrd, "four-by-four."

If you think your bugler is mad, listen to this.

Monte Chusid at the Alpha Psi house wakes people in the early hours; those on the sleeping porch do say he's such a joy because you can hear him approach from the bottom floor upwards, banging doors, clomping his adequate avoirdupois on the stars. And the other morning when he finally arrived, he said, in his best gravel-voice, "6:45, fifteen minutes till breakfast!" then clomp clomp, bang bang, down again. Five minutes later, clomp, bang, and the shout, "6:50, ten minutes to breakfast!" and down again. Five minutes later, same clatter, same shout, "6:55, five minutes to breakfast," and down (Monotonous, isn't it?) Five minutes later, ditto, ditto, "Seven o'clock, no breakfast; cook's not here."

Well, well, what do you know? Just heard you've been missing in the Solomons since August. Is it true, and if so, who've I been getting letters from? I mean, whom?

Friday night there wasn't much going on so everyone went to the show, and really everyone. Afterwards in the Bird, there was the Willamette student body, guzzling sodas and reconciling the calorie danger to our hips by saying with Rosalind Russell, "To heck with them, let 'em spread," our new tag line from "My Sister Eileen." Across the aisle from me were a couple of ex-students in uniform returning to the old stomping grounds. After the waitress's negative reply to their order, one said loudly, and with much surprise, "You mean there's no beer at the Bird anymore?" I'm taking this way to break it to you, dear.

With all this second front news and all, Reggie and I got to thinking, and the wonderful idea popped into our little minds that maybe the duration didn't mean "forever." It's such a completely new idea we can't get used to it. Remember the last war? Well, I don't either, but they do say it lasted only 18 months and this one's in its twelfth already. So hang on, darling, and love you.

WILLA.

Your Money's Worth

By Hal Adams

Some of the old grads of Willamette tell us (youngsters to them) that one of the most valuable parts of college life is student-prof contact. Willamette offers many opportunities for this business of getting to know the profs. Firesides, Vespers, bull sessions, etc., all help a good deal, but we may still miss knowing some faculty members which we might find to be swell people. Once in a while, therefore, I'd like to present a "journalistic fireside portrait" of some one prof you might like to know better.

If you are very interested in dramatics you have undoubtedly met Mrs. Ring by now. If you're not the least bit interested in dramatics don't stop here, because if you could be engrossed in tiddly-wink team technique, or bugs, or girls—you'd still find it was worth your time to know the lady. Here are a few conversational tips to start off with: Ask her, for instance, about Paulette or Charlie, or how she became to be known in schools south of here as Madame Ringnald, Teacher of Dramatics, or who should have won the UCLA-Oregon game last Saturday. If you are an education or English major, you'd be smart to ask her about the text she and Mr. Ringnald wrote.

While we're on the subject of writing here are a few books newly acquired at the library which you might enjoy reading: Are you

Hall Host To Kratt

Lausanne girls were hostesses to Dean Theodore Kratt, Dr. and Mrs. G. H. Smith, Prof. and Mrs. T. S. Roberts, Dean and Mrs. Melvin Geist, Mr. Lewis Pankaski, Miss Helen McHirron, Miss Clara Ennis, and Mrs. Mary Schultz Duncan last Tuesday at dinner.

During the course of the dinner Dean Kratt, of the University of Oregon School of Music, discovered the girls liked the horizontal harmony of the song "White Coral Bells" better than the vertical harmony of the winning Glee song of last year. His opinion was that that was a "healthy sign."

'Cats Meet PU Tomorrow

By Bill Habernicht

Traveling to Forest Grove tomorrow is a Bearcat squad that will be trying to put away at least a share in the Northwest Conference title for the third consecutive year with a win over the underdog Badgers of Pacific University. The 'Cats have but two more games and if these are won they are sure of the conference crown again this year. Tomorrow's game will see a 'Cat squad inspired by their decisive win over CPS facing one of the trailing teams of the league and a team they beat 40-0 last year.

All through this last week Spec Keene has been putting his boys through a rigid series of scrimmage practices in preparation for the coming game. Coach Keene has cautioned the 'Cat gridders not to be too over-confident for the coming tilt with Pacific, for this game will either make or break Willamette in its climb for this year's title. Captain Teddy Ogdahl is again back in the lineup for the Bearcats and should help push the Willamette team toward victory.

From the Pacific hangout it has been reported that they have a small and comparatively fast team. Their mainstay seems to be their ability along the deception line. Though they are trailing in the league it is reported that they might be the team to cause an upset in Willamette's plans this season.

Coach Roger Folgate of the Badgers has only a few returning lettermen and very few available subs to fill in the gaps. His lettermen are Bill Lee, end; Frank Roberts, guard; Bill Foelker, George Horner, and Gene Sprinkle, halves; Ed Rosin, halves; and La Verne Dahl and Bill Dahlgren, linemen.

Of the three low teams in the conference Pacific is the strongest, for they have tied two this season and barely lost one to Whitman earlier in the season. Portland beat them 46-0 in a one-sided game in the Pilots' home town.

In there for Pacific university will be Troutman, Lee, ends; Merz and Kiehl, tackles; Dahlgren and Frank Roberts, guards; George Horner, center; Don Skinner, quarter; Bill Foelker and Van Loo, halves; and Bob Franks, fullback.

Basketball Hit Hard

Hardest hit of all sports this year is basketball according to present indications. The loss of head coach Howard Maple, and the return of but one letterman are gaps that will be hard to fill. Selected to handle the basketball is football mentor Spec Keene, who by his record in other sports was the ideal choice.

Don Barnick, veteran guard, will be the nucleus around which this year's squad will form. Players from last year's smooth-working freshman squad have promise of turning into good material. Some of these are Fred Bradshaw, Dave Kelly, Ron Runyon, Bob Weaver, Cecil Conner, Gordon Kunke, Bob Walker, Larry Willis and Don Link.

Mentor Keene predicts that "a scarcity of tall men will call for a small, scrappy team which can really work the ball and shoot!"

Because of the gasoline rationing, this year's schedule cannot be determined, but games with local team are already scheduled. A meeting of conference coaches is to be called next week to decide whether conference basketball will continue as far as the league schedule is concerned.

Mary Bennett, manager of women's basketball, this week said that the teams to be included in tournament play will be selected in the near future. This tournament in basketball is expected to be completed by Thanksgiving.

Hours for the new practice schedule are 7 p. m. on Mondays and Wednesdays and 4 p. m. on Tuesdays and Thursdays.

The women's badminton tournament is now in full swing. The badminton teams are composed of sophomores and upperclassmen, and include Bette Burkhardt and Kay Wilson; Miriam Ferrin and Catherine Thomas; Mary McKay and Joyce Harper; and Marjorie Reeves and Mary Laughlin.

After the unbelievable upset pulled by the Webfeet of Oregon last week and a few other mistakes we made, we don't have much of a percentage left.
Because of their sensational win last week, we are thinking that maybe the boys down Oregon way have at last begun to play ball, so we will give them a win over USC this week. Another prediction in the Coast conference will be unpredictable Stanford over Oregon State.
In the Northwest conference we see the rambling Bearcats of Willamette taking a win from Pacific U in their third consecutive climb to the conference throne.
Up and down the coast and here and there they look like this:
WSC over Idaho.
Stanford over OSC.
California over Montana
Oregon over USC.
Willamette over Pacific.
CPS over W. Washington.
USF over Fresno State.
Santa Clara over St. Mary's.
