Commencement changed

Dr. Roger Fritz will not be handing out diplomas at commencement exercises, contrary to previous announcements. Instead, Warne Nunn, vice-chairman of the Board of Trustees, will preside over the graduation ceremonies, which will be held at McCulloch Stadium or the Salem Armory in case of rain, at 3:00 p.m. on Sunday.

Douglas Brown, a graduating senior will give the invocation, to be followed by the commencement address of Daniel Schorr. Schorr is a veteran CBS newscaster and correspondent whose assignments have included travels to Washington, Moscow, Havana and New Delhi. He has been awarded several decorations from foreign countries, as well as the Peabody Award.

Commissions of reserve officers will be handed out by Lt. Col. Fletcher.

Dr. Harry Manley, provost, will not be in attendance as he will be attending the graduation of his daughter from Sterling College.

Before commencement, at 11:00 a.m. in Smith Auditorium, baccalaureate services will be held, with speaker Robert McAfee Brown, who is a chaplain at Stanford University. Before coming to Stanford, where he is also a professor of religion, he served on the faculty of Union Theological Seminary. Previously, he was an official Protestant observer at the second session of Vatican II.

There will be a reception in honor of graduates immediately following commencement at the University Center.

Editors and managers selected

After four hours of interviews and discussion of applicants, Publications Board selected new editors and managers last Thursday night. Those chosen will begin their terms next semester and will be voting members of Publications Board.

Wayne Larsen was selected as editor of the COLLEGIAN. He is currently news editor, and has also had extensive journalistic experience at Mt. Hood Community College, as well as some previous work on the COLLEGIAN freshman, was chosen editor of the JASON. She is an art major. Next year's WALLULAH editor will be Mitzi Chalmers, also presently a second semester freshman.

Wayne Balsiger received the position of darkroom manager. He and the staff he selects are responsible for photographs for student publications.

Willa Heyde, who presently works on the composition staff, was elected to the position of composition manager.

Students interested in the above positions were asked to submit applications, due on April 24. They were then requested to appear before the board on April 28, at which time they were asked questions concerning their plans and goals for the job for which they were applying. All of the positions are one year terms.

Trustees meet

The executive committee of the Willamette Board of Trustees will be meeting on campus this Friday. Although there was not an official statement of their business, it is assumed that they will be reviewing the position, present and future, of the chaplaincy, along with other business.

This committee consists of 16 members; nine committee chairmen and seven at large members. There are two women and 14 men. They are: George Atkinson, chairman; Warne Nunn, Louise McGilvra, Roy Harland, Roger Fritz, Russell Colwell, Gerald Frank, William Killen and Loren Winterscheid.

At large members are Floyd Bowers, Maribeth Collins, Donald Grant, Glenn Jackson, Randall Kester, George Thoten and Thomas Stoel.

Yocum, Loder win tournament

Dean Buz Yocum and senior Sue Loder won the ASWU Bridge Tournament last Sunday afternoon by defeating students Bret Rios and Debby Wolfe.

Yocum and Loder, victors in a field of 20 team entries, will receive individual trophies. Rios and Wolfe tied for second place with freshmen Mike Bergquist and Tom Turner. Other top finishers were the teams of Beth Dahl and Mary Adams, Lois Holt and Louise Cady, and Jim Sellers and Bob Heard.

Eight PERC bids received

Bids from eight contractors have been received by Willamette University for the proposed 72,000 square foot Physical Education and Recreation Center (PERC). Apparent low bidder for the project is Forster Construction Co. of Salem with a base bid of $2,216,766.

Forster Construction Co. built the Collins Legal Center and the George Putnam University Center, the last two buildings constructed on campus.

Other base bids were: Willis Hill, $2,290,000; Batterman Construction, Inc., $2,299,000; C.A. Lantz Construction Co., $2,308,380; Contractors Inc., $2,344,073; Marion Construction Co., $2,380,000; Todd Building Co., $3,387,347; and Donald Drake Co., $2,697,424.

OSPIRG plans

With the end of the year, activities of Willamette's chapter of OSPIRG are slowing down, according to board chairman Dixie Elder.

A report on Clagget Creek has been submitted and work continues on a number of other projects. (Continued on page 4)

In commenting on the bids Milo Harris, vice president for planning and finance said, "We were pleased with the number of contractors that submitted bids. Right now we're in the negotiating and discussion stage with the contractors and architects. It's doubtful a contract can be awarded before Commencement."

PERC will have three main segments, a large 3,000-seat multi-purpose field house, gymnasium, and indoor swimming. It will replace the Putnam Center at 50,000 square feet as the University's largest single building.

Included in the bidding were 13 construction alternates to the base plan. "The reason we included alternates in the bidding was to give us some flexibility as to what to include in it," said Harris.

