

WILLAMETTE SCENE

PUBLISHED FOR ALUMNI AND FRIENDS OF THE WEST'S OLDEST UNIVERSITY

Spring 1986

Inside: Willamette hits the beach
Library proves dreams come true
WU bistro makes its debut

But, seriously:

Students are the real measure of success

One of my favorite quotes is a reminder from Adlai Stevenson that "Serious things are sufficiently serious without my being serious about them all the time."

Certainly, there are many serious things facing a president of a small, independent university these days:

- Demographic statistics indicate a decline of approximately 25 percent in the number of potential college age students in the United States from the early 1980s to the mid-1990s;

- The tuition gap between public and independent institutions has widened;

- The limited government support received by our students is in jeopardy;

- Major expenses (e.g., in the areas of maintenance and salary increases) that have needed to be deferred over the last 10 years as inflation wreaked havoc with operating budgets can be deferred no longer.

In times like these, a president of a small, independent university needs help in not being serious about such sufficiently serious things all the time. And I am reminded of a group of students that did just that for me some time ago. In this case, the group was not from Willamette, but from nearby Linfield College.

The day before a Willamette-Linfield football game a spoof of the Willamette University student newspaper appeared on the campus, prepared by the staff of the Linfield College student newspaper. One of the favorite targets of the spoof was the rise in the quality and quantity of undergraduates that Willamette was enrolling.

The feature article on the front page attributed the following to me: "We only want the best and the brightest here — and as many of them as possible." Another article lampooned that, "This year Willamette has 1,400 upper-classmen and graduate students and 1,500 freshmen."

(And, if you believe that, then try this on for size: Next year, those 1,500 freshmen from 1984, combined with the 1,200 freshmen from 1983, the 1,500 freshmen from 1985 and the 1,400 freshmen anticipated in 1986 will bring the total enrollment in the College of Liberal Arts to a level that will rival that of the University of Oregon!)

My thanks to the Linfield College student newspaper staff for adding some perspective to the serious things we are dealing with at Willamette. The fact is that the issues we are dealing with are different from those being dealt with at many other institutions.

We are in the enviable position of managing growth (slight though it will be) at a time when much of the rest of our industry is trying to manage decline. While many small, independent colleges are struggling for survival, Willamette is striving to provide additional resources in a way that will give an unsurpassed liberal arts education to the extremely capable and bright students who are filling our undergraduate classrooms and residence halls.

As the total enrollment in the College of Liberal Arts increases slightly next year, I expect Willamette to become stronger. Our commitment to a low faculty-student ratio and to personal student-staff interaction continues as the core of our educational philosophy. And, thus, more faculty members are being hired. So our community of scholars is growing — in terms of quantity, depth and breadth. This is the kind of growth that we will all benefit from, particularly our students.

Seriously — and not so seriously — we perhaps do need to be reminded that bigger is not better. But neither is it necessarily worse. It is what is offered to the 1,300 or 1,500 students that determines the measure of quality. And we remain committed to being person-centered in our pursuit of excellence. It is not how many students we have at Willamette, but what happens to those students that will determine our success.

JERRY E. HUDSON

WILLAMETTE SCENE

PUBLISHED FOR ALUMNI AND FRIENDS
OF THE WEST'S OLDEST UNIVERSITY

SPRING, 1986

VOL. III, NO. 1

(USPS 684-26000)

BEHIND THE SCENE

EDITOR

CHERYL A. KUHN

CONTRIBUTORS

JERRY E. HUDSON

MICHAEL LARSON

R. JANE REEDER

SPECIAL WRITER

R. WRIGHT COWGER

CLASS NOTES

HEATHER PRUITT

PHOTOGRAPHERS

JIM BORTVEDT

JILL CANNEFAX

R. JANE REEDER

ON THE COVER: WILLAMETTE THEATRE
CHAIRMAN BILL IRON IS READY FOR THE DEBUT OF SUMMER THEATRE AT
THE COAST. (R. JANE REEDER PHOTO)

PUBLISHED WINTER, SPRING, SUMMER,
FALL BY WILLAMETTE UNIVERSITY,
SALEM, OREGON, FOR CONSTITUENTS
OF THE WEST'S OLDEST UNIVERSITY.
SECOND CLASS POSTAGE PAID AT SALEM, OREGON 97301. SEND
ADDRESS CHANGE TO UNIVERSITY
HOUSE, WILLAMETTE UNIVERSITY,
SALEM, OREGON 97301.

TABLE OF CONTENTS

- 4/ Willamette at Gold Beach: The curtain rises.
- 6/ Hatfield Library construction: The final days
- 8/ Bistro Willamette: A new lease on campus social life
- 10/ Atkinson's Puryear: Ready to meet the future
- 11/ Twenty years together: ICC, Willamette celebrate
- 12/ Alumni Days '86: Combining fun and nostalgia
- 14/ Class notes

SETTING THE SCENE — Spring is always a time of excitement at Willamette. Graduation plans are afoot and seniors are looking forward to fresh beginnings. Faculty are anticipating summer study and travel opportunities. The entire staff is preparing to welcome alumni home May 10 and to bid students farewell May 11. Attention is turning to a new budget year with new programs, staff changes and campus improvements.

This issue of the Scene focuses on some of the events that make this spring such a special season: imminent completion of the Mark O. Hatfield Library; Willamette's new summer theatre at Gold Beach; Bistro Willamette, a unique addition to university social life, and plans for Alumni Days '86.

We invite you to share the excitement.

C.K.

ACT ONE

Scene I. An exhibition building on the Curry County Fairgrounds. Eight o'clock on the evening of June 20.

A ripple of excitement stirs the air of the converted playhouse. Theatre-goers, in casual vacation attire, fidget in their seats. A scattered exchange of greetings, a shuffling of programs and whispered conversations break the tension of waiting. Gradually, house lights dim and stragglers reach their seats.

Outside, golden dusk is settling on the community of Gold Beach. Beyond the churning mouth of the wild Rogue River, a brilliant summer sun slips behind the curtain of the Pacific Coast horizon.

Inside, the curtain rises on a new enterprise. Enter, WILLAMETTE UNIVERSITY SUMMER THEATRE.

The story could be a long one — how Willamette University and the city of Gold Beach came to be partners in a major business and cultural undertaking. But the story, as told by Bill Iron, is amazingly short and simple.

The two partners, represented by Willamette theatre chairman Iron and an entire cast of players from Gold Beach, forged an agreement which calls for three plays performed in "rollover" repertory six days a week from June 20 to the end of August.

Gold Beach — having hosted last year's WU touring production of "Under Milkwood" — wanted Willamette. Willamette — approached by an enthusiastic and resourceful host for quality summer theatre — wanted Gold Beach.

Dr. William Z. Iron, playwright, novelist and chairman of Willamette's theatre department, has found "a lovely place to spend the summer." Gold Beach, a community of 3,000 on the southern Oregon coast, will host the debut of Willamette University Summer Theatre, under Iron's direction. The season is scheduled to run from mid-June through the end of August.

For Willamette, the theatre program provides invaluable public exposure — an opportunity to introduce literally thousands to the university's excellence in the performing arts. For Gold Beach, summer theatre promises to enhance an already thriving tourist trade which is bread and butter for a substantial share of the town's 3,000 citizens.

Not just the municipality, but the entire community of Gold Beach has demonstrated its support many times over, according to Iron: families have offered to lodge performers; local businesses have donated time and materials to construct the stage area; the community has obtained a grant for the purchase of lighting; and the city of Gold Beach is paying for promotion throughout Oregon and northern California.

Willamette is providing big talent in the form of three faculty members: producer-director Iron, director Nick Leland and technical director/set designer Christopher Harris. A "core" cast of 10 performers has been recruited by Iron, at Gold Beach expense, from auditions throughout the Northwest.

Auditions also were held in Gold Beach for parts to be filled by local residents. And once again, said Iron, community interest reached an infectious level. One 77-year-old woman performed an audition number with her ukulele. She's in, of course.

With the debut of summer theatre just two months away, all is in readiness. The only thing left is — to attend.

Performances are scheduled for Tuesday through Sunday, including a Friday night dinner theatre. Plays include a comedy, a musical and a serious drama:

- Peter Shaffer's "Black Comedy," somewhat standard, but hilarious, summer theatre fare described as "grand slapstick" by the New York Times;

- "110 in the Shade," a musical version of "The Rainmaker," in the words of Iron, "a great play that never achieved greatness";

- "The Effect of Gamma Rays on Man-in-the-Moon Marigolds," a serious play that Iron admits is "somewhat risky" for summer audiences, but a "delicate" play and a "nice change of pace."

Additional information about Willamette University Summer Theatre at Gold Beach can be obtained from the theatre department, 370-6222, or from the department of news and publications, 370-6014.

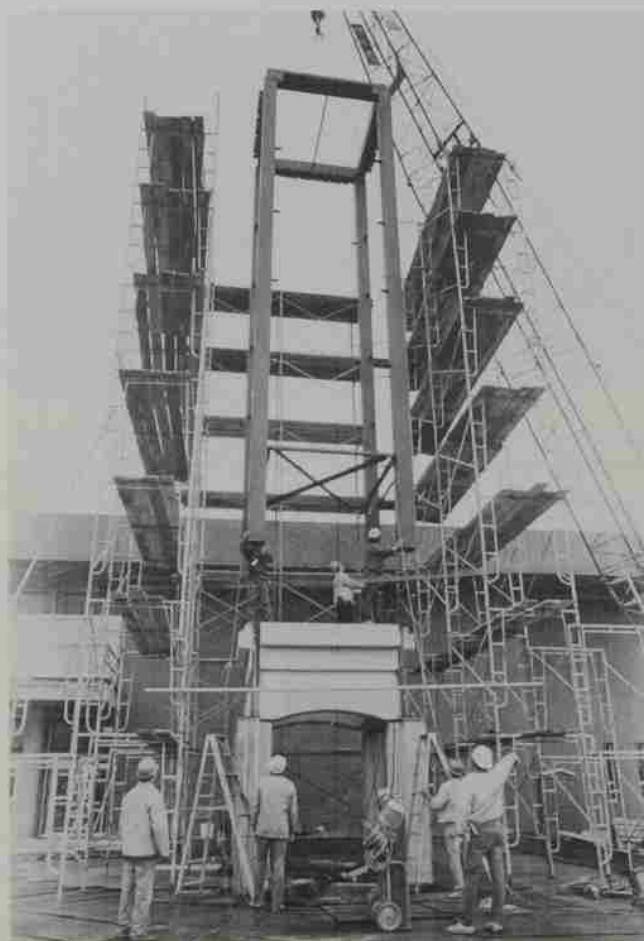

CHERYL KUHN

Mark O. Hatfield Library

Construction enters final days

On Wednesday, April 16, crews moved into place the concrete and steel framework of the clocktower — one of the library's most striking features. Lifted above the surrounding rooflines were the three tower components — an 18-ton concrete base fabricated by Eugene Sand & Gravel, the 49-foot steel structure which was constructed in Canby, and the copper roof and spire which were built on campus by the project's general contractor, Hoffman Construction.

The tower, from base to spire, is nearly 62 feet (61'9") high, and is located near the center of the Glenn Jackson Plaza which surrounds the library. When completed, the structure will feature: a four-faced clock with carillon; a walk-through base; and an unusual facade of brick and woven glass.

Less than twelve months after it started, construction of the Mark O. Hatfield Library is entering the final days.

With the exterior, or "skin," of the building completed, activity is not slowing, but accelerating. The focus of construction is moving away from the skin in two directions — toward the inside and toward the outside — as crews work to complete both the library interior and the surrounding plaza by mid-June.

As the pace of construction quickens, so does the pace of efforts to conclude the library funding campaign. More than $6.8 million of the library's $7.4 million cost has been raised from foundations, corporations and private donors. Because of conditions placed on one of the university's major library grants, the remaining $600,000 must be in hand by the time the building is ready for occupancy.

When completed, the 63,000-square-foot building will provide space for 250,000 volumes and will serve as a technologically advanced learning resource center for Willamette students, faculty members and visiting scholars. The library also will serve as the depository of papers and memorabilia from the public career of Senator Mark O. Hatfield, Willamette alumnus, trustee, former professor and dean.

Plans are progressing for a Sept. 4 celebration centering around library dedication. Festivities on that date will include a dedication address by Daniel J. Boorstin, Librarian of Congress; the sealing of a time capsule; and a reception and open house in the new Mark O. Hatfield Library.

Construction crews will leave the library site in another two months. Signaling the end, from top: Sen. Mark O. Hatfield and President Hudson tour the building; the "skin" is finished; a welder works on the clocktower framework.

Library automation

'We are the pioneers'

The Willamette community has grown accustomed, over the past year, to the daily spectacle of the Mark O. Hatfield Library rising from a grassy knoll on the banks of the millstream.

The groundbreaking, the removal of tennis courts, the massive excavation, the erection of walls and supports, the installation of brick and glass — all have occurred under the watchful eyes of the campus.

A not-so-visible, but equally important process has been taking place within the old library. There, university librarian Sandra Weronko and her staff have spent months preparing books, equipment and people for the conversion to a fully "automated, integrated system."

Even boiled down to bare essentials, the process is complex and highly technical. First, all library holdings had to be converted to machine readable form. That step, which actually was begun in 1979, was finished last December.

Next, the library obtained a tape of its holdings in order to begin the tedious work of revising and updating classifications (known as Authority Control) and eliminating duplicates (known as "de-duping.") Those steps also have been completed.

The next step, necessary to achieve automated circulation, was the bar coding of all books. The library staff completed that phase during a marathon, four-day work session in March.

Now comes the construction, revision and testing of the data base, and the grand finale — installation of the entire system in the Mark O. Hatfield Library — scheduled for middle to late June.

"Being the first to do something, combined with having it showcased in a new library building, brings with it many challenges, opportunities and anxieties," Weronko recently told faculty and staff.

