WHITMAN EXAMS START TODAY

SOME EXAMS TO BE THREE HOURS

Final examinations start this afternoon at 1:30 at the Whitman college. Some of their tests will be three hours in length, instead of the customary two hour sessions. The duration of the finals will depend upon the number of hours of each course or upon the preference of the professors. The examination period at Whitman lasts longer than Willamette's. It starts today and ends a week from Friday.

Although last week's Oregon-Willamette basketball game was played on Thursday night, a complete article on the contest appeared in Friday morning's edition of the Oregon Daily Emerald. This was made possible through the thorough work of a Willamette student, John Gilhousen. John reported Willamette's victory, the story of which was telegraphed to the Oregon paper by the Collegian. This interchange of news stories is one of the many aims of the Pacific Intercollegiate Press association, of which both schools are members.

Exam Schedule is Same as in the Jan. 16 Collegian

The registrar reports that there have been no complaints against the first semester examination schedule, and that no official changes in it will be necessary. MANKER RECEIVES VOTES OF SENIORS

Edwin Rounds is Victor in Sophomore Contest for Office of President.

BOWE HEADS JUNIORS

Tyrus Hillway, Frosh Editor, is Victor in Close Race of Class of '33.

Leslie Manker was elected president of the senior class, Wednesday noon, and Dorothy Gordon was voted his assistant, as vice-president. Alvina Brothaupt was elected secretary; John Crnkovich, treasurer; and Frances McGilvra, class director for Freshman Glee. The class does not have an office of sergeant-at-arms.

Sam Bowe was selected to head the Juniors. Betty Lewis and Josephine Albert were unanimously elected to the offices of vice-president and secretary, respectively. Roy Harland drew the vote for treasurer, and Joseph Felton, retiring president was named sergeant-at-arms.

In the sophomore contest, Edwin Rounds came out victorious, as president; Betty Ogden, vice-president; Dorothy Eastridge, secretary; Walter Warner, treasurer; and Wesley Roder, also a retiring president, sergeant-at-arms.

Tyrus Hillway, who served as editor of the annual freshman edition of the Collegian, took the presidential election of his class. His associates voted as vice-president, Frances Laws; secretary, Alvis Love, re-elected; treasurer, Phillip Armstrong.

Election rooms were varied in atmosphere. The voting was close in some, in others, uncontested. Final nominations were the subject of technical arguments in the Junior meeting. Raymond Waddell wished to withdraw from his previous nomination for president; but this move was not allowed, after a call for order had brought out the fact that the original nominator was not present to withdraw his name. The name was left on the ballot.

These new officers will guide their respective constituents through Freshman Glee and May week-end and to the early part of June, when officers for the ensuing semester will be elected.

New Rules for Keeping Absentee Slip is Probable

Junior and Senior Absences Dealt With by Professors.

A new rule in regard to absences seems likely to be declared in effect for next semester, according to word from the registrar. The proposed ruling is intended to simplify some of the work now required in keeping a record of student absences. The regulation reads as follows:

Absences, except from chapel, of juniors and seniors shall be dealt with by the professor and not reported to the registrar. Students must secure the sanction of the appropriate dean before they incur absences on account of work. Double cuts shall be charged for each class absence except for illness on days immediately preceding or following a recess or vacation. Excuses for absence on account of illness shall be granted by the University Health service and shall be taken personally to the instructors concerned and signed by each instructor. Every excuse shall be turned in to the registrar's office with the proper signatures within four days after the student returns.

All excuses for absence must be signed by the Dean of Women for women and by Dean Erickson for men. One credit hour shall be deducted for the first five cuts, and one hour for each additional five cuts or major fraction thereof. One unexcused absence is one cut. Excessive unexcused absences on account of illness shall be dealt with by the deans.

A Y'S EXAMPLE

Linfield's Christian Association of College Men seems headed in the right direction. With more centralized organization, it should accomplish much where the usual form of Christian association has failed.

Headline writers are wondering why it is that the letters and words count up so fast in their trial lines, while they do not seem to behave that way at all in their long themes for the semester.

Since the band is dead, it might be fitting for Freshman Glee songwriters to turn their attentions to composing a fitting requiem. The band was good while it lasted.

Next week's examinations give the Collegian staff another vacation. The next issue will be published Thursday, February 6th.

Collegian reporters are over-joyed. They can write of mid-winter activities and feel that they are telling the truth.

Only three weeks are left in which to write the Glee serenades.

