Willamette students didn't have to follow the fire engines anywhere — they came directly to them. Leaping out of an SAE window is a Salem Fireman at this early morning blaze — 3:40 a.m. — of Tuesday, February 21. (Photo by Russ Olmo).

End Table, Short Circuit Start Fire

An end table resting on an extension cord and a resultant short circuit led to a smoldering fire in the Sigma Alpha Epsilon house early Tuesday morning. At about 3:40 a.m. the flames exploded from a smoldering leather chair and Eldon Olson, awake at the time, was alerted and phoned in the alarm.

UNTIL about 3:10, several of the members were studying in the living room; they had all gone to their rooms when Olson heard the front window blow out. He alerted the house and pulled the fire alarm. Mrs. Ida Wooten, the housemother, could not leave through her door because of smoke and was forced to exit by the window.

Dr. Richard Petrie, financial vice president of Willamette, reported that the fire was very serious, but as yet he has no list of university losses. He pointed out that because the fire doors were closed at the time of the fire, the damage potential was greatly reduced.

Three fire trucks and a disaster car answered the call, but the SAE's and their neighbors, the Phi Deltis, had used their fire hoses so effectively that most of the flames were extinguished by the time the city arrived.

Bing Johnson reported that the damages to fraternity furnishings alone has been estimated by the decorators at $5,000 and the figure will undoubtedly rise with additional appraising.

THE LIVING room rug was completely ruined by water and fire and will cost about $1,300 to replace. Two sofas and two arm chairs at $250 each along with $60 in coffee tables, $300 in lamps and about $250 worth of drapes are many of the furnishings that must be replaced. Johnson stated that the house holds a $10,000 insurance policy on their loss.

The bulk of the damage occurred in the front of the living room and resulted in the shattering of the picture window and many of the light fixtures.

THE walls in the foyer, the living room, dining room, and kitchen are covered with smoke and must be cleaned and repainted. According to some of the fraternity members the only reason that the piano was not damaged was because the highly polished surface, effected by many hours of pledge work, reflected the heat.

Creative Dancer Coming Monday

Jean Erdman, world-famed creative dancer, is slated to appear in the Distinguished Artists series at Willamette University next Monday, according to Karen Madsen, student manager for the jointly sponsored Willamette-student body affair.

Miss Erdman, who has been artist-in-residence since 1949 at the University of Colorado summer sessions, derives continual inspiration from Oriental, primitive, European and American traditions that are blended in her native city of Honolulu, Miss Madsen reported.

Tickets for the series and individual appearances of the artists are available at Stevens and Sons, Salem jewelers. Performance is scheduled for 8:15 p.m. in the Fine Arts auditorium.

After dancing as a soloist for a number of years with the Martha Graham company in New York, Miss Erdman felt the need to achieve an artistic identity appropriate to her own experience and left the group to form a school and company of her own.

During the 1954-55 season, Miss Erdman, on her world tour, gave the Orient its first view of the contemporary American dance, performing to capacity audiences.

An interest in teaching has been a major factor in the development of the creative dancer's career. She has taught master classes at the national convention of the Health, Physical Education and Recreation Association; headed the Modern Dance division at Teachers College, Columbia University and a similar group at the University of British Columbia, Vancouver, B. C.

Med Schools Admit Seven

Seven Willamette University students have been notified of their acceptance for fall sessions at the University of Oregon, University of California at Los Angeles and University of Minnesota medical schools, according to Dr. C. R. Monk, head of Willamette's biology department.

Among those who received bids from the U of O were Edward (Ted) Foxley, Jr., senior in chemistry; R. Eugene Giesbrecht, senior in chemistry; Robert C. Seeger, junior in chemistry; Peter Stenzel, chemistry major and February Willamette graduate and John P. Ritchey, West Point graduate attending Willamette on leave from the U.S. Army to study medicine.

Dale Daniel, senior chemistry major, received bids from both the U of O and UCLA. Dorr Dearborn, senior in chemistry, was accepted by the University of Minnesota medical school.

Trustees Approve $100,000 Revamp

The Willamette University Board of Trustees Monday authorized nearly $100,000 in campus projects.

THE LARGEST project is a new intramural field and four new hard-surfaced tennis courts to go into the new south campus area. The area will be named for Dr. Frank Brown, Salem physician and first director of physical education for the University.

The improvements will be financed from the university's share of Brown's estate, estimated to be more than $50,000.

A PROPOSAL for needed expansion and modernization of the Baxter Hall kitchen was also approved. The cost of this project is estimated at more than $40,000.

