WILLAMETTE UNIVERSITY

VOL. 14.

SALEM, OREGON, TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 16, 1902.

NO. 1.

MARKS OF PROGRESS.

A new President.
Two new Professors.
A Chair of Philosophy.
A Physical Director.

This year is marked by many changes. President Coleman, whom all the old students learned to love and respect in the very short time he was with us before and during commencement last year has been hard at work during our period of rest. He now seems "one of us" as much as if he had been here years instead of months.

Everything has felt the force of his activity during this summer, and student Pres. Coleman's circular letter will see that he meant what he said. The outlook is for a splendid year.

PROF. DAWSON WITH US AGAIN.

After an absence of one semester, spent in the University of California, Prof. Dawson has returned to W. U. to take charge of the English Department of the University. Prof. Dawson, by his thorough work in the class room and by his geniality at all times, has won for himself the lasting friendship of the entire student body. His re-election to a chair in the University is hailed with delight by all. The trustees are to be dents and professors alike seem to have caught his spirit. During the vacation he has had two of the old houses on the lower part of the campus removed and the others are to go immediately. The dressing rooms have been re-arranged and new conveniences added. Chapel has been repainted and the four blank windows have been boarded up and painted. The entire building has been thoroughly renovated. The stairways and halls have been repainted and the Modern Language Room has been calcimined and painted. This is said to be only a beginning. Those who received congratulated upon their happy choice. Prof. Dawson is no longer a member of the "Bachelor Trio" from Ohio. He brings his wife to Salem to keep him company. We are sure Mrs. Dawson will receive as hearty a welcome to Salem circles as her husband. The best wishes of the COLLEGIAN are theirs.

PROF. WARFIELD TO SUCCEED PROF. DREW.

It is with regret that we announce the resignation and departure of Prof. W. P. Drew. Prof. Drew was a scholar and an excellent teacher. He has made a deep impression upon the hearts of W. U. students by his class room work and by his daily life among them. The influence of his work here is destined to be far reaching in its effect. How much so none can tell, but it has already brought forth a beautiful harvest, and still there is seed sown to be reaped for years to come. We shall miss Mrs. Drew from our college society. She is a most charming and entertaining hostess and friend. In our loss Berkeley is favored by fortune. We are sure Prof. and Mrs. Drew will make many friends in their new home, but none warmer than those left in Salem and Willamette University.

Prof. Geo. A. Warfield, of Astoria, has been selected to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Prof. Drew. In speaking of Prof. Warfield the Oregonian says: "George A. Warfield, professor-elect of Latin and Greek of Willamette University, came to Oregon about three years ago. He holds the degree of B. A. from the Nebraska Wesleyan University; LL. B. from the University of Nebraska and M. A. from the University of Oregon. While a student at Nebraska Wesleyan University Prof. Warfield was a tutor in the latin department, and since coming to the west has spent two years teaching History and Latin in the high schools of Eugene and Astoria. He comes to Willamette University with a good record as a student and a successful teacher." The Collegian extends a hearty welcome to Prof. Warfield. We are glad to have a man of his ability among us.

Reviews ..... W. C. Hawley, A. M.

For advertising rates address the business manager, Willamette University, Salem, Oregon

Members of the alumni, old students, new students, and all others interested in the prosperity and success of the paper and "Old Willamette" are invited to contribute. Address all communications to the Editor in-Chief.

The editorial staff of the Collegian extends greetings to the students of "Old Willamette." We have undertaken the task, imposed by you, of presenting to you, from week to week, all items of interest to the Student Body that it may be possible for us to obtain. We shall endeavor to present a fresh, bright paper, regularly upon the day chosen and to make it as interesting as we are able. This is the first number of the first weekly published by the institution. The work of publishing it and the material contained in it, make it very different from a monthly magazine. To make a success of the paper it is not only necessary for the editorial staff to do its work promptly and carefully, but it is necessary that the students themselves be loyal in its support.

There are many reasons why the students should all be subscribers to the Collegian. It is your paper, for you have the selection of those managing it, and use it as the official mouthpiece of the Student Body. You are interested in the college life of the state and United States. The college paper is one of the links in the chain uniting all schools of higher learning.