The Executive Committee of the Board Trustees will be on campus May 5th to examine bids for the project. They have the authority to authorize the project if the bids meet with their approval.

Congratulations and Best Wishes

Students waited anxiously outside the Cat to register last Saturday for next semester's classes. The pushing and shoving prompted one junior to note that the same students will probably cut half of the classes they seemed so enthused about.

Jabberwocky

'Twas brillig, and the slithy toves
Did gyre and gimble in the wabe:
All mimsy were the borogoves,
And the mome raths outgrabe.

"Beware the Jabberwock, my son!
The jaws that bite, the claws that catch
Beware the Jubjub bird, and shun
The frumious Bandersnatch!"

He took his vorpal sword in hand;
Long time the manxome foe he sought--
So rested he by the Tumtum tree,
And stood awhile in thought.

And, as in uffish thought he stood,
The Jabberwock, with eyes of flame,
Came whiffling through the tulgey
wood,
And burbled as it came!

One, two! One, two! And through through
The vorpal blade went snicker-snack!
He left it dead, and with its head
He went galumphing back.

"And hast thou slain the Jabberwock?
Come to my arms, my beamish
boy!
O frabjous day! Callooh, Callay!"
He chortled in his joy.

'Twas brillig, and the slithy toves
Did gyre and gimble in the wabe:
All mimsy were the borogoves,
And the mome raths outgrabe.

A Delphi parable

To the editor:

The purpose supposedly of Delphi is to develop goals and directions for the students. Now I noticed many high priority areas upon the Delphi questionnaire. In answer to the questionnaire, I submit a Zen story.

A Cup of Tea

Nan-in, a Japanese master during the Meiji era (1868-1912), received a university professor who came to inquire about Zen. Nan-in served tea. He poured his visitor's cup full, and then kept on pouring.

The professor watched the overflow until he could no longer restrain himself. "It is overfull. No more will go in!"

"Like this cup", Nan-in said, "you are full of your own opinions and speculations. How can I show you Zen unless you first empty your cup?"

Sorry I could not answer the questionnaire.

Protests bombings

To the editor,

When examining the causes which prompted the recent bombings of Haiphong and Hanoi, the Liberal thing to do is to scream-- "not again!"--"totally unjustified!" and "all we are saying is give peace a chance!"--in that order. However, for the person who wishes to know the reason for the bombings, instead of making up his own, one is forced to the conclusion that massive Soviet aid to North Vietnam was the key factor in producing a North Vietnamese offensive and a turn-about in American policy in Vietnam.

The present North Vietnamese offensive was engineered and supplied by the Soviets. The offensive does endanger the some 80,000 Americans (of whom only 6,000 are combat troops) in South Vietnam and flight or capture. According to NEWSWEEK columnist Stewart Alsop, Nixon has initiated the bombing to inform the Communists that he is willing to do, and to risk, just about anything in order to prevent the collapse of the ARVN. The ARVN is the only defense that separates the Communists from the remaining Americans. Nixon's motives are probably not as humanitarian as they are political; if the government in South Vietnam folds, all objectives and goals, which Nixon has accomplished and for which he has planned (including securing the release of American P.O.W.s), will be absolutely worthless, and Nixon would have to shoulder the blame for a major "defeat" of American forces in South Vietnam. Since this would prove fatal, or nearly fatal, to Nixon's election hopes, he issued the order-- bombs away !!!

It is interesting to note that both the Liberals and Nixon are playing down the role of the Soviets in the current offensive. The Liberals ignore the Soviets in hopes that a new image of the Soviets as peace-loving, fellow-citizens of the world can be created, and, thus, America would be able to embark on a neo-isolationist foreign policy. According to the Liberals, the Soviets would soon adopt a similar policy, and all the world would live, at last, in peace. Nixon wants to sweep the Soviets under the rug because he wants his Moscow visit to look like a diplomatic meeting for peace, not like the confrontation of old Cold War adversaries. If the Liberals continue to negate the significance of the Soviets long enough, Nixon may breeze into office on a man-for-world-peace zephyr, created, in part, by his new and unlikely domestic allies. Most of Nixon's allies are currently engaged in trying to avoid the real issue with slogans condemning war as nasty business; their actions, however, seem the nastiest of all.

Positivism plugged

To the editor,
 Ultimately machines will take over all the menial, mechanical, boringly repetitive jobs. Consequently, ex-factory workers will have more leisure time. Alone with the freedom to do things that one has always wanted to do, also comes additional time for solitary thinking—a condition for which most people are unprepared to handle. In spite of ways of drowning out contemplation, such as incessantly filling the background with radio, television or other external sound influences, there will still be moments when an individual finds himself confronting himself, with nothing to do but think. For most people, facing themselves as they really are is an almost unbearable situation, and to avoid such austere exposure, they immediately seek some sort of distraction--some sort of distraction--something to do, something to fill the silence, someone to talk to about lighter matters.