Also, the trustees decided to increase board charges $20 per student each semester next year. This increase was to partially meet new charges in the new contract with Saga Food Service. The balance of the Saga raise is hoped "to be absorbed by the additional number of students that will be eating in the new dormitory," according to President G. Herbert Smith.

EIGHT academic promotions and two leaves of absence were approved this week by Willamette University's board of trustees, it was reported by Dr. G. Herbert Smith, University president.

Drs. Paul M. Duell and Theodore L. Shay were advanced to professorship ranks and appointed to head the University's chemistry and political science departments, respectively. Others from associate professor to professor were Dr. William P. Baker, English, and Dr. Milton D. Hunnex, philosophy.

Maurice B. Stewart was advanced to associate professor of physics. Moving from instructor rank to assistant professor were Nona Pyron, music, and Marija Udriš, German and Russian.

Granted instructor rank was Hollis W. Plimpton, admissions office counselor.

LEAVES of absence were granted to Robert M. Putnam, associate professor of speech and drama, for continuation of graduate work; and Dr. Reginald Parker, professor of law, now teaching law courses during winter semester at Rutgers University, Newark, N. J.

David Lewis, chief accountant, was named business manager on the staff of Dr. Richard P. Petrie, financial vice-president and professor of economics.

IN ADDITION, under provisions previously adopted by the executive committee of the board, Dr. Robert M. Gatke and Dr. Charles H. Johnson received emeritus status as professors of political science and chemistry, respectively, and will continue on the faculty of Willamette University on a part-time basis following retirement at the end of the present school year.

Dr. Gatke, a Willamette graduate, received his doctorate at American University and has been on Willamette's faculty since 1920. Dr. Johnson was awarded a Ph.D. in chemistry by Cornell University and has been at Willamette since 1928.

ELECTION to the Willamette board of trustees of Floyd K. Bowers, head of a Salem accounting firm, was announced by President Smith. Bowers attended Oregon State College but received bachelor's and master's degrees from the University of Oregon.

In addition, he is past chairman of the state board of accountants; past director of the state society of certified public accountants; past director of the Salem chamber of commerce; past director of the Cascade area council of Boy Scouts; past vice-president of Salem Lions club; director and past president of the board of Salem Memorial Hospital and chairman of the finance commission of the citizens' conference for government cooperation.

Man of Year Comes From Faculty

Ted Ogdahl, Willamette's football and track coach, was named Oregon's "Man of the Year" at the Hayward Banquet of Champions last week in Portland.

Ogdahl, who had his most successful coaching year at WU with a perfect record in football last fall, shared the spotlight with Otis Davis, double gold medal winner at the 1960 Olympic games and holder of the world record for the 400-meter dash. Davis was voted Athlete of the Year.

THE ANNUAL banquet, held in honor of the late University of Oregon track coach Bill Hayward, selects a man from Oregon who has achieved the greatest success in sports during the past year. Bearcat halfback Stan Solomon was nominated for Athlete of the Year.

Ogdahl has coached football at Willamette since 1952, and while at the helm his teams have compiled an aggregate 43-25-8 won-lost-tied mark. The Bearcats have won three straight titles in the Northwest Conference.

After assisting as backfield coach at WU in 1947, Ogdahl spent four highly successful years at Grant High in Portland as head coach. There, his teams won two state championships and tied for another and compiled an overall mark of 38 wins, 3 losses and 2 ties. One of the players he coached was George Shaw, currently a pro-football quarterback.

OGDAHL WENT to Willamette and played halfback on the football team. Before graduating in 1946, he served in the Marines during the war and was seriously injured by a bullet wound in his chest.

The Bearcat mentor played for San Diego of the old Pacific Coast pro football league before starting his 14-year career as football coach.

Featured speaker at the banquet was Norman Van Brocklin, former Oregon quarterback and a pro football star for the past 12 years. Also present were Governor Mark Hatfield and Portland Mayor Terry Schrunk.

State Aid for Scholars?

Seventy-five thousand dollars in scholarship aid to students in private Oregon colleges is what House Bill 1582 would provide if passed by the Legislature. The bill, currently before the House Education Committee, would grant student scholarships of up to $500 yearly, renewable for four years.

This proposal would be added to the State Scholarship Commission program which presently makes grants only to students attending state schools.

Why establish a state scholarship fund for private colleges?

It has been noted that throughout the nation there have been many superior students not attending college because of lack of financial means. While Oregon might not be drastically suffering this problem, it is indeed commendable to see the state consider students attending private schools for state aid.

Private schools of Oregon have contributed much to the economy of Oregon, both in immediate gain from student expenditure and from the talents of their graduates.

Yet, private schools do not have the range of resources available to state, tax supported schools.