Vari-Favoring Comments

Occasioned by Proposed Women's Award

Expressed on Amendment

COACH FAVORS WOMEN'S ATHLETICS

I am heartily in favor of intramural athletics for women and believe the point system is a fine incentive to keep up such interest. However, I am not in favor of financial support coming out of the student funds for intercollegiate athletics. I would suggest that the university carry such expense.

ROY S. KEENE.

FAVORS ENCOURAGEMENT

I am very much in favor of this move to give girls student body awards for their efficiency in intramural sports. This encouragement to participate in sports is good although I believe that their numericals should have a characteristic design or color that would differentiate them from other awards just as the letter won in women's tennis differs from that of the varsity awards of the men.

PAULINE FINDLEY.

"MANY QUESTIONS ARISE"

To the Associated Students: When we vote on the question about awarding sweaters to women for athletic activities we ought to ask ourselves a few questions. "Are other schools of our size doing so?" "Will the award detract from the present award for women's varsity sports?" "What do the present 'lettermen' think about the idea?" "Will the award tend to stimulate good sportsmanship in women's athletics?" "Should we spend athletic funds in this way, which would have been used for football shoes or basketball warmups?" "Would it be advisable to reduce the class dues and increase the athletic allowance?" "Would the award increase the Willamette spirit of the women?" "Would it increase school spirit in general?"

When you have decided in your mind and after you have voted, and after the amendment is passed or rejected, we will know the answers to these questions. In any event the decision of the majority will be for the best.

WILLIAM MUMFORD.

MEN IN FAVOR

The "W" club has not as yet for lack of information made a definite stand on the question of awarding sweaters to women for participation in intramural athletics. It is the consensus of opinion of the members, however, that such awards should not be made as long as the control of the point system remains in the hands of the Women's Athletic Association. If the system is carried out at all, the awarding should be in the hands of the student body, and the point requirements should be incorporated in the constitution. However the majority of the "W" men are in favor of women's awards of some kind.

LAWRENCE WINSLOW, Pres. "W" Club.

NOT FAIR!

I am not in favor of awarding sweaters to girls for participation in intramural athletics, mainly because it is not fair to the boys who also participate in intramural athletics without award. An award from the student body should mean that the recipient has actually represented the student body. Participation in intramural athletics is not representing the student body.

LILLIAN SCOTT.

FAIR AND JUST

I believe the awarding of sweaters to girls on the point system is but fair and just recognition for faithful athletic participation.

PAUL ACKERMAN.

IS ONLY RIGHT

Women students who have shown such interest in athletics as to earn a thousand points according to the W. A. A. standard point system by participation in various intramural athletic activities deserve to be honored with the women's official "W" sweater.

DORIS STEELE.

SURELY DESERVING

Women's athletics, with the exception of tennis, are necessarily confined to intramural contests. Under the constitution as it now stands, the women have very little opportunity to win any sort of an athletic award. Women who earn 1000 points in intramural athletics surely deserve a student body award such as a white sweater with the cardinal and felt letter.

SARAH POOR.

MONEY?

And now the women want sweaters as awards for their athletic ability. Where is the money to come from? It hardly seems fair that the women should receive practically the same award from the student body which the men receive for varsity competition. No doubt there would be but few earning this recognition, as was stated before the student-body, but since the athletic fund is already depleted in supporting athletics which serve to benefit the school as a whole, the women should seek the source of their award elsewhere. Perhaps a re-distribution of the student funds, as has been suggested many times before, would be the solution.

TIME TO COMPLETE BUILDING EXTENDED

The state board of control Wednesday extended the time for completing the new state office building from January 29 to March 1. This was necessary because of inclement weather conditions which slowed up the work during the past three weeks. Figures submitted to the board today showed that the total cost of the building, as estimated by the architect, was $485,519.39. There has been expended on the building or contracted up to the present time $485,486.06. The Hammond Construction company of Portland has the contract.

BETTER REQUISITION SYSTEM SUGGESTED

Class Treasurer Would Be Required to Present Blank to Merchant.

At the last executive meeting of the A. S. W. U., Leslie Sparks, graduate manager, suggested that a new financial system of requisitions be inaugurated, which would more thoroughly encompass the student financial problem on the Willamette campus. The plan is that each class treasurer, upon making any purchase, must first secure a requisition blank from Mr. Sparks. This blank is to be presented to the merchant from whom the goods is purchased, as an assurance that the bill will be paid. Both the class treasurer and Mr. Sparks will have a duplicate copy of this requisition for later reference. Under this new plan, according to Mr. Sparks, all confusion of unpaid bills will be avoided.

