

Board Seeks Applicants For Major Publication Jobs

Petitions Due By April 26 For 3 Posts

By Ann Strother

First of the series of student body offices to be filled for next year are the publications posts consisting of editors for the Collegian and the Wallulah and publications manager. New appointees are to be chosen by May 1 though they will not take office until the end of the semester.

According to an announcement released by Ann Strother, publications board chairman, students who wish to be considered for these offices may obtain application blanks in the student body office. All applications are to be turned in to her at the Wallulah office by 4 o'clock on Friday of next week.

Under the new constitutional setup these three officers are no longer elected by student vote but are appointed by the publications board after it has received formal notice from the candidates. These notices are not the regular petitions with signatures attached which are required for other student body offices. They are to be filled out by the applicant and include a list of qualifications for the position to which the applicant aspires.

Reasoning that the publications posts are technical jobs with special skills needed by those holding the positions, ASWU constitution revisors, and subsequently voters, last year approved the appointment system for filling the posts. Experience with the publications, ability and responsibility are points which the publication board will consider in each applicant.

Students are urged to turn in applications promptly as selection by the board is to be made preceding May Weekend.

Currently the publications offices are held by Evelyn Deal, Collegian editor; Ann Strother, Wallulah editor; and Nancy Stuart, publications manager.

Jory Begins High School Tour Monday

Registrar Harold B. Jory will make a tour of southwest Washington high schools next week in his program of interviewing prospective Willamette students. High school conferences will be held in eight cities from Vancouver to Olympia. The tour will take all week.

At the present time Jory is in Portland attending the Guidance Personnel association conference which began yesterday and will meet today also. The association is composed of a number of college guidance groups, including college registrars, who will meet in a separate meeting tomorrow in the Portland public library. Dr. L. A. Riggs is attending the meet also.

Jory will be on the campus Saturday before starting on the high school conference trip.

Vets' Office Needs Address Change Info

Chester Pittman, veterans contact man from the Seattle office of Veteran's Administration, advised all men to be sure to notify the local branch office upon change of address. It is important that this be done to insure continuous contact with the administration.

All men who have not as yet received any subsistence allowances are advised to wait at least 30 days before making any sort of complaint, because of red-tape measures which require that minimum amount of time.

Case, Patterson, Smith In May Queen Finals

Vote Due Wednesday For 1946 Ruler

Virginia Case, Jan Patterson and Paula Smith will compete for the honor of 1946 May Queen when students vote Wednesday for the senior woman who is to rule May Weekend festivities this year. The three emerged as finalists in Tuesday's primaries.

Balloting will take place Wednesday next week say May manager Con Pavlock and Evelyn Jory, election manager, because of the fact that more students are on the campus for Wednesday classes and the vote will thus be more representative. Polls will open Wednesday at 8:45 in the interest, also, of more voters and the 3:15 deadline has been arranged to allow the Collegian to carry results of the count.

Miss Case, a home economics major, was president of the senior class last semester and is a member of Delta Gamma. Miss Patterson, also a Delta Gamma, is a sociology major and is ASWU second vice president. She served as manager of campus publications for two and one-half years. Miss Smith, Pi Beta Phi, is a first term senior. She was one of five finalists in last week's Wallulah Queen contest.

Tuesday's primaries gave the three women their chance for the May crown by virtue of balloting which, though light, was largest of the year. Greater turnout is urged by Election Manager Jory and Pavlock. Runners-up in the primaries were Jane Fitzsimons, Thyra Jean Currey and Florence Lewis.

Plans for the weekend's program are nearly all drawn up,

Pavlock said today, and committees for the various events have all been selected. Exact performance at the coronation has not definitely been decided upon as yet, but Pavlock promises some rather interesting additions and variations to the routine of past years.

May Weekend will officially open at 10:30 Friday morning in chapel, at which time the sororities will again vie for possession of the Intersorority Sing Cup. Campus fraternities will participate for the first time in an Interfraternity Sing. Committees for these events are being headed by Alice Rose and Marion Crews.

