FOREWORD

OUR AIM IN PRESENTING THE 1930 "Wallulah" is to portray as clearly as possible the numerous activities that have taken place during the school year. Stirring struggles on Sweetland field, quiet strolls down the shaded campus ways, pausing for a moment at the senior bench—all whispering their story of half forgotten triumphs, tragedies, and joys.

Our effort has not been to construct a literary masterpiece but an expression of student life as found in the workings of an institution that is the greatest friend of progress and happiness.

If the memories of the past, found between the covers of this volume, will recall to you "those days at W. U.," we are satisfied.

Jason Lee, The Christian Father of the Northwest, called a meeting to consider educational needs of the Oregon country. It was attended by religious leaders of the pioneer community. They assembled at the new mission house, the first frame dwelling erected in Salem.

President's Message

HISTORY, which illuminates the present and predicts the future, is little more than a running biography of the race. It is men who make events; and anyone who would be wise is counselled to be a student of biography for thereby the lamp of experience becomes his guide.

The WALLULAH is a composite biography which covers a year of keen and vivid activity of some six hundred persons. It is crowded with the blazing beacons of experience and even the wayfarer may feel that his journey need not be in darkness. And those who once were travellers upon this highway will have pleasure in again noting familiar landmarks and in seeing others which the years have changed.

Moreover, the WALLULAH is never suspected of being dull, as many histories are. The very name suggests euphonious, blithesome, jubilation; and this is found throughout the book. Strachey may have consulted earlier WALLULAHs that he might be instructed now to write revolutionary, readable, and resonant biography. Be that as it may, here is a book of record which pictorializes, sparkles, and crackles because its subjects and its editors are what they are.

Probably no human activities are quite so spontaneous and sincere as those of college students. Of course, the freshmen for a month or two must consciously and painfully "orient" themselves. But the lungs are soon accustomed to the higher percentage of ozone and life leaps to its swifter pace with a bit more of care-free spontaneity. I suppose this is why there are colleges—to put a student into a higher gear and to give him power enough to take the hills with happy courage.

All this—the process and the product—are depicted in this book. To read it is to set the blood a-tingle, though time has slowed the pulse. It is a memory, a tonic, and a calling voice.

Dean of the College of Liberal Arts

LEADERSHIP is a word much bandied about the campus. So common is it that scrutiny is needed to discover whether it carries meaning or is only an empty shell.

College trained leaders once functioned through the ministry and in public affairs through the legal profession. More recently scientific research has been attracting many of the best trained graduates.

Now changing conditions call for leaders in still another field. The times require men and women of high ideals who are trained in public affairs, in principles of government and commerce, and in the interrelation of the two; men and women who are qualified to help through the press and by direct personal leadership in the solution of our great public problems. For those who can qualify it is an attractive field. —FRANK M. ERICKSON

Dean of Women

The contribution of a college education to life is not mere knowledge of facts. Such education may be gained in many and various ways. The greater contribution is the social and spiritual confidence and poise produced by developed leadership and is gained only by the unique experience of a four years' sojourn on a college campus.

Willamette, because it is a small college, offers the opportunity to gain this confidence to an unusual degree for, with its student body of five hundred, every type of extra-curricular activity is carried on that is on larger campi with their several times larger student bodies. This gives each individual a responsibility and an opportunity to develop the latent powers of leadership, religious, social, and educational, which is within him. Because social groups are small, each student becomes conspicuous and is forced to learn and employ confidence and poise. —OLIVE M. DAHL

Board of Trustees

THE board of trustees presents an interesting variety of men and women. These fifty members represent eighteen different professions or lines of business, with a desirable mixture of different ages. Sixteen of them are alumni. They meet twice yearly to elect the faculty and officials, make appropriations, and determine the policies of the school.

Department of Music

THE music department endeavors to bring to the students of Willamette the best in instruction and musical traditions. Each teacher has studied with the most celebrated masters of his time and is glad to pass on to his pupils the great laws and principles governing the art of music.

The composer, Adolf Jensen, said: "Work with all its consequences is one of the most exalted pleasures," and the music faculty wishes to recommend this bit of wisdom to all music students, for no principle or tradition can be assimilated without great labor.

—FORREST W. GAW

Registrar

The chief concern of the registrar is to see that everyone turns in the right report at the right moment. The absent-minded professor who timed his egg and boiled his watch, if he does not now have a brother teaching at Willamette, at least has sent several sons who are following in their father's footsteps. The naive reasons for late excuses are at once the bane and the amusement of the registrar's life.

Keeping records that tell the story of a student's growth is in itself interesting, but even more than that the opportunity to know every one of the five hundred students who come to Willamette makes the office an inspiration and delight.

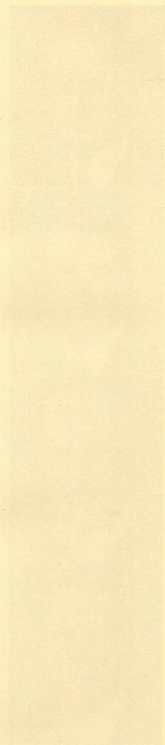

—MRS. FRANK D. LEAMER

Business Secretary

All payments on Forward Movement pledges and payments from the General Education Board on their gift of three hundred fifty thousand dollars are received here and forwarded to our endowment committee to be invested and added to permanent endowment.

Here the students pay all University bills, endowment income is received from the committee in charge of this fund, and monthly checks covering our apportionment come from the Board of Education of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

—NELSON S. SAVAGE

Faculty

Mathematics

The teaching of mathematics at Willamette is intended to gratify students who wish to know mathematics as a part of the great body of truth, to equip engineers and scientists with the necessary mathematical tools.

Many high school and college teachers and laboratory research workers have been trained here.

—JAMES T. MATTHEWS, A.M.

Biology

In a sense it may be said that the primary purpose of the department of Biology is the same as that of every other department, that is, to integrate itself with the rest in such a way as to produce a symmetrical whole which is called a College of Liberal Arts.

More particularly, it aims to fit all of its students to meet intelligently many practical problems of every-day life, and to prepare some for professional courses.

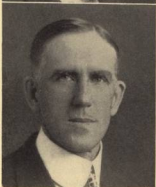

—MORTON E. PECK, A.M.

History

The chief aim of the history instruction is to lead students to think and with this end in view to stress the causes and results of the events of history. If one understands the causes and results of the happenings of the past, he can better analyze and understand the events of the present.

—GEORGE H. ALDEN, PH.D.

Philosophy and Psychology

The aims of the department of philosophy and psychology are three. Philosophy's first intention is to point out principles common to major human interests; second, the synthesis and organization of the sciences. Psychology purposes an understanding of human nature; more especially those phases of mind motivating the interests and institutions of men.

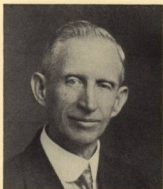

—CHARLES L. SHERMAN, PH.D., PH. D.

WALLULAH

Ancient Languages

We welcome to the department of Ancient Languages all that desire knowledge of the culture of the ancient Greeks and Romans. A study of their literature and of their art and architecture affords an insight into their rich and varied civilization and their marvelous contributions to the modern world.

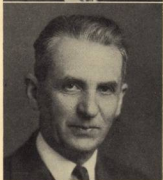

—WILLIAM E. KIRK, A.M.

Modern Languages

The aim of this department is not only to afford a reading knowledge which enables one to come in contact with the vast wealth of literary and scientific works contained in French, German, or Spanish, but also to broaden the student's mental horizon by his more thorough acquaintance with the civilization of another nation besides his own.

—ALEXANDER A. VAZAKAS, PH.D.

Rhetoric

The purpose of the department of Rhetoric is, first, to develop clear thinking and practical written and oral expression. This objective involves written expression in the student's major field. Further objectives are the laying of a basis for the profession of writing and the encouragement of wider reading in the fields of culture.

—ERNEST C. RICHARDS, A.M.

Library

The library is the center. Intellectual life radiates from it. To it the streams flow in: advertisements, a daily armful of periodicals, new books seven a day. The Staff whip it into order, exhibit and feed it to all, move it out, check it in, record, report, spend the budget allowance. "Help yourself decorously" is their plea.

—F. G. FRANKLIN, PH.D.

Physical Education

The real value of physical education and athletics is the fact that they exercise the mental, social, and moral qualities. In addition to giving opportunity for regular required exercise in various activities, a thorough course in theory, practice, and technique of present day physical education and coaching is offered.

—ROY S. KEENE, B.S.

English Literature

Literature is the record of what man has thought and felt most deeply about life. From literature one can enrich greatly one's own meagre experience in thought and feeling. To know well what the poet says and be acquainted with the thought conveyed through literary prose of the past and our own time provides us a most resourceful means of understanding experience and estimating intelligently its values.

—H. C. KOHLER, PH. D.

Public Speaking

This department aims to develop effectiveness in expression in every walk of life. We believe that speech training is one of the best ways of developing the intellect and the personality of an individual. We aim to give more individual work in the Little Theater, in speech clinic work, and in practice in interpretations and speech making.

—HERBERT E. RAHE, A.M.

Chemistry

The courses are designed to serve four groups. First, the few qualified to do graduate work in chemistry. Second, those who need some chemical training to understand related sciences. Third, those who expect to teach chemistry and related sciences. And fourth, the largest group, interested chiefly in the arts.

WALLULAH

Economics and Sociology

The purpose of the economics curriculum is to give an understanding of the economic world and to help the graduating major to make adjustment to the business field.

Sociology shows how individuals may develop into social personalities by the mutual exchange of ideas and how human nature is second nature socially acquired.

Home Economics

The aim of the Home Economics department is to provide courses which will give students a working knowledge of the problems of the home and the community, and a realization of woman's responsibilities as a homemaker and a citizen.

—LOIS E. LATIMER, A.M.

Political Science

The aim of the Political Science department is to educate many students for intelligent citizenship; to start a few toward political leadership; to prepare a few for graduate and research work in government; and to lay the pre-professional foundation for students preparing to enter civil service work.

—ROBERT M. GATRE, Ph.D. B.D.