Due in part to the sheer volume of records and information being handled, she notes, "there are a thousand places for things to fall through the cracks." The risks are minimized, however, simply because the library staff is aware of, and guarding against, the potential for outright loss of information.

The Willamette conversion is further complicated, according to Weronko, by the fact that it is among the first-ever attempts at total automation. There are no precedents, no references, no advisors.

"I can't go to my colleagues and ask how they automated," she explains. "We are the pioneers."

It is no exaggeration to suggest that all eyes will be on Willamette as it opens the Northwest's first academic library to house a fully computerized card catalog and circulation system. Already, there's a mounting clamor for tours, talks and information about the new system.

Though she seems, at times, to be at the center of a whirlwind, Sandra Weronko expresses pleasure over the "atmosphere of excitement," the "centering of interest in the library." The hard work, the inevitable problems and the burdens of being the "pioneer" have left untouched what Weronko, with utmost subtlety, calls her "enthusiasm for the project."

CHERYL KUHN

Sophomore political science majors Eric Fishman and John Donovan have secured a university grant to convert a portion of University Center's lower level to a student-run coffeehouse. Eric, an award-winning chef, will oversee the food service operation while John, an experienced manager, will head up the business operation. Bistro Willamette will operate seven days a week until 1 a.m., beginning Sept. 4.

Bistro Willamette: a plan comes together

It all started with a casual, late-night conversation between two sophomores.

Why doesn't Salem have some quiet haunts where night owls can get together to share food, drink and conversation?

What if you're not into cocktail lounges, noisy juke, bar talk and junk food?

Wouldn't it be great to have a warm, friendly place to kick back between studies, listen to soothing music, maybe sip some espresso?

Isn't there life after McDonald's?

Life, the two sophomores decided, is what you make it. And if you want a comfy spot that meets your requirements for R & R, you can start one.

Eric Fishman and John Donovan — not ones to leave a great idea on the drawing board — set out to devise a plan. They conducted research, refined their plan and lobbied for support. As their plan began to assume the dimensions of reality, they sat down and drew up a formal proposal.

That proposal — complete with drawings, floor plan, need analysis, operational scheme and budget — was submitted in November to President Jerry E. Hudson. It envisioned "Bistro Willamette" as a student-run campus coffeehouse offering its users "an appealing array of unique foods" in a "non-institutional ambience."

"Even from the beginning," Eric says he and John knew the president "was with us." The two students left Hudson's office with a list of specific questions to be answered and problems to be solved.

Within three months, the plan had come together. In its approved form, Bistro Willamette was to differ from the students' original proposal in only one major respect — location. The idea of locating the bistro in an abandoned maintenance building was deemed unfeasible.

Instead, it was agreed that Bistro Willamette will be located in the lower level of Putnam University Center. Beyond the point of entry, however, John and Eric claim that visitors will be hard pressed to find any telltale signs of "institutionalization."

Patterned after a French bistro of the 1940s, the coffeehouse will feature continental decor — black-and-white checkered floors, wainscoting, ceiling fans, and antique tables set with fresh flowers and carefully mismatched china.

The menu strictly shuns the junk food scene, offering an array of cheeses, croissants, specialty sandwiches, desserts, espresso, juices and sodas.

Special features include an open piano and guitar for spontaneous performances, a small stage for poetry readings and other events, and a mini-gallery displaying the work of students, faculty and alumni.

John and Eric see the bistro working on a number of levels; as an academic forum, featuring discussions and debates; as a cultural forum, offering unique music and entertainment; as an admissions tool, making Willamette more attractive to prospective students and as an "entrepreneurial experience" for those students who will operate the coffeehouse.

Even more important, the founders say, is the bistro's unifying influence — its potential for enhancing the WU sense of community. Toward that end — the unification of various Willamette constituencies — John and Eric plan to encourage use of the bistro by trustees and alumni groups. They will be looking for alumni art to display, and they are hoping that alums will be motivated to help create the bistro's "ambience" by donating unique furnishings — such as tables, chairs, dishes or musical instruments.

The two entrepreneurs will be on hand during Alumni Day, May 10, to discuss the bistro and to answer questions. From that day forward, they'll be giving up a lot — including an entire summer — to make the coffeehouse operational. They'll be hiring student employees, purchasing equipment, working with remodelers, talking with suppliers and helping to raise the money needed to open Bistro Willamette by Sept. 4.

Once the coffeehouse opens, John and Eric will be juggling their managerial responsibilities with their junior year studies. They admit it won't be easy; fading fast are any former hopes for foreign study, theatre roles, fraternity activities and social life. The irony, of course, is that they'll be far too busy to enjoy the relaxing atmosphere of Bistro Willamette.

It's well worth it, they agree, to see a good plan come together.

CHERYL KUHN

Still convinced

---

---

New dean sees role for Atkinson in Northwest economy

---

---

It was one year ago that Dr. David L. Puryear announced he would relinquish his post as director of The Johns Hopkins University Public Policy Program to accept a position as dean of Willamette University's Geo. H. Atkinson Graduate School of Management.

There were some, no doubt, who would have questioned his decision to leave the prestigious East Coast institution for a Salem, Oregon school with 150 students, 10 faculty, and only 10 years of experience in the marketplace of managerial education. Puryear affirms today what he said a year ago: it was not only the right decision; it was an "easy" decision.

Atkinson's "quality faculty," its "style of learning," a progressive curriculum stressing integrated studies in business management and public administration — all were factors in Puryear's decision to join the Atkinson "team."

"What really convinced me," he says, was the school's "enormous opportunity" to grow, to extend its influence and to play a significant role in the economic development of the Northwest.

At this point, Puryear says, it is clear that the Northwest is "shifting from an industrial economy to a service-based economy," and we are seeing the rise of an "entrepreneurial" business climate.

"In the foreseeable future," he predicts, "change will occur so rapidly, it will be unsettling. And a period of change is a period of opportunity for the entrepreneur. That was true in the Industrial Revolution and I think it will be true for the next few decades.

"At one time, innovation was not rewarded by American business. Now we have a new ball game, a much more competitive global environment. The businesses who are going to thrive are the ones being creative, innovative . . . entrepreneurial."

The way for a business to be successful, Puryear explains, is to "hire the creative, entrepreneurial person." That's where the Atkinson School comes in.

"In the new economy," the dean maintains, "Atkinson will play a significant role in training both corporate and independent entrepreneurs." Because of its integrated approach to management training and its place within the Willamette liberal arts tradition, the school is uniquely suited to that role.

Ironically, Puryear points out, corporations are "sending their executives out to study the liberal arts." Atkinson students already have backgrounds in the liberal arts. Instead of being "specialized to a fault," Puryear says, they are "life-long learners"; they have acquired a basic tool for survival in a changing economy.

"Managers," Puryear emphasizes, "will need to be leaders — flexible, entrepreneurial and skilled at adapting to new forces. The ability to learn, to apply theories to new variables and constraints will be crucial to the success of a manager."

And managers, in both public and private sectors, will need "a common base of economic and decision-making skills — which goes directly to the heart of Atkinson's integrated management training philosophy.

"Complex organizations operating in an environment of constant change and political pressures need managers who can do more than crunch numbers," Puryear claims. "They need people who can get things done. The Atkinson curriculum offers a unique blend of skills and experiences which helps students become decision makers."

It's true that other business schools are moving closer to the Atkinson model of integrated management training. But particularly in the Northwest, Puryear emphasizes, Atkinson offers the "premier" program.

If the Northwest is to survive a long stretch of economic flux, Puryear is among many who believe it is essential for the region to be capable of training, and retaining, its own entrepreneurial talent — the Howard Vollums of tomorrow.

"If we have to export our students to get managerial training," Puryear warns, "the odds are against them returning and making significant contributions to the economy of the Northwest."

If Dave Puryear has a frustration in his first year as Atkinson dean, it is the lack of time to tell more people the school's story.

Small, yes.

New, yes.

There's no doubt that Atkinson needs to grow and to extend its reputation. Those are Puryear's twin goals for his second year as dean.

But if change is the wave of the Northwest's economic future, Dave Puryear has no doubt that Atkinson is poised to capitalize on that future.

CHERYL KUHN

Twenty years together

Representatives from two institutions of higher education — one in Oregon and one in Japan — spent the week of March 7-13 celebrating two decades of international friendship and cooperation.

Willamette hosted dignitaries from its sister college, Kokusai Shoka Daigaku (ICC) for a series of events in both Salem and Portland. Festivities included a March 10 formal dinner at the Portland Hilton, where Oregon leaders turned out to welcome the Japanese delegation. From top: guest of honor Yasuo Kaneko, ICC vice president, poses with Salem Mayor Sue Harris and Consul General Shosaku Tanaka; gubernatorial candidate Norma Paulus, a Willamette alumna and part-time faculty member, greets Shosaku; WU President Jerry E. Hudson and Vice President Kaneko share dinner conversation.

Alumni Days '86

Variety of entertainments on tap

The campus will be sporting a new centerpiece — the nearly completed Mark O. Hatfield Library — when alumni return to Willamette for May 9-11 reunion and commencement festivities.

The library interior will be several weeks from completion and, therefore, off-limits to visitors. However, the building's finished exterior should be a considerable source of interest in itself. Its physical domination of the campus, its 57-foot clocktower offsetting the horizontal lines of the library building, along with the sheer strength and beauty of the brick and glass facade, should provide inspiration for the dreamer as well as encouragement for the amateur photographer.

For those interested in a more detailed, down-to-earth look at the new library and its special features, university librarian Sandra Weronko will present a program for alumni at 2 p.m. Saturday.

Other activities will get underway Friday afternoon with the beginning of registration in Putnam University Center, followed by a 5 p.m. reception in the Hallie Brown Ford Gallery for retiring art professor Carl Hall.

Saturday morning offers a variety of activities: for the athletic, an 8 a.m. fun run through Bush Park; for the business-minded, an 8 a.m. meeting of the Alumni Association Board; and for the hungry, the traditional 9 a.m. Alumni Breakfast. As always, the breakfast will give alumni a chance to meet and talk with current and former Willamette faculty members.

At 10 a.m., alumni can go back to school, choosing two of three mini-courses offered by instructors from the College of Liberal Arts, the College of Law and the Atkinson Graduate School of Management. This year's courses are: "Halley's Comet," taught by physics professor Maurice Stewart; an introduction to the issue of products liability, by law professor Kathy Graham; and a look at forecasting and how it can improve business success, by management professor Bruce Gates.

Saturday activities continue with a noon luncheon in the Cat Cavern, class reunions, and a 3 p.m. honors recital by music students. At 5:30 p.m., alumni are invited to a University Center reception honoring the five Alumni Citation recipients for 1986 — WENDELL KECK '30, JOSEPH BLANCHARD '37, TOM OYE '41, ROBERT VOIGT '42 and TONY MEEKER '61.

Beginning at 6:30 p.m. is the traditional Alumni Banquet, highlighted by presentation of the Alumni Citations and other awards. Willamette President Jerry E. Hudson will deliver the keynote address for the evening.

In addition to major events, campus tours, movies and recreational opportunities at Sparks Center, Alumni Days '86 will offer returning graduates plenty of time just to relax and enjoy Willamette once again. Activities carrying into Sunday include: a 9:30 buffet brunch in the Cat Cavern; the 11 a.m. baccalaureate, featuring talks by graduating seniors and a service led by Chaplain Charlie Wallace; and, of course, the 1986 Commencement ceremony, beginning at 3 p.m. in McCulloch Stadium.

For additional information on weekend activities, contact the Office of Alumni Relations, (503) 370-6340.

Directory research under way

Work on the Willamette Alumni Directory is well underway. Soon all alumni will receive a brief questionnaire with a follow-up request to be sent one month later. The prompt return of these questionnaires is essential so that the information in the directory will be current and complete.

Alumni then will be contacted directly by the Harris Publishing Company to verify information and to see whether they wish to purchase a copy. Alumni with current addresses who have not responded to the questionnaire and are not reached by phone by the Harris representatives, will appear in the directory with the information provided by alumni records.

Watch for your questionnaire and be sure to return it promptly.

Native son to address Class of '86

Thomas A. Bartlett, Salem native son and distinguished Willamette alumnus, will come "home" this May to deliver the university's 144th commencement address.

Chancellor of the University of Alabama System, Dr. Bartlett will speak to the Class of 1986 during 3 p.m. graduation exercises Sunday, May 11, at McCulloch Stadium.

An outstanding Willamette student from 1947 to 1949, Dr. Bartlett transferred in his junior year to Stanford University, where he earned his A.B. in 1951. Selected as a Rhodes Scholar, he went on to study at Oxford, earning an M.A. in 1953.

From 1956 to 1963 he served as a political and security affairs advisor to the U.S. Permanent Mission to the United Nations. Reporting directly to Ambassadors Henry Cabot Lodge and Adlai Stevenson, he served both Republican and Democratic administrations as "action officer" for: Arab-Israeli disputes; Independent African States disputes, including the Congo crisis of 1960-63; disarmament; and, following the death of Dag Hammarskjold, the election of the U.N. Secretary General. Writing his dissertation on "The United Nations Secretariat at Work," he received his doctorate in international relations from Stanford in 1959.

In 1963, at the age of 33, he was named president of American University in Cairo. During Bartlett's six-year tenure, the university survived the threat of nationalization by the Egyptian government, and tripled the size of its student body and its campus.

Dr. Thomas Bartlett '51

From 1969 to 1977, Dr. Bartlett served as president of Colgate University in Hamilton, NY. From 1977 to 1982, he was president of the Association of American Universities, an organization concerned with federal research funding and with other national issues affecting universities.

Since 1982, Dr. Bartlett has headed the three-campus, 35,000-student University of Alabama System. Active in both professional and community affairs, he is chairman of the Alabama Shakespeare Theatre Finance Authority, a trustee of both American University, Cairo, and Universities Field Staff International. His directorships range from the Alabama Research Institute to the Tuscaloosa Chamber of Commerce. He holds five honorary doctorates — four from U.S. institutions and one from Pusan National University, Pusan, South Korea. In 1972, his accomplishments in the field of education were recognized by fellow Willamette alumni, who presented him with an Alumni Citation.