The early chapel has been authorized by university heads, but official word has not yet been given as to the dismissing of classes Friday afternoon.

Following the Sings, Paul Cookingham with the assistance of the Letterman's club, will supervise the annual tug of war and greased pole climb.

At the completion of the contests, it has been planned that all students and guests will eat lunch on campus at a huge barbecue, picnic, or whatever Committee men Hank Ercolini and Marv Goodman can dream up.

Saturday morning's Breakfast will again be held by the YWCA, and registration of guests will be under the auspices of Blue Key.

Construction and decoration of the coronation court has been assigned to the pledges of Delta Gamma sorority and Alpha Psi fraternity, while decoration for the May Day dance Saturday evening will be taken over by pledges of Alpha Chi Omega sorority and Kappa Gamma Rho fraternity under the leadership of Thyra Jean Currey, student body social chairman.

Members of SAX will be asked to usher at the coronation, and the BAG's will perform similar duties at the play.

Programs for the entire weekend are being drawn up by Bettie Olson.

High school students from various parts of Oregon will be guests of campus living organizations for the weekend.

Newly Organized Vet Group Schedules Chapel Meet Today

With a movement underway for returned veterans to obtain state assistance as well as the provisions under the federal "GI Bill," the first meeting to organize the returning service men and women on the campus was initiated Tuesday. The temporary committee, consisting of Bob Marr, Jerry Quillin and Dick Spooner explained to the group, plans which have been outlined for attacking the problem.

Next meeting of the new organization will be held today in chapel and all veterans are urged to attend if they are interested in supporting the movement. It is further urged that all men who wish to volunteer part of their spare time for working on the various committees turn in their names to the temporary committee before the meeting.

During the Tuesday meeting the possibilities of securing aid from the already organized veteran groups as well as the state's

Prof. John L. Knight, WU vice president and director of religious activities, who will be main speaker at Portland's city-wide Easter sunrise services Sunday.

Knight Speaks For Portland Sunrise Rites

At the annual Easter morning sunrise service in Portland at 5:15 Sunday, Prof. John L. Knight of WU will be the main speaker. This consolidated sunrise service is sponsored by the Portland Council of Churches, and the speaker is chosen by the council. The service is to be held at Laurelhurst park.

Knight's topic for the occasion will be "The Living Lord." The Cascade college choir will sing and the Grant high school band will play for the service.

Knight is well known in Oregon and the northwest as a speaker. In past years ministers have been called in for the Portland services from various parts of the United States.

WU Broadcast Slated Sunday

"Salute to Willamette," a program in honor of WU, will be presented Sunday on KGW from 3:30 to 4 p. m. Script for the program will cover Willamette's founding and run through to the present time.

Hymns from the period when Jason Lee founded the school will be sung by a WU quartet. The history of the inauguration of the now traditional Freshman Glee will be told and WU people working on the project have submitted typical Glee songs to be presented on the program.

Dean Melvin H. Geist, Gil Lieser and Dr. Robert M. Gatke have been collaborating with the station in preparing the program.

Korell Replaces Hildebrand As Campus Red Cross Head

Barbara Korell was elected chairman of the Red Cross chapter on the campus at the meeting held in the Music hall auditorium Tuesday. She will take the place of Marie Hildebrand, who was chairman last semester but is leaving school because of illness.

Three committees also were named. Those on the veterans survey committee are Pat Waters, Dorothy Schlegel, Dorothy Boyd, Fran Sopp, Mary Beth Snow, Mary Phyllis Girth and Kathleen Secourd. On the publicity committee are Pat Weinstein, Barbara Sheridan, Marilee Olson and Carolyn Brady. Barbara Cutler, Barbara McDuffee and Thelma Wilcox are working on the finance and Chresto committee.