The bill, as presently proposed, gives the people of Oregon a chance to demonstrate faith in the private school, and more so in the students attending a private school.

Gospel Finds Way In

(Editor's Note: The following letter was received Friday at the close of Christian Resources Week.)

Re: A CR Week Postscript

Those who were responsible for the speaker and the activities of CR Week are to be commended for the program just concluded. It is gratifying to note that the good news of the gospel could actually find its way into our midst even though it had to assume what was for some an offensive or unintelligible form.

I do not recall that it has ever been received or understood with enthusiasm by all. The simple fact is that no one can dictate by expectation or by demand how the messenger will speak or who the messenger will be.

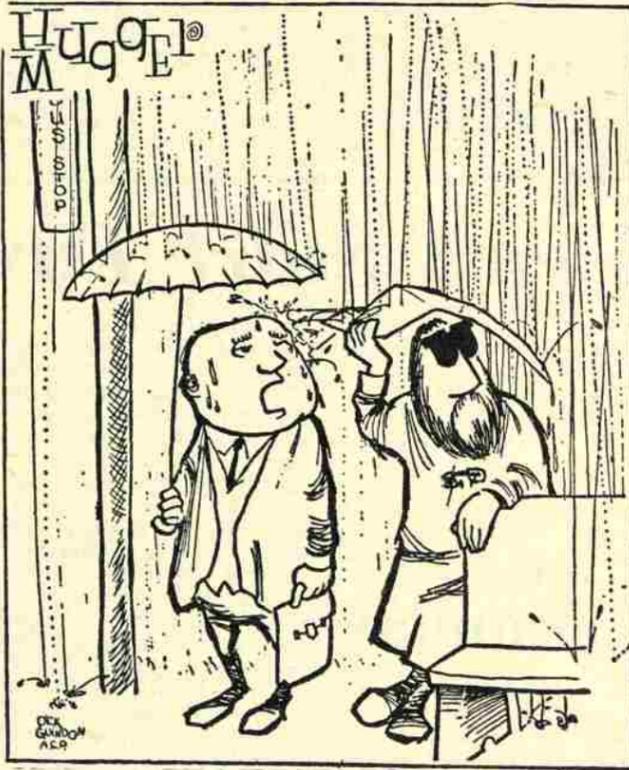

What, exactly, was expected? Consolation? Reassurance? A yardstick to end all yardsticks? What exactly is the gospel? Perhaps some have been provoked to ask this serious and fundamental question.

Surely a Christian college justifies its existence only as it is able to provoke concern for this question—even if the provocation has to be painful. The form by which and through which it is provoked is significant only so far as it creates the question.

I sincerely hope that many will not confuse the mode for the message. The gospel may have been according to Mathews, but it was nonetheless the gospel. I suspect that God speaks in and through whomever He chooses and however He chooses.

We are indebted to those who were responsible for the pure spiritual oxygen we've enjoyed for the past few days.

Butcher Paper Solves Artist's Puzzle

By DAVE MARSTERS

Visitors to the Bush House this week through March 19, will be unquestionably fascinated by the watercolor technique of Robert Bosworth, whose one-man show is the first comprehensive showing of his work in northern Oregon.

BORN AND reared in Medford, Oregon, Bosworth was an outstanding graduate in architecture at the University of Oregon (1956) and now conducts a private practice in his home city. A veteran, he is married and the father of two boys. He has had one-man shows in Belvedere, California, and Medford, Oregon and contributed to exhibitions in Grants Pass, Eugene, Medford and Salem.

Unlike many artists who work exclusively in one field (though not necessarily in one media) he consciously pursues a double role as expert watercolor painter and architect.

IN THE WORDS of Gordon Gilkey of Oregon State College, "Bosworth, the painter, cannot be divorced from the Bosworth who designs buildings. Since he lives in the twentieth century his work is of now. But his work is not like that of any other. Within the self-imposed limitations as to color and size, Bosworth, in his paintings, creates and develops significant visual statements of great lyrical beauty."

In an interview with the artist, Bosworth stated that one of the significant problems he has encountered is that of finding a suitable paper on which to paint. "Commercial watercolor paper is rigidly controlled as to texture and absorbency—some types hard and non-absorbent while others are soft and highly absorbent," he said.

THE SOLUTION to the problem for Bosworth has come through the use of ordinary butcher paper. By treating it in various ways (soaking, washing, etc.), it becomes either absorbent or non-absorbent, soft or hard or any of a myriad of combinations of these elements. Pointing to one painting, treated in a complicated series of techniques, he said it had actually been "baked" over low heat to achieve the resulting "enamel-like smoothness."