Schay to lead alumni in '87 tour of Russia

Willamette Professor of Russian Magda Schay has agreed to conduct alumni on another tour of the Soviet Union for four weeks in the summer of 1987.

Due to the Russian history focus of the upcoming tour, the '87 itinerary will differ markedly from Professor Schay's 1985 tour itinerary. Current plans call for stops in Leningrad, Novogorod, Kiev, Tashkent, Samarkand, Irkutsk, Novosibirsk, Moscow and Helsinki. Travel will be via plane, bus and Trans-Siberian Railroad.

Estimated cost of the trip, tentatively planned for the month of June, is $3,600 per person. For additional information, write to Prof. Schay in care of Alumni Relations, Willamette University, Salem, OR 97301.

Advice sought

The board of directors of the Willamette University Alumni Association seeks the help of alumni in identifying deserving recipients of the 1987 Alumni Citation.

Each fall, award winners are selected from names placed in nomination by their fellow Willamette alums. Nomination letters should include a general description of the nominee's family life, educational achievements, civic activities and career accomplishments.

Please send nominations to the Committee on Nominations, Records & Achievements, Office of Alumni Relations, Willamette University, Salem, OR 97301.

25

JENNELLE VANDEVORT MOORHEAD, a retired university professor, directed a seminar last summer on the Amazon River, and another in Brazil in 1984, for Portland State University. Her son George is acting director of California Emergency Medical Service and her son Bruce is a history teacher.

26

LOIS NYE SATCHWELL was married in 1985 to Dr. Gerald Shepherd, a Simpson College alumnus. They now reside in Laguna Hills, CA.

DR. C. GILBERT WRENN, professor emeritus of psychology at Arizona State University, is one of 30 psychologists traveling to China this May at the invitation of the Chinese Medical Society. The delegation is sponsored by the Citizen Ambassador Program of International People to People. Gilbert and his wife, KATHLEEN LARAUT WRENN '24, a retired teacher, live in Tempe.

27

HAZEL R. NEWHOUSE is president of the Geological Society of the Oregon Country and also serves on the boards of the U.S.-China People's Friendship Association, Oregon Retired Educators, and Overseas Educators. Hazel is also active in the Oregon Historical Society and the English Speaking Union, and organizes tours for retired educators.

retired Educators, and Overseas Educators. Hazel is also active in the Oregon Historical Society and the English Speaking Union, and organizes tours for retired educators.

29

Since retirement, BERNICE JACKSON HOFFMAN has lived in Hood River where she supervises the operations of pear and cherry orchards and a Christmas tree farm. She received the first Century Farm Award in Hood River County for Jackson Farm, homesteaded in 1871. Bernice was chairman of the Hood River County Historical Museum Board during construction of a new museum, and now serves as director of exhibits.

30

LEAH FENNING HATTWICK
5544 SE HILLWOOD CIRCLE
MILWAUKIE, OR 97222

LOISE BENJAMIN GARDNER writes that both she and REV. EVERETT H. GARDNER '29 are in good health. Everett, a retired United Methodist minister, celebrated his 80th birthday in June, 1985.

32

ISABEL CHILDS ROSEBRAUGH
5342 LIBERTY RD SE
SALEM, OR 97306

NewsCat ISABEL CHILDS ROSEBRAUGH reports that LLOYD GIROD is at it again! His handwritten, personal letters to class members may have earned him the title of best communicator among class presidents. He has kept interest stirred, and plans to call a planning committee meeting this spring to make arrangements for the class's 55-year reunion in 1987. He welcomes input from any '32 alumni who may reach him at Rt. 1, Box 237, Lyons, OR 97358.

FAYE HENDERSON retired in 1974 after a 41-year career in social work administration. A resident of Olympia, WA, she is active with United Way.

PERRY N. SPELBRINK retired in 1975 after teaching 40 years at the high school level and three years at WU during World War II. Currently he is running a 12-acre orchard in Salem. Perry writes: "I am very proud of many past students who have achieved great records in scientific and engineering fields." Perry and his wife Velma have four children.

33

BERNICE RICKMAN GORDON writes from Venice, FL, that she and her husband Stanley are finally recovering from the effects of the devastating tornado of March 17, 1985. They were unharmed physically, but their home was demolished.

36

HELEN KEUDELL JONES
1590 JEFFERSON NE
SALEM, OR 97303

NewsCat HELEN KEUDELL JONES issues this reminder: "As all of you know, this coming May 9-11 shall be our 50th class reunion. Those of us working on it are tossing lots of ideas around for making it one very special event. Please fill out the card enclosed with John Ross' class letter. We need the data to complete a directory for

Third Annual

Midsummer Night's MUSICALE

with Chamber Music
Northwest

Wednesday, July 23, 1986

Dinner

6:30 p.m.

Concert

8:00 p.m.

the reunion and your response determines how complete it will be. I'm pleased to report that professors Egbert Oliver, Cecil Monk and Daniel Schulze plan to be our guests at our class luncheon, May 10. JERYME UPSTON ENGLISH will host an informal party Friday at her home. I hope all of you come to this reunion."

Helen also writes:

MARGARET HAGG BIANCO moved in May, 1985, from Alameda, CA, to Willamette View Manor in Portland. She has two daughters and one grandson.

LEONARD S. CLARK and his wife, Helen Marie Nelson, celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary Sept. 29. They have two sons and two grandsons. For 49 years he has been a United Methodist minister.

MARY NELSON HILTON, a classmate for two years at WU, received her B.A. and M.A. in economics from the University of Oregon, and then served as a deputy director, Women's Bureau, U.S. Department of Labor. She retired in 1981 and now makes her home in Florida. She has one daughter, two sons and one grandson.

ROBERT JEFFCOTT has been practicing dentistry in Portland for 40 years. He has one daughter, two sons and five grandchildren.

WILFRED ORR writes that he plans to attend the 50th reunion. After his WU graduation, he did four years of graduate work, earning his B.D. and M.A. from the University of California. He served four years as a pastor and three years as a Navy chaplain before going on to other religious and secular work. He and his wife Ione, a nurse, have two sons, one daughter and five grandchildren.

LOUISE ANDERSON VERNON will be coming to the reunion and has made a generous contribution to the university in behalf of our class. Of her 13 juvenile historical fiction books, she reports that 11 are currently in print.

37

Former Methodist minister and marriage counselor WARREN PETERS writes that he and his wife Jean observed their 51st anniversary Sept. 9. He recalls he was the only married student at WU when he arrived on campus in September, 1934. He reported for football practice the day after his marriage in Portland's old Centenary-Wilbur Methodist Church.

DR. WILFRED SUTTON retired as professor of health science from the University of California at Los Angeles and California State University at Northridge and is looking forward to attending his 50th class reunion. Wilfred and wife Ruth have two sons — one a teacher and the other a lawyer — in addition to three grandchildren who brighten their lives.

38

OTTO WILSON
540 LESLIE ST. SE
SALEM, OR 97301

Having recently moved to the coastal community of Yachats, OR, CHARLOTTE LITCHFIELD DIXON and husband Lorne are enjoying their retirement. The Dixons have two sons, Bruce who lives in Portland and Dr. JIM DIXON '64 who lives in Bremerton, WA; six grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

BARBARA CROOKHAM EULER and husband Harry are both retired and enjoying traveling. Barbara is active in the Presbyterian Church and has served 16 years as a volunteer sex education teacher and interviewer for Planned Parenthood. The Eulers have three children, JAMES '68, CONSTANCE EULER HARRIS '69 and Gordon.

CHARLOTTE EYRE HUNT writes that she and her husband Ivan are retired and living on their farm near Lincoln, CA, but have leased the land to Fowler Nurseries. Their son Charles is an instructor of physics and astronomy and their daughter Elaine is an assistant professor of veterinary medicine.

Retired secondary English teacher UNA LEE KRUSE writes news of her Lausanne roommate, MILDRED CONLON KEMP, a medical technician and Braille transcriber. Mildred lives with her husband Vincent on Bainbridge Island, WA.

39

LOIS BURTON CLEVELAND writes that she and husband Harlan have just moved for the 20th time — this time into a downtown condominium in Minneapolis, MN. Their children are all grown and over 40.

DR. RAYNOR SMITH is state chaplain of the American Legion, and pastor of the First Congregational Church in Astoria, OR. He has an M.A. from Boston University and a Ph.D. from the University of Southern California. Raynor and wife Gay reside in Astoria.

41

OSCAR LEONARD DONALDSON JR., semi-retired after "a long career in government and a short one in teaching," now has a part-time career in financial and retirement planning. Oscar and wife Suzanne live in Salinas, CA, and have two daughters, Jill and Jane.

Gladden remembered

The Sigma Tau Memorial Scholarship Fund was enriched recently by a contribution from LOIS GLADDEN ROBERTS '43 in memory of her brother, G. ROSS GLADDEN '37, President of Sigma Tau in 1936-37. Ross was killed in an automobile accident the year following his graduation from Willamette.

The Sigma Tau Memorial Scholarship Fund is a permanent endowment established last year by surviving members of the university's oldest fraternity. COE ROBERTS '43, Lois' husband, is also a contributor to the scholarship fund.

42

MARGARET SEGMUND WILSON
840 LESLIE ST. SE
SALEM, OR 97301

WINSTON H. TAYLOR is manager of the Maryland-Delaware-Washington, D.C. Press Association, in College Park, MD, and is on the adjunct faculty of the College of Journalism, University of Maryland. He and wife Betty live in Silver Springs, MD, and have five children. Winston recently was elected an honorary member of the National Religious Public Relations Council.

43

DOROTHY PADDOCK EASTLUND is retired and living in Portland. She and husband Lyle have two sons, Paul and Carl, and last October became grandparents for the first time.

BETTY SACKETT WILLIAMS is a social worker at Providence Medical Center in Portland. She plans to retire in July to devote her time to traveling with her husband; establishing a private practice in social work; and enjoying her eight grandchildren.

44

JANET JOHNSON DIETZ retired Sept. 30 as senior vice president of Canby Union Bank. She hopes to do some traveling and have more time to spend with her family (including two sons and two daughters) and her WU friends.

PAUL E. LIBBY is retired and lives in Portland with his wife MARY ACHESON LIBBY '45, a portrait artist. In 1985 the Libbys took a trip to Japan and China with a tour group which included Paul's brother and other family from Michigan. The Libbys have three children, Walter, Molly and Paul Frederick.

46

Retired humanist DAVID C. DEMETER is now "following a life of ease," playing golf and traveling. He and wife Louise, who attended Willamette for one year, have three children and eight grandchildren.

47

MARION ERICKSON HOOD teaches piano and voice at Northwest College in Kirkland, WA, and also teaches a contemporary jazz appreciation class at Central Washington University. She has four children and eight grandchildren.

MARGARET GEISLER SHIPMAN is a counselor and housemother for a boys' dorm at a "Youth With A Mission" Discipleship Training School in Junction City, OR. She went on a two-month outreach last year in Guatemala and was planning another outreach this year in the Philippines.

Physician and administrator DR. THOMAS L. STERN is a self-employed consultant living in Fernandina Beach, FL, with wife GLADYS CRAWFORD STERN '44. They have three children and three grandchildren.

DR. MARJORIE BEADLES TUELL, a homemaker and hymnologist, lives in Glendale, CA, with her husband Jack. She is one of 25 persons elected to revise the Book of Hymns for the United Methodist Church. The new hymnal will be presented to the United Methodist General Conference in 1988.

48

PATRICIA HAVERTY, retired and living in Fresno, CA, has traveled to Europe and Canada and is finding it difficult not to get too busy.

DR. WARD C. MILES retired this year after more than 30 years as a physician with the Group Health Cooperative of Puget Sound. He is still very active on the state Health Coordinating Council. He and wife Alice live in Olympia and are planning an extended trip to the South Pacific. They have four children.

49

LEE E. BALDWIN JR. and wife Helen live in Grants Pass, OR. Lee was school district superintendent when he retired and now is enjoying traveling, puttering around home, and doing some community work. The Baldwins have five children.

50

Artist CHERIE RAINES BONESTEEL is now retired from the Statesman-Journal newspaper in Salem. Recently elected to membership in the guild of the Historical Society of Early American Design, she also conducts classes at her studio.

51

SHIRLEY AMBLER BECKETT is a social worker in Lake Villa, IL. She comes to Oregon once a year to visit her three children and in time plans to retire in Portland.

COL. LEONARD J. MCCOY retired from the Army in 1970 after serving in World War II, Korea and Vietnam. He is a founder of Synoptic Systems, Inc., a computer software firm. He and wife Louise have five children and live in Carmel, CA. They visit Salem once a year for the McCoy family reunion.

ELEANORA LOVELESS STALEY is a third grade teacher and assistant principal at O'Neill School in Klamath Falls, OR. She and her husband Gale enjoy boating and fishing in their spare time. They have three children.

MARIE GLASSE TAPP lives in Seattle with her husband Jesse. She is employed by M.G.T. Ceramic Design and Restoration, doing tile work on buildings being remodeled, restored or newly constructed. The Tapps have five children.

CLASS NOTES

MERRITT E. WOOD has retired from teaching after 32 years. He now makes his home in Wilbur, WA.

52

ROSE MARIE WILHOIT CUNNINGHAM edits novelizations of TV soap operas. She and her husband Chet have three children and live in San Diego, CA.

CLIFF GIROD recently was honored by the Keizer Merchants Association as 1985 Educator of the Year. Cliff has been with the Salem School District since 1959, when he became a math teacher and coach at South Salem High School. Now a counselor at McNary High School, he has been involved with many student activities from the track team to the prom committee. He and wife Jeanie live in Salem. They have five children.

GLENN E. HALLIDAY has retired from Sperry Corporation after 30 years of service. He and his wife BARBARA KEMMERICH HALLIDAY recently moved to Salem from Salt Lake City. They have two children.