It is because we, as individuals, see ourselves as incompetent or unsure of ourselves in various areas that we constantly cut ourselves down; and in so doing we become very depressed. Granted, such other factors as lack of sufficient sleep may also cause us to become depressed, a prime source of discouragement lies in our own basic self-concepts. We become discouraged and we want some attention--positive attention; we want to be loved, told that things will turn out all right, encouraged that we are doing the right thing. Unfortunately, however, people tend to be more easily swayed in a negative instead of a positive direction.

Positive, constantly happy people do exist. I have met them, and I am one of them. Nothing can get me down, except lack of sleep, and that can quickly be remedied. There are books and courses--even businesses--that can teach people how to be positive. I can highly recommend the courses offered by "Living Dynamics" by Earl Nightingale. There are many books, such as "The Power of Positive Thinking," "Psycho Cybernetics," "The Human Side of Enterprise," "How to Make a Habit of Succeeding," "Between Parent and Child," and many others, which stress the importance of emphasizing the positive rather than the negative in life. Amway is one of the most positive organizations I have heard of. There are even religions--particularly that of Christian Science--which are extremely positively oriented, stressing the importance, reality, and need for good, loving, positive thinking. And then there are simply people who have mastered these qualities in their own lives, no matter what they are a member of or what they do. It is these people who sincerely know who they are and what they want in life. Everyone knows at least one person like this.

There are those people who are aware of the importance of being positive, and consequently make an effort to be, and actually become, positively oriented individuals. There are those who look upon positivism as something bad, and who continue to be pessimists and complainers. In other words, most people are not often positive; it follows that not many people are happy. Of all ten-year-olds, 99.9% have developed inferiority complexes; 95% of these people keep their inferiority complexes for the rest of their lives. If these statistics remain relatively constant, we shall continue to have a lot of sad, unhappy, lonely people trying to compensate for their deficiencies in innumerable ways.

Bailey led Cat's win last six, finish 9-8

The Willamette baseball Bearcats finished the season with a flourish, knocking off title contenders Pacific University and Lewis and Clark and stomping Linfield at home. They swept their last six conference games in a row.

Defending national champion Linfield has had a dismal season. When the bruised Bearcats moved into McMinnville, the two teams squared off in a battle to avoid the cellar position.

In the first game senior Herman Nanalili won his fourth game in a row 4-3 behind the hitting of Scott McCormick and Al Zeek. McCormick went three for four, including a double while Zeek was two for three, scored one and drove in two.

In the second game, Rov Jacobs set the Wildcats down with two hits, defeating them 4-2. Chuck White was the offensive star for Willamette, going two for four and collecting three rbi's. Cliff Bailey, Peter Fern and Mike Sausser also had two hits each.

Sunday morning, blessed for the first time all season with warm, dry, sunny weather, Willamette jumped on Pacific 5-3 to dim Boxer title hopes. John Bruce went the full nine innings for the win. McCormick again went wild at the plate, collecting a homer, double and single in three trips and three RBIs.

Freshman Dick Tienhaara, filling in for injured lead off man Cliff Bailey, was also three for four.

Closing out the 1972 season Tuesday afternoon against Lewis and Clark, Manalili survived a shaky seventh inning to best the Pioneers 5-4. He finished the season with a 5-1 league record and a 2.85 ERA.

White and Bailey, playing for the last time as Bearcats, had two hits, including a double a piece.

Willamette finishes the season with a 9-8 conference record, 10-14 overall. Senior Cliff Bailey, the Bearcats flashy little center fielder, was elected Most Valuable Player by his team mates. Freshman catcher Al Zeek was named Most Outstanding Rookie.

Pilots steer clear of Bearcat threat

Saturday at McCulloch Stadium the Willamette track team finished its regular season, losing to non-conference University of Portland 97-48.

Even though the Bearcats lost they had good showings in many events. In the Javelin Bob Corcoran broke the old meet record of 210'10" with a throw of 207'10". Dan Stocker finished a time of 15.5, and Brad Victor finished third with a 16.3. In the long jump Gery Ellibee finished second with a distance 21'2 2/4". Eric Banks again jumped 6'4" in the high jump giving him victory in that event. Brock Hinzmann finished with a good time of 1:56.1 in the 880 for second place. In the 220 Gery Ellibee also finished second with a time of 23.1. John Holmes set a new Willamette record in the pole vault. The previous record of 13'7", set in 1965 and duplicated in 1969, fell with Holmes' jump of 13'11 1/2". In the 6 mile run Phill Hall finished second for Willamette with a time of 33:40.9. The team of Kreutz, Schwab, Merryman, and Ellibee broke the old meet mark of 3:24.6 in the mile relay with a time of 3:24.3, but it was only good enough for a second place.

Saturday the conference championships will take place in Walla Walla. The Bearcat track team has looked good this year, losing only one conference meet to Lewis and Clark. The team should do well Saturday, finishing close to the top with their stiffest competition coming from Lewis and Clark.

Netters lose to L&C

After winning five matches straight the women's tennis team lost a tough one to Lewis & Clark Tuesday by a score of 5-0. The score is deceptive and Mrs. Williams, the tennis coach, said that all the girls played their best match of the year, going down hard, fighting all the way.

One of the best tennis teams that Willamette has produced, their over-all record for the season is now 5-1. They beat Pacific 3-2, Linfield 5-1, George Fox 5-0, Oregon College of Education 5-3 and Marylhurst 5-0, before losing their last match to Lewis and Clark.

With a lot of new freshman recruits, prospects for the next season are excellent.

Runners place second in conference

Giving Pacific a real contest, the women's track team placed second over-all in the WCIC conference meet held down at Bush last Friday. Pacific had 64 points to Willamette's 62. Other teams placed as follows: Marylhurst 57, George Fox 7 and Linfield 1.

Several meet records were broken, four of them by Willamette, and three of them by Jenni Cross, who was also on the relay team that broke the fourth. Jenni again did more than her share, taking no less than first place in each of the four events that she entered, and setting records in all of them.

Terry Berg also did rather well, placing second in the 200-meter hurdles, second in the 100-meter hurdles, fourth in the 220-yard dash and third in the discus. Also on the record-breaking 440-yard relay team were Nnacy Mikkelson, Linda Rhodes, and Pheon Rivers. Their time of 53.6 is exceptionally good for the WCIC. Rivers also placed third in the 100-yard dash, with Mikkelson second in the 220, Katy Dolezal placed third in the mile run, Alice Claunch took fifth in the 220-yard dash and Patty Blank grabbed fifth in the long jump. Laura Rogers placed third in the 440-yard run, third in the 880, and fifth in the javelin. Kris Jensen took second in the 880.

Miss Howard will take four team members to the district meet which will be held at Mt. Hood Community College on May 6. She will take the 440 relay team of Rivers, Cross, Mikkelson and Blank, as well as Cross and Rivers in the 100-yard dash and Cross in the 200-meter hurdles. She said that OSU will be their toughest opponents in that contest.

The track team has had a very successful year, by far out-shadowing their performances in the past, and Miss Howard says that since the team is very young next year, in fact the next three years should be even better.

Fellowship received

The French Department has received an Atkinson Fellowship to investigate the possibility of setting up a Willamette "Semester in France" program. Several university towns are being considered as potential sites, Rouen, Rennes Caen and Montpellier are the most likely to fit our needs.

Plans are also being formulated for OSPIRG elections early in the fall, refunds are also being granted at that time. The local chapter plans to have several speakers visit the university this fall.

Just in case you want to join the Establishment someday...

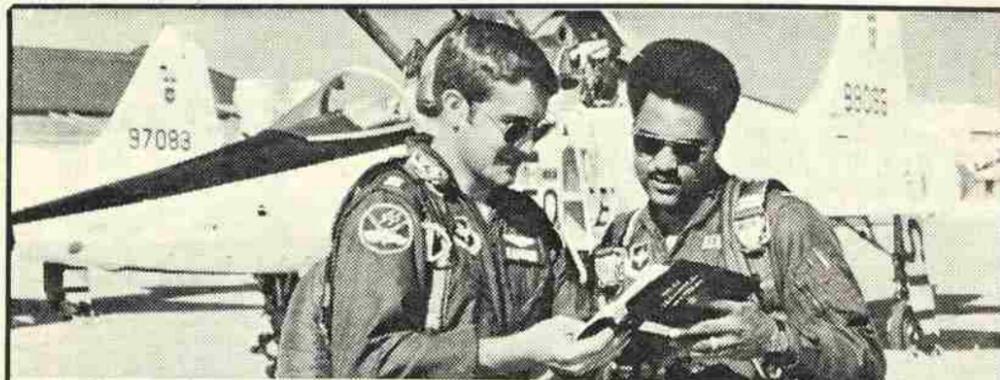

Success can creep up on you. You get a wife. Then a few kids. A business. And there you'll be. Established. But it'll be a lot easier road if you've prepared for it early. Like creating a savings and investment program through life insurance while you're a student. It makes sense—if you think about it.

For one thing, premiums will never be lower for you. Also, you can guarantee your right to get additional life insurance—no matter health or occupation. It's a start on security and independence. If the budget is tight, don't worry... you can defer premiums until after you graduate and get a job with the Establishment.

Talk to me about the value of getting life insurance while you're in college. I have lots of other reasons that make sense. Even if you don't join the Establishment.