Not only should you aid us by your subscriptions, but you should aid by patronizing our advertisers. It is a good rule to patronize those who patronize us, as far as possible. We do not believe we should boycott those who do not advertise with us, but we do believe we should in every case give the advertisers the preference. Turn trade toward those firms who have helped us. We have been careful to have only the best business firms among our advertisers and can recommend any or all of them to your patronage.

Asked why they come to college the majority will probably answer, "for an education." A true answer no doubt in many cases, but in what does an education consist? Surely not in learning the causes of physical phenomena. Certainly, it is more than learning to understand the methods of solving an abstruse problem. We spend many years of patient toil, endeavoring by means of these studies, to become "polished," "cultured." Often students, especially in the early years of their college work, lose sight of this aim, and instead of trying to put their minds to a brilliant polish with the steady grind of their college work, try to obtain the same effect by a thin varnish, quickly and easily applied. In the later years, they learn the mistake, when it is too late to more than partly mend. Thoreau says "people are possessed with an insane ambition to perpetuate the memory of themselves by the amount of hammered stone they leave. What if equal pains were taken to smooth and polish their manners? One piece of good sense would be more memorable than a monument as high as the moon."

PROF. HOADLEY TO TAKE THE CHAIR OF PHILOSOPHY.

Prof. B. J. Hoadley, who last year filled the position of Professor of English Literature, will this year have charge of the department of Philosophy. Prof. Hoadley has spent a large part of his vacation in special study among these lines, and has prepared a number of charts for the use of his classes. We are glad to announce the establishment of this department.

Men of Christ, another year's work is before us. Upon what we do during the next nine months depends the salvation of thousands yet unborn; are you ready for the task?

"Make ye ready the way of the Lord." Ask yourself the question, what one thing can I do towards it this year.

We must not lose sight of the fact that one of the objects of our organization—and by no means an unimportant one—is to tenderly render, to our new men in particular, any service within our power which will make their college life more pleasant and profitable.

If the men who have at heart the spiritual interests of the new students will lay aside everything else and throw themselves into this unexampled opportunity with enthusiasm and depth of conviction, more can be accomplished in the opening week of the term than during any subsequent month or two months.

One of the many reasons why every Christian man should be a member of the association is because of the influence his example will have on others. While he may think that he himself can get along without the helpful influence of the association he should not imperil the spiritual life and efficiency of others who may follow his example. The very act of joining the association affords a man an opportunity to show clearly to his fellow students just where he stands. This silent witness for Christ is powerful.

There will be at least three Y. M. C. A. Bible Classes organized next week. Times of recitation will be arranged to suit the students. Why not have a Y. M. C. A. quartet this year.

No Christian student, either man or woman, should put off until next year, next term, next week, or even for one day, active participation in Christian work. "Say not ye, there are yet four months, and then cometh the harvest; behold, I say unto you, lift up your eyes and look on the fields that they are ripe already unto harvest." "We must work the works of Him that sent us while it is day; the night cometh when no man can work."

See those University pins at Cronise. They are the latest!

Girls, read that little pamphlet the Y. M. C. A. have published, "Thirteen reasons why a young man in college should be a member of the Y. M. C. A." Are not those reasons sufficient for you also? If you want to know what the Young Women's Christian Association means to a girl, just ask some of these students who have been here several years. Come to their Sunday afternoon devotional meetings and hear them testify to the power of Christ to keep a college girl right, and also how much easier it is to live a Christian life, if a girl has the association to help her. Come and let us help you as we have been helped.

The Y. W. C. A. will hold its opening reception Saturday, Sept. 20, in the northeast basement room, from 2:30 to 5 p. m. All girls of the college are cordially invited to be present.

Have you ever tried the plan of studying your Bible systematically? If you haven't, now is the time to begin, and that class in Sharman's "Life of Christ" is the one for to join. If you once try systematic Bible study you will find it so much more profitable and interesting that you will be unable to see why you didn't undertake it earlier. If you have tried systematic Bible study you know for yourself what it means, and will need no urging to join the class in studies in the "Acts and Epistles."

EXCHANGE AND COMMENT.

Toward the close of the college year a Yale senior, famed for "bluffing" abilities that carried him through many an unprepared recitation, interviewed Prof. William Lyon Phelps for the purpose of giving him a "jolly" over his standing. Now, Prof. Phelps is a rather capable "jollier" himself.