Physics

The aim of the Physics department is to teach and develop the scientific methods, using as subject matter the facts and theories of Physics. We do not attempt to make into physicists or technicians all who enroll in our courses.

Student Assistants

THE student assistants to the professors are very important for it is upon them that a great deal of work devolves. The duties of these assistants to professors are mainly to correct the papers of the professor, to take charge of the class in his absence, and to do minor office duties such as recording grades. The student in doing part of the professor's work is enabled to get an insight into the work of a teacher. Besides gaining practical experience the student is also given scholastic credit for the work done. The following are the student assistants:

Alumni

The Alumni Association

ED F. AVERILL
President Alumni Association

THE Willamette University Alumni Association has undertaken to make itself an aggressive and stimulating factor in the advancement of the university during the past year. Definite strength and influence have been added to the organization.

The association has sought to gain new friends for the university; to gather up the loose ends of alumni interests and tie them into its general program; to renew the loyalty of the great body of graduates who have gone out from Willamette and to enlist it in the school's affairs.

The alumni have recognized as the outstanding need of the university at present a public relations bureau, which might give to the general public through the press and otherwise more information about the university, its accomplishments, its activities, and its students.

After several conversations with a committee from the board of trustees, composed of Amedee M. Smith, Robert A. Booth, and William Wallace Youngson, a special committee from the alumni association outlined a general publicity program which is now being considered by the executive committee of the board. It is known that members of the trustee's committee look upon the plan with favor, provided it can be financed.

The alumni committee consisting of Sheldon F. Sackett, Robert C. Notson, and Merton DeLong recommended that the university employ an experienced newspaper man to direct publicity for the university and student body, to edit the Alumnus magazine, to serve as alumni secretary, to instruct a class in news writing, and to advise student executives of student publications. They suggest that the expense of such a bureau might well be jointly borne by the university, the student body, and the alumni association.

The committee pointed to the broadcast of the Willamette University-Whitman College championship football game over station KEX, Portland, and the presentation of pertinent facts about the university, as a piece of constructive publicity. This broadcast was sponsored and financed by the Portland Willamette clubs, and was heard over the entire northwest.

Efforts of the association to re-enlist the interest of many of the graduates has been materially aided by the athletic success of the university's teams under the coaching of Roy S. Keene. Winning of the northwest conference championships in football and basketball during the intercollegiate year just past, particularly on account of the spectacular superiority of Willamette teams, has resulted in a surge of new enthusiasm from the "Old Grads."

The Alumni Association

IN Portland the Portland Willamette club—the younger group—has continued its work and increased its membership. Similar organization strengthening has been accomplished by the senior group also. At Christmas time the two groups combined to sponsor a banquet in honor of the victorious football team, which was attended by alumni, trustees, present students, and friends of Willamette.

Ed F. Averill, president of the association, organized an informal luncheon club of Willamette men which meets every Monday noon at a Portland tea room. Every man who ever attended Willamette is welcomed at these luncheons. This plan has proved of great value in unifying the Portland alumni. Alumni groups are active in many sections of the northwest and nation.

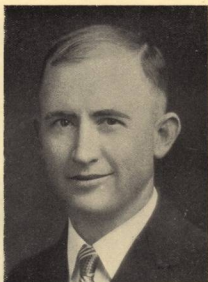

Alumni have been taking more interest in selecting prospective students for the university and supplying them with material. It is believed that a definite service can be performed by greater attention to this matter.

Alumni and students have been brought closer together in the past several years by well planned homecomings, more frequent meetings of leaders of the two groups, and by sending the Collegian to association members.

Leaders of the alumni desire that this relationship may be made permanent, that they may enjoy the confidence of the student body, and that the two organizations may cooperate in betterment plans.

In the minds of the association members there is a hope that when the athletic program at Willamette is a bit further advanced an athletic stadium can be built. It is believed the first unit of such a program might be soon undertaken and a committee consisting of Dr. Neal Zimmerman, Truman Collins, Harold Eakin, Sheldon F. Sackett, and Merton DeLong was appointed to study the matter.

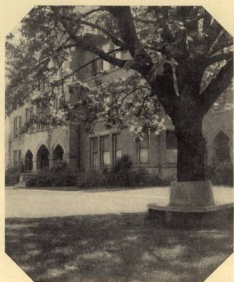

Alumni are destined all of their lives to be marked as graduates of Willamette University. They feel that its advancement reflects credit upon them. This is the inspiration for their efforts.

HOMEcoming was first held in 1923, and since that time has been held every year with an ever increasing number of graduates returning to their Alma Mater for a short visit. It is one of the major events of the year.

The Homecoming of 1929, managed by Lawrence Winslow, proved to be very successful.

FRED PAUL
Manager

FRESHMAN Glee, formerly known as College Glee, is a custom belonging distinctly to Willamette. The plan originated in the minds of some of the members of the class of 1912, when they were Freshmen. The first two Gleees were won by the class which instituted the custom. Before the new Gymnasium was built the Freshman Gleees were held in the Armory.

This year the Glee was held in the Gymnasium on March the first. Each class presenting a serenade song. The Juniors took first place, the Sophomores second, the Seniors third, and the Freshmen fourth.

“Willamette Night Song”

*Over the moon's bright circle
Clouds like a curtain creep
The night with sombre darkness
Covers the world asleep
Then the moon by the clouds unveiled,
Casts a flood of silvered light
And my longing heart turns to singing
This fantasy of the night.*

Chorus:

*Dream on, oh fairest one
Wrapt in gentle slumber
Sleep on, while yet the moon so softly beams
Dream on in sweet repose
Lulled by songs of love
And may their spirit weave into your dreams
Sleep on while still the night
Rebels in velvet splendor,
Has charmed Willamette with its magic spell
My heart bids you sweet farewell
For the paling stars foretell
Night shall fade in morning light
Fairest one, goodnight—goodnight.*

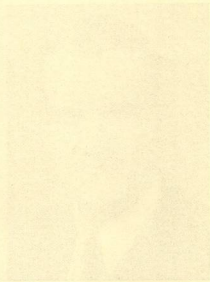

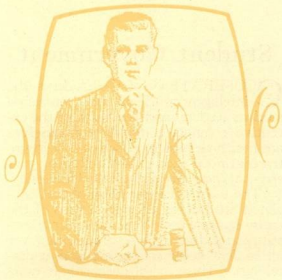

*The years shall pass by us swiftly
Dimming youths brightest rays
But the memories of life's gay springtime
Will lighten the darkest days
The spell of our dear Willamette
Binds our hearts with a golden chain
And the song we sang together
Shall echo for us again.*

Government

Student Government

WILLIAM MUMFORD
President Associated Students

COOPERATION of the students, the intelligent work of truly interested student leaders, and the work of the executive committee members themselves are the three principal factors that insure the continued success of the student government here at Willamette University.

The technical description of the Associated Students is an organization of the entire student body working under a constitution and having general authority over all student body enterprises and undertakings. This general authority is exercised by the Executive Committee, whose function is to decide on matters of policy for the student body, to approve all financial transactions, and to manage student affairs in general. The ever-present matters of student responsibility, student participation, student contacts with the public and with the faculty administration have been handled as efficiently as possible.

Each succeeding year brings new problems to be confronted by the student administration. This year has not been an exception for there were many new difficulties arising which were of no little consequence in the smooth running of the institution.

During the past year William Mumford has ably performed the duties of President of the Associated Students, to which office he was elected last spring. The other members of the executive committee who have ably performed their duties are, Frank M. Erickson, Faculty Advisor; Margaret Bolt, First Vice-President; Warren A. McMinimee, Second Vice-President; Lillian Scott, Secretary; Wendell Keck, Senior Representative; Paul Ackerman, Junior Representative; Wesley Roeder, Sophomore Representative; Harold Rose, Freshman Representative; and Stephen Mergler, Editor of the Collegian. With these leaders in charge the student body has weathered the season with increasing success this year.

Graduate Manager

THE executive committee of the board of trustees of Willamette University, at a meeting held in the spring of 1929, directed the university student body to install the graduate manager system for the handling of its finances. This plan of financial management had been under consideration by the student executive committee for several months. The following is the resolution of the Board of Trustees:

"In order to prevent waste and to insure confidence and to promote business methods, it is hereby directed that the student body create a budget system which shall be operative by September, 1929, and apply to all organizations under the direction of the student body, which shall handle money.

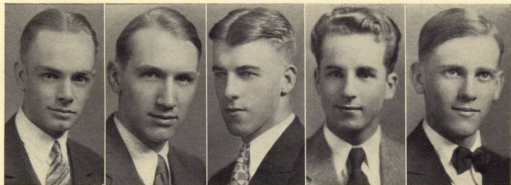

"It is also directed that there be an executive agent who shall be responsible to students and trustees for the proper conduct of all such business matters and to whom and by whom reports shall be made."

The plan provides, first, for the appointment of an executive agent by the student executive committee. This agent will receive all student body funds and will direct their expenditure. Second, the plan provides that all student managers must present to this agent, at the beginning of the school year, a budget of their expenses. This includes managers of the various sports, forensics, student publications, class funds, and the student body general fund. These managers make regular reports to the executive agent of all expenditures.

Lestle J. Sparks, graduate of Willamette University, was elected to fill this position. During the first year that the plan has been in force he has very ably fulfilled the duties of the office. With such a capable person in charge the plan is assured of its continued existence and success.

The Wallulah

ROY HARLAND
Editor The Wallulah

IN publishing the "1930 Wallulah" the staff has tried to present a yearbook accurate in its facts, inclusive in its material, and neat in its appearance. Doubtless there are many points in which this book might be improved, but it embodies our best efforts.

The Wallulah, like other features of Willamette University, has an interesting history. In 1903, one of the first manifestations of Willamette's growth after it had passed through a rather dark and discouraging period, was the publication of the first Wallulah by the Student Body. The next Wallulah, which was published two years later by the Student Body, proved less successful financially than the first, and for this reason no further publication was attempted until in 1911, when the class of 1912 published a strictly "Junior" annual.