Dominated by browns, white and shades of grey, the paintings at first glance appear to be large (some of them are four feet wide and several feet tall), complicated prints—perhaps lithographs. Closer examination reveals the undeniable "touch" of the artist's hands—in outlines and tenuous details—which in one called "House of the Weed" (few works are labeled) resemble arthropodal animals enlarged several times.

OR, AS A doctor was overheard to say as he paused to talk with the artist, "That painting over there (pointing to the painting on the west wall of the northwest room of the gallery) looks very much like a nerve-cell—or epithelial tissue."

Not all of the works, however, are dominated by browns, white and grey. Some incorporate oranges, blues, reds and greens, such as the untitled work hung at the north end of the stairwell.

ONE OF THE most confusing of the details incorporated in most of the works is the vivid, white border. Clean and stark white as opposed to the murky, sinewy, vital interiors, it gives the works the appearance of being produced mechanically, as in a printing press. Bosworth said later that the white borders were a result of his using masking tape to outline his works which, when finished and the tape removed, have the unpainted white of the paper as a border.

The tape is also used to divide several of the works into vertical and horizontal areas—just as the vertical and horizontal posts in a window divide it into large and small panes of glass.

THE PAINTINGS would be termed in art circles as non-objective works since they are completely abstract and independent of subject, even as a starting point for the derivation of forms. This should not frighten the viewer but invite close inspection of composition, color, texture, form and movement in them.

A profitable prerequisite to seeing the Bush House exhibition is the display now hung in the Fine Arts gallery on our own campus—for the elements of design will certainly be evident in Bosworth's paintings.

Solons Study School Measures

By DAVE HUBBARD

Bills to provide $75,000 for state scholarships to private Oregon colleges, ban hazing any person in an educational institution in this state and set up an admissions board for state schools are current educational matters before the Fifty-first Legislature of Oregon.

"RECOGNITION of the need to aid students attending not only state institutions but also private schools was the reason for introduction of this bill," stated Senator Walter Leth concerning the $75,000 scholarship fund. The Polk county Republican is one of 13 sponsors of the bill.

Senator Leth commented that only a few years ago, a social worker from Yamhill county discovered a little-known statute which allowed elected state officials to sponsor a student to a state school, providing financial support from state funds.

"BUT AT that time, the Legislature decided that it would be in the best interests to establish a state selection committee for uniform administration. Consequently, a bill was passed establishing the State Scholarship Commission."

At present, the State Scholarship Commission administers the funds provided by this Oregon statute but is limited to awarding scholarships to only those attending or planning to attend state schools.

IF THE BILL under consideration is passed, private schools, such as Willamette, will be able to use scholarship money as student payment in the fall of 1961.

The requirements for a student to apply for state scholarships under this bill is that he must be a resident of Oregon, of high intellectual capacity and demonstrate a financial need, although the latter is not absolutely necessary.

THE scholarship award, under provisions of the bill, would not exceed $500 a year but would be renewable for a four-year period.

Senator Leth expects the Legislature to act favorably on the bill. It is currently before the Education Committee of the House.

ANOTHER bill of educational interest is one introduced by Senator Vernon Cook, D-Multnomah. Its prime purpose is to establish an admissions board for state schools and standardized admissions tests in order to prevent any discrimination of students.

It is Senator Cook's contention that there is wide discrimination within the professional schools of dentistry, medicine and law, particularly. While he could not cite any example of discrimination within Oregon schools, Senator Cook noted that the Oregon dental school required a statement of financial capacity from applicants.

"THIS IS A form of discrimination I think should be stopped," said the senator. Another form of discrimination according to Cook is requiring an applicant to attach a photograph of himself.

The Gresham legislator stated that nationwide there is discrimination in professional schools against Jews and Negroes. The use of a photograph can eliminate Negroes and a financial statement can eliminate students who do not have enough money to complete the schooling.

Senator Cook added that under existing practices, he doubted if he would be admitted to the University of Oregon Law School. "At the time I entered law school, I was not only broke but in debt."

A THIRD bill, introduced by Senator Grenfell and Representative Eymann, prohibits hazing of anyone attending an educational institution in the state of Oregon.

Any act which "injures, degrades or disgraces, or tends to injure, degrade or disgrace any person" would be defined as a misdemeanor by this law and punishable as such.

Segovia Plays Classic Guitar

Portland will again be one of the cities to hear the great Spanish guitarist Andres Segovia on his annual North American tour. He appears there at the Public Auditorium on Saturday evening, March 4. This year marks the 52nd anniversary of his first public appearance in Granada, Spain, at the age of 14.

Mr. Segovia made his U.S. debut in New York's Town Hall on January 8, 1928, as a romantic Schubertian looking young man. Now, courtly and benign, he is known throughout the world as the foremost guitarist of our time.

Portland is not alone in its appreciation of the great Spaniard. For the past five years, Segovia has played three sold-out concerts each year in Manhattan's Town Hall. His concerts on tour are sold out in every city from San Francisco to Paris, from Brussels to Tokyo.

Presented by S. Hurok, Andres Segovia's March 4 concert will be sponsored in Portland by Celebrity Attractions. Tickets may be obtained from Celebrity Attractions, 916 S.W. King, Portland 5, Ore.

Students Work Underground; Berliners Brood on Past War

(Editor's Note: This is a third selection from letters received from Pat Avery, WU music major attending school at the Frei Universität of Berlin this year.)

By PAT AVERY

What the Communists want most of all and what Kennedy fears most is that Berlin would be reunited and exist as a free city something like the Danzig of years ago. Ost Berlin (East Berlin) is crowded with signs and banners, "Berlin wird freie Stadt," and similar. Once that step is accomplished, Berlin would be lost for sure to the Communists.

THEY PROPAGANDIZE by saying that America, France and England are aggressive, remaining in Berlin long after it is necessary and that they, the Communists, think it's high time Germany was allowed a little freedom. They're all for this freedom theme.

I found out yesterday that a good friend of mine (economics mayor and one-time Flüchtling) is himself one of these left-wing socialists who are better described as Communists. He told me quite excitedly of their secret university party which has plans such as the following:

THEY TRY to get a majority of their members in certain houses in the Studentendorf and then when an election comes up the members always win. From this first leadership they put themselves up as candidates in the University elections. (Each Fakultät has something like a student council group.)

This party (to which he belongs) is composed of students who are not satisfied with the SPD and are trying to revolutionize the whole party—in the meantime, however, they vote for SPD candidates.

HAVE YOU noticed this Communist tactic? They take something away, the hurt nation yells for justice, the Communists wait a while without saying anything and then say OK, they will go halfway and generously give it back. In the meantime the other nation also has to go halfway to meet them and Russia ends up always a step ahead.

The Germans pity themselves. They feel sorry for themselves because Hitler was a German. They complain that I don't know what the war was like because it wasn't fought on American soil. They say fiercely, "If the war had been in the USA, New York would look just like Berlin does."

They say there is no cause for happiness. They say "of course" they understand why Americans can have fun and laugh: we come from a land of freedom, we've never suffered any hardships. "If (we) could only go to America" . . . but no, they are Germans and will remain so.

This present generation of students were children during the war and have only blurred memories of soldiers banging through their houses, of not enough to eat, of forced tramps from village to village and many of them have only one or two memories of their fathers. So many fathers of this group "didn't come back from the war."

Top Twenty Crown Honor Roll

Twenty four-pointers head the Willamette honor roll for the fall semester, reveals Richard Yocum, registrar. In addition, there are 116 students compiling 3.5 or better averages.

Freshmen and seniors tallied the most perfect grade records, tying with six each, with three sophomores and five juniors filling the rest of the list. As a whole, seniors were most numerous on the roll with 38 names. Freshmen and juniors closely followed with 37 and 35, respectively. Sophomores and graduate students listed 24 scholars each.

Students earning perfect four-points were John Allen, Gerald Barney, Anne Brodzky, Jim Brown, Susan Carrell, Don Coe, Clifford Comisky, Jacqueline Graber, Marian Hauke, Dorothy Hodges, Wesley Monroe, Mary Richardson, Robert Rieder, Marcia Ruby, Ed Sasaki, Kristi Scott, Bill Snow, Sherrie Steele, Ron Welch and Robert Youngblood.

Those earning a 3.5 or better included Paul Allen, William Allen,

Kevin Nagel, Larsana Nelson, Dick Nelson, Henrietta Nickels, David Patch, Sharon Paulsen, Frances Peterson, Janice Rademaker, Ron Ray, Bill Richter, Barbara Royer, Brenda Russell, Chris Byer, Charles Saverude, Don Schussler, Nancy Seely, Mary Shaffer, Frank Sites, Judy Smith, Peter Smith, Marilyn Sparks, Judy Starr, Geranna Stevens, Karen Stone, Sue Strach and John Sutherland.

YD's Will Feature Nevada Governor

the convention this week, complete with voting qualifications and tentative plans for the two-day conclave.

Governor Sawyer attended Linfield College for two years, finishing his undergraduate work at the University of Nevada. As an infantry second lieutenant he aided in the reorganization of the Philippine government administration and the formation of the Korean government.

LEAVING the military service with the rank of first lieutenant, Sawyer completed his law studies at Georgetown University, passing the bar examination of the District of Columbia.

Returning to Nevada, he became district attorney of Elko county and entered Democratic politics serving as county chairman and as a member of the state central committee. He was on the resolutions committee at the 1956 convention.

In 1958, Sawyer was nominated and elected to the office of governor of the state of Nevada.

WU Young Democrats are handling most of the pre-convention planning under the direction of John Gallagher, arrangements chairman. Committees are set up for the banquet, reception, mailing, publicity and tickets. Anyone wishing to help may contact Susan Bowers, JU 1-1539, or John Gallagher, EM 3-8481.

Fred Chambers, state president of the Young Democratic Clubs of Oregon and third year law student at Willamette, announced that Grant Sawyer, governor of Nevada, will be the featured speaker at the 30th annual Young Democratic convention to be held in Salem April 7-8.

SAWYER will speak at the Saturday evening banquet climaxing a day which will see the election of state officers for the coming year and the approval of resolutions by the young Democrats. All clubs in the state will receive invitations to

Susan Bowers, Willamette sophomore, took first prize in the women's division at the State Experimental Speaking Contest held last Tuesday at Northwest Christian College in Eugene. Miss Bowers' topic was Charles De Gaulle, president of France.

Gary Simmons, freshman, won third prize in the men's division at the competition. Simmons spoke on John Foster Dulles, the late United States secretary of state.

Winter Carnival Tickets Available

"All students attending Winter Carnival this week should pick up their tickets and programs in the business office before leaving for Mt. Hood," says Joan Robinson and Dale Sticka, Willamette's official delegates.

CARNIVAL participants are urged to keep both their tickets and buttons on their persons at all times during the weekend. These two items are the only identification for paying participants; without them admission will be refused. The ticket is divided into three sections. The first stub will be exchanged for the button upon initial admission to the lodge. It will be deposited into a barrel for the door prize drawing. The second stub will be taken at the Queen's Coronation dance Friday night. The final stub will be used for admittance to the Saturday night dance.

A wide array of activities is planned for the weekend for both skiers and non-skiers. The Moonlighters, a dance band, have been secured and will play for dances in Timberline Lodge both Friday and Saturday nights.

Sherri Jenkins, Willamette's candidate for Winter Carnival queen, will give a short competitive speech along with the other candidates previous to the dance Friday night. The name of the queen, who will be chosen on the basis of appearance, poise, speech content and personality, will be announced during intermission of the Friday night dance.

BESIDES the contests for the skiing enthusiasts, competitive and non-competitive events are scheduled for the non-skier. Included in the activities are tug-of-war, men's and women's snow shoe races, a flying saucer race and a combination flying saucer and snow shoe race.

Two hour-long fashion shows featuring nine coeds from Portland State College are planned for the weekend.

A successful weekend was predicted by Gary Curtis, chairman. "The problems were few, the rewards will be many. It is gratifying that the Winter Carnival has been taken to heart by so many students. Without the able help of all my chairmen and the tremendous enthusiasm demonstrated by the delegates, we would not be able to predict the success we can now," Curtis added.

Saga Food Service will provide sack lunches next week for all students who normally eat in on-campus living organizations. Those participating in Glee may take advantage of these lunches in order to attend noon practices.

Frosh Challenge To Kick Off Glee

"Alma Mater," Glee theme, will be kicked off Tuesday morning with the annual challenge during convocation. Chuck Reinhorn, newly elected frosh class president, is expected to begin the challenges, followed by the other class presidents. Entertainment of other sorts, such as skits and spoofing, will be the order of the day.

Rehearsals will begin Monday morning at 5 a.m. with freshman class song practice. Complete schedules of rehearsals for each class will be posted in living organizations next week.

Tonight will see a Glee dance, to be held in the Salem YWCA, to promote interest in Glee.

PTA to Be Topic At SEA Meeting

"The PTA and our Schools" will be the topic for the March 2nd meeting of the Student Education Association. Representing the Parent-Teacher's Association will be Mrs. George McBride of Portland. The meeting is scheduled for the Beta basement from 6:30 until 7 p.m., adjourning in time for all Glee participants to be on time to their respective class song practices.

President Jon Steiner, first vice-president Betty Stephens, second vice-president Joan Benson and secretary-treasurer Carol Hawes head this group which meets bi-monthly to discuss the practical aspects of teaching.

Thirteen Vie for Glamour Title

Tomorrow afternoon, Doney lounge will be the scene of Willamette's best dressed girl contest. The 13 co-eds representing living organizations from the campus will model three outfits, each typifying their own personal wardrobes. Informal modeling of the campus outfit, off-campus daytime outfit and off-campus evening dress will take place from 1:30 to 4 p.m., with only judges present for the presentation. The 13 candidates will be narrowed down to a group of six, each of which will be interviewed by the judges who are Mrs. George Beane, Mrs. Robert Duncan, Mrs. Wheeler English, Alvin Bauer and Robert Stevens.

Delta G's Select Koch New Prexy

Delta Gammas recently announced the election of their officers for the ensuing year. Holding the gavel as president for the sorority is Marianna Koch. Assisting Miss Koch is Jan Hardy as first vice-president and Nancy Johnson as second vice-president. Alice Hamilton will serve as recording secretary and Sally Bowe will take over the duties as treasurer.

Other officers include Anne Petrie and Anne Martin, co-social chairmen; Diana Miller, rush chairman; Barbara Levin, corresponding secretary; Linda Edwards, scholarship chairman and Judy Elliot, pan-hellenic delegate.

tivities are Joan Laurila and Penny Vulgas. Also assisting is Judie Hoel-schen.

The coed chosen best dressed girl of the Willamette campus will be announced in the March 3 issue of the Collegian. If Willamette's candidate is chosen by Glamour magazine as one of the "Ten Best Dressed College Girls in America," she will receive a trip to New York in June. Many other activities are planned by the magazine, including fashion shows and formal dances.

Dance Tonight Honors Glee

Tonight the YWCA gym will be the scene of a dance in honor of the 1961 Freshman Glee, according to Diane Lord and Chuck Reinborn who are in charge of the affair.

Planned for those students who are not attending the Winter Carnival, the dance is being held to promote Glee record sales and interest in Glee. Bob Powell and Phil Kozek, chairmen of the record committee, will perform a skit, Kathy Bunting will sing and John Vaagen will sing and play the piano for entertainment.

Sophomores Announce Troth at Lee House

At a Valentine's party after closing hours at Lucy Anna Lee House, announcement by way of a poem revealed Jeannie Richards' engagement to Ron Shanander.

Both are sophomore language majors from Portland and hope to teach language upon graduation.

Miss Richards has been active in SEA, Alpha Lambda Delta and religious life council, and Shanander has been a member of the WU football team.

Jasons Eye Role of Spoiler, Play Linfield in Hoop Finale

Basketball season comes to a close for Willamette tomorrow night when Linfield invades the Bearcat gym.

The game's prime importance will be to determine if the Wildcats can wrap up the Northwest Conference title. Currently, Linfield is in first place with a 10-4 record, but could fall behind second place Lewis and Clark (8-4) if they lose and the Pioneers sweep three games against Whitman and College of Idaho.

THE BEARCATS, in addition to their "spoiler" role, will be seeking to avert a last place finish. If Pacific or Whitman falter this weekend, the Lewismen could end up at least tied for fifth.

Also of interest to the home fans will be the performance of forward

Fidel Gaviola, who is locked in a tight battle with C of I's Bob Moreno for the league's individual scoring title. Gaviola had 239 points for the season, while Moreno has 221. However, the latter has three games left while WU has only one. So, Fidel will have to have a hot night tomorrow to stay in the running.

Forward Ken Ashley also has an outside chance of copping rebound honors, as he is running about even with College of Idaho's Dan Ayres.

SIX BEARCATS will be closing out their intercollegiate careers as seniors. They are forwards Gaviola and Lee Weaver, guards Hisao Sato and Dick Krebs and centers Buz Wilfert and Jack Bishop.

Gaviola is the team's top scorer this year and has been a leading offensive cog the past three seasons. One of his best performances occurred two years ago in a crucial game against Linfield. He almost single-handedly brought the Bearcats from a big deficit late in the game to a close victory which gave Willamette the NWC championship.

Sato, also completing his third varsity season, is second leading scorer for the Jasons. One of the highlights of his performances occurred last year in the NAIA district 2 playoff final against Linfield, when he put on an outstanding shooting and defensive show. The Bearcats won a close tilt and went to the finals at Kansas City.

WILFERT IS closing out a four-year span which has seen him garner an all-conference berth the past two seasons. He is also one of the team's two leading rebounders.

Weaver, returning after a year in the Army, did not score too many points but was of great value under the boards and for defensive purposes. Bishop returned after his career was interrupted by a hitch in the Marines. He was hurt by a broken hand that kept him out of action for the first part of the season.

Krebs has mainly seen reserve action while on the varsity. He was often needed in latter stages of games this year and played well in a losing effort to catch Linfield last week. Krebs also plays varsity baseball.

Foul Shots Sink Lewismen, Bearcats Remain in Cellar

Free throws have often cost a team a basketball game, and they were the main cause of Willamette's undoing last week as the Bearcats dropped two more games. They were edged by Linfield, 88-81, last Saturday and then dropped an 80-68 tilt to Pacific on Tuesday.

The losses left WU with a 4-10 league record and appeared to doom the Jasons to their first cellar finish under the career of Coach John Lewis.

THE IMPORTANCE of fouls was shown by the fact that Pacific, outshot from the field, converted 22 of 31 free throws to only eight of 15 tries for Willamette. Linfield tallied 32 of 55 free throws to ice their win, and in that game three of WU's first stringers were eliminated on fouls.

Such was the case as the Bearcats battled from behind most of the way in both encounters, finally fading at the end.

The Lewismen, in spite of a .509 field goal accuracy, fell to Linfield in a well played but foul-marred contest at McMinnville. The game was evenly fought in most departments, but Willamette lost the ball 21 times to 13 for the winners which proved a vital factor in the outcome.

LINFIELD broke into a 45-37 halftime lead, and after a quick Bearcat surge put them ahead, 50-48, the home team regained the permanent advantage. Hisao Sato, Ken Ashley and Dave Brock all fouled out in the second half, hurting much of a chance for a comeback.

Pacific broke open a tight game when 11 straight points put them ahead, 41-26 at the half. The lead was once extended to 49-32.

Lewis then resorted to an all court press, and the Bearcats put on a torrid comeback to bring the edge down to 56-52 with 10 minutes remaining.

Willamette stayed within range until two minutes left, when a rash of Badger baskets put the game out of reach.

Jason Tankers Bow to Linfield

Willamette's swimming team lost its second meet of the year, and again to undefeated Linfield, last Monday by a final count of 57-39.

The Bearcat tankers won several events, including the 160 yard medley relay with John Sutherland, Bill Snow, Phil Krozek and Rich Wayland on the winning team.

Those who finished first for Willamette in individual events were Steve Murdock in the 200 yard freestyle and Bill Snow in the diving.

This Monday the swimmers close out their regular season with a meet here against Portland University before participating in the NAIA regional meet next month.

Tuesday Rinky Dinks Win Intramural Basketball Title

In an all-Rinky Dink final, the Tuesday Rinkies put on a second half surge to beat their Saturday namesakes, 49-36, and thereby win the intramural basketball championship last Wednesday.

By beating the Saturday Rinkies, the winners stayed unbeaten while the Saturday team became the last one to lose two games in the double elimination.

THE GAME'S turning point occurred in the third quarter which the teams entered tied 19-19. The Saturday Rinkies had a cold spell and could not score for four minutes while the Tuesday Rinkies built up a commanding lead. After the quarter was over, they held a 32-25 advantage.

The runner-ups tried to get back into the game, but were forced to foul in the process and the Tuesday five took advantage of the free throws. A rash of fast breaks enabled the winners to open the gap towards the end.

Both teams were hot in the first quarter, with the Saturday squad holding a 15-14 edge. In the second stanza, both teams found the hoop hard to hit as the contest remained close.

JIGGS Burnett was high man for the Tuesday Rinkies with 19 points while Dick Hamada contributed 10 to the winning cause. Bruce Buzzell led the losers with 11.

Jayvees Divide Hoop Contests

Willamette's junior varsity basketballers broke even in action last week, losing a 98-89 tilt to Linfield last Saturday and beating Pacific's jayvees, 79-70, last Tuesday.

The win over Pacific saw Jerry Long's Bearkittens resort to many fast breaks and an all-court defense which the Badgers could not get used to. The winners broke into an early lead and never trailed after midway through the first period. Their highest advantage was 13 points.

Mark Hattenhauer paced the Kittens with 24 points while Ed Swearing had 20.

Lack of depth and height proved the big factor in WU's loss at Linfield. Willamette held a 48-37 halftime lead, but fell behind with 10 minutes left and were outrun and out rebounded the rest of the way.

The winners had a chance to make 100, but a successful layin just before the buzzer was nullified by a traveling violation.

Ed Swearing led the Bearkittens with 23 points while Mike Hardin had 20 for the Wildkittens.

Pro Football Giants To Train Here Again

The New York football Giants are returning to Willamette to train here this summer.

Athletic Director John Lewis received word last week that the professional club will use WU as a home base for two weeks in the middle of August when they are scheduled to play two exhibition games. One will be in Portland against the San Francisco 49ers and the other at Los Angeles against the Rams.

The Giants have used Willamette as a full time training ground in the past, the last time in 1958. They will probably again use Baxter Hall for rooming and practice at McCulloch Stadium.

The team, which will start training at Fairfield, Connecticut, will arrive in Salem around August 10.