"I trust, professor," said the student, "that you find that I am doing strong work in your course."

"Strong!" echoed Professor Phelps. "Why, sir, your recitations have always reminded me of the Rock of Gibraltar."

As the senior moved away, grinning complacently, Prof. Phelps added:—

"The resemblance that has struck me, however, between your recitations and the rock is not so great in point of strength as in the fact that both are such windy bluffs."—Ex.

His First Business Venture.
An American capitalist who has made a fortune running far into the millions likes to tell a story of his first business venture and how he saddened the local grocer. At this time he was fond of frequenting a public sales-room near his home where all sorts of bargains were offered.

One day I noticed several boxes of soap of a certain brand which I had often been sent to buy at the corner grocery. I thought to myself, "That will go cheap," so I ran to the grocery and received a promise from the man in charge to buy as much of the soap at a certain figure as I could furnish. Of course he never suspected that I could furnish any of it.

I returned to the salesroom, and when the soap was put up I bid it in, and it was knocked down to me. My name was demanded, and when I gave it in a shrill voice everybody laughed, for I was then only eleven years of age.

Amused as they were at the sale, the bystanders were amazed when I bid in the whole lot of twenty-two boxes. I had them carried over to the grocery and received the price agreed upon. The grocer wore a weary look when he heard how I had obtained the soap. He said:

"Well, I guess I could have done that myself."

I replied that I guessed he could, too, but he hadn't.—Youth's Companion.

Doing His Best.

In the early morning I went to the postoffice in an Alabama town to inquire for mail, but found I was half an hour too early. I was walking away when the colored janitor who was sweeping out called to me and asked:

"Was yo' procrastinating around yere arter yo'r mail, sah?"

"Yes, but I see I'm too early."

"Yes, sah, too early. An' was yo' a stranger in dis town?"

"Yes."

"An' hain't yo' no one to talk to?"

"No."

"Den, sah, if yo' don't keer to eliminate about de street fur half an hour yo' can stop right yere, an' I'll do my best to considerate de reciprocity of de situation an' make yo' feel to home!"

A Civil Word.

A French king once said: "If a civil word or two will make a man happy, he must be a churl indeed who would not give them to him." If this feeling were acted on, how much happier the world would be! We may say of this kindly temper that it is like lighting another man's candle by one's own, which loses none of its light by what the other gains.

Origin of the Clearing House.

In 1775 the bankers of London rented a house in Lombard street and fitted it with tables and desks for the use of their clerks as a place where bills, notes, drafts and other commercial paper might be exchanged without the trouble of personal visits of employees to all the metropolitan banks. Transfer tickets were used, and by means of this simple plan transactions involving many millions were settled without a penny changing hands. The Bank of England and every other important bank in London are members of the Clearing House association. The first clearing house in the United States was established by the associated banks of New York in 1854.

See those University pins at Cronise. They are the latest:

Work For It.

Nothing that is of real worth can be achieved without courageous working. Man owes his growth chiefly to that active striving of the will, that encounter with difficulty, which we call effort; and it is astonishing to find how often results apparently impracticable are thus made possible.

No Right to Live.

Beggar—Won't you give me some money, professor? My money is all gone, and I can't live.

Professor—How old are you?

Beggar—Forty years, sir.

Professor—Forty years! Don't you know that according to the latest mortality tables the average age of the male population of Europe reaches only thirty-four years and five months? Statistically you have no right to live any longer anyway!—Meggendorfer Blatt.

G. A. WARFIELD.
Professor of Latin and Greek.

Professions Not Overcrowded.

There is a dearth of thoroughly trained men in all professions. The more exacting the conditions the greater the need. The thoroughly trained man nowadays must be a college man. The universities are using every effort to train men along special lines for definite efficiency in something. The old idea of college education as general culture is passing away. The university takes men as they are and makes the most out of what they can do. A man today in America is foolish to be "self-made" when better means are at hand. It is equally foolish to choose a self-taught man as against other men who have worked with equal zeal and force and with much better advantages.

Formerly a man of an executive turn, a leader in business or politics, found in a college education little that could help him. Now he finds everything. In the future the college men will be the natural leaders in industrial and political affairs. The reason is that the men born to lead cannot afford to stay out of college.—Success.