The following year, the Junior Class, feeling that they could not put out another regular annual, collaborated with the Collegian management in putting out the "Junior Annual Edition of the Collegian," which was essentially the same as a Wallulah. The Junior class in the following year published a regular Wallulah. In 1915 "The Comet" was published by the Senior class because the Juniors were not publishing a Wallulah. From that time until 1926, the Juniors published the Wallulah, each edition improving in some way upon the preceding one.

The 1930 Wallulah is the fifth annual to have been published under the new type of Student Body control. It is only hoped that this will be but another step forward in the progress of the Wallulah.

The Wallulah

IT IS inevitable that, in the publication of a book of this kind, there should be some upon whom the main burden of the work devolves. The credit for the production of this book is not due to the efforts of the editor and the manager, but to those who have worked with the editor and the manager. It is not to those who merely supervise the work that the benefits should be given, but to those students who worked diligently in doing the detailed matters. It is to the staffs of the editor and the manager that the success of this Wallulah must be contributed.

THE Willamette Collegian is the official newspaper published weekly by the Student Body of Willamette University.

The Collegian has a history as interesting as any of Willamette's projects. In 1889 the Collegian was first established with B. L. Steeves as editor and Fred Legge as manager. At first it was published as a monthly literary magazine and retained this form until 1902. With the exception of one year, when it was published bi-weekly, the Collegian has since continued as a weekly publication.

The Collegian

THIS year the editor and manager of the Collegian attended the convention of the Pacific International Press Association which was held at Palo Alto, California.

Last year the Collegian was reduced to a five column tabloid size, but this year it was increased to an eight column size paper. The Collegian during the past year has been one of the best that has ever been published at Willamette. It indicates progress and the maintaining of a high standard of journalism in the University.

The Willamette Song Book

THE Willamette Song Book is a collection of songs which was first edited in 1914, by the Senior Class. The next year, the Websterian Society re-issued it and published the first supplement. In 1920, the Websterian Society again published a supplement containing all of the Freshman Glee songs for the years 1916, 1917, 1918, and 1919. Following this edition of the Song Book each year the Freshman Glee songs are added.

The editor of this year's Song Book was Grace Henderson, and the manager, Paul Geddes.

The Willamette Handbook

One of the most useful publications on the campus is the Willamette Handbook, or the "Freshman Bible." It is a small pocket sized publication, formerly issued by the Y.M.C.A., but now issued by the Associated Students. It is sent out in order to acquaint prospective students with the University, and help new students adapt themselves to the traditions, customs, and regulations of Willamette. It is almost indispensable for the first few weeks of the school year since it contains a complete directory of campus organizations, the constitution of the Student Body, and many songs and yells.

This year the Handbook was edited and managed by Evelyn High.

Forensics

HERBERT E. RAHE
Director of Department of Public Speech

Forensics

HERBERT E. RAHE, a graduate of the University of Illinois in the class of 1926, has proved himself to be an able and efficient coach of forensics. Professor Rahe comes to Willamette from Butler University, Indiana. While there he was for a year coach of the Freshman and Women's Varsity debating teams. Previous to that time he was on the faculty of the University of Maine. At this school he organized the first Women's debating team in the history of the University. He was also coach of men's debate and was in charge of the Maine High School Debate League. Upon completing his graduate work he received his M.A. degree from the University of Maine in 1929.

Professor Rahe has proved himself to be an energetic and progressive worker. The debate tours made by the men's and women's teams this year were in a large part due to his effort.

He has made Willamette's "little theater" an actuality and has further plans for the maintenance of the proper standards in the department of forensics. In addition to the building of the "little theater" he has coached Willamette's dramatics through a successful season.

The Forensic Council

THE Forensic Council organizes and promotes the forensic activities on the campus. The council endeavors to maintain the forensic activities of Willamette University up to a high standard. As a result the school is a member of the Pacific Coast Forensic League. Willamette University has long ranked high in forensic work, and it is the purpose of the council to uphold the standards of previous years and to advance to higher goals.

This year Charles Campbell was chosen chairman of the Forensic Council. The other two members of the Council were Margaret Pro and Roy Harland.

THE DEBATE MANAGERS

It is upon the Debate Managers that a great deal of work devolves, and it is to them that credit must be given for the successful forensic season.

Ray Lafky was elected men's debate manager, and with the co-operation of the Forensic Council, arranged a debate tour of four thousand miles through Oregon, California, Arizona, New Mexico, Texas, Colorado, Wyoming, Utah, and Nevada. Melvin Crow acted in the capacity of assistant debate manager.

Yvonne Cornell was women's debate manager. She arranged a trip for the women that extended through Oregon, Washington, and Idaho. She very ably performed the duties of the women's debate manager.

Men's Debate

THE question for men's debate this year was: "Resolved, that the nations of the world should adopt a plan of complete disarmament excepting such forces as are needed for police purposes."

Under the direction of Coach Herbert E. Rahe the men's debate squad completed a very extensive schedule this season. The first debates were two extemporaneous affairs with Oregon State College. Home contests were held with teams from University of Hawaii; Wheaton College, Illinois; Weber College, Utah; University of Utah; Spokane University, Washington; Washinton State College; Brigham Young University, Utah; Oregon Norman School, Monmouth; and the University of Oregon.

Members of the squad participating in these debates were: Roy Harland, Charles Campbell, Ray Lafky, Barney Cameron, Ralph McCullough, Ronald Hewitt, and Robert Kutch. Paul Ackerman and Lars Nelson acted as alternates.

On an extended southern trip of two weeks, negative debates were held with Occidental College, California; University of California at Los Angeles; University of Southern California; University of Arizona; University of Wyoming; Weber College, Utah; and the University of Utah. Roy Harland, three year debater, Charles Campbell and Ray Lafky, two year debaters, were Willamette's representatives on this tour.

Women's Debate

THE women's varsity debate teams completed their 1930 season very successfully. The question debated by the women this year was: "Resolved, that the modern diversion of women from the home to business and industrial occupation is detrimental to society." Under the direction of Coach Herbert E. Rahe, there developed the women's debating teams that were not at all pleasing to the opponents.

Contests were held on Willamette's platform with Linfield College, University of Utah, Oregon State College, and Whitman College. In these contests decisions were awarded to Willamette over the University of Utah and Whitman College. Those participating were Marjory Nelson, Florence Decker, Lillian Beecher, and Marjory Moser. Those acting as alternates were Margaret Senter and Virginia Durkee.

For the first time in recent years the women made a tour. Lillian Beecher and Florence Decker represented Willamette on the negative side of the question. On the tour debates were held with Whitman College, Washington State College, and the University of Idaho. Having lost only one member of this year's squad, the women are assured next year of having one of the most successful seasons in the history of women's debate at Willamette University.

STATE OLD LINE ORATORICAL CONTEST

RAY LAFKY was Willamette's participant in the State Old Line Oratorical Contest held at Eugene on March 14, 1930.

"Propaganda vs. Education" was the title of Mr. Lafky's oration. Very creditable work was done by Mr. Lafky in this contest.

PACIFIC COAST ORATORICAL CONTEST

Roy Harland represented Willamette in the Pacific Coast Oratorical Contest which took place at Tucson, Arizona, on March 27, 1930. "The Destiny of Tomorrow" was the title of Mr. Harland's oration.

STATE PEACE ORATORICAL CONTEST

Marion Morange was Willamette's representative in the State peace contest held at Eugene, on April 11, 1930. The title of Miss Morange's oration was "Walls or Highways."

STATE EXTEMPORANEOUS CONTEST

Charles Campbell was Willamette's contestant at the State Extemporaneous Speaking Contest held at McMinnville on February 14, 1930. Mr. Campbell placed second in this contest, being excelled only by the speaker from the University of Oregon. The title of Mr. Campbell's speech was "Are the Nations of the World Ready for Disarmament?"

PACIFIC COAST EXTEMPORANEOUS CONTEST

Charles Campbell again represented Willamette when he participated in the Pacific Coast Extemporaneous Contest held at Tucson, Arizona, on March 26, 1930. He spoke on the subject, "Agriculture and Its Relation to the New Tariff."

Dramatics

"IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE"

"It Pays to Advertise"

THETA Alpha Phi produced "It Pays to Advertise," at the Grand Theatre, on November 2, 1929. This was the annual Homecoming play.

"It Pays to Advertise," by Roi Cooper Magrue and William Hockett, was a story of a conspiracy between a wealthy business man and his secretary. In order to make his son, who seems to be without ambition, go to work, the business man plans to have his son fall in love with the secretary who will then persuade him to go to work. The plan works violently. The son falls in love with the girl, goes into business, becoming his father's business rival. Through advertising the son proposes to break the soap trust. To complicate matters still more, the secretary falls in love with the son and helps him instead of her employer. The son's advertising campaign is so successful that he receives enormous orders only to find that he cannot fill them. His father comes to laugh at him, and later becomes a partner of his son in business.

Professor Herbert E. Rahe coached the play, and a great deal of the credit for the success of the play is due to his efforts. Camilla Gates was manager and did exceptionally good work in promoting the play.

"THE ENEMY"

"The Enemy"

"THE Enemy," by Channing Pollock, was produced by Theta Alpha Phi Dramatic Fraternity at the Grand Theater on March 10, 1930.

The plot of "The Enemy" arose from the author's deep personal conviction of the utter foolishness which causes war and its consequent prejudices which so often prove fatal. It was the heaviest play produced during the year, and probably the heaviest that has ever been given at Willamette. The setting is in Austria during the time of the World War. The original purpose of the play, which was produced just after the World War, was to convince the public that the real enemy is hate instead of the common people who are fighting in the war. In doing this it depicts the life and struggles of those who are left at home, the hatred between rival factions of the country, and profiteering of the statesmen, and business men, and the utter poverty and distress of the people.

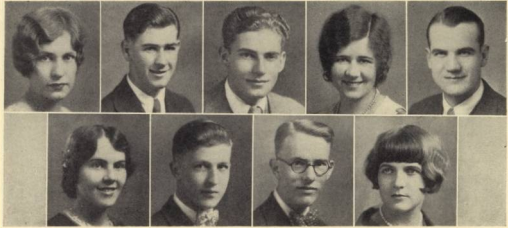

Professor Herbert E. Rahe is to be commended for his excellent work in coaching this type of play. In directing such a play Professor Rahe is doing much in maintaining the high standards of dramatic productions here at Willamette. Helen Stiles very ably managed the play, and the financial success of it was due to her untiring efforts.

The Little Theater

During the past school year a Little Theater has been added to the equipment of the public speaking department by Theta Alpha Phi and the students who are interested in public speaking and dramatics. Professor Herbert E. Rahe has had practically the entire responsibility of the project and he has spent a great deal of time and energy actually working on it as well as supervising it.

The playing stage is about twenty feet wide by eighteen feet deep, and it has been constructed with wings on either side which may be used as dressing rooms if necessary. The lighting system consists of the cyclorama lights, footlights, and border lights, each of which has three switches so that different color combinations may be worked out. A special device has been used in the footlights whereby they may rotate above the floor, and then back into the trough so they can be covered when not in use. An entire set of scenery has been constructed—flats covered, sized, and calcimined, and windows and doors built—and the completed set was used in the presentation of "The Enemy." The attic of Waller Hall has been cleaned up and remodeled into a work room and store house for properties.

Theta Alpha Phi sponsored this project and, in conjunction with the University, has borne the greater part of the expense.

The Territorial Legislature of Oregon granted a charter to Willamette University, with the Oregon Institute retained as its preparatory department. This was a short time before Washington Territory was separated from Oregon Territory.

Seniors

Senior Class History

THE present senior class entered Willamette University in September, 1926, with an enrollment of one hundred eighty-seven students. This was one of the largest freshman classes.

Thomas Potwin was elected president for the first semester, and other officers were: Frances McGilvra, vice-president; Carolyn Lambirth, secretary; and Kenneth Mort, treasurer. Frank Van Dyke was editor of the freshman edition of the "Collegian," and was assisted by twelve classmates.

The first triumph of the class of 1930, came when the men were victorious in the traditional freshman-sophomore fight. Sixteen members of this freshman class were prominent in varsity athletics during the year, 1926-27.

Eldred Cobb was elected president for the second semester; other officers included Virginia Edwards, vice-president; Lois Morris, secretary; and Frank Lombard, treasurer. Harold Tomilson was manager of Freshman Glee, and Frances McGilvra directed the singing, a position she has held throughout the four years. The Glee managed by this freshman class was the first to be held in the university gymnasium; for several years before, the Glee had been held in the Salem Armory.

Frank Van Dyke held the gavel for the first semester of the sophomore year. His fellow officers were Florence Emmons, Emily Brown, and Harold Shellhart. A prominent event of this semester was the choosing of the famous sophomore sweaters, which have been a distinctive garb for class members during the years have that followed.

Frank Lombard was president for the second semester, and in guiding class affairs he was assisted by Katherine Everett, Mary Hershberger, and Florence Emmons. Pearl Craig represented the class in interclass debate, and won first place. In Freshman Glee the Sophomores were second.

In September, 1928, the men of the class blossomed forth in cords, and inflicted punishment on underclassmen who dared to wear the traditional junior garb. Harold Shellhart was president for this fall semester, and Camilla Gates was vice-president. Roberta Vannice was secretary, and Earl Henry, treasurer. The triumph of this semester was the winning of the Blue Key trophy offered to the class sending the best representation on the Pacific football game excursion.

Senior Class History

FOR the spring semester, officers elected were William Mumford, president; Lillian Scott, vice-president; Rae Windust, secretary; and Hugh Currin, treasurer. This semester was packed with big events. First was the winning of Freshman Glee with the song, "Challenge to Loyalty," written by Rae Windust and Marjory Miller. For May Day the juniors presented the well-known play, "The Romantic Age," by A. A. Milne. And who would dare to omit Flunk Day from among the memorable events of the spring of that year?

Although the "Wallulah" has been officially a publication of the student body for the past five years, the burden of the work of publishing it has continued to fall chiefly to members of the junior class. The 1929 "Wallulah" was edited by George Poor, and managed by Frank Van Dyke. Other juniors on the staff were Wendell Keck, Earl Henry, Homer Roberts, Sarah Poor, Stephen Mergler, Marjory Miller, Margaret Pro, Pearl Craig, and Katherine Everett.

The song queen and yell king, elected by the student body from the junior class, were Frances McGilvra and Lawrence Winslow.

For the beginning of the last year in school, the seniors elected George Poor, president; Emily Brown, vice-president; Leona Clothier, secretary; and Joseph Silver, treasurer. These officers were followed the second semester by Leslie Manker, Dorothy Gordon, Alvina Breithaupt, and John Crnkovich, respectively.

Class activities are frequently less important for seniors than for members of other classes, partly because of increased demands of studying, and partly because members of the class are assuming leadership in other fields of activity. The burden of business of the student body, maintenance of discipline in the library, and the work of senior scholars as assistants to professors,—all these activities and others take their toll of attention of fourth-year students.

The present senior class has held all four places in the results of Freshman Glee. It has sent creditable delegations on football excursions to Pacific University, to College of Puget Sound, and to Whitman College. It has had a representative number in athletics, forensics, and dramatics. But the history of a class cannot be written in so short a sketch as this. To know its accomplishments for the year 1929-1930, one must read this "Wallulah" from cover to cover, and to know its earlier history in full one must consult earlier volumes of this book.

“ . . . . . These few precepts in thy memory
Look thou character. Give thy thoughts no tongue,
Nor any unproportioned thought his act.
Be thou familiar, but by no means vulgar.
The friends thou hast, and their adoption tried,
Grapple them to thy soul with hooks of steel;
But do not dull thy palm with entertainment
Of each new-hatched, unfledged comrade. Beware
Of entrance to a quarrel; but, being in,
Bear it that the opposed may beware of thee.
Give every man thine ear, but few thy voice;
Take each man's censure, but reserve thy judgment.
Costly thy habit as thy purse can buy,
But not expressed in fancy; rich, not gaudy;
For the apparel oft proclaims the man;

. . . . .
Neither a borrower not a lender be;
For loan oft losses both itself and friend;
And borrowing dulls the edge of husbandry.
This above all,—to thine own self be true;
And it must follow, as the night the day,
Thou canst not then be false to any man.”

Junior Class History

THE class of '31 began its career at Willamette University with an enrollment of two-hundred and twenty students. It has dwindled in size to such an extent that there are only about one-third of the original number now in school.

Raymond Miller was elected president of the class the first semester, Francis DeHarport, vice-president; Chester Ring, secretary; and Rosalind Van Winkle, treasurer. The first victory that the class of '31 was able to attach was the victory over the sophomores in the annual freshman-sophomore fight.

For the second semester Francis DeHarport was elected president; Norabel Pratt, vice-president; Pauline Findley, secretary; and Philip Rhetrum, treasurer. Collas Marsters was manager of Freshman Glee. The class is credited with having put on one of the best Glee's that had ever been held.

In the sophomore year Robert McGilvra led the class the first semester as president. Grace Henderson was vice-president; Ella Howard, secretary; and Wesley Warren, treasurer. It was during this semester that the attractive green and white sophomore coats were purchased.

Paul Ackerman was elected to fill the president's position during the second semester. To assist him Mildred Pugh was elected vice-president; Evelyn High, secretary; and Edward Wells, treasurer. This year the sophomores advanced to second place in Freshman Glee.

Last fall Joseph Felton was elected president of the class; Harriett Hageman, vice-president; Dorothy Pemberton, secretary; and Samuel Bowe, treasurer. This spring Samuel Bowe was elected president of the class; Betty Lewis, vice-president; Josephine Albert, secretary; and Roy Harland, treasurer. This year the juniors won the Freshman Glee. The words of the song were written by Mary Allen and Dorothy Pemberton, and the music was by Josephine Albert. The Junior class has shown itself to be outstanding in all kinds of activities. A progressive spirit dominates the class of '31.

Sophomore Class History

OUTSTANDING this year because of participation of its members in all phases of school activities, the class of '32 has passed successfully through another stage in its college career.

Wesley Roeder held the presidency of the class during the fall semester. Working with him were Gertrude Oehler, vice-president; Margaret Eddy, secretary; and Clarence Poor, treasurer.

Sophomore Cubs surely and firmly taught the frosh their places in the campus scheme while they and the sophomore Vigilance committee were enjoying the sight of both sexes proudly wearing caps and ribbons which not only branded them as freshmen but also as loyal Bearcat boosters.

Sophomores were represented on the football team by Percy Carpenter and Donald Faber. In basketball Carpenter aided by his sophomore brethren, George Scales and Roy Benjamin, helped to win the championship.

The class chose to lead it through the spring semester Edwin Rounds, as president; Elizabeth Ogden, as vice-president; Dorothy Eastridge, as secretary; and Walter Warner, as treasurer. Hayes Beall managed men's interclass basketball, and Muriel White managed the championship women's team. Alfred French was elected class track manager and daily workouts were carried on under his direction.

Interclass debate was managed by Marjorie Moser. The class was represented by Hayes Beall, who won second place. Lillian Beecher, Marjorie Moser, Charles Campbell, and Ray Lafky were active members of the varsity debate squads.

As springtime comes to Willamette, the campus is dotted with the smart royal blue jerseys of the sophomores, which are still as gay and unfaded as when selected earlier in the school year. And if, as the sun shines benevolently down upon them, the blue is slightly dulled and the white borders of the slanting pockets becomes dingy, there is no doubt that they will still be cherished as mementos of the most joyous sophomore year any class has ever experienced.

Freshman Class History

ON September 14, 1929, a class of one hundred and sixty-seven eager Freshmen assembled on the Willamette campus for an adventurous four years of college life. During the first week the new group, aided by a patient faculty and student body, made a valient endeavor to accustom itself to the rigorous schedule of college life and lessons. At the end of that week the leadership of the organized class was given to Donald Clark, president; Marjorie O'Dell, vice-president; Alvis Love, secretary; and Jack Grant, treasurer.

After the excitement of the first few weeks, time moved uneventfully until the annual party on November 16th when the entire group donned skates for a hilarious evening. At the end of a successful first semester the leadership of the class passed into the hands of Tyrus Hillway, Frances Laws, Alvis Love, and Phil Armsrong.

In the field of athletics the class has been well represented. A squad of capable hoopsters donned the purple and white jerseys and captured twenty-three out of twenty-seven games for the glory of the class and Willamette. Meanwhile the girls were not idle; they tied the seniors for third place in inter-class basketball and gave one girl to the all-star team. In forensics the record is one of which to be proud, for the representative of the class was awarded the cup as winner in inter-class debates.

In the meantime, a large proportion of the class under the leadership of Fred Paul was working on the year's biggest activity, Freshman Glee. The big gym was converted into a mammoth garden with myriads of flowers, vine-covered trellises, and colorful streamers. The class song, written by Florence Marshall and Ben Bird, and directed by Ralph Morrison, was enthusiastically learned and sung. The Frosh showed real spirit when they smilingly passed the coveted banner to the Junior class and then splashed bravely through the mill stream on the following Monday.

Thus far the class has commendably supported the school in all its activities and shows promise in the future of being outstanding in every phase of college life.

The College of Law

THE College of Law is now coming to the close of its forty-sixth academic year. It is proud of its worthy past and inspired by the determination to render unique and out-standing service in the future. Its graduates have attained recognition in business and public life as well as in the legal profession. Their achievements have made a very great contribution to the development of the West. The College has constantly striven to give men and women the best possible training in the law and to inculcate in them the highest ideals of their profession to the end that they may honestly and satisfactorily represent their clients and make a contribution to the improvement of social and political conditions.

WALLULAH

C. M. INMAN, LL.B.

Prof. Inman conducts the courses in code pleading, Oregon law, evidence, mortgages, and abstracts. He presides over the moot court, in which the whole school participates one night a week throughout the year. And besides, he has charge of the review course for seniors during the spring semester.

ROY M. LOCKENOUR, A.B., LL.B., LL.M., J.D.

Prof. Lockenour teaches the courses in municipal corporations, private corporations, damages, domestic relations, and torts. He is also instructor in the so-called commercial law subjects, comprising contracts, agency, partnership, sales, and negotiable instruments. In addition, he has charge of the law library and also conducts the courses in city and state government in the college of arts.

WILLIS S. MOORE, LL.B.

Prof. Moore teaches bankruptcy, which is a study of the federal bankruptcy act as interpreted by the decisions of the courts; gives the course in federal courts, which comprises a study of the origin and jurisdiction of courts created by the U. S. constitution or acts of Congress; and is instructor in suretyship, which relates to the duties and rights of one contracting to answer for the debts and defaults of another.

RAY L. SMITH, A.B., LL.B.

Prof. Smith is instructor in two courses: wills, their drawing, interpretation, re-validation, and re-vocation; and constitutional law, which includes a study of the U. S. Constitution, with special emphasis on the ex post facto laws and the laws impairing the obligation of contract, the interpretation of the commerce clause, the due process clause, and the police power.

The College of Law

THE Willamette University College of Law will long continue as a part of an institution that has for its purpose the maintaining of high standards in every field. The reason for this is the opportunities that it affords to those who desire a professional training in the law.

The first advantage of the Law School is its location. It is located close to the center of business of the city, just across the street from the Capitol building of the state and near the County Court house and State Judicial building.

Next we must think of the building and equipment. Excellent class rooms, offices, library rooms, and a modern practice court room are provided for the College of Law on the University Campus. The college has exceptional library facilities. The students have free access to the College Law Library and the State Law Library which is in the Judicial building across the street.

The location of the College at the Capital affords the student an opportunity to observe the procedure and practice in the Supreme Court, the Circuit Court, the County Court, the Justice Court, and the Municipal Court.

Every member of the teaching staff of the College is now enjoying a successful practice or has had the experience resulting from a number of years successful practice.

With these important attributes as an intergral part of the College of Law, it is sure to accomplish its purpose to train and equip men and women to render service and achieve success in the practice of the law.

Standardization of the Willamette University Law School

THE Willamette University Law School has arrived at a transitory period in its life. The salaries of the professors have been kept at a level in keeping with the profession of the law and with their high character and ability. The number of professors has been increased to insure closer compliance with the standards of the various associations of law schools of the United States. The library has been enlarged to come within these standards. The entrance requirements have been placed at two years of college work and strict compliance therewith has been demanded, this being evidenced by the fact that the percentage of special students—students without these requirements—has fallen from nearly twenty to less than ten percent of the total enrollment. In short, the school has anticipated growth and has built up its standards ahead of its size, as shown by its enrollment. Room has been made for more and better students and to attract them there must be available for them a law school ready to bestow upon them a standard degree.

In the fall of 1929 Dean Roy R. Hewitt attended the conference of the Association of Standard Law Schools held in New Orleans, La., the purpose of attending the conference was to become informed of the requirements for admission and to make contacts and acquaintances that would later be of benefit in seeking admission to the association.

Briefly, the requirements for a standardized law school are as follows: 1080 hours of class room instruction; ninety weeks of study; entrance requirements of two years of college work, at time of admission; 7500 volumes in library, $7500 spent over any period of five years on the library, at least $1,000 per year; three full time professors, that is, men who devote substantially all of their time to the work of the school; and each faculty member must keep a careful record of each student's work throughout the entire period of his attendance. The school must be represented at not less than one out of every three annual meetings by one of the members of the faculty.

The law school at Willamette has, as above stated, brought herself up to all of these standards within the last two years to a large degree, save one, that one being the library requirements. It surpasses the instruction and study hour requirements.

To graduate from a standard law school enables one to enter any large law school with credit given for the work done in the standard law school. Another advantage of being standardized is that its action is retroactive, that is, former graduates of the college may return and have a degree conferred upon them by a standard law school. There are many advantages that would accrue to the College of Law if it were a standard law school, and soon the faculty and the students hope to have attained that standardization.

The 1929 Varsity

COACH "SPEC" KEENE

IN HIS 1929 conference campaign, Roy S. Keene, varsity coach, instilled enough fight and football into a squad of verdant candidates to hoist the Willamette banner to the top of the Northwest Conference. By a persistent hammering on the fundamentals together with a most inspiring method of putting his tactics in football across, Coach Keene developed an eleven that was far in advance of any other Conference aspirant.

"Spec" Keene has a method of coaching that may well be termed his own, for by it he is able to instill in the hearts of his players a most persistent spirit which is not characterized by over-confidence and a lack of whole-heartedness. In his method of instruction, the working out of plays and policies, he personally puts them into force by devoting his entire time to the study of strong and weak points in play and general team performance.

The Bearcat's mentor's achievements here at Willamette are something that is well worth meriting. Within four years he has advanced the Bearcats from the bottommost rung of the ladder to the top in Northwest Conference football.

Coach Keene has shown himself outstanding as a man and as a coach. The administration and the student body are proud of him. He has created in us a new spirit which students of other colleges have yet to know. He has shown himself to be worthy of us; we hope that we have shown ourselves to be worthy of him.

The 1929 Season

THE football season of 1929 marked a change in the football history of Willamette. This change was distinctive in several respects. Willamette played a total of seven games. Three were non-conference games, and the other four were played with the Northwest Conference teams. The Bearcats scored an average of sixteen points against twenty-five points of their opponents in the non-conference games, winning one from Albany College, and losing to Oregon State and the University of Oregon. In the conference Willamette made a wonderful record. She scored an average of forty-two points against three points of her opponents. In the games with Linfield, Pacific, and College of Idaho she held her rivals scoreless. Whitman showed her superiority over other conference teams by crossing the Bearcat goal for thirteen points, but she could not stop the Bearcat offensive.

The prospects for another championship team are bright, though the team will suffer the loss of several good men. The backfield will miss Cranor who was a valuable passer, and French, the little halfback, who made the Whitmanites dizzy when he began catching passes in Willamette's great aerial attack. Ruch, a guard, will leave a vacancy in the line. Some of the rooks this year who will fill the places left vacant by these four year men are Gretch, Hauck, Paul, and Grant.

Oregon State College 36—Willamette 6

THE opening game of the season for Willamette against the Orangemen of O.S.C. proved rather disastrous for the Bearcats but they showed in this game against the larger school great possibilities.

In the first quarter Englebretsen's punts averaging over 45 yards aided materially in forcing the ball into Oregon State's territory. The Englebretsen-French passing combination began its work which was later in the year to make it famous in the football history of the University. A pass from Englebretsen to French made the first touchdown against the Staters but the number of substitutes from the larger school began to tell on the Bearcat line in the second half and a series of power plays from the State team began their scoring. Sherwood, fleet Orange half, led the scoring for the Staters and was ably assisted by Kerr and Nosler.

In this game "Spec" gave 19 men a chance to show their wares and it gave him an opportunity to see how his boys would react when they approached the tough schedule that they had against them.

Oregon 34—Willamette 0

ALTHOUGH Willamette failed to score, it was no unmerciful beating that the Bearcats took from the hands of Coach McEwan's men. On the next kick after Oregon had scored two touchdowns Willamette began a drive for the Oregon goal. Lang carried the ball through tackle for several yards with Erickson and Faber each skirting the ends for gains. The Bearcats were making first downs but the scoring play failed to come. Lang was injured and was carried off the field and Willamette was forced to punt.

In the third quarter the Bearcats more than held their own. After holding the Lemon-Yellow for two downs on Willamette's five yard line, French intercepted a pass and dashed for 35 yards down the field before an Oregon man took him out. The drive was continued toward the Oregon goal.

In the final quarter the Willamette line stiffened and the "Flying Dutchman" Kitzmiller did not advance so rapidly. Jones was breaking through to get the Oregon backs before they could get started. With thirty seconds to play and two yards to go, the Webfooters tried two successive plunges at center but the hole was not there.

Willamette 42—College of Idaho 0

IN THIS the first conference game of the season Coach Keene's rampaging Bearcats completely outclassed the Idaho Coyotes. Willamette received the kickoff and on the first play from scrimmage, Erickson, blond freshman half, tore through left tackle, sidestepped would-be tacklers and sprinted down the side lines past the Idaho safety, for the Bearcats first conference score. Two passes from DePoe to French and one from DePoe to Cardinal accounted for the other three touchdowns during the first half.

In the third quarter the Coyotes by a passing attack carried the ball to Willamette's 14 yard line. It was at this time that the Bearcats demonstrated their defensive power. Carpenter plunged through the Idaho forward wall to throw Whitney for a seven yard loss. The Bearcat line was a big factor in Idaho's overwhelming defeat. Whitney and Tucker led the Coyotes while Erickson was the Bearcats' leading offense man, but when it came to line smashing Red Lang excelled. From the opening kickoff Idaho was completely outclassed, only making one first down from scrimmage to Willamette's 265 yards.

Willamette 25—Pacific 0

IN A fast, bitterly-contested game, the Willamette Bearcats celebrated Homecoming by eliminating the Pacific University Badgers from the Northwest Conference race. From the time that Jones recovered a fumble in the first quarter the Bearcats held the upper hand, although the Pacific men scrappily contested every Willamette thrust. The Jason Lee fighting, charging linemen were largely responsible for the victory, scoring two of the four touchdowns and paving the way for the others. Carpenter, Jones, and Ackerman repeatedly nailed the Badger backs behind the line of scrimmage for substantial losses.

The second Willamette score came in the second quarter when Haldane fell on the ball over the goal line after Jones had blocked Bomoff's punt. The third score was culminated when DePoe passed a short one to French, who twisted and raced his way through the entire Pacific team for fifty yards and a touchdown.

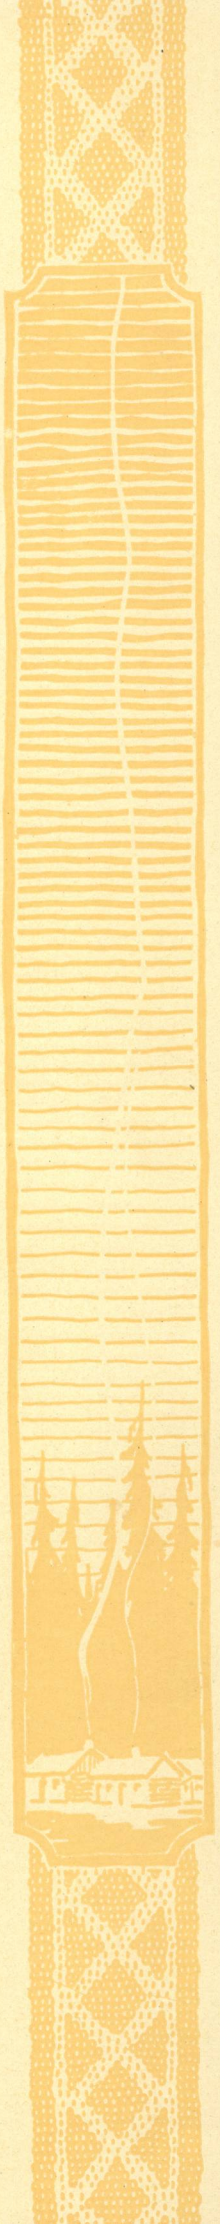

Nearly all of the thrills of the game were furnished by the first year men and the reserves. Two yearling halfbacks, Erickson and Gretch, made the lion's share of the yardage from scrimmage. Jones, a stalwart tackle, played an outstanding game on the line.

Willamette 52—Linfield 0

SCORING with clocklike regularity, 13 points to a quarter, the powerful Willamette Bearcats crushed the Linfield College gridsters in the Armistice Day celebration. Willamette's first touchdown was made less than fifty seconds after the opening whistle when Erickson, fleet halfback, raced 35 yards to score. A pass from DePoe, on the 35 yard line, was juggled by several players before it settled into the arms of Ed Cardinal, who raced the rest of the way for the second touchdown.

Lang and Erickson accounted for the two Bearcat touchdowns during the second quarter. In the third period, the Bearcats put over two more. In the final quarter Erickson made his fourth touchdown, which was followed by the final marker, which was made by Deetz, reserve fullback, who plunged over the goal line after passes and a series of line-smashers had carried the ball the full length of the field.

Whenever the Willamette line plunges were halted, the team uncorked a brilliant passing attack, completing 11 out of 18 attempts for a total of 173 yards. The Linfield was held to one lone first down, while the Jason Lee machine rolled up 28 first downs.

Willamette 42—Albany 6

THE Bearcats managed to defeat the Albany College eleven in spite of listless playing and lack of interest. Only once did Willamette show the ball that they had been playing in the previous games. That time a touchdown was secured in 23 seconds. Carpenter tackled the Albany man so hard that he dropped the ball. Willamette recovered and on the first play French dashed 30 yards for a touchdown.

Albany was proud of the fact that she was able to score against a team that had trampled all conference opposition for shut-outs. It was done largely through the breaks of the game for Albany gained the ball on a fumble and Willamette was penalized to the one yard line for roughing. On the next play Buchanan skirted left end for the Pirate's lone touchdown.

Don Faber, reserve halfback, broke his leg after a spectacular 60 yard run. Faber intercepted an Albany pass and ran it back to the Pirate eight yard line. He was downed and got up and two men hit him in such a fashion as to break both bones below the knee. It was the first big injury for the Bearcats.

The Big Game

WILLAMETTE broke the nine year jinx and defeated Whitman for the conference championship in a brilliant game on the Missionary field. A super team of Bearcats invaded the Missionaries' stronghold and uncorked a series of passes which kept Borleske's men bewildered throughout the entire game. French, Erickson, and Cranor, backs, and Jones and Carpenter, husky tackles, led the plays for the Bearcats and managed to stop the much boasted passing attack of Holmgren, Applegate, and Reece of the Whitman aggregation, who had the honor of crossing the Willamette goal for the first time in conference play.

The chief feature of the game was the passing of both teams. Whitman's two touchdowns and five of Willamette's were made as a result of passes. The playing of Hiram French caused great havoc to the aerial attack of the Missionaries, snagging many of Applegate's passes and blocking many more.

This game brought to a close a very successful season, Willamette having annexed her first football conference championship since the organization of the conference.

Summary of the Season

THE "fighting Bearcats" of 1929 completed a very successful football season when they won from Whitman at Walla Walla, on Thanksgiving Day, by the score of 40 to 13. With this win came the first Northwest Conference Championship in football, and also the first win over Whitman in nine years of competition. Several conference records have been made by the team in their dash for honors. For the first time in the history of the conference a team went into the title game with its goal uncrossed by another conference school.

Erickson, a freshman, was the principal threat of the Bearcat running attack and made the lion's share of the yardage. Sharing honors with this freshman were Cranor, French, and Lange. The team proved to be strong in their passing attack with DePoe, Cranor, and Englebretsen doing most of the heaving and French, Cardinal, and Erickson, principals on the receiving end.

The most outstanding thing about the team this year was the play of the line on defense and offense. Carpenter, Jones, Phillpot, and Ruch stood out above all others in the conference.

On the conference team—Erickson, Jones, Carpenter, Lang, Phillpot, and Cardinal were elected, with Ruch, Cranor and French, being mentioned on other selections.

THE BASKETBALL SQUAD

The 1930 Basketball Season

THE Bearcat basketball team under the direction of coach "Spec" Keene succeeded in taking the second major Northwest Conference championship in a single year. The team defeated every conference contender by large scores. In addition to winning all conference games the Bearcats won two closely contested games from the University of Oregon, which placed second in the northern division of the Coast Conference. Willamette had a team of the same standing as the University of Washington, since the Bearcats comprise the only team which had more than one defeat over the Webfeet of Eugene.

Ed Cardinal, Willamette's rangy center, for the third consecutive season again won high point honors for personal scoring in Northwest Conference basketball. In the eight conference games of the season Ed made an average of seventeen points per game. Adams came second with eleven, and Scales next with ten points per game.

The Bearcats completed the season with virtually an all conference team in the persons of Adams and Scales, forwards; Hauk and Gibson, guards; and Cardinal, center. Next year's team will lose only one of this year's stars, Hauk. His place will be missed, but Carpenter should come to the fore in this guard position. With the other four regulars back, the present subs, and the Frosh squad stars, the Bearcats will be strong contenders for a second decisive championship in 1931.

Willamette 34—Linfield 21

THE Willamette basketball team traveled to McMinnville to play Linfield in the first conference game. Every player on the Willamette team was able to find the basket and score except Scales. Scales was closely guarded by Warren of the opposing team.

At the end of the half the Bearcats were leading by a 16 to 8 score. Hawk led the team in scoring for the game, having added nine points for Willamette. Exceptionally good team work on the part of the Bearcats made it possible for them to score from short shots as well as long ones. Linfield made the greater part of their baskets from long shots.

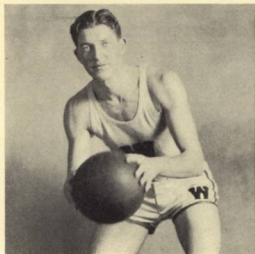

The one outstanding thing of this game was the team work displayed by the Willamette players. Developing such teamwork early in the season gave the Bearcats promise of a successful basketball season.

Willamette 56—Linfield 7

In this game "Spec" had the opportunity to use his reserves as well as his first string men. Close guarding on the part of the Bearcats allowed Linfield to score only two field goals and three free throws.

Scales, fast moving forward, played a wonderful game of ball. Also Cardinal, Adams, and Gibson were "on" and all played a very good game of ball. Benjamin lead the scoring for the second string. All of the squad played exceptionally good ball against Linfield in this game.

The Linfield players were to be commended for the excellent spirit shown in this game. They played hard, but were outclassed by the Bearcats.

Willamette 38—Whitman 31

THE Bearcats journeyed to Walla Walla to meet Whitman in a two game series that was probably to decide the conference championship in basketball. Willamette trailed behind Whitman the greater part of the game. During the last few minutes of play the Willamette offense opened up and made a scoring attack which proved fatal to Whitman.

The score at the end of the half was 16 to 15 in favor of Whitman. Cardinal was the high point man of the game, scoring 15 points of Willamette's total. Adams, Scales, and Gibson also were stars of the game.

Although seemingly tired as a result of the trip to Whitman and also on account of the games played on the way, the Bearcats played a good game of basketball.

Willamette 55—Whitman 33

In the second game of the series Willamette completely outclassed her opponents. The Bearcats were able to score sixteen points before Whitman was able to find the basket. The game was exceedingly rough, numerous fouls being called on both teams. The score at the end of the half was 33 to 11 with Willamette leading.

Cardinal was again high point man of the game. He scored 20 points for Willamette. He was followed by Scales, who was able to score 14 points, and Adams, who added seven points to Willamette's total.

These two games with Whitman College proved Willamette's superiority in the conference. In spite of the strenuous trip, the several games, the Bearcats displayed their ability to play a high class game of basketball.

Willamette 48—College Puget Sound 29

THE Loggers came to Salem to be entertained by the Bearcats in a two game series. The C.P.S. players consisted mostly of freshmen who showed promise for future basketball seasons for their school.

Although the score was large the game was hard fought. The Bearcats failed to display the form that was evident the first part of the season. Probably the reason for the off form was the length of the Whitman trip.

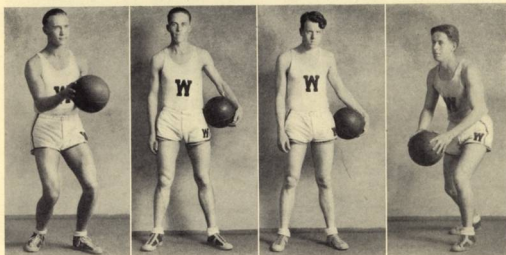

College Puget Sound relied mostly on long shots for their scores. During the first half of the game they were able to score only nine points against Willamette's 22. Scales led the scoring with 22 points in his favor. In this game Cardinal was also consistent in his scoring, having added 14 points to the Bearcats' total.

Willamette 38—College Puget Sound 24

In this, the second game of the series, the Loggers threatened Willamette's clean record. The Bearcats missed many shots, but were able to hold their own by a good defense. The score at the end of the half was 20 to 8 with Willamette holding the long end of the score.

Hauk was the outstanding player on the team in this game. Peterson and Carpenter, two substitutes, showed their ability as basketball players. These men will probably develop into first string men during the next season.

Although this was apparently a lifeless game, the Bearcats showed a form of defense that the Loggers were unable to penetrate. This game was only another indication of the Bearcats' superiority, which proved fatal to the opponents.

Willamette 74—College of Idaho 34

THE next series of games to be played on the home floor was with the College of Idaho team. The visitors showed form but were unable to stop the strong Willamette offense.

Gibson, a guard, pulled a Riegls stunt by batting the ball through the opponents' basket. Adams led the Bearcats in scoring by accounting for 26 tallies. He was closely followed by Cardinal who scored 19 points.

This game cinched the Northwest basketball title for Willamette. It seemed inevitable that the Bearcats could not be stopped in their attempt to reach the top in conference athletics. "Spec" had developed a basketball team that was adding the second championship of the year to the athletic calendar.

Willamette 59—College of Idaho 35

The Bearcats closed the season with a decided victory over the College of Idaho. The game was rough, numerous fouls being called on both sides.

The score at the end of the half was 17 to 10 for Willamette. Cardinal again led the scoring with 17 points. Adams followed closely with 14, and Hauk eight points. Carpenter was outstanding as a defense man and played a good brand of ball.

This was Hauk's last college game of basketball. Hauk enjoys the unusual distinction of being the first athlete who has played four years at Willamette under "Spec" Keene. As a basketball guard he has displayed unusual ability during his four years of activity for the cardinal and the gold.

Summary of the Season

THE Willamette University Bearcats closed a successful basketball season when they defeated the College of Idaho Coyotes with a 59 to 35 score. This victory, added to previous victories, gave Willamette an undisputed title to the Northwest conference basketball championship. This was the second major championship to be captured within a year.

The Bearcats starting lineup for this season consisted of Adams and Scales, forwards; Hauk and Gibson, guards; and Cardinal at the pivot position. Carpenter, guard, and Benjamin, center, were also men who played good basketball for Willamette. The other members of the squad were Peterson, forward, and Balderee, guard.

Coach Borleske, of Whitman, selected an all-conference basketball team upon which he placed four Willamette men and one Whitman man. These players were Adams and Scales, forwards; Cardinal, center; and Hauk and Croxdale, guards. The same coach said that Willamette had the best basketball team west of the Mississippi River. That is something to be proud of, and to our coach, "Spec" Keene we owe a great deal of credit.

"Spec's" basketball teams during his four years at Willamette have finished second, twice; tied for first, twice; and this year won the championship. During this time the Bearcats have won 31 conference games and lost only five.

Of his championship squad "Spec" will lose only Hauk, veteran guard for four years. Adams and Cardinal each have one more year of competition and Scales and Gibson have two more. Other members of the squad who will be back next year are Benjamin, Peterson and Balderee.

The 1929 Baseball Season

IN WINNING the championship of the western half of the Northwest Conference, and in losing the odd game of the playoff series against Whitman for the conference championship, the Willamette baseball completed the most successful season in the annals of the school.

The Willamette team this year won seven out of ten games, none of which could be called "set-ups." The entire team played a brilliant fielding game, and the hitting was more consistent than last year. Observers stated that the pitching had been as good as in previous years. Five men: Hauk, Gibson, Scales, Gill, and Adams, socked the ball for a season's batting average of over 300. Hauk was again the "Bambino" of the squad with an average of well over 400, while "Hoot" Gibson, who raised his batting average every game, was a close second.

The prospects for next year are exceptionally good, and if Coach Keene can find two first-string pitchers to take the place of Ledbetter and Vannice, who are graduating, the chances for a conference championship will be very good. The only other man to be lost through graduation will be "Jerry" Girod, consistent shortstop and second baseman. But Adams and Gibson have been cavorting around second base like gazelles and have been lustily hitting the ball, so that the garden around second will be well guarded. Hauk, third baseman, and Scales, first-sacker, staged twin homerun acts, and Gill, fielder, and Cardinal will cause the opposing teams a lot of grief next year. "Jack" Trachsel, who was shifted to first during midseason and performed like a veteran around the initial sack, will be back on the job again next year.

This baseball season has been one of the most successful seasons that Willamette has ever had, and next year in place of only winning the western half of the conference, the Bearcats should show themselves superior in baseball to any other conference aspirant.

Willamette 9—Linfield 3

WILLAMETTE won its opening Northwest Conference baseball game by defeating Linfield. Ledbetter pitched consistent ball, keeping Linfield's hits well scattered. Cardinal and Adams both started the season by hitting home runs. Scales, Dietz, and McGinn were also outstanding hitters of the game. Gibson and Adams cut off threatening rallies on Linfield's part by their headier game of ball. This game proved the strength of the Bearcats.

Willamette 13—Pacific 9

The cardinal and gold took the strong Pacific U. team on Willamette's field in a game that was a deciding factor in the western division of the Northwest Conference. The able hitters of this game were Gill, Cardinal, and Hauk, who made a home run. Perhaps the outstanding feature of the game was the pitching of Glen Ledbetter. Although troubled with a sore arm which robbed him of his speed and control, he pitched remarkable ball under the circumstances.

Willamette 11—Pacific 10

The big bats of the Bearcat band were too much for Pacific again and the Badgers were beaten in their own back yard. A deluge of hits, walks, and errors in the first and second innings gave Willamette a nine run lead from which the Badgers never recovered. Faced with a nine run deficit the Badgers began manfully to peck away at the Willamette lead, and only the surprisingly effective relief pitching of Gibson prevented them from reaching their objective.

Majovski relieved Van Nice and stopped the rally. Scales was Willamette's hitting star with four hits.

Willamette 6—Linfield 4

Willamette won the western division of the conference by defeating Linfield at McMinnville. Hauk, Bearcat third-baseman, was the hero of the game, making difficult catches with the bases loaded. Coach Keene had developed an excellent baseball team having won the western division championship which entitled the team to play Whitman for the conference title.

Scales lined out a three bagger in the ninth after the bases were loaded, by a hit and two walks. In the third game of the series the Bearcats defeated the Missionaries by a count of 8 to 3. THE TRACK SQUAD

The 1929 Track Season

THE Willamette University track squad under the direction of Coach Sparks succeeded in making a fine showing for the school in Northwest Conference track. Whitman repeated her record by taking the Northwest Conference meet held in Walla Walla. College of Puget Sound placed second, Pacific third, Willamette fourth, College of Idaho fifth, and Linfield sixth.

William Tweedie in his last year of Varsity track placed for Willamette in the events that he took part. Other men in their fourth year of track activity were Hathaway, Mort, Winslow, Litchfield and Lavender. These men will be greatly missed on next year's squad. Those remaining who will take part in Willamette's track meets next year are Faber, sprinter; French, sprinter; and Carpenter, weight man.

Coach Sparks will lose only five men from the squad, but he will be able to develop a track team next year with a few veterans that will be a menace to the other Northwest Conference schools.

The Track Meets

THE Willamette University track team won their first meet from the athletes of the Oregon Normal School by a score of 99 to 32. The teachers took only three first places aside from the relay.

The Bearcat tracksters performed up to all expectations when they took the meet from Linfield by a 104-27 point win. Linfield took only two first places, in the shot put and the 120 yard high hurdle, but tied for first place in the high jump. The Willamette men made clean sweeps of the 440 and 880 yard dashes, and the javelin, and placed in every event.

The third meet was lost to Pacific by a score of 68 to 63. Athletes of the two schools divided first places in the 14 events evenly, each winning seven; but Pacific took the meet by winning 10 second places to Willamette's five.

Willamette placed fourth in the Northwest Conference Meet. Tweedie broke the Conference record in the 880, running it in 2:03. Carpenter, a Freshman, won the javalin with a toss of 168 feet. Lloyd, a freshman, placed second in the 100 yard dash, and second in the broad jump.

Summary of the Season

THE track team of Coach Sparks completed the season very successfully, having defeated Oregon Normal School and Linfield by one sided victories. The Bearcats lost to Pacific only by a small margin of five points. In the Northwest Conference Meet, Willamette was only excelled by Whitman, College of Puget Sound, and Pacific.

The sensational performance of a group of freshmen was the feature of the track season. With three years ahead of these men, Willamette can look forward to a powerful track team. Faber, Carpenter, Lloyd and Schiffman were the outstanding freshmen on the squad.

The loss of such men as Tweedie, Hathway, Litchfield, and Winslow will leave gaping holes, but the development of the younger stars should assure the Bearcats of a high place in track circles.

The 1929 Men's Tennis Season

WHITMAN for the third time won the Northwest Tennis Tournament held in Salem. Willamette placed second in both the singles and doubles. College of Idaho won the consolation round from College of Puget Sound to place third.

The Varsity Tennis Team outclassed the Western half of the Conference but had to bow to the high-powered Missionary tennis racquetteers in both dual and tournament meets. Those men representing Willamette were Ivan White, Jack Minto, French Hageman, Al Haworth, and Wesley Roeder. The following were the matches:

The 1929 Women's Tennis Season

THE women tennis racqueteers placed second in the Northwest Conference standings. The arrangement for the women is different from that for the men's tennis matches. With the girls' teams meet on their respective courts throughout the season, and at the end of the year the percentages are compiled. No tournament is held at any time.

The representatives for Willamette in Varsity tennis were Pauline Findley, Edith Findley, Doris Steele, and Margaret Morehouse. None of these are graduating this year; as a result Willamette is assured of placing high in the 1930 season.

THE ARCHERY TEAM

Archery

THIS is the first year that Willamette has had Archery as an activity for the women students. An Archery Club was organized which had a membership of about forty.

The team that was selected was composed of Margaret Eddy, Edith Morange, Ruth Barnes, Esther Girod, and Emily Brown. For this spring an interclass tournament is being planned.

Basketball

Two years ago an all-star team was selected from those entering into interclass competition in basketball. Last year no such team was chosen, but again this year an all-star team was selected. The members of this team were Dorothy Pemberton and Beuna Brown, forwards; Margaret Whipple and Myrna Bonny, centers; and Marvelle Edwards and Muriel White, guards. Basketball is destined to be a leading activity for the women students of Willamette University.

THE RIDING CLASS

Riding

LAST year, for the first time, riding classes were instituted for the women. At the present time there are twelve girls in the classes, and the picture above is of the advanced class. They are Rosalind Van Winkle, Elizabeth Atkinson, Mildred Emmons, Dorothy Pemberton, and Emily Brown.

This sport has met with a great deal of interest on the part of the women students and it merits consideration as a worth while activity.

Swimming

This is the first year that swimming for girls at Willamette has been given the attention that was due to it.

The picture below is of the team, composed of Lois Jean Rasch, Dora McClain, and Esther Arnold. The interest that was taken in this activity this year gives evidence that swimming will be one of the outstanding sports of the school.

Organizations

EACH organization on the Willamette campus has its important place in the lives of the students. It is indeed a great privilege and honor to become a member of one of the honorary fraternities, of which there are six chapters on the campus, each doing its part toward the higher advancement of Willamette University. But this honor does not come to a student for the asking but is the result of much real effort and labor, so that the receiver is well-worthy of such a distinction. The many local campus societies play an important part in student activities and are of real educational value as well. The social organizations, sororities, fraternities and the independent association, add greatly to the pleasures of college days.

Inter-Fraternity Council

THE Interfraternity Council is composed of the presidents, first vice-presidents, and managers of each of the Willamette fraternities along with three members of the faculty appointed by the president of the university. Dr. Gatke has been continuously president of the council since its organization five years ago. Dr. Kohler and Dean Hewitt are the other faculty members of the present council. Mr. Ian McIver is secretary of the council.

The council has three major purposes. In the first place it seeks to maintain a relation of co-operation and mutual understanding between the university administration and the fraternities. In the second place it seeks to establish and maintain friendly relations between the houses by bringing the officers together for friendly discussion of mutual problems. Many matters upon which the council takes no official action are discussed and helpful suggestions are made use of by the members of the council in their work within their own houses. In the third place the council legislates on matters pertaining to pledging rules and other matters of interfraternity relations. Such rules have binding force when ratified by the houses.

Regulation of the awarding of the scholarship cup, control of interfraternity athletic contests, and similar matters of interfraternity activity are under control of the council.

HUMOR

Willamette University, a school known for maintaining high standards of education. A member of the Association of American Universities. An endowment campaign that will reach the million dollar mark is being completed. An institution built on such a foundation is assured of success in serving mankind.

Advertising Foreword

THE advertisers in the following pages have here expressed their appreciation of the patronage of Willamette people. Believing that these firms deserve the greatest measure of consideration from the student body because of their cooperation in making this book possible, the Wallulah suggests that they be rewarded by increased attention from the students.

Pride of Craftsmanship

whether it be in a book . . .
a picture . . . a machine . . . or a printed piece . . . abundantly reflects the craftsman's pride
. . . consideration in planning and good judgment in execution. ☐ An examination of the 1930 Wallulah shows the results of such pride . . . Our efforts throughout have been directed toward making this book worthy of Willamette traditions and a tribute to a conscientious staff.

why the man's shop

416 state street
salem, oregon

like most other men's shops we purvey all matters of men's dress from toppers to shoes . . . but we do more.

* * * * *

the thing that pleases us most is that the fellows make it a special point, and they do, to come here. and rightly so, because we select all of our merchandise with an unusual eye for color, a rather fine feeling for fabric, and a keen sense of values.

we have our own ideas about service, too . . . we try in every way to make the good old man's shop a better place to deal with.

take shirts . . . they are a hobby of ours . . . we select the finest from Grayco and Manhattan, if they haven't the patterns we want we go elsewhere. naturally we are just as exacting in seeing that they are cut and designed to fit correctly.

then ties . . . we just can't resist buying gorgeous silks—neither can our customers—because they know what fine impressions rich ties make.

and so on down the line . . . we go to no end of trouble to get the fine, the smart, the unusual in all things for wearing, for scarves we may go to Czecho Slovakia, but for clothing we go as far as Kuppenheimer . . . why shouldn't we?

"Is Don here?" says Percy.

WILLAMETTE UNIVERSITY was chartered in 1853.

THE OREGON STATESMAN was founded in 1851.

Both are institutions with roots running deep in the soil of Old Oregon.

Both are institutions which have kept pace with progress, and today stand abreast of the times. They have grown old and strong together, and maintain most friendly and neighborly relations.

Professor Keck, an authority on matrimonial troubles and diamonds says as follows:

"The best way to fuss is to take a woman out, or in, if she's in take her out, and if she's out take her in. It costs more but it's worth it.

"Don't do it too often.

"Don't do it three times in a row. Alternate two to one or one to two. Different one each time. It is like lightning, you never know where it is going to strike.

Hugh and Virginia were sitting out in the moonlight.

"And," she said proudly, "if poverty comes, we'll face it together."

"Oh, sweetheart," Hugh answered, "just the mere sight of your face would scare the wolf away."

And ever since he has been wondering why she returned his ring.

In Conclusion

THE closing words of the editor might have been in the form of apologies, but contrary to that, the remarks upon the completion of the "1930 Wallulah" incorporate a frank statement to the effect that this volume is a complete realization of the plans, even the hopes, with which the staff started to work. Credit for such a book as this should not be given to those who merely direct the work, but to those whose duties involved the working out of details. The accomplishments thus attained must go to the members of the editorial staff, the manager and his staff, certain members of firms with whom we have had business dealings, and to other individuals who have had parts in its production.

It is a comparatively simple matter to lay out a dummy or draw up a budget, but to compile the material, which the dummy calls for, or to accomplish the results which the budget outlines, can only be the result of a year's co-operative effort on the part of all individuals involved. Permit the editor, therefore, to acknowledge the services of those upon whom the main burden of work devolved.

First to the members of the editorial staff who have worked unceasingly throughout the year. These are Richard Sherwin, Associate Editor; Warren McMinimee, Benneitta Edwards, and Dorothy Eastridge, Assistant Editors; and Helen Stiles, Viola Crozer, Isabel Childs, Frank Van Dyke, Erwin Lange, and Helen Curry, Departmental Editors. Others who have worked on the editorial staff and to whom acknowledgment is made are Esther McMinimee, Elizabeth Ogden, Ellen Jean Moody, Paul Heath, Melvin Crow, and Wesley Gordon.

The editor in particular acknowledges the work and effort put forth by the manager Samuel Bowe, and his assistants, Arthur Fisher and Hestine Hollister. Their continued work has made this annual possible.

To Helen Curry, Hestine Hollister, and Warren McMinimee, members of the Wallulah Advisory Committee, credit must be given for the supervising of this book.

Mr. Ursel C. Narver of the West Coast Engraving Company has supervised the designing and the engraving of this Wallulah. His intelligent and cheerful co-operation made it easy for the editor to accomplish the results attained in this book. To other members of the engraving firm, Mr. Kenneth L. King, artist, and Mr. L.H. Rice, who did the mounting of the pictures, we are especially grateful.

The printing was done by Elliott's Printing House. Mr. N. D. Elliott has been exceeding pleasant to work with, and we wish to thank him especially for his care in supervising the printing of this book.

The binding of this book was done by the A. J. Lenon Company of Portland, Oregon. Mr. Lenon is deserving of praise for the excellent workmanship in the binding.

The covers were manufactured by the Weber-McCrea Company of Los Angeles, and credit for them must go to Mr. Babcock of that company.

To Mr. H. S. Carter, Mrs. Carter, Mrs. Shrode and Mr. Ward Prescott of the Kennell-Ellis Studio credit must be given for the high standard of photography maintained in the portraits and group pictures of this book.

The editor is greatly indebted to Mr. Lestle J. Sparks, Graduate Manager, for his invaluable assistance in solving many problems which arose during the year.

It has been a wonderful experience to edit the "1930 Wallulah" and a pleasure to work with its staff. It is the only hope of the editor that the Willamette University Student Body may be pleased with their book of "Golden Memories."