LINFIELD DEBATERS OPEN 1930 SEASON

McMINNVILLE, Jan. 22.—Linfield varsity debaters will open their 1930 season here tonight when they entertain the Oregon State college varsity negative team. The contest being a dual debate, Linfield will send a negative team to Corvallis the same night.

Wallace Buckingham, Seattle, and Walter Wood, Vancouver, B. C., comprise the affirmative team which will argue the question: "Resolved, that the English inditement of American education is justified." Lloyd Brown, Yamhill, and Phillip Foord, McMinnville, are on the negative squad.

REED FINDS STUDENTS PREFER FUNNY PAPERS

Portland, Ore.—(P.I.P.)—The doings of comic strip characters apparently are of more interest to the average student at Reed college here than the affairs of the nation, state, or city, it was revealed recently in a survey.

Of the 294 students who expressed their opinions on the matter, 56 preferred reading comic strips first and 47 others would rather take a glance at the front page and then turn to the comic section.

The average number of papers read by the students daily was two, although one student read four papers. The average time spent by the students reading newspapers was estimated at 35.5 minutes daily.

OREGON STUDENTS BEGIN NIGHT HORSEBACK RIDING

Night horseback riding has been added to the sports menu of the Oregon students through the completion of a new enclosed sawdust ring, brightly lighted at the Bangs Riding academy. This is in line with the modern trend which has added football to the lists of sports played under the flood-lights.—(P.I.P.)

Chicago Doctor Predicts Leaner Race

Dr. Morris Fishbein of Chicago, editor of Journal American Medical Society, in San Francisco, California, for several lectures, says men may not reasonably hope to live beyond age of threescore and ten. Chief interests of medical profession, Dr. Fishbein said is perhaps treatment of cancer. Predicts solution will probably be treatment of condition producing cancer, rather than removal of the growth. Predicts a leaner race when people grow to accurately know what is needful to eat.

THE ALUMNUS HAS VARIED OFFERINGS

Firecrackers in Germany on 4 of July Heard by W. U. Alumni

The number of students who have received the B. A. degree from Willamette in the last ten years is about two-thirds the number receiving the degree in the previous 75 years. The amount raised for endowment and the amount put into buildings in the last ten years is more than twice the amount raised for each in the preceding 75 years, or an average of $92,500 a year on endowment in the last decade as compared with $6000 a year in the period from 1844 to 1919, and $28,300 a year in buildings as compared with $1,875 a year.

These are a few of the very interesting facts which appear in the January 1930 issue of the Alumnus, just published. In an article on the library, Dr. Franklin states that an average of 1250 books a year or seven each school day, have been added to the library in the last ten years.

The Alumnus contains several other interesting features besides those on Willamette's growth and the library. R. J. Hendricks, for many years editor of the Oregon Statesman, and for a number of years a trustee of Willamette, has contributed a very interesting story entitled, "The Old Mission," in which he tells the history of Jason Lee's settlement in the Willamette Valley and the beginning of Willamette university. Mr. Hendricks is an authority on Oregon history.

Miss Mary Salome Wells, an alumna, has a charming story of a trip to Europe, where, she says, she was much surprised to hear firecrackers in Germany on the Fourth of July. A short synopsis is also given of the very active and successful career of Dean Hewitt, of the Law school. A section on forensics; one on athletics, and news of the places which Willamette students, past and present, are taking in the world, serve to keep the alumni informed about what is being accomplished by their alma mater.

Executive Officers Clash About Theft Of Glim Attempted

There seems to be a bit of dissension among the officers of the executive committee. Monday morning the managing editor was caught in the act of removing a light globe from above the student body office desk. Of course, the editor, being responsible for the acts of his underlings, was accused regarding the attempted theft. However, he merely stood up for the incroachment upon public property, or what not, and countered with the query, "Who has been using the Collegian typewriter in the student body office?" and the polite suggestion, "Maybe whoever it is could get us a new ribbon for it."

This floored the light globe accusers for a very few minutes. Then another counter was shot at the editor this way, "It seems that the editor of the school daily, or weekly, or annual, should be reconstructive, wholesomely enthusiastic, and uplifting, and not going around sticking up for petty thievery, such as was the case just now."

But the fight went no further, because at this point the secretary happened to remember that the president had not brought her any souvenirs from the N. S. F. A. Convention at Palo Alto. She broke into a gush of tears and forgave the editor, the managing editor, and in fact the whole staff for the misdemeanor. When the offense was thus weakened, the accusers beat a hasty retreat, and swore never again to use that underwood with the keys that stick.

SALEM HI CLARION WINS U. OF O. CUP

For the second year in succession, the Salem high school "Clarion" student body paper, has received the Eugene Guard cup as the best paper in schools of 500 or more attendance. Salem students are enthusiastic over the award, and feel confident that the high school paper will make the grade next year and be awarded permanent possession of the cup as winners for three successive years. The cup was awarded this year at the last session of the student conference in Eugene Saturday.

Little Theatre

The auditorium will accommodate about 100 persons when informal debates or plays are presented.

The purpose of the college theatre is to give students who are interested professionally in public speaking the advantage of workshop training and also to stimulate an interest in the relationship of finer drama to the arts.

Little theatres or "workshops" in colleges which have made significant achievements are Yale, Cornell, Wellesley, Vassar, and others. The Little Theatre at Willamette is a significant step indicative of the progressive movement in Willamette's up-building program.

"One cannot live with you more than 30 years at a time."

And so "The Makropoulos Secret" was out—and Emilia Marty, the immeasurably old and eternally youthful daughter of Makropoulos, the physician of Emperor Rudolph, finally faced the death she feared and the life that had grown immeasurably burdensome to her.

POWER OF LIFE AND DEATH

Then those who had won the secret away from her, were forced to the necessity of deciding what should be done with the power of life and death over all the world—and the decision was made finally by the young girl who knew, what Emilia also knew, that too long life is not to be desired by human beings.

Even Break Seen in Contest To be Played on Foreign Floor.

When the Willamette quintet opens its conference schedule on the Linfield floor, Friday night, it will be in for the toughest game of the season, according to Coach Keene.

Those who saw the Bearcats nose out a one point win over the Baptists, last year, have the same fear for the Bearcat's safety.

The first game of conference play is bound to have a psychological effect upon the locals, and the abbreviated gym will constitute another handicap.

Prexy Describes "Quad" and Mosaic Work at Stanford

Hazing Goes Way of Peg-Top Trousers and Tandems.

(This article by Mr. Mumford is the second of a series of reports of his recent trip to the first National Student Federation congress to be held on the Pacific coast.)

The second day of the convention the delegates enjoyed a tour of the Memorial church and Quad. "The Quad" is the nickname for the quadrangle formed by the administration buildings. The famous Memorial Church is on the North side of the Quad, and can be seen from the other end very distinctly. The first striking greeting of the university as one comes up Serra street, is the wonderful mosaic work of the front of the Memorial church. One can hardly believe that the pictures represented on the front of the church and inside it are made up of bits of stone not more than three-eighths of an inch across. It took nineteen hundred Italians two years to reproduce these beautifully colored pictures in broken stone.

After an organ recital by Mr. Warren D. Allen, the university organist, one of Stanford's many efficient guides told Row the Memorial church was built in remembrance of Leland Stanford, Sr., after his death. He told of the ruination of it in the earthquake of 1906, and how it was rebuilt and remodeled. He called attention to the mosaic pictures, beginning on the right and working around the room, which depicted the life of the old testament, and the life of Christ, in the order of their happening. Then, just below the mosaic pictures were inscriptions in solid rock. If one were to read them all, one right after another, all the way around the church, it would take two hours. I started out to read them, but found that the time for our Student Government meeting was too close at hand to go farther.

Sportorials

By Don Sanders

Friday night the Bearcats travel to the home of the Wildcats. The support of every true collegian is necessary if Willamette is going to open the season with a victory. Spec would appreciate a large delegation of fans.

Linfield is known for her fighting spirit. Last fall three yell leaders were necessary to direct the vocal efforts of the handful of Baptists who were able to watch their team take a trouncing at the hands of the Bearcat eleven. And their four-piece band made a creditable noise.

When thinking of Linfield do not think in the terms of John the Baptist, "the voice of one crying in the wilderness." Linfield college is at McMinnville and McMinnville is only 30 miles from Salem. Hence it ought not be too hard for a good number of rooters to be present.

If this sort of weather continues the student body will have to cast about for a hockey coach. This would provide an opening for spending money in some other fashion than buying sweaters for the W. A. A.'s.

It is no more than just that women participating in events under the auspices of the Association should receive some recognition of their work, but when it comes to buying 15-dollar sweaters, it seems a trifle out of scale.

The athletic fund is insufficient to properly equip the basketball and football squads. For three years Bearcat hoopers have looked forward to the time when they should be provided with proper sweat outfits, and for many seasons football gear has been patched and repatched. From where is the where-with-all coming?

MUMFORD GETS MANY AUTOGRAPHS AT N.S.F.

It is interesting to note the various sections represented and the distance some traveled in order to attend this meeting.

BEARCAT DEFENSE TIGHT

First Half Lead Proves Too Much for Late Oregon Rally.

By John Gilhousen

In a game featured with rough spectacular basketball the Willamette Bearcats walloped the Oregon cagers 40 to 39 here last Thursday night.

The impregnable Bearcat defense and the fast breaking of both teams featured the game after both teams had played a full minute without scoring. Lev-off and Eberhart ran a lead to five points before the Bearcats could locate the basket. When the Jason Lee offense once started, they rolled up an opposing lead which was never headed, although Coach Reinhart made numerous substitutions trying to find a winning combination.

The score at the half stood 20 to 8. Oregon staged a belated rally late in the last quarter and drew within six points of tying. A count by Adams put the game on ice by sinking two close ones in rapid succession. Cardinal with 14 points and Adams with 13 were the Bearcats' aces, while Keenan with eight points starred for the visitors.

Summary: Willamette Pos. Oregon Scates (8) ... F. ... (8) Keenan Adams (13) ... F. ... (6) Levoff Cardinal (14) ... F. ... (2) Eberhart Houck ... G. ... Dolp Gibson (5) ... G. ... Calkins Substitutions: For Willamette—Carpenter and Peterson. For Oregon—Fletcher, Horner, Dixon (1), Stevens (1), Rubenstein (4), Hughes (4), Potter (4), Bell.

Rubber Band Gains New Place in Polite Teachers' Society

The rubber band, hitherto regarded solely as utilitarian, has finally emerged as a member of a polite society. To many it has been known as the motive power for paper wads or a substitute for string in tying small parcels. But now it assumes the role of companion. Of late, more than one professor and several students have been observed twining and untwining one of these bands about their fingers. This movement is apparently done without conscious effort, and from the fact that it continues through the whole of a class period, some have decided that this action serves as a release for vast scores of nervous energy. Thus has the rubber band evolved in its functions. Now it has its place in the sun, or on the teaching staff.

That the honor of being the only colored cadet at West Point weighs rather heavily on the shoulders of Alanzo Parham, of Chicago is indicated in information concerning the young negro's life at the U. The officer said and often shows signs of breaking under the loneliness of the ordeal. Parham was appointed to the academy by Oscar de Priest, only negro representative in congress.—(P.L.P.)

PREXIES OF W. A. A. CONFER AT EUGENE

On January 11, Emily Brown attended a convention for the presidents of the W. A. A. of the various colleges, universities, and normal schools of Oregon, at Eugene, sponsored by the A. S. W., formerly known as the Women's League.

The convention opened Saturday morning after a session of discussion the visiting presidents were entertained at various sororities for lunch. The afternoon session was an informal discussion dealing with various campus and association problems.

Following this the A. S. W. of U. of O. were hostesses at a banquet given at the Eugene Hotel. The benefits derived from the preceding conventions have been so great that the A. S. W. hopes to make these conventions an annual event.

FRESHMEN SPEND MOST OF TIME IN SLEEPING

Cornell Professor Finds That Average Freshman Has Eight Activities.

DES MOINES, Iowa, Jan. 21.—Approximately 80 per cent of the average college freshman's time is spent in eight activities, according to Dr. Richard S. Uhrbrock of the course in hotel administration at Cornell university, speaking here before the section on education at the meeting of the American association for the advancement of science. These activities, in order of time occupied, are sleeping, attending classes, studying, eating, working for pay, walking, physical exercise and "null sessions." The last named may be described as periods of informal conversation in which the undergraduates discuss every subject under the sun. These sessions usually are held in students' rooms, or in fraternity houses. Faculty members are seldom present.

ROOKS FACE STIFF WEEK END SCHEDULE

Starting Thursday night the Freshman basketball quintet plays three games in as many nights. On Thursday they play Washington high, last year's runner-up in the state tournament, on the General's floor. On the following night they go with the varsity to engage the Linfield seconds in a preliminary. Saturday the Baptists seconds come to Salem for a return game. Although the Rooks are not the class of last year's babes they have won a larger percentage of their games than has the varsity thus far. Eligibility has taken its toll of the squad, out with Todd and Houk, forwards; Gottfried, center; Hegg and Moore guards. Sparks has developed a squad capable of caring for itself.