Mrs. Doris Wilson, also attending Willamette, has accepted the appointment of college unit chairman to work with the students. Red Cross meetings will be held regularly and a full program is planned for this semester.

The new campus chairman will attend a national Red Cross conference to be held in Portland May 18 and 19 together with the co-chairman and secretary, Margaret Allen and Melva Williamson.

YMCA Holds Training Meet Next Week

Training courses for secretaries of northwest YMCA's will be held on the campus next week. Previously Willamette university was designated as a center for the professional training of the YMCA secretaries, but this will be the first attempt to conduct the courses since the beginning of the war.

The school will be under the direction of Paul J. Campbell, assistant general secretary of the Pacific Northwest YMCA, and is sponsored by the Pacific Northwest area in-service training committee.

General arrangements are under the supervision of Prof. J. L. Knight and it is expected that this special week of training will bring YMCA representatives from Oregon, Washington, Montana, and Idaho.

Good Friday Chapel Slated Tomorrow

Tomorrow's Good Friday chapel will be carried out with the theme "Those Who Watched." Lois Messing Todd and Richard Spooner will lead the service and Eloise Rarey will provide the musical background.

The service will be short with a musical background and an art setting of Jerusalem by Marian Reamer. It will consist of stories and poems of the people and the thoughts that were in their minds.

Marge Grenfell is the general chairman for the chapel which is a project of the Interfaith council.

Monday's chapel speaker will be William Baillie of the U.S. Employment service. Baillie, a Salem Rotary club member, will speak on future development in Oregon. An all student vote will be taken during Monday chapel on the resolutions from the Reed college conference. The vote, scheduled this week, was delayed when ballots did not arrive for distribution.

AVC to Hear Journalist

Richard Neuberger, Oregonian special writer, NY Time correspondent, one-time state representative, will be main speaker at Wednesday's meeting of the American Veterans Committee, according to announcement from Janice Jones, secretary.

As an AVC member, Neuberger will discuss AVC's role in national affairs, and all interested veterans are invited to attend and participate in the open question period. Capitol room of the Chamber of Commerce is the new meeting place, with 8 p.m. set for the time of meeting.

Prof. John L. Knight, WU vice president and director of religious activities, who will be main speaker at Portland's city-wide Easter sunrise services Sunday.

BEEFS and BOUQUETS

To the Editor:

Our students here at Willamette are typical of those at other schools to the extent that when a dance is scheduled, they expect the best in decorations and entertainment. If these do not live up to expectations, many loud and long complaints are heard.

What students forget is that the dances are student-body affairs in which all are expected to take an active part.

An example of the typical reaction to this was evident during Friday afternoon and Saturday in the gym. A few loyal and interested students gave up their own time to make the trip to the gym and help with the decorations for the Queen's ball, but all too few. A handful of coeds carried the load. Practically none of WU's male students even showed a slight interest. All the living organizations on the campus were called with a plea for help, yet there was no increase in helping hands.

What this campus needs are a few individuals with enough interest in school activities to do something about the many who let others do the work while they enjoy the results.

—Member of the Decorating Committee

To the Editor:

Much is to be said about the spirit with which many students devote their time on the campus, working for the good of the cause, so to speak. It is great to see unity and loyalty, but I wonder if it is always appreciated? Things will have come to a pretty past when the labors of the students do not foster the full attention and cooperation from the university itself.

It cannot be determined how many of the active students on the campus read every inch of copy that appears in the "Collegian," but when the town papers carry the same story, three or four days in advance of the publication of the school paper, it is little wonder that the students don't find it interesting to re-read the news in the Collegian. The whole reason seems to be that the traditional SCOOPS that really belong to the local staff do not even reach the editor's office before she is able to read them in the Statesman or the Capital Journal.

It does appear that some of the things that should hit the school paper first could do so without hitting the censor's office upstairs in Eaton. After all, students who are taking journalism to learn the art of writing are not to be benefitted too much by copying from a story that is already written and published. Part of the fun of learning is to dig up the news.

Be it here suggested that the sources of information on the Willamette campus, no matter how small or large, turn to the Collegian to give out their scoops, and in doing so the whole student body will actually profit.

JERRY ANDERSON

No One 'Nose' the Trouble, or Even the Reason Why

And now Dr. H. H. Clanghorn, credit dentist, presents Kneass with the Nose. However, this may be a misleading statement as it is not Kneass, but rather Reder with the nose.

The Alpha hall fellows, not content with Wallulah Beauty elections and May Queen run-offs, had to start a fact finding poll and contest of their own.

Bill Reder, it seems, tiring of continual jabber about his olfactory bulge set out to prove that his was not the largest one at Alpha hall.

And so the race was on—three more men having been forced into it by some strange power. Contestants Reder, Marv Goodman, Connie Pavlock and Hank Ercolini were subjected to numerous trying tests.

What's Up Doc? Or Have You Seen Ben?

Bugs Bunny's home is here at Willamette! Sounds like a lot of idle talk to most Willamette students but it is a real and living thing to the boys and girls of the younger generation around Salem who attend the Bugs Bunny shows on Saturday afternoon at a downtown theater. If any of the ardent fans of this program are on the campus and haven't yet found out who the happy fellow is who takes the part of Bugs, it is none other than Ben "Bugs" Mosher.

Ben has gained such fame among the young fellows of this show that they know him by no other name and it is quite often that conversation among these Bugs Bunny fans while standing in line to get into the theater goes something like this when Ben walks by, "That's Bugs. Joey, there goes Bugs."

Ben isn't the only WU student in on this little show, however. Holding down the emcee job is Wes McWain, while Bill Halseth has the dangerous job of seeing that the mike wire doesn't get tangled up with the mob of eager participants in the audience participation of the show. Bud Raymus is another favorite of the kids who take in the show and the teen-age girls practically swoon when he gives forth with his Frankie Boy interpretations of the latest song hits.

The whole show is rather a noisy affair from the time Bugs comes on with his "What's up Doc?" to the signing off. The kids yell, scream and make noise

Sugar 'n' Spice, Oh Nuts

As the first finger of morning light pokes its way through the lattice and gently touches the lids of your circled eyes, a pang of remorse shocks you from your Sunday slumber. Time to rise, put in your teeth, don your formal (the pale blue one with the puffed sleeves and sweetheart neckline) and gracious smile in preparation for the most ingenious of all customs—a tea.

With last night's crushed gardenia in your hair you laboriously clasp the clammy hands of the receiving line while trying to remember your own name. Then, bracing yourself, you whirl and face the surging crowd of furs, feathers and giggles.

Amid the bevy of adverbs and adjectives pouring from perpetually moving mouths, you manage to make your affirmative reply heard when asked if you care for refreshments. Weak, but hopeful, you are seated near the table and wait patiently for—oh no,—but yes, peanuts and tea with lemon.

Taking the allotted time you munch separately each nut, and wash them down with gulps of tea. All this time, you are eagerly looking for the nearest way out, but you only discover that your way is blocked by new guests.

After another hour of mixing, you are ready for nourishment of any type—even tea. As the last person wanders out, you, thinking it an original idea, sneak back to the refreshment table to pick up whatever crumbs might be left. Too late. What was once a refined atmosphere is turned into a seething mass of struggling women, each grabbing for the last bit of cake.

JUST PLAIN BULL

I wish I was a little bug
Sitting on a tree
I wouldn't have to work at all
How happy I would be . . .

How well this exemplifies the spirit of the typical Willamette student now that spring, oh overworked word and subject, has come to visit us for a couple of days. But enough of this lovely season.

Maybe the Alpha Chi's won't be the only house on the campus spending their Easter vacation entertaining a national officer. Seems their next door neighbors, the Chi O's, have the same privilege.

Gifford H. Gilbert, potential student body president candidate, was seen streaking down State street in a pair of plaid shorts and yellow tee shirt. No one has yet discovered exactly what he was doing.

Habernicht's back and Willamette's got him—this means ADVENTURE! Honestly though, if you're in a bad mood, you can't stay that way long with Habby around. He'll tell jokes or hold your hand just to make you happy.

Laurel hall men have put the yard out by their house to good use. They've got a badminton net strung up on the lawn. This sport not only toughens the fellows' muscles, but also helps the gardener. The grass is so chewed up when they finish playing that the man doesn't have to bother mowing it.

Hooray, Hooray, we're all going to be spotted like an Easter egg over the weekend. Bev Briggs is in the infirmary being observed for a likely case of measles. Of course, Sunday she was at the Pi Phi tea . . . along with a large per cent of the campus. Such is life. Garnet Faunstalk has got them for sure . . . so she's really an isolated case up there.

Verne Bartsch was observed over in Collins all decked out in white coat, rubber gloves and white cap. When asked where his mask was he gave the soul stirring reply that he didn't need it . . . he was going to chloroform two frogs.

Now let me give you girls a sneak-preview of the current trends for the 1946 Easter season. Sally herself invited me to witness their unveiling. The first hat viewed was a relatively simple affair—a Pepsco-Cola bottle draped over the right eyebrow with matching "Capital Journal" waded classified ads. All this being held in place by an inflated Goodyear innertube size 6.00-16. The next rare beauty was, was, was,—NO! NO! I can't go on.

Look, Bim, that little mouse is devouring that big bat. Don't stand there, get the little mouse out of here before he comes over here after my beetles.

With next Sunday being Easter and since it's Bugs Bunny's birthday, an especially big show is being planned in which Ben will appear in a Bunny costume that is coming from Hollywood just for the occasion. So save your pennies until Saturday, then rush down and take in the show.

Hats In The Beltery . .

The annual parade of Easter bonnets this year should really prove to be worthy of note, especially to the old hip-boot that was seen lying on the bank of the Clackamas river half-filled with stagnant water and sediment. For, as everyone knows, every year the members of the opposite sex (female, that is) devote their creative genius to the art of acquiring the most fantastahorrible chapeaux offered (they even SELL the things) by the most exclusive millinery shops.

Just to give you an example of one of these Frankensteinian concoctions, this little by-play was observed on one of our downtown street corners. Well sir, it seems that a stumbling idiot had jostled a lady who was carrying a sack of groceries, including a pound of raw clams, parsnips, two jelly donuts, a slab of liver, a dozen eggs, two screwdrivers, and a yard of red crepe paper. Consequently, the contents of the sack were splattered hither and yon about the lady's feet. As she stooped to retrieve her ill-fated gravity stricken calories, a local pool hall gallant cereened to her aid. Quickly sweeping the remains into a jumbled armful, he presented them to the grateful housewife, remarking through technicolor filmed teeth: "Excuse me, Chicken, but youse dropped yer Easter hat."

GI Joe College Nabs Needed Vacation

This GI Bill gets more and more incredible as time goes by—now they tell us we can get a VACATION WITH PAY—just for the asking—but you've got to ask for it in black and white!

Seems that an allotted yearly 30-day subsistence leave piles up at a ratio of around 2½ days per month over and above regular holidays like Easter, Christmas and the all-too-brief intervals between school terms. If you intend to take in WU's summer session just forget about this deal for awhile, because GI continues through the 10-day break automatically.

Checking up, we find that vets who have studied a full school year at WU come this June 29 (end of spring term)—are eligible for 20 days' paid leave, while vets who registered spring term for the first time, have accumulated 10 days.

In either case, we'd say it's well worth whipping out pen and paper and addressing a request to Salem VA office, at 167 South High street. Incidentally their Mr. Smith suggests you might

Kayak, Otters Figure Value Of Necklace

A kayak full of sea otter pelts is the worth of one of the irreplaceable necklaces on display in the foyer of the library. Most of the exhibit consists of old Eskimo cultural pieces no longer made by the semi-civilized natives of the northland.

Esther Clausen, assistant librarian, has retrieved the exhibits that have appeared from the at present unhouseed Willamette museum. Until the museum is once more set up Miss Clausen will change the exhibits in the display cases periodically to give the student body hints of what the museum contains.

Arrival of V-12 on the campus necessitated the dismantling of the museum. It will soon be reorganized and classified in a manner similar to the system used to file books in the library, by Prof. W. Herman Clark, curator of the museum. Until that time Miss Clausen will continue to fill the show cases with new and different materials.

Campus MD's Hear Dr. Stone Tonight

That's all there is to it! Send the letter in, and after finals roll by, you can take off for the coast, mountains, or the nearest easy chair for that much needed rest and relaxation, while Uncle foots the bill . . . it's miraculous!

International Relations Club Fills Campus Gap

We caught the international relations meet at Chresto Cottage the other night, in the midst of a hot discussion of UN policy. And we started thinking how vital this group's function actually is around our highly organized campus.

This small alert club started only last term, and should, by its very nature, climb to the top of the list of organizations who play an active part in campus thought.

Just as the 51 nations of UN have their separate presidents, representatives . . . which are subordinate to the gigantic overall aims of UN—so should our campus with its numerous living organizations, religious clubs, honoraries, etc.—recognize this single group as programmed on an international basis, appealing to ALL public minded students. And as such an asset to campus organizations, it should be given whole-hearted encouragement and attention.

Right now, International Relations is working strenuously to awaken student interest in UN aims. You were asked to vote on certain recommendations drawn up by the NW Pacific College Congress. We suggest you study these resolutions and try to achieve a realistic attitude with your ballot. The veto, for example, raised controversy—remember this is tried and true UN—accept it as such, and concentrate on obvious needs. We particularly like the idea of a World University, with international medical and scientific research centers.

Independent Men, Women Host At SB Chresto Hop Wednesday

An afternoon dance, sponsored by the independent men and women of the campus, will be held Wednesday afternoon in Chresto cottage for the benefit of the entire student body. Hours are 4 to 5:30.

'Cat Manager Returns From Speech Trip

Clarence Wicks arrived home late yesterday from Stockton, Calif., where he had been participating in the Pi Kappa Delta tournament in Speech. He entered the finals in extemporaneous speaking and also took part in debate and after-dinner speaking.

He had planned to attend the speech tournament in Los Angeles according to a wire received by his wife Monday, but plans changed and he arrived home yesterday. Wicks took third place in two rounds of extempore and second in one. The rest of WU's speech contestants will remain in California for the remainder of this week.

Oliver's Book Leaves Printer In Early May

Publication date for "Giving Form to Ideas," Dr. Egbert S. Oliver's new book, has been set for early May. The book has been in preparation for several years and contains the articles of many literary and non-literary people. It is to be used as a classroom text and is intended, says Oliver, "to make some timely application of permanent scientific truth and philosophical knowledge."

On his recent trip in the east Oliver completed reading the proof for the book and conferred with his publishers in New York City. The selections are divided into nine sections and range from articles written by Greek philosophers to those written by students of Willamette. Essays of four Willamette sophomores, Kay Karnopp, Caroline Cooper, Corinne Engdahl and Geraldine Schmoker, will be included in the sections of Development of Ideas and Growing by Experience.

Vaquero Tschudy Ropes Flora, Makes Venezuelan Headlines

By Barbara Jones

Dr. and Mrs. Robert H. Tschudy who are now "at home" in Caracas, Venezuela, where he is doing research for the Creole Petroleum company, have written descriptive letters to Salem friends, telling of flora and fauna, climate and terrain and social and economic conditions in South America.

They report that the cost of living is really HIGH, and they have moved several times in an effort to find a home in keeping with their income. Though the trip south by Dutch airline seemed as though they were on a "magic carpet" over the beautiful Caribbean sea and the West Indies, there was no magic to help them unravel the difficulties of getting settled in a strange continent. Trunks were delayed and keys lost, the locks broken for inspection, the car shipped to the wrong destination and most of the tools missing. But all of this the "Company" would adjust.

Dr. and Mrs. Tschudy have gone on many interesting field trips and are impressed by the hundreds of as yet unnamed orchids. One specimen—a ground orchid—they carried back to their apartment. It was about the size of a finger nail and there are about a dozen blossoms on each stalk. The following day a small protectively colored caterpillar, pink with purple stripes, was found on the plant.

The letters abound with news of other biologists, botanists, geologists and ornithologists, of trips to Bogota, Columbia, to Maracay for "Carnival Week" and to the Rancho Grane and Maracaibo. Mrs. Tschudy is working temporarily as the librarian for the Creole Technical library, which keeps her busy while her husband is away on extended field trips.

A copy of "Ultimas Noticias," a tabloid newspaper published in Caracas, dated Friday, January 18, 1946, carries an interview with Tschudy, and over a picture of him is this headline—Robert A. Tschudy—"Professor of Natural Science and Doctor of Philosophy arriving lately in this country holds the opinion that the situation of the present world is better than that in the past post-war era."

On arriving the interviewer found Tschudy in shirt sleeves bending over his microscope. He was described as being clear eyed and thin, and was likened to a vaquero—cowboy in English. (Must have taken his ten gallon number with him!) A brief biographical sketch followed with emphasis on his work of teaching pre-medical students for the navy at Willamette university during the war.

International Club to Elect Fall Officers

The International Relations club will meet Wednesday in Chresto at 7:30 to organize a more effective discussion program for those who are interested in international affairs.

As evidenced by previous meetings, the club is a definite asset to the campus in promoting timely discussion topics. Those present will make out a program of speakers for the remainder of the school year and permanent officers will be elected for the coming year.

It is hoped that a schedule will be made out enabling the group to obtain up-to-the-minute speakers and discussion leaders. Every one is invited to come. President Jan Patterson reports that all suggestions for promoting the new organization will be accepted for consideration.

Duet Features Dobbs, Wife

As part of the Easter afternoon service at the Presbyterian church, Prof. and Mrs. Ralph Dobbs will play a two piano program. The Presbyterian choir will also appear on the program.

Selections by the Dobbs duo will be "Sonata in G Major," Scarlatti-Gobbi, "Chorale Prelude, 'Ah How Greeting'," Bach-Goldovsky, and "Symphonic Dance No. 1," Scott-Grainger.

The following Sunday, April 28, the choir and the Dobbses will repeat the same program in concert at the Portland art museum.

erones during the afternoon and a nickelodeon will furnish the music. There will be a coke bar and sandwiches available for the students.

Co-chairmen for the affair are Freta Karcher for the independent women and Don Douris for the independent men. Committee heads are chaperones, Tom Stahr; decorations, Joan Cooper; food, Don Hunsaker; music, Dan McLaughlin; publicity, Ro Finley; and cleanup, Velle Felton.

First all-student informal dance of the semester, Wednesday's hop will be similar to the 'Cat Cavern hops held last year.

Independents Choose Heads

At a meeting yesterday noon independent men chose Dale Mansfield as their chairman for the semester. Other men chosen for offices were Paul Whitmore, vice chairman; Marion Crews, secretary-treasurer, and Don Douris, social chairman.

Several social events are being planned by the group. Scheduled for May 17 is a formal dinner dance sponsored jointly by independent men and women.

All men interested in joining the group should contact one of the men mentioned above. Success of the group depends on full participation of campus independent men, the chairman stated.

Date of Dorm Formal Set For April 27

Plans for the inter-dorm formal are now under way by the women of Lausanne and Fredrickson halls and town women. Jean Caldwell, social chairman of Lausanne, is in charge of the affair. Assisting her as head of the various committees are Kathleen Secord, decorations, Virgilia Barton, programs, Janie Fisher, orchestra, Dorothy Gross, refreshments, Ellen Forslund, clean up, and RoJean Finley, patrons.

Kappas Plan Semester's Activities

Kappa Gamma Rho members and pledges outlined plans for an extensive social calendar at their banquet in the Quelle cafe Monday night. Two highlights of the season are to be the beach party late in the season and the Kappa formal dance.

The Kappas are continuing to have exchange parties with campus sororities. A party is scheduled with Alpha Chi Omega for Tuesday, Friday of the same week. Kappa Gamma Rho is planning an informal dance, which will be followed by May Weekend's serenade and the play which will be attended by all Kappas sitting in a block section of seats with dates. The play will be followed by a party.

A chapel program, which is being devised to entertain the student body, will be presented some time between Easter and the Kappa formal. Additional soda-sips and exchange parties with the sororities are planned for later in the semester. In the midst of these social events the Kappa beach party is scheduled for Short Sand beach.

Social chairman and first vice president Bob Fletcher is engineering most of the activities, aided by Gaylord Howard, Blaine Hanks, Pi Edwards and the rest of the fraternity. Dale Smith and Dick Larson are preparing material for the Kappas' participation in the May Weekend interfraternity sing.

Thinclads Commence Competition Saturday

Bearcat Tracksters to Open In Three Way Meet at OSC

Coach Walt Erickson's untried scant clads will invade Oregon State's north forty Saturday afternoon to challenge the spike artists of Portland U. and Oregon State in a three-way clash. The meet is scheduled to start at 2 p.m. at Bell field. It will be a pre-conference test giving Erickson a chance to see what the Bearcats can do in track and field.

Willamette's cinder squad is just beginning to shape up though it is not conditioned enough for the caliber of the coming meet. As yet none of the winged-footers have been clocked, so Erickson doesn't know what to expect. Until this week poor weather conditions have discouraged track activities throughout the northwest. The coming meet will prove to be more of a good stiff work-out for the Bearcats than a try for cinder laurels.

Willamette's only threat lies in the weight division, lead by big Paul Cookingham, who is making good distances in heaving the discus and shot.

Both Oregon State and Portland have been training for some time and both teams have been victorious in previous dual meets. The Orangemen defeated the much vaunted University of Oregon tracksters in a relay meet last Saturday. Good early season times and field performances were exhibited by both squads. The Pilots nosed out Pacific in a close dual meet, though the times recorded weren't very impressive.

Men who are expected to see action Saturday are Bob Jewell and Bob East, high jump; Bill Byrd, broad jump; John Williams, 440; Con Pavlock, relay and 440; Bob Hill, Hank Ercolini, Herb Johnsrud, Ernest Miller, Paul Cookingham, weights; Charles Winkenwerder, javelin and sprints; Darrell Lewis, sprint and relay; Marvin Goodman, sprints and broad jump; Ben Mosher, low hurdles; Herb Lucas, 880; Rex Hardy, sprints and relay; Lowell Yeager, sprints and broad jump, and Dick Highberger, pole vault.

Coach Erickson wishes to thank the freshman class for the welcome improvements made on the local oval freshman work day. He is pleased with the show of spirit, especially on the part of the fairer sex.

Whitman-Idaho Split

Whitman college and University of Idaho split a four-game series last weekend on Borleske field in Walla Walla. Friday afternoon saw the Missionaries knock over the Vandals in the first 7-2, while dropping the nightcap by a 7 to 5 count. The Saturday duel provided Whitman with an 8-3 win and a 5-3 defeat.

The four games, while close in score were quite ragged in spots, with many unearned runs caused by errors.

'Cat Racquet Welders Open Court Season

Coach Bud Gilmore and his Bearcat racquet welders commence their intercollegiate competition this week with matches against Oregon State college yesterday and a match with the University of Oