SPEAKER WOULD IMPROVE APPRECIATION BEFORE STANDARDS

Tuesday night's audience was kept in stitches as Dr. O. R. Chambers optimistically developed a gloomy forecast of the future.

Barring the unforeseen, he said, we seem doomed to exist under the old boom-bust-slow recovery cycle.

VISITING BIOLOGY PROF SHOWS VERSATILITY, WHIMSY

A plug for Oregon item: Dr. Ernest W. Hawkes, visiting prof of life science, after having spent 12 years seeing the world, and after living 18 years in California, now has become enough enamored of this beautiful, cool climate that he "might eventually settle permanently in the northwest."

This head of the Glendale college biology department did seem quite happy -- despite the surrounding lab full of stiff cat carcasses (that looked ready to take off like a flight of bats.)

What holds him in this eccentric environment? It must be his genuine fascination in his work. Incidentally, that fascination and his nice sense of humor would almost, (except for his basic congeniality) be hidden by his anything-but-forward manner.

The afore-mentioned travel (including all the western hemisphere and Siberia) was with various scientific expeditions, gathering specimens for the Smithsonian Institute and other museums. As well as satisfying a desire to travel and an interest in animals, it furnished Hawkes with material for articles used by English magazines and scientific publications. His research has been another source of material. And a look at Who's Who shows that some of his recent writings are poetic. Quite versatile, hmmm?

When the interview seemed about over, Hawkes invited the reporter to have four o'clock coffee (from beakers, imagine!) with him and some students who are helping in his present research. An introduction was made to the five white rat subjects of the experiment, namely: Adam and Eve, Ruth and Boaz, and Shadrach, Meshack, and Abodnege. They are from "a very old strain of rats from Pennsylvania," Hawkes explained, with a twinkle in his eye.

The research project is to reveal the effect of gamma rays on body tissue and genes and had already shown some effects, although it still has several months to run.

Hawkes says that no research of the sort has been tried with so large an animal and that therefore will be worth seeing.

said we must preserve what feather beds we have left by immediately and voluntarily lowering our living standards. And suggested teaching appreciation (the ability to enjoy "when and if") rather than standards (a minimum of possession for happiness.)

The phrase "that burns me up," Chambers pointed out, is not mere slang.

"Maturity," he said, "makes people self-directing, self-respecting, self-supporting, cooperatively democratic citizens.

Lestle Sparks closes the series at 7:30 Tuesday in the Music hall on Recreation for the Family."

RARE BOOKS GIVEN TO WU BY SALEM MAN

Four rare books have come into the possession of the university library this week, presented as a gift to W.U. by George H. Riches, Salem.

"Captain Gray's Company, or Crossing the Plains and Living in Oregon" written by Mrs. Abigail J. Daniway and published by S.J. McCormick of Portland in 1859, is perhaps the most valued of the collection, since it was worth $75 about 25 years ago.

"Voyage and Travels of Captains Lewis and Clark," bound in leather is the second volume written by William Fisher and printed by Anthony Miltonberger of Baltimore in 1912. It carries a recommendation by Thomas Jefferson.

Written in 1807, the third volume is "Lewis and Clark Travels on the Missouri," being a journal of Captains Lewis and Clark,

CONSTRUCTION WORK RAPIDLY PROGRESSING

Construction on the new dormitory has made considerable progress since last week's issue of the summer Collegian.

Both East and West wings of the dormitory have been poured to the top including wall, roof, and floors. By the end of the month the entire building will be poured. Plastering has been completed on the first floor of the West wing and plastering has been started in the other rooms. Also some furniture has been moved in.

The infirmary building is completed and ready for operation, it was announced this week.

The infirmary is well equipped, including a reception room, examining room, treatment room, physiotherapy room, and laboratory. The nurses office is in the center wing. In the East wing there is an isolation ward and a private room for men students. The West wing has the residence for the residence nurse, kitchen, and private room and ward for women students.

400 WITNESS BEGGAR'S OPERA ON TWO NIGHTS

Approximately 400 were on hand to witness the performance last Friday and Saturday night of the "Beggar's Opera," in Weller hall, and the performance gained very favorable comment from audience and the press.

Meanwhile the members of the cast are trying to get back to a 1947 normal life after characterizing personalities of the 18th century. Paulie Wallace is studying for her final examinations, Reid Shelton is back on the job with the city and all the cast is considering the property room and removing the grease paint from their faces.

The Summer Collegian staff says orchids are in order for Mrs. Margaret Ringnald and the cast.

FACULTY PLAYOFF CHAMPS

Behind the steady chucking of Stu Compton, the Faculty softball agragade took the playoff championship by thumping Alpha hall 9-4 last Monday.

With the score knotted at one all in the third, Walt Commons, Faculty outfielder, cracked out a four base swat with two on to give his mates a commanding 4-1 lead. Not content to rely on this lead they scored three more in the fourth on bingles by Luther and Sirmio, two walks by Roth, and three Alpha errors.

Faculty power again appeared in the fifth frame as two round trippers with none on by Williams and Sirmio ran the Faculty lead to 9-1.

An abbreviated rally in the last of the fifth momentarily raised Alpha's hopes. With one out and Nevin on first, the Lead-bunter of the season, Les Sparks, suddenly became a horse of another color and swated a lusty two base blow down the left field line. Waldron's line drive honor in deep left center produced Alpha's last runs.

SUMMER SPORTS SUCCESSFUL

The successful Summer Session Intramural Program must be accredited to someone and we think the likely choices are Les Sparks and Bob Donovan.

When the Summer Session started, Les Sparks appointed Donovan as Intra-

RUBE ~ REEL ~

By Ovilee

Ovilee wishes to extend heartfelt thanks to all his ghost writers, mostly Gordy Kunke and Jim Oakes.

This summer session has been successful and very interesting. Lets' all give Walt Erickson a pat on the back. A wonderful job was done by the all-star shortstop of the faculty intermural champs. Old Bikes; Big Marv Goodman will be frosh coach; Gordy Kunke is to teach and coach at More, Oregon; Chuck Furno did not maintain his .975 batting average; Bob Donovan ran the mural softball; Bob Medley will be back next year; Gubser, Commons, and Slanichik are unheard from in regards to returning next fall; Harry Mason is a good umpire; I still say the ball was fair; Leslie Sparks got a two base hit; football will be played at Aumsville next year; Torso Cookingham is still undecided; Ron Runyan goes to Ontario; Moezie Kreutz to Junction City; Bill Hanzuska to West Salem junior high school.

Goodbye, Rubes. Ovilee is off to Florida. Best of luck to all of you, exams, you know.

mural manager. The first thing Donovan did was to draw up plans for a softball league, with the idea of four teams participating. Three teams were all that entered the circuit however so play started with the Rubes winning all of their games in the regular season, but when the play-offs came the Rubes had lost their sting, and a greatly improved Faculty team arose from the cellar depths to win the pennant, defeating the Alpha club in the finals.

Early season plans called for a tennis tournament, but interest seemed slight so a golf tournament was held instead. Ollie Williams had little trouble in emergin the winner in the championship bracket.

This summer saw the arrival of Willamette's two new coaches, Jerry Lillie and Johnny Lewis. Both men played an important part in the late season drive of the Faculty ten.