BEVERLY TRIBBLE MARKOSKIE recently returned from a month's visit to New Zealand, Australia and Tasmania. Currently she is the U.S. Customs inspector at Hickam Air Force Base in Honolulu. Her job entails helicopter rides, boarding ships at sea and meeting all military aircraft from foreign ports. Beverly's four daughters and their six children all live on Oahu and keep her very busy.

53

ROBERT W. ATKINSON recently retired as manager for Gates Rubber Co. to become more active in small business ventures. He and his wife Patricia plan to spend some time sailing in Maui and enjoying their five grandchildren. The Atkinsons have seven grown children, among them AVIS J. DICK '72.

REV. JUNE CHRISTENSEN CLINE is pastor of First Christian Church in White Hall, IL. Ordained in 1972, she still maintains her registration as a professional nurse.

After teaching school for 32 years (29 years at Parkrose High in Portland), JAMES F. GAY has retired and is now selling real estate.

CONGRESSMAN ROBERT F. SMITH has received Sigma Chi Fraternity's highest honor for outstanding professional achievements. Congressman from Oregon's Second District, Bob served in the Oregon House of Representatives for 22 years, including four years as speaker, and was later the Oregon Senate Republican Leader.

you can help
Willamette University

- I am interested in learning about how I can include Willamette in my estate plan. Please send me information about:
  - Bequests to Willamette
  - Gifts of real estate
  - Gift annuities
  - Gifts of life insurance
  - Pooled life income fund
  - Class endowment program
  - Charitable remainder trusts
  - Other (please specify)

- I would appreciate the opportunity to talk personally with a representative of Willamette University.

Name _____

Street Address _____

City _____ State _____ Zip _____

Phone _____ Class Year _____

Send to:
Dr. Harry Manley
Director of Planned Giving
Willamette University
Salem, Oregon 97301

54

LAYTON J. GILSON is a physical therapist at Salem Hospital. His wife MARY JO EWELL GILSON '55 is a homemaker and artist. They have three sons, MIKE '80, STEVE '84 and Tom.

MARY ALICE ANDRESEN JANIS has been teaching first grade at Palm River School in Tampa, FL, for 18 years. She and her husband Robert enjoy year-round camping in Florida state parks. They have two children.

DR. DONALD A. MORRISON is an orthopedic surgeon in private practice in Baltimore, MD. He specializes in reconstructive adult surgery and sports medicine. He and wife Jeannine have three children.

PASTOR MAYNARD L. NELSON has been senior pastor for 12 years at Calvary Lutheran Church of Golden Valley in Minneapolis. He is a member of the board of regents for Augsburg College and the board of trustees for Fairview Hospital. Maynard and wife Nancy have five children.

55

One of eight Oregonians considered for a position on the Oregon Supreme Court, the HON. R.T. GOODING was a law clerk for the Supreme Court in 1958-59, before moving to La Grande and going into private practice. He has been a Union/Wallawa Circuit Court judge since 1984.

56

DEAN BENSON teaches in Medford, OR, and JUDY MORTZ BENSON is a bookkeeper for Medford Medical Supply. Last summer Dean went to China and Korea as a track coach for Oregon and Washington athletes in the International Sports Exchange.

MARION GAY KENT BOSSART is office manager for St. Andrew United Methodist Church in Denver, CO. She will be accompanying her husband Donald, a seminary professor, on his six-month study leave to Europe this spring and summer. The Bossarts have three children.

U.S. AIR FORCE COL. BILL FREEMAN and his wife Evelyn reside in Falls Church, VA. The Freemans have been married nearly 30 years and have two adult children living in Seattle.

57

JOHN EDMUNDSON is a teacher for Morrow County Schools in Heppner, OR. He changed his assignment from district assistant superintendent to junior high math teacher for the 1985-86 school year. John and his wife Patricia, who also teaches school, have three children.

PATSY WILLIAMS MOORE is a homemaker and does volunteer work in Palo Alto, CA, where she lives with her husband Henry, an astrogeologist for NASA. Their son DANIEL '82 recently spent two years in the Peace Corps in Africa. A daughter LAURA is now a freshman at Willamette. Another son Donald attended the University of California.

MARILYN ISAAK SCAPANSKI and her husband Gene, dean of the College of St. Thomas in St. Paul, MN, are moving to Rome, Italy, for a two-year sabbatical beginning in August. They have two children.

DONNA ROHLFING WOOD is a substitute teacher in the Lompoc, CA, school district and also teaches English as a second language to adults in the evening. Donna was expecting her third grandchild in February.

Portland attorney DOUGLAS C. HOUSER has been elected to the board of directors of the American Judicature Society, a national organization for improvement of the courts. Vice chairman of the American Bar Association's Tort and Insurance Practice Section, Doug is a fellow of the American College of Trial Lawyers and the American Bar Foundation and he has received a President's Certificate of Appreciation for Outstanding Service from the Defense Research Institute. He also has served on the board of governors of the Oregon State Bar and the State Board of Bar Examiners.

58

LT. COL. LARRY C. MARTIN, recently retired from the Air Force, is now a systems engineer with Eaton Corp. in Springfield, VA. He is working on projects for the Defense Intelligence Agency, and lives in Woodbridge, VA.

STEPHEN G. NASON is living in Mesa, AZ, with his wife Theresa, and is enjoying retirement to its fullest. They have one son.

Miller now full-time writer

Greenwood Press has just published Politics, Democracy and the Supreme Court: Essays on the Frontier of Constitutional Theory by DR. ARTHUR S. MILLER '38, professor emeritus of law, George Washington University. Dr. Miller took early retirement in 1978 and moved to Key West to become a full-time writer. He is a frequent contributor to legal periodicals, and to general circulation newspapers and magazines on constitutional law subjects. He published three books in 1984 alone, and is now co-editing a book of original essays to be published this year, titled Corporations and Society: Power and Responsibility. In 1984, he was selected to deliver the 36th annual John Randolph Tucker Lecture at Washington & Lee University Law School. His wife Dagmar also is a writer.

59

LAURA BUTCHART HANEY is a homemaker and community volunteer in Portland. Laura and her husband, Dr. Robert Haney, have three children: HANCE '85; LISA, a WU senior and president of Alpha Chi Omega; and Kristin.

DR. ANNE LASSWELL NAGEL, a professor at San Diego State University, was selected last May as outstanding professor in the School of Teacher Education. She serves as team leader for an elementary credential program which has been selected as one of three finalists for the National Association of Teacher Educators "Distinguished Program Award." She and husband Dr. Thomas Nagel, also a university professor, have two children and live in El Cajon, CA.

R. GREGORY NOKES married Rita Flynn on Oct. 19. They reside in Alexandria, VA. Greg is diplomatic correspondent in Washington, D.C., for The Associated Press and covered the 1985 summit conference of President Reagan and Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev in Geneva.

DOROTHY ROHLFING WHITESIDE is a professor of nursing for the North Orange County Community College District, Fullerton, CA. She was awarded a sabbatical leave for the fall of 1985 to study home health care. She has two children.

60

DR. JOHN O. BERGSTROM has been elected chairman of the Oregon Section of the American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists, a three-year term he began serving in October. John is in private practice in Portland where he is affiliated with St. Vincent Hospital and Medical Center. He also is an associate clinical professor of obstetrics and gynecology at the Oregon Health Sciences University. For the past three years, John has served as the Oregon Section's vice chairman and is a member of numerous medical societies, including the American Fertility Society and the Gynecologic Urology Society.

DR. DONNISE E. BROWN, principal of Davis Elementary School in Portland, is serving as president of the Oregon Association of School Supervisors, and as a member of the board of the Confederation of Oregon School Administrators. She has three children.

COL. JOHN R. SWEENEY is professor of aerospace studies at Norwich University, where he enjoys teaching future Air Force officers. His home is in Northfield, VT.

61

DR. SAMMIE LOU BARKER MCCORMACK is coordinator of curriculum and instruction at the San Diego County Office of Education. She is involved in the assessment of local schools and the implementation of "effective schools research" at the local level.

DR. WILLIAM L. RICHTER and DR. LINDA CLARK RICHTER '64 are political science professors at Kansas State University, where Linda recently was promoted and granted tenure. William spent the summer in India doing research on Indian foreign policy and security perceptions. Linda and their son Robert attended the Decade on Women Conference in Nairobi. Then they all met in Paris for the International Political Science meetings.

62

SUSAN KEECH COULTER lives in Woodland Hills, CA, with her husband, Dr. James Coulter. They have two sons, Edwin and JAIME, now in his freshman year at Willamette College of Law.

LAUREL RATCLIFF TALABERE is an associate professor at Capital University, Columbus, OH, and HERBERT F. TALABERE '59 is chief of the program support branch of the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development. They have three children. Laurel is on sabbatical this spring, completing work for her Ph.D. in health education.

Robinson: making the best of life

For more than 20 years, coach JIM ROBINSON '61 has been telling his teams to "make something positive out of even the worst of situations." Willamette's 1961 second team All-American football tackle has had to apply his coaching philosophy to his own life since he was diagnosed in 1983 as having multiple sclerosis.

Football, track and cross country coach at Roseburg High School, Jim has led his teams to many a state competition and to a most impressive overall record. His boys' track team carried a 36-meet winning streak into the 1986 season; his boys' cross country teams have won seven district titles in 13 years and have an 87 percent win record; his girls' cross country team placed eighth in state last fall, with a 72 percent win record.

An active athlete himself, Jim has had to slow down substantially during the past two years. He walks with a cane, tires easily and relies heavily on his coaching assistants.

An extensive Nov. 19 feature article in the Oregonian depicted Jim out on the track with his runners, preaching a positive outlook and "abhorring" expressions of sympathy or "negative thoughts."

"Those are the breaks," he was quoted as saying. "I'm going to live life as best I can."

62 CONTINUED

BETTY STEPHENS KARSTEN is a dog trainer, employed by Fickett Racing Kennels, Mounds, OK. Betty races greyhounds in Florida during the winter and in Arkansas during the summer.

SUSIE WILLIAMS KAYLOR, a program consultant for the California Community Colleges Chancellor's Office, coordinates foster parent training in 66 community colleges. A resident of Fair Oaks, she also works part-time as a licensed marriage and family counselor. Her husband Ron died of a heart attack shortly after retirement from the Air Force in October, 1982.

MARCIA RUBY DOUGLAS has been elected president of the Oregon Council on Economic Education. Founded in 1957, the council is an organization of education, business and government leaders devoted to improving the understanding of economics among Oregon citizens. Marcia is employed by the city of Portland to serve as liaison between the schools and the city. She is married to JIM DOUGLAS '64, supervisor of photography and audio-visual services for the Port of Portland. They have two sons, JACK, a Willamette freshman, and Andy.

63

JOHN BAKER, coordinator of counseling at Ohlone College, was elected to the Fremont City Council on Nov. 5. He will serve a four-year term. Fremont, one of 97 cities in the San Francisco Bay Area, is the fourth largest. John serves on the Instruction Commission of the California Association of Community Colleges and is president of the California Community College Counseling Association. John and his wife Vicki have three children.

College counselor and French teacher at The Catlin Gabel School, GAIL DURHAM currently serves as regional president of the Pacific Northwest Association of College Admission Counselors. Last October she presented a paper on women's concerns in her profession at the national convention in Cincinnati. She has two sons and lives in Portland with her husband, E. Benno Philippson.

Superintendent of Schools in Haines, STEPHEN T. MCPHETRES was recently elected president of the Alaska Council of School Administrators as well as president of the Alaska Association of School Administrators. These organizations represent 500 principals and superintendents across the state. He and his wife Janice have two children.

Dallas-based commercial composer DAVE ROBERTSON was tapped to write a series of custom arrangements for the Dallas Symphony Orchestra. The arrangements were performed Feb. 18 upon presentation of the Winston Churchill Award to H. Ross Perot by Prince Charles of Great Britain.

COL. JOHN S. ROGERS pilots C-141's and, as deputy commander, is engaged in special operations for the U.S. Air Force. John, his wife June and their two children live in Charleston, SC.

ELAINE PFLUGMACHER WICK is a social worker for Alaska Child Protective Services. Prior to living in Eagle River, AK, Elaine and her husband Jim, an Air Force colonel, lived in Japan. They have a son James.

Retired after 20 years as an Air Force officer and pilot, DICK LORD went to work in 1983 as a stockbroker with Merrill Lynch in San Antonio, TX. He made the President's Club his first year and he is at the very top of the nation with his Merrill Lynch peer group. He plays lots of tennis and enjoys flying in his own Piper Warrior. He and his wife Ginger have two daughters.

64

JERRY BAKER FLETCHER is a mental health counselor and an adjunct professor at Heritage College in Toppenish, WA. She received both Washington State Association for Counseling and Development Leadership Awards in 1985, and is western region representative on the national board of the American Mental Health Counselors Association. Jerry and her husband John live in Prosser, WA.

At the request of the Ministry of Culture of the People's Republic of China, GEOFFREY RUTKOWSKI visited six Chinese cities last April giving master classes in cello and recitals at the conservatories of music. His travels included Beijing, Xi'an, Chongqing, Wuhan and Guangzhou, where he taught students of advanced abilities. His recitals were met with acclaim and plans are underway for a return visit to these and other cities in China. JOAN BARBER RUTKOWSKI '61 also visited the Chinese conservatories, offering master classes in opera and art song. She has been the adjudicator for the Los Angeles Opera Guild as well as the Ventura Symphony competition.

BARBARA WOODWORTH SAIGO is a self-employed biologist for Saiwood Resources for Biology Education in Cedar Falls, IA. Since last May, when she was at WU to receive an Alumni Citation, Barbara has been appointed research associate to the University of Northern Iowa Biology Department. She is teaching a semester of "Careers in Biology" this spring; she and her husband Roy are completing their second textbook; and she is also doing some speaking and consulting. The Saigos have three children.

65

TONI LEISURE UNFRED
2417 RANCH DRIVE
SPRINGFIELD, OR 97477

DR. GARY A. BERGERON has been a cardiologist in Palm Springs, CA, since 1978. Prior to that time he was on the Harvard Medical School faculty and directed the Cardiac Catheterization Laboratory at Beth Israel Hospital in Boston. He and his wife Sherry have one daughter.

CLASS NOTES

ARLENE RICE DIETZ is an economist for the U.S. Army Engineer Institute for Water Resources in Virginia. She recently completed the 10-month American Political Science Association Congressional Fellowship for Executives program, serving as legislative assistant to Sen. Abdnor of South Dakota, chairman of the subcommittee on Water Resources. Arlene also served as technical program leader for the American Water Resources Association exchange with People's Republic of China. She was elected president-elect for 1986 of the American Water Resources Association and was named to the board of the Agricultural Section of Transportation Research Forum. Arlene and her husband Charles have two boys and live in Alexandria, VA.

MAJ. B. HUNTER DIXON is in the U.S. Air Force, enjoying an assignment with NATO in Naples, Italy. He and his wife Ginny have two children.

BARRY C. HOWARD is a computer programmer at Lawrence Livermore National Laboratory and his wife BONNIE BROWN HOWARD '66 is a reference librarian at the Livermore Public Library. In May, 1985, they adopted Jill, age 7, from Korea. She joined a brother Chris and sister Robin.

MARY SCHWYHART INMAN is still showing Appaloosa horses, and working with stained glass and painting. She is very active in church work. Mary and her husband Robert have two children and live in Parker, CO.

KATHRYN DEWAR KEEFE resides in Wilmette, IL, with her husband Andrew and their five children. Kathryn expects to attend the 25th reunion of her class in 1990, and hopes that many of her classmates attend.

GEORGE KOCH is retired from the U.S. Air Force after serving 20 years. George is now a self-employed contractor and lives in Phoenix with his wife Mary and three children.

YUKINAO MIZUTA, vice president of the First National Bank of Chicago, heads the Japan Marketing Group of his firm's International Banking Group. Yukinao and his wife Takako reside in Winnetka, IL, with their three children.

PETER M. RUOTSI is a vice president for Xerox Systems Group in Los Angeles. He and his wife Susie live at Rancho Palos Verdes with their two children.

JOHN G. SCHWARTZ is an attorney with Nagle, Vale, McDowall, Cotter and Schwartz in San Mateo, CA. John has been elected vice president and president-elect of the San Mateo County Bar Association for 1986. He and his wife Joanne have one daughter.

LT. COL. STEPHEN A. SMITH is squadron commander of the 2148 Information Systems Squadron at Ellsworth Air Force Base in Rapid City, SD. Prior to this assignment he was stationed for four years in Hawaii. Stephen is very active with the youth group at his church. He and wife Pam and two daughters extend an invitation to come and visit Mt. Rushmore.

A geologist for UNOCAL, RICHARD L. STEWART is working in development geology in two North Slope oil fields, Kuparuk and Duck Island. He returned briefly to Oregon and Washington last November, and was pleased to see MARV CASE. Richard and his wife Evelyn and two reside in Anchorage.

SALLY BRYANT STOCKWELL completed her master's degree at Lewis & Clark College before she and CHARLES STOCKWELL moved to Hudson, OH. Charles is manager of product marketing for the Paraflex division of Parker Hannifin Co. Sally is employed as a seventh grade teacher. They have one daughter who is a high school junior.

R. LAIR WELCH JR. has been an account manager for 20 years with the Boise Cascade container plant in Salem. Lair and his wife Charlene live in Portland with their two children.

budget director, and community development coordinator. In his most recent position, he was in charge of public housing, economic development and such redevelopment areas as the 600-acre Sky Harbor Center Industrial Park.

KAREN B. EVANS is employed by Marin General Hospital in Greenbrae, CA, as head nurse-manager of the orthopedic/neuro unit. She is also attending school at the University of San Francisco to get her B.S. in observational behavior.

WARD L. NELSON recently switched to full-time English teaching, after 18 years of music teaching, for the Vernonia, OR, school district. He is currently serving on the Diocesan Music Commission for the Episcopal Diocese of Oregon, and resides in Beaverton with his wife Pamela and son Mark.

DR. M. CATHARINE ATTERBURY NEWBURY, associate professor of government at Wesleyan University, Middletown, CT, has written a book, The Cohesion of Oppression: Colonialism and Class in Kinyaga, Rwanda, to be published by Columbia University Press this year. She and her husband Dave have one daughter.

A teacher of the hearing impaired for Portland Public Schools, BARBARA WHALIN OLSEN took a 1985-86 sabbatical to study at Portland State University for a handicapped learning certificate. She and her husband James have two sons.

GORDON K. SPRINGER, professor at the University of Missouri, spent the summer of '85 teaching computer science at Fudan University in Shanghai, China. He expects to go to Beijing University in China this summer, to teach and to travel with his daughter Erika.

---

66

KATHY NORRIS WORDEN
926 BRIGHTON AVE.
OREGON CITY, OR 97045

RAY BLADINE, director of Phoenix's Department of Urban Development and Housing, has been promoted to the position of deputy city manager. Ray began work with the city in 1968 as a management intern, and has served as assistant management and

---

67

KATHY KATO
3544 SE STEELE
PORTLAND, OR 97202

DR. LANAE ISAACSON is a visiting lecturer in Danish and Scandinavian studies at the University of Wisconsin in Madison.

MARY BAKER KRAMER, domestic engineer and school aide for Stonebridge Elementary School, Stillwater,

67 CONTINUED

MN, has been appointed regional director of the central division of the Bill Koch Ski League, a developmental cross-country ski program for 3- to 13-year-olds. Having just completed her first 10K cross-country race, Mary is convinced that "life begins at 40!"

DARYL DAIGLE LANDFAIR, financial consultant with Shearson Lehman Brothers in Portland, says she enjoyed seeing familiar faces at the Willamette Alumni Christmas Party in December. Daryl has two children, Gilyn and Erica.

JEFF SLOTTOW is a clerk-typist for the City of Los Angeles. He and his wife Joan have a son Edward.

JANET LOOMIS WITHYCOMBE is a homemaker and community volunteer worker. After 16 years Janet visited Willamette last July, and writes that she was most impressed with the new facilities. She lives with her husband Donald and two children in Lincroft, NJ.

68

A banker with Citicorp U.S.A., Inc., SUSAN J. CORCORAN now lives in Seattle, WA, and is enjoying renewing old friendships from her Willamette days. Her position with the bank takes her to Oregon frequently, and recently she had a chance to stroll through the Willamette campus and visit professors Shay and Morange.

SUSAN THOMPSON DELUCA, a teacher and therapist, recently entered into full-time private practice as a licensed marriage and family therapist in Las Vegas.

NANCY WINTZ DECHERD lives in Portland with her husband Jon and their two sons, Will and Ben. Nancy has her own CPA business and loves being self-employed.

DR. MARK OLSON of Rickreall, OR, has been appointed by Gov. Atiyeh to the Pesticide Analytical and Response Center. This center was formed to centralize information relating to alleged and actual health and environment incidents involving pesticides, to investigate the incidents and report the findings. Mark has been a family physician in McMinnville since 1977. He was in private family practice in Salem from 1976-77 and was a U.S. Navy general medical officer from 1973-76.

SHIRLEY BAIRD HERRICK is a computer consultant for the trust group of U.S. National Bank. She recently was appointed to chair the newly organized Oregon Commission on Child Care. Shirley, her husband Charles and two sons live in Sherwood, OR.

69

TERESA KRUG HUDKINS
ADMISSIONS OFFICE
WILLAMETTE UNIVERSITY

Newscat TERESA KRUG HUDKINS submits the following:

NANCY BERG DYKE writes from Japan where she and husband Bill still live with daughters Sarah and Rachel. On their way to Japan they enjoyed a visit in Germany with KIM FOSKETT DUNCAN.

ELAINE FRENCH is still living in Honolulu, although she is no longer with Pan American Airlines. After 17 years with PanAm she is now working for United.

DOUG and JOY GUSTAFSON GILMORE have returned to the Northwest from Australia. They are now living in Mercer Island, WA, where Doug is the vice president of sales and marketing for a new non-dairy, soft-serve fruit dessert company. Joy is working part-time, playing tennis, and keeping busy with daughters Chelsea and Alison.

ELTON GRAVES has been promoted to associate professor at Rose-Hulman Institute of Technology in Terre Haute, IN. He teaches courses, ranging from numerical analysis to differential equations.

DOUG HEATHERINGTON is the manager of the branch claims office for Farmers Insurance in Medford, OR. He and his wife Jody have a son and a daughter.

CYNTHIA WELSH OCHS is a legal assistant with Lowe and Berman law firm in Phoenix. She has two children, Heidi and Thor.

SHANA BECHTEL JOHNSTONE lives in Orinda, CA, with husband Clint and their four children, Evan, Kyle, Megan and Brady. Shana continues to be a good tennis player, equestrienne and school volunteer. She is very actively involved with the Head Royce School as well as with Brady's kindergarten class.

70

COURTNEY WEISBERG JOHNSON
1123 167TH AVE SE
BELLEVUE, WA 98008

DR. MACLYN L. CLOUSE is department chairman and associate professor of finance at the College of Business, University of Denver. LESLIE PETERSEN CLOUSE teaches kindergarten and is currently working on a master's degree in gifted education. Maclyn and Leslie have two children and reside in Aurora, CO.

LEE DOVING LITTLEFIELD has returned to teaching elementary school music. She and husband JON L '74 live in Charleston, OR, with son Peter and daughter Jane.

JOE W. MUCH is an attorney with Spooner & Much, P.C., in Salem. His softball team won the Salem City League Championship last summer, and Joe was named most valuable player of the tournament. He lives in Salem with wife Marilyn, and writes that he is "still smiling."

ROBERT J. WISNOM, a pilot for Eastern Metro Express, was transferred recently to Atlanta, GA, home base for his flights throughout the lower southeast United States. Robert and his wife Susan have four children and live in Satellite Beach, FL.

71

CARRIE OHLSON STEVENS
17014 NE 133 ST
REDMOND, WA 98052

DR. DEBORAH DAVIS is a self-employed biological consultant in partnership with her husband, Tim Hardin. She and Tim have one son, Glendon.

AL EDMONDS, a high school teacher in Woodburn, OR, has started his daughter Krista on home-schooling for first grade. He is involved in choir and teaching children's church at Newberg Christian Church. Al and his wife Lu Ann also have a son Jacob.

CLASS NOTES

DR. DAREN L. GOIN has a busy dental practice in Stayton, OR. He and his wife Sharon have three children.

NANCY C. WOLFF is a teacher at South Salem High School. She and her husband David Booth have a daughter Erica. Nancy also sends the following news of classmates:

KATHY HARTMAN HIBBARD, husband Larry and twin daughters have spent the last three school years in Eugene. Kathy has an M.A. in music pedagogy.

DARCY DAUBLE owns a bookstore in Pendleton.

where he assists British and European investors in acquiring U.S. companies and real estate.

JOYCE CATTERALL SLUSS lives in Kalamazoo, MI, with her husband Michael and their three children.

72

ANDREA CALLOW PEUPLE
3828 49TH NE
SEATTLE, WA 98105

BRUCE H. BURLINGTON is an investment banker for First Chicago Limited. He runs the London-based mergers and acquisitions office,

73

JOHN & DENISE ALLEN THOMPSON
3928 SW CASCADE AVE
CORVALLIS, OR 97330

Newscats JOHN and DENISE ALLEN THOMPSON have plenty of news about classmates:

WILLAMETTE UNIVERSITY

ALUMNI ASSOCIATION ELECTION OF OFFICERS

Vote for one person for each office. Those elected will serve two-year terms from May 1986 to May 1988. (Double boxes are to be used by two alumni voting from the same family.)

President-Elect

John Sherwood '64

(write-in vote)

Secretary

Glenda Hieber Blanchard '69

(write-in vote)

BOARD OF DIRECTORS

Vote for seven persons. Those elected will serve three-year terms from September 1986 to September 1989.

*Ann Chambers Armstrong '58

Madge Baugham Bauer '69

*Glenda Hieber Blanchard '69

Jean Randall Caldwell '77

(write-in vote)

(write-in vote)

*Incumbents

Return ballot to Alumni Office, Willamette University, Salem, OR 97301 by May 8, 1986.

73

CONTINUED

The Rev. Albert Allen reports to us that MARK and NANCY TOKOLA ALLEN have returned from two years of religious study at Oxford. Mark is finishing his third year at the Church Divinity School of the Pacific in Berkeley, CA. He will be ordained a deacon in the Episcopal Church this June. While the Allens were in England, daughter Abigail joined son Benjamin and daughter Emilia. Mark's younger sister MARY ALLEN '76 is also a divinity school student in Berkeley.

RANDALYN NICKELSEN CLARK is in advertising and marketing with Nickelsen Clark Advertising and Public Relations in Gresham, OR. The firm is moving to new offices, with seven employees serving accounts throughout the Northwest. In her spare time she enjoys weaving and skiing. Husband Steven is a newspaper publisher.

In Portland, PEGGY SIEGLE CUMPTON, a former elementary teacher, is now volunteering at the schools of her two daughters, Jennifer and Erin. She and husband Clark are planning an April trip to Florida to return greyhound racing dogs to Portland.

"Retired" English teacher DONNA HARTIG DUNLAP divides her time between gardening and her two children, Ian James and Heather. She and husband Ian are busy enjoying the simple pleasures.

By this time, the new law offices of Black, Hanson, Crain, Austin and Webber are complete in Medford, where JOHN HANSON is an attorney and municipal judge. John and his wife Cindy enjoy flying and white-water boating. They have two children, Durham and Robert.

WENDY BARRETT HUNTLEY says that she is completely unemployed and loving it. She and husband Al are busy completing a sun-space addition to their home. Daughters Heidi and Heather are also healthy, happy and busy.

Former Newscat GARNET KENYON ELLIOTT works in road design for the Department of Transportation. She and husband Richard live in Salem, where Richard is the senior economic analyst for the Public Utilities Commissioner. They traveled to Hawaii in '85 and enjoyed a 31-mile downhill bicycle ride from the top of Mt. Haleakala to the sea. Garnet writes that their family also consists of a cat and a bird which they are raising to live harmoniously.

SUSAN BOYER KLOBERTANZ is still a bureaucrat. Her recent appointment as grants and contracts compliance manager for the City of Portland necessitated a move into the city limits. She and Larry have a 70-year-old Portland home which they have been busy remodeling. Husband Larry is with a wholesale marine supply company, so it is no surprise that the family enjoys water sports. Their daughter Lauren began school last year.

Reno is home for DEBORAH SMRSTIK MELAHN, husband Kevin and children Lora and George. Deborah has her own advertising and graphic design firm, while Kevin works in public relations.

MARY BETH KICK O'BANION and husband JEFF '72 report travels to Disneyland, Washington, D.C., and Williamsburg in spring of '85. Mary Beth is a substitute teacher with the Portland School District, while Jeff manages the credit division of Halton Tractor. Their two children are Meghan and Brendan.

A "first" occurred in the architectural profession in Oregon when ROBERT PACKARD, who is not a registered architect, was named a partner in the Zimmer Gunsul Frasca Partnership of Portland. Bob joined the firm in 1979 as the head of the planning and urban design department. As director of finance, administration and marketing, he is responsible for administering the firm's finance, operations and business development activities.

DANIEL STOCKER, a structural engineer, and KATHIE PERKINS STOCKER, a fiscal manager with Oregon School of Design, have a son, Jason, and are in the final stages of adopting a baby girl from Korea. They make their home in Portland.

From Torrance, CA, AL ZIMMERMAN and SUSAN SNAPP '74 write that Al's work as a research scientist in the aerospace industry took them to England for a conference last year. They also vacationed last summer in the Pacific Northwest with children, Jennifer, Marian and Jonathan.

74

KATHY R. DEER SAMPSON
1087 NW CONNELL
HILLSBORO, OR 97123

LINDA RHODES FACQUE is a very busy wife, mother, and part-time, self-employed water rights researcher in the Reno-Sparks area of Nevada. Her work involves property and water rights research in state, county and city records, and updating records. She enjoys using her home computer for her work and play. Linda and husband Nicholas have two sons, Christopher and Alexander.

JEFFREY HOOK is a customer support and training representative for Western Star Business Systems in Portland. Jeffrey and his wife Susan have two children.

DR. LEONARD "BILL" MULBRY completed his residency in orthopedic surgery in Tucson, AZ, in July, and is now doing a fellowship in hand surgery at St. Vincent's Hospital in Indianapolis. He plans a move to the San Francisco Bay Area next July.

Marine biologist DR. ROBERT J. OLSON and PAMELA THOITS OLSON, a bookkeeper, have one son and live in Cataumet, MA. Robert is employed by Woods Hole Oceanographic Institute.

Geophysicist EDWARD L. SHUCK has been transferred back to Texas from Singapore in his work for Geophysical Service, Inc. He and wife Marsha reside in Dallas.

75

PATTI LALACK HUTTERLI
10490 SW EASTWIDGE #70
PORTLAND, OR 97225

ROBERT HUNTER has been named city editor of the Medford Mail Tribune. He will oversee the reporting staff, make assignments and be the primary editor of local stories and photos. He comes to the Mail Tribune from Roseburg, where he had been city editor for the News-Review since 1983. From 1976-79, Bob was editor of the Polk County Itemizer-Observer, and then worked as director of public information and publications for Marylhurst College in Lake Oswego until joining the Times Publications in Beaverton in 1981. During his career, Bob twice has edited newspapers that earned general excellence awards, the top annual honor given by the Oregon Newspaper Publishers Association, and in 1981 was city editor for the Times Publication when that company was recognized by the Suburban Newspapers of America as the best in the nation in its class for design and news content. Bob and LYNNE HARRIS HUNTER '76 have one son, Colin.

ROBERT LECHEVALLIER is practicing corporate and securities law with GREGORY ENGLUND '78 L'81 and GERALD MONTGOMERY L'73 in Portland. Last spring he was co-leader of a workshop at WU's Conference on Entrepreneurship. He and his wife Denise are expecting their fourth child in July.

76

JALAINE MADURA, assistant director of the Oregon Arts Commission, has been named manager of a new lottery grant program in the state Economic Development Department. She will manage the promotion and marketing fund designed by the last legislature to encourage tourism and the sale of Oregon products.

77

LAURA HOFF EDMAN
314 NO. YAKIMA
TACOMA, WA 98403

BRUCE BORQUIST and ANN CROSWAITE BORQUIST '78 write that they are as "happy as clams" living in Portland with their daughter Elena, born July 1. Bruce is director of the Small Business Assistance Center. Ann completed her master's degree in urban planning and community development and is currently project manager in a local community development division.

MARY ANN BURK ROBINSON is a teacher at Merritt-Davis College of Business in Salem. Leaving her job and her husband behind last October she spent a month living in Paris and traveling to Holland, Germany and Belgium. Husband DONALD M/L '79 is a financial planner for Benetech in Tigard.

LT G. BRUCE SUKOW is the supply officer on board the USS Mount Vernon, a Landing Ship/Dock capable of carrying 400 marines and their supplies. Bruce has been in the Navy since November of 1977. His home port is in Long Beach, CA.

JULIE VAN BUREN writes that she and her husband, Winston Rice Jr., were married last July 14, and are enjoying life in Seattle. Julie recently entered a management program with Paccar, Inc., in Bellevue.

SUSAN H. YOUNG says she is teaching handicapped learners, grades 7-12, at Neah-Kah-Nie Jr./Sr. High School in Rockaway Beach, OR.

Kindergarten teacher CAROLANN CROMWELL HORTON and her husband George have a daughter, Margaret Ann, and live in Pottstown, PA.

DR. SCOTT MADER practices geriatric medicine in Marina Del Rey, CA. He writes that he and his wife Maureen have developed a new roller skating act which they perform at Venice Beach on the weekends, and he invites all to come and see them.

78

JOHN DILLIN JR. is director of alumni relations and annual funds at Linfield College in McMinnville, OR. On Aug. 3 he married Carol Donigan, who is a news anchor at KMTR-TV in Eugene/Springfield.

Drama teacher LAURIE LEVINE is "alive, well and happily living in Seattle," where she teaches drama.

79

Insurance agent ROBERTA HALGRO is with State Farm Insurance Co. and lives in Anchorage, AK.

WHITNEY HEIMLICH, a junior high school teacher at Santa Barbara Middle School in California writes to say that she is taking 65 students and 10 teachers on a three-week bicycle trip in the 4 Corners this June. She says she finally climbed Mt. Whitney, and took 16 students to Australia to play soccer last summer.

DR. AJIT JETMALANI, employed as a physician by the University of California, is moving to New Haven to train in child psychiatry at Yale University. Ajit and his wife Laura are expecting their first child.

Account executive MELISSA SMITH works for East West Promotions in San Francisco. On Aug. 24, she married Jeff Van Harte, a securities analyst, and they now reside in San Mateo.

80

CAROL BIBLER received her master's degree in geology from Montana State University in December.

81

BARBARA HALLAUER BAUMAN is a music therapist working primarily with the Mid-Valley Children's Guild on the campus of the Oregon State School for the Blind in Salem. She also works with some mentally retarded adults in group homes in the Salem area. Barbara started at the Children's Guild last September, but has been associated with the preschool for handicapped children since it was started in 1982.

ERIC W. BROWN is a teacher's aide at the Marion County Court School, a court-ordered education program for juveniles. Eric left a retail management position in Portland to train for the '86 track season in Salem.

KATHLEEN DANIELS KELLY is a teaching counselor with Concerned Care, Inc., in Kansas City, MO. She and her husband Mike have a new son, Benjamin Michael, born July 27. Benjamin joins Mike's daughter Cathie at home.

81 CONTINUED

KATHY GOUDY MEAD is a registered and board certified music therapist, currently teaching piano at home. She and husband Mark have two sons and have built their own house in Seaside, OR.

DESTON and JULIE MOBERLY NOKES are living in Tualatin, OR. Deston is a writer-editor in the public relations department of Northwest Natural Gas Co. and Julie teaches English as a second language for the Multnomah County Educational Service District.

CINDY OKUMOTO is an attorney in Chico, CA. She attended Hastings College of the Law and was admitted to the California Bar in December, 1984.

82

Physicist RICHARD DAVIDSON works for Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute in Troy, NY. His wife LAURIE GRAHAM received her master's degree in biology in December.

WILLIAM R. DAVIS has been working for CMSI in Portland for over three years, installing and servicing computer software for optical companies. SARAH "LISA" PLUMMER DAVIS works at Beaverton Town Square for the Kobos Co. selling coffees, teas, spices and kitchen gadgets. William and Lisa live in Portland.

ANN L. SKOE is an executive secretary in the Governor's Office of Boards and Commissions in Juneau, AK. She writes that "Mike Hass was right; Juneau is beautiful and interesting and the pay scales match the surrounding mountains." Ann and her husband Roger have two children

83

SCOTT LOSK is in his third year of a clinical psychology Ph.D. program, and works at Huntington Memorial Hospital in Pasadena as an intern in the rehabilitation unit. KENLYNN SNOWDEN LOSK is teaching physical education at Washington Middle School in Pasadena and plans to go back to school to begin work on a master's degree this summer.

REBECCA ROBERTS MARTIN teaches junior high school and coaches volleyball in Palmer, AK. CHARLES C. MARTIN JR. '81 does substitute teaching and works part-time as a corporate sales representative for World Express Travel. Rebecca is halfway through her master's degree program in public school administration and Chuck is finishing up his math endorsement this spring.

SEAN B. O'HALLAREN has been in Washington, D.C., on the personal staff of U.S. SEN. MARK O. HATFIELD '43, since September, 1984. After graduation he completed internships with Oregon Attorney General Dave Frohnmyer at the Department of Justice and with U.S. SEN. BOB PACKWOOD '54 on the Senate Committee on Commerce, Science and Transportation.

84

BRADLEY G. CHRISTIANSON is in his second year of medical school at Texas College of Osteopathic Medicine. He works part-time as a lab technician doing research in chemotherapy of cancer.

LT. JEFFREY CARLSON and KATHY KETTELKAMP CARLSON were married in April of 1985 in Salem. They have been living in Lubbock, TX, while Jeff has been in pilot training with the Air Force. Upon his graduation this spring Jeff will be transferred to Norton Air Force Base in San Bernardino, CA, where he will fly C-12's.

JULIE MANFULL has joined the publicity-public relations department at Jack Wodell Associates of San Francisco and will be the publicist responsible for handling the 20th Century Fox account. Before joining the JWA firm, Julie worked for the Sorrento Hotel in Seattle, then became publicity assistant to Scott Levine in 20th Century Fox's San Francisco field office.

After spending an exciting year in Alencon, France, as the English assistant in a junior high school, SUZIE REINHART is now working as a technical aide at the Boeing Commercial Airplane Co. in Everett, WA.

DONAL M. WELCH is pursuing a Ph.D. in the speech and hearing sciences at the University of California, Santa Barbara.

SECOND LT. HAROLD L. WESTBROOK JR. earned his silver wings upon graduating from U.S. Air Force navigator training school in California.

85

MARIAN "MARE" MILLER works as a counselor and physical education teacher at Castle Medical Center in Kailua, HI. She plans to attend graduate school in fall.

A Peace Corps volunteer in the Yemen Arab Republic, ANDREA D. SCHINDLER teaches English at the Yemen American Language Institute in Sana'a.

KAREN LYTLE SOLONIKA is working on a master's degree in botany at Oregon State University, where she is employed as the curatorial assistant in the herbarium. She and her husband James live in Corvallis.

GSM Notes

CHUCK GALL '75 M'77 is a stockbroker for Dean Witter Reynolds, Inc.

JEFFREY MORGAN M'77 has been transferred to Seattle from Columbia Falls, MT. He is manager of planning for Plum Creek Timber Co.

MINDY GRAY FEELY '74 M'79 is a budget analyst with the Multnomah County Budget Office. She was formerly with the state executive department's data systems division. Her husband THOMAS FEELY M'79 works in the office of fiscal administration for the City of Portland.

SUSAN STOOKSBERRY M'79 is a senior internal auditor with Blount, Inc., in Montgomery, AL.

DAVE BECKER M'80 has been transferred to Tokyo, where he works for Nike.

JOHN MCCORMICK M/L'80 is an attorney with Hagen and Dye in Portland.

JIM MCCLUSKEY '80 M'81 is an analyst associate in the public finance department of Bateman, Eichler, Hill and Richards in San Francisco. CURT DECRINIS M'81 is a vice president/municipal bonds in the same department.

DAN HOYT M'82 is a financial specialist for the Multnomah County Department of Human Resources. His wife REIS WILBANKS HOYT M/L'83 has joined the firm of Redden and McGaughey in Portland.

DAVE TAYLOR '79 M/L'82 is living in Silverton, OR, where he works for a CPA firm, Wilson, Steffins & Associates.

DAN BICKMORE M/L'83 is assistant corporate counsel for Far West Bank in Portland, where he and his wife JAQUIN BICKMORE LLOYD, L'83 reside.

TOM BOLINE '81 M'83 is director of marketing at Astro Tool Company in Beaverton.

MARY SIEFARTH DARRAS '82 M'83 has joined the State Farm Insurance regional office as director of educational and training programs. AMY WELCH M'82 also works for State Farm as fire claims supervisor and SUSAN LEFFERTS M'83 is supply supervisor. Susan and her husband JAMES J. MACAFFEE L'79 make their home in Salem.

JOANNA LANGDALE M'83 is a CPA with Faler, Grové, Mueller and Smith. RICK GOWARD M'83 and CRAIG SMITH M/L'82 are also employed by the Salem firm.

TOM GOODE M/L'85 is an attorney for Wilson and Lofland in Yakima, WA.

Mary Deits named to Court of Appeals

MARY DEITS was appointed Feb. 5 to a position on the Oregon Court of Appeals. An assistant attorney general for the Oregon Department of Justice since her 1974 graduation from the College of Law, she is the second woman to serve on an Oregon appellate court.

The 36-year-old Beaverton resident was one of 10 attorneys recommended for the post by the Oregon State Bar. She replaces former Court of Appeals Judge Michael Gillette, a Willamette College of Law adjunct professor who was named to the Oregon Supreme Court in January.

Noted for her work in the area of natural resources, she had served since 1982 as Attorney-in-Charge of the Natural Resources Section of the Oregon Department of Justice. She gained attention last year for her negotiation of a Columbia River fishing rights agreement between the federal government, several states and Indian tribes.

In her 12 years with the Department of Justice, she served as general counsel to the Labor Relations Division, the Department of Transportation, and the Land Conservation and Development Commission. She also worked for one year in the Appellate Division, representing the state in criminal and civil cases before the Court of Appeals and the Supreme Court.

Judge Deits has filed for election in the May primary to the position which she now holds by appointment.

Law Notes

On the last day of 1985, after 55 years of practicing law in Roseburg, OR, PAUL GEDDES L'30 announced his retirement. City attorney from 1948 to 1979, he served two terms in the Oregon House of Representatives and two terms in the Oregon Senate. Paul was named Roseburg First Citizen in 1980. Active in many civic and fraternal organizations, he served on the boards of Willamette University and the Salvation Army; on the Council of Boy Scouts; as president of Kiwanis; as exalted ruler of the Elks; and as chairman of the Douglas County Chapter of the American Red Cross.

WALTER W. FOSTER L'51 retired Dec. 31 after 20 years as Polk County District Judge. A former Polk County District Attorney, he has lived in West Salem since 1948. He and his wife Marian have three children.

GERRY BARTZ L'55, an assistant attorney general for 28 years, recently announced his retirement from Oregon's Department of Justice. Active in Salem civic affairs, he received the city's Distinguished Service Award in both 1976 and 1979. He is founder and past president of the Salem City Club and the Salem Soccer Club. He is past president of both the Oregon Symphony Society of Salem and the Salem Planning Commission. A charter member of Salem Boys Club, he also has been active in the YMCA.

CONTINUED

Law Notes

WILLARD K. CAREY L'56, president of the LaGrande, OR, law firm Carey and Joseph, was promoted recently to the rank of major general in the Oregon Army National Guard. He also was named as the new deputy commander for the 6th U.S. Army, a post which involves the training and supervision of Army National Guard and Army Reserve units within a 12-state area. Active in community service, he has received two Jaycee Distinguished Service Awards and a "Man of the Year" award from the LaGrande-Union County Chamber of Commerce.

Dallas, OR, attorney MARK BLIVEN L'61 has filed as a candidate for Polk County District Judge. He has been municipal judge in Dallas for 15 years and also has served as municipal judge in the cities of Monmouth and Independence. He and his wife Nancy have four children.

Gov. Atiyeh has appointed PETER BRIX L'61 to a four-year term on the board of commissioners of the Port of Portland. Peter is chairman of the board and chief executive officer of Knappton Corporation, and also serves as chief executive for Knappton Maritime Corp. In public service roles, he has served on the Transportation Commission of the State Department of Transportation, on the state Economic Development Commission, and on the state Advisory Committee on Maritime Affairs.

LAURENCE HAMBLÉN L'67 is the new executive director of Lane County Legal Aid Service. He began his career at Marion-Polk Legal Aid, and has worked for legal assistance programs in Philadelphia, Atlanta and Charleston, SC. In addition, he has served as a consultant for several businesses and educational institutions.

THOMAS GISH L'67 has opened a new practice in Yakima, WA. A former assistant attorney general for the state of Washington, he has practiced in both Everett and White Salmon, and from 1977 to 1981 was the in-house counsel for a Portland corporation.

EDWARD SULLIVAN L'69 was elected in January as president of the Oregon Law Institute, a private, non-profit corporation providing continuing legal education services to lawyers. His firm, Sullivan, Josselson, Roberts, Johnson & Kloos, has offices in Portland, Salem and Eugene.

Former Polk County Deputy District Attorney CHARLES LUUKINEN L'75 has been appointed Polk County District Court judge. He is president of the board of Polk Adolescent Day Treatment Center and past president of the 12th Judicial Bar Association. He has been a high school basketball official for the past 14 years and currently serves as vice president of the Salem Basketball Officials Association. He and his wife Valeria have three children.

DAVID DAVIDSON L'76 is the new executive director of Eastern Oregon Health Systems Agency, based in Redmond. Formerly an administrator with the Medicaid program in Alaska, he earned a master's degree in business administration in 1984, worked briefly as a lobbyist, and then went to work in Salem with the state Department of Human Resources. He and his wife Joyce have a daughter Diane.

Roseburg attorney JOAN GLAWE SEITZ L'74 has been appointed to the Circuit Court bench in Douglas County. One of only five women circuit court judges in the state, she has been a partner in a Roseburg law firm since 1983 and has often served as judge pro tem in district court. She has been part-time legal counsel to the city of Roseburg and has taught criminal law and consumer law at Rogue Valley Community College. From 1974 to 1976 she was a deputy district attorney for Klamath County. Currently serving as president of the Douglas County Bar Association, she is active in the American Red Cross, the League of Women Voters and St. Joseph's Catholic Church. She and her husband DANIEL SEITZ L'74 have a daughter Katherine.

STEVE MCCARREL L'76 recently was honored for his volunteer efforts in behalf of the Southeast Uplift neighborhood office in Portland. Now completing his term as president of the Southeast Uplift Advisory Board, Steve is an attorney for Portland General Electric. He and his wife Kim make their home in Eastmoreland.

After practicing law in Seattle for eight years, TIMOTHY R. OSBORN L'76 has joined the Seattle-based firm of Bogle & Gates as a partner in the real estate law section. Bogle & Gates is one of the Northwest's oldest and largest firms, with offices in Seattle, Bellevue, Anchorage and Washington, D.C.

Salem attorney MIKE HANSEN L'77 has been selected as the first administrator of the State Indigent Defense Board. Mike also serves as vice chairman of the Catholic Community Services Foundation. He and his wife Jan have one son.

MERRI LOU SOUTHER WYATT L'78 and WILLIAM W. WYATT JR. '72 were married in 1983 and now have a son, William Wendell III. Merri Lou is associated with the Portland law firm of Gevurtz & Menashe.

Professional arbitrator SANDRA SMITH GANGLE L'80 was featured in the November, 1985, issue of Perspectives, a periodical distributed nationwide to law libraries and law firms dealing with labor relations. The Salem attorney is a former law clerk of professor and arbitrator Carlton Snow. She attended the College of Law and excelled in labor law and arbitration after putting aside her earlier career as a teacher of languages. She and her husband Eugene have two children.

PAT STIMAC L'81 has reduced his involvement in his Newport, OR, law practice to half-time so that he and his wife Carol could become pastoral associates at Sacred Heart Catholic Church. Interested in the ministry since high school, Pat was involved in campus ministries during his years as an undergraduate and law student. He and Carol now live with their two children in a former convent behind the church.

U.S. Army CAPT. STEVEN K. BILLINGTON L'82 is serving as an intelligence officer with the 207th Military Intelligence Brigade in West Germany.

STEVE LOWE L'84 has been named city attorney in Othello, WA. He has been with the Steve Sackmann law firm in Othello since his graduation from the College of Law.

MELANIE FOSTER L'85 is a legal researcher in the criminal division of the Nevada Attorney General's office.

DOUGLAS LEUTJEN L'85 has joined the Seattle firm of Williams, Lanza, Castner and Gibbs as a business litigation attorney.

Births

A daughter was born to EDWARD SULLIVAN L'69 and wife Patte on Jan. 16.

A son, Craig Dmitri, was born to TERRY COLLINS '70 and wife Barbara on Aug. 10.

BRUCE '71 and LINDA PATRICK WRIGHT '71 welcomed a daughter, Karin Louise, on Aug. 8. Karin joins sister Kristin.

ED OSTERMAN '72 and wife Lynne have a new daughter, Jill Anne, born Aug. 15. She joins sister Allison.

A son, Braden Andrew, was born to LESLIE HALL '75 and husband Dave Allison on Jan. 30. Leslie and Dave are co-pastors of the Pittsburg United Methodist Church in Pittsburg, CA, and Leslie has just completed her master's thesis.

CURTIS LOGAN M'77 and his wife Margaret have a new son, Cory. Curt is general manager of JRM Associates, Seattle.

SUSAN WILSON M'77 and her husband ALAN '70 have a baby daughter, Maggie Kathleen, born in October. Susan is the deputy director of the Legislative Research Office at the Oregon State Capitol.

KATHERINE BRINK-SCHWAB M'79 and her husband JACK SCHWAB '74 L'79 adopted a baby boy, Brian David Schwab, born July 6.

TAREK FADAAR M'79 and his wife JANE '79 have a son, Ra'ida, born in West Linn. Jane and the baby have joined Tarek in Saudia Arabia where he is assistant to the president of planning at the university in Jeddah.

ABBIE CAMPBELL CRAIG '80 and ROBERT '81 are parents of Michael, born Sept. 27. ELAINE HARTUNG CRAIG L'85 is Michael's grandmother. Robert is plant manager for Western Abrasives in Portland.

JEFF "PETE" STROBEL '80 and KATHRYN MORK STROBEL '82 announce the birth of their first child, Rebekah Claire, Oct. 3. They live in Berkeley where Jeff is finishing work on his M.A. in systematic theology. They plan to move back to Oregon where Kathy will begin nursing studies.

JENNIFER SHLAUDEMAN VAN ORSDALE '80 is enjoying being home to care for Andrew Richard, born July 10, to her and husband, Richard. The Van Orsdales live in Campbell, CA.

STAN VINSON M'81 and his wife Suzanne have adopted a son, Andrew Wayne.

DEBBIE CHAN ROBERTSON M'83 and her husband Ralph had a little girl last spring. Heidi Jo was born in Astoria but the family lives in Naknek, AK.

STEVE HIATT M'84 and his wife Jennifer have a new son, Andrew. Steve is manager of Pizza Hut in Portland.

TOM MCCLELLAN M'84 and his wife Leanne have a new son, Mark Daniel, born Oct. 6. Tom is an administrative assistant at the Jackson County Health Department in Medford.

Marriages

WILLA HEYDE '75 and Glenn Smith were married Oct. 19 in Stanhope, NJ. Willa is the managing editor of the Star-Gazette newspaper in Hackettstown, NJ. Glenn is self-employed.

JOE RUBENSTEIN '76 M'78 and his wife Paula Marie were married in November.

ROGER OLSON '77 and Connie Goettel were married Aug. 9 in Portland. Roger is an attorney with the firm of Scalf and O'Halloran of Gresham and Connie is a first-grade teacher. They are living in West Linn.

LEONARD LANGDON FEDERICO '78 exchanged wedding vows with Norma Pyle on Aug. 10. Leonard is an advertising consultant for KRKT Radio and Norma is employed by Cascade School District in Turner. They are making their home in Salem.

STEPHEN LUCKER '79 and Virginia Gustafson were married Aug. 31 at Agnes Flannigan Chapel on the Lewis and Clark College campus. Stephen is a graduate student in geography and works for Portland General Electric. Virginia is an attorney.

STEPHEN BUCKLEY L'80 and Crystal Greenwald were married Nov. 2 in Portland.

MARJORIE OORTHUYNS '80 and Brent Mobley were married Dec. 21. Marjorie recently finished her certification and is teaching in Monmouth.

JUANITA LYDAY '81 and Mark Lewis were married Dec. 28 at the Westminster Presbyterian Church in Portland.

DIANNE OUTSTERHOUT M'81 married Ray Lancaster on Nov. 17. The wedding was performed by Willamette Chaplain Charlie Wallace in Putnam University Center.

CAROLYN WING '81 and Tohru Yasumaru were married Dec. 6 in Tokyo. The couple met while Tohru was at the University of Michigan Law School and Carolyn was at the Institute of Public Policy Studies. They received master's degrees from U of M.

DENISE KLIME M'82 married Christopher Corich in August. Denise is a senior management analyst with the Bureau of Buildings, City of Portland.

STEVEN KOGA '82 and ANN POLLARD '84 were married at the Episcopal Church in Sisters, OR, on Aug. 3. They make their home in Dallas, TX, where Ann is a graduate student at the University of Texas Health Science Center. Steven completed his graduate studies at Washington State University in 1985.

BEVERLY MORTON M'82 married Randy Herrin of Tillamook in September. They are living in Portland where Bev is director of the City Development Center.

CONTINUED

Marriages

KATHERINE SUGKOW '82 M'84 married Saleem Bashir Ahmad of Portland Aug. 16. Katherine is an accountant with Convoy Trucking Co.

KIMBERLY KING '83 and JAMES WALLAN L'85 were married on Jan. 4 in Klamath Falls. Kimberly is currently attending Willamette College of Law and the couple is at home in Salem.

VALERIE JO NASH '83 and THEODORE FELLER were married on Aug. 3. Both are studying at Willamette. Valerie, a law student, also works for Ferder, Ogdahl and Brandt of Salem.

SALLY SEDERSTROM M'83 married ERIC CONRAD June 8. Sally is director of admissions at Willamette's Atkinson Graduate School of Management and Eric is a student at Willamette's College of Law and the graduate school of management.

STASIA WILDGEN and MICHAEL LARSEN, both '83 graduates of WU, were married June 29 in Kalispell, MT. Stasia is a guest history coordinator for Westin Benson Hotel and Michael is a moving consultant with Allied Van Lines. Their first home is in Tigard, OR.

KERRE BERGMANN '83 and DONALD SLAYTON were married Aug. 3 in Beaverton, OR. Kerre is employed by the State of Oregon on the Educational Coordinating Commission. Donald is attending Willamette College of Law and the Atkinson Graduate School of Management and is employed part-time with the Allen, Startz, Fox and Susse law firm in Salem. The couple is at home in Salem.

KELLY DOYLE L'84 and Susan Limper were married Oct. 12 in Portland.

ROBERT MANICKE '84 and Michelle Bagley were married Dec. 8 in Portland.

STUART SPARKMAN '84 and KAREN VISTE '85 were married at First United Methodist Church in Salem on May 11. Stuart is a teacher at McKay High School.

STACEY JOSEPH '85 and Peter Ledesma were married on Valentine's Day in Anchorage, AK. They now live in Hawaii.

Memoriam

MAXINE ELLIOTT DICKSON '25 died Oct. 23 in Albany, OR. A native of Salem, she had taught at the School for the Deaf and was a member of the First Christian Church.

LOLA MILLARD OSBORNE '25 died March 13 in Portland. A teacher for many years, she taught at Salem's Parish Junior High before moving to Seattle during World War II. Her first retirement was in 1962 when she and her husband E. W. Ross moved back to Portland, but she began teaching again at St. Helen's Hall and Holy Family Schools. She was widowed in 1969 and re-married, to Raymond L. Osborne, in 1970. She was active in the Presbyterian Church, the Order of Eastern Star, the American Legion Auxiliary and P.E.O. Sisterhood.

EVA TACHERON BELL '26 of Chico, CA, died Oct. 23. A former teacher, she belonged to the United Methodist Church.

JASON NEIL BROWN '29, long-time administrator for the Salem School District, died Jan. 18 at the age of 81. He had served as vice principal at Parish Junior High, Salem High School and South Salem High School.

LIONEL "WOODY" WOODWORTH '29 died Jan. 7 in his Vancouver, WA, home. He was a retired vocational rehabilitation counselor for the state of Washington and was a member of the Oregon State Bar. He was instrumental in establishing the Southwest Washington Alcoholic Recovery Foundation, was past president of the Vancouver chapter of the American Association of Retired Persons and past worshipful master of the Masonic Lodge Chapter 46. He also was active in the Methodist Church and the Rotary Club. He is survived by his wife

MARGARET WOOD WOODWORTH '29. GARNIE CRANOR of Salem died Jan. 3. He was past president of United Good Neighbors and was active in the Salvation Army, the Boys' and Girls' Aid Society, and the Lutheran Church. He was an athletics coach at Salem High School from 1930 to 1942 and later worked for Oregon Pulp and Paper Company. He retired in 1963 as resident manager of Boise Cascade.

LUCILLE MILLHOLIN HERRICK '32 died Nov. 23 at her home in Aloha. "I have had a happy, contented life," she wrote in her class letter for the 1982 50-year reunion. A member of the committee for that reunion, she was also on the committee planning the 55th reunion, May, 1987. After 10 years of teaching, during which she earned her master's degree at the University of Northern Colorado, she married the school coach, Robert F. Herrick. When he returned to civilian life after five years in the Navy, he attended the University of Oregon Dental School and opened a dental office in Portland, retiring Nov. 22, 1985. Surviving besides Dr. Herrick are a son Rob and a grandson Scott. (Submitted by

ISABEL CHILDS ROSEBRAUGH '32)

REV. OMER IDSO '32 died April 17, 1985, at his home in Red Lodge, MT. He was 90. Active in church and community work, he had served the last 18 years as volunteer hospital chaplain. His widow, Vernie Idso, writes that he officiated at weddings and funerals without charge and "enjoyed driving in his car to call on patients at the local rest home and hospital."

LUMAN NEY '35 died Jan. 11 in Glendale, OR. He had studied biochemistry at the University of Oregon Medical School and was employed by Stanford Research Institute.

JOSEPH E. HARVEY '37 died on March 3 in Fallbrook, CA. He started his career in Salem at the Unemployment Compensation Commission, moved to Portland where he was with Oregon Physicians Service and, in 1962, left for Washington, D.C., where he was vice president of Blue Cross-Blue Shield until his retirement. He moved to Fallbrook in 1979 and was appointed by the governor to the Oregon Welfare Commission board. At Willamette, he was a member of Sigma Tau fraternity. He is survived by his wife, the former JANE FISHER '37. (Submitted by JERYME ENGLISH '36)

LUIS A. TURNER '37 died Dec. 2 at his Portland home. A World War II veteran, he attended Chuinard Art Institute, operated Lew Turner Advertising Agency and worked as an artist for ViewMaster Corp. He was a member of St. John Fisher Catholic Church.

SIDNEY SCHLESINGER '40, Portland businessman and former state senator, died Oct. 28. He was chairman of Sidco Industries, Inc., which operates the Kopper Kitchen restaurants. He founded the company in Salem in 1956. An Air Force captain during World War II, he became active in politics after the war, serving as chairman of the Marion County Republican Central Committee from 1952 to 1956. As a member of the state senate, 1957-60, he sponsored Oregon's first civil rights legislation. He served on the State Scholarship Commission and was active in numerous civic organizations.

CLASS NOTES

RUBY HARRIETT MULVIHILL '41 died Feb. 16 in Salem. She received degrees from Willamette and from Columbia University and the University of Washington. In 1985 she retired as a medical social consultant for the state.

GENEIVE VEHR'S '41, a resident of Chula Vista, CA, died Aug. 27 in San Diego. A retired educator, she had taught at both high school and college levels, and her varied subjects had included language arts, English, French, Spanish, cooking, sewing and geography. She was active in her church and is survived by her daughter, five grandchildren and eight great grandchildren.

IRWIN F. WEDEL '41, veteran hospital administrator, died Dec. 22 in Salem. He began his career in 1937 in the laundry room of the old Salem Deaconess Hospital and worked in all of its departments. He retired in 1979 as executive director of Salem Hospital. He had served as president of the Oregon Association of Hospitals and as president of the Association of Western Hospitals. He chaired the State Board of Health's advisory council on hospitals and the governor's advisory committee on hospital licensing.

BARBARA MINOR HOTTINGER '42 died Jan. 10 in Glen Ellyn, IL.

WILLARD CECIL WICKLINE '42 died Oct. 22 in Vancouver, B.C. He taught school in Puerto Rico for several years and was a librarian in the microfilm department of the Oregon State Library before moving to Vancouver 10 years ago.

BERNARD BARRON '46 died Oct. 10 in Portland following a distinguished career as a musician, teacher and conductor. He studied under a scholarship at the Paris Conservatory of Music, served in the Air Force during World War II, and went on to teach at Reed College, Willamette University, the University of Washington and the University of Portland. He concluded his teaching career in the Portland public school system. An accomplished cellist, he was principal cellist for the Portland Symphony Orchestra. He also directed and performed with the Salem Symphony and the Portland Chamber Trio.

WARREN HUNTER '47 died in a boating accident May 4, 1985, in Seattle. Born in Potlatch, WA, he served in the U.S. Navy and went on to enjoy many successful years in the food service industry — as broker of his own company and as food service manager with Johnson-Lieber, Inc. He was active in the Masonic Lodge, in the Queen City Yacht Club of Seattle, and in the Coast Guard Auxiliary where he held the rank of commander. His survivors include his wife Sonia, three children and two grandchildren.

FERN INGRAM HILTS '50 died Nov. 6. The owner of City View Cemetery, Salem, she was active in the Council of Campfire and was a member of Zonta International and the First Congregational Church. She is survived by three sons.

WALLACE R. SNYDER '52 of Golden, WA, died Jan. 7. Employed as human resources director for Childrens World in Evergreen, he was a former vice president of Blue Cross-Blue Shield of Colorado and former deputy director of personnel for the state of Colorado. He also was a self-employed consultant in human resource development and had worked for Montgomery Ward and General Mills. He lectured and taught personnel management at the college level, and was a contributing author for Dartnell and Crow publications. His survivors include his wife MARY ELLEN PHILLIPS SNYDER '53 and their daughter Lisa.

EARL GERFEN '53, long-time educator in the Lebanon, OR, school system, died Dec. 26. A Navy veteran and recipient of the Distinguished Flying Cross, he began his teaching career in 1956 as a physical education instructor and coach. The following year he was assigned to teach history, and later was one of three selected to write an advanced history curriculum for the state of Oregon. In 1957 he retired as vice principal at Lebanon High School. An active member and elder in the Presbyterian Church and a dedicated volunteer for United Way, he is survived by his wife Joyce.

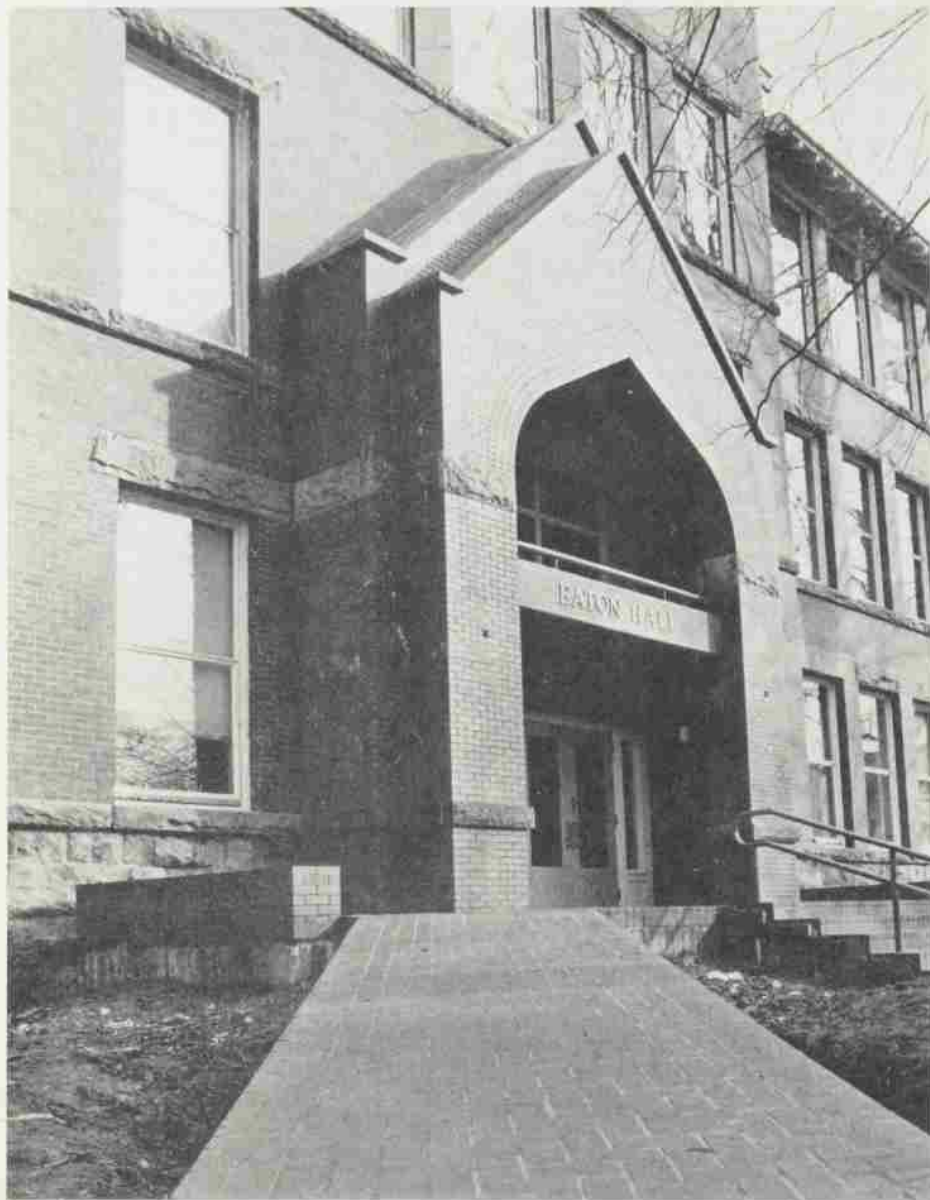

DANIEL A. NEWBERRY '58 died March 10 at the age of 49. He was a professor and humanities librarian at Portland State University. A Fulbright Fellow at the University of Liege, Belgium, and a Harvard University teaching fellow, he went on to obtain his library science degree from Simmons College Library School. He worked for the State University of New York prior to joining the PSU staff in 1967.

RICHARD KING '68 died July 26 of complications from a water skiing accident. Export manager of Kent International in San Francisco, he lived in Danville, CA, with his wife MARIN PEARCE KING '68 and three children. He was a popular soccer coach, had served on the Danville Parks and Recreation Committee and had worked to develop a new playing field at John Baldwin Elementary School. Shortly after Dick's death, the community dedicated the playing field to his memory.

DANICA KAY DODD L'77 died Dec. 2. The Vancouver, WA, resident left private practice in 1979 to become an assistant attorney general. She was past president of the Clark County chapter of Washington Women Lawyers and a member of the Clark County Planning Commission. She is survived by her husband Richard Layne and two children.

MIKE B. SMITH '81 died March 17 in Bangkok, Thailand. He had been living in Tokyo and working as a sports editor for the Tokyo Times and Japan Times. He was a member of Beta Theta Pi and was married to KAOKO YASUHARA '82.

There's more to Willamette University than meets the eye . . .

At Willamette University, we are fortunate to have a beautiful campus. But we know that it is the learning that takes place within that makes a university great. At Willamette, we're proud of our strong commitment to the liberal arts as the basis for lifelong learning.

There's much more to Willamette than meets the eye. But we need your help to keep Willamette a great university. Please send your check today — for as much as you can.

Willamette University
Annual Funds
900 State Street
Salem, Oregon
97301
(503) 370-6340

WILLAMETTE
SCENE

PUBLISHED FOR ALUMNI AND FRIENDS OF THE WEST'S OLDEST UNIVERSITY

ADDRESS CORRECTION REQUESTED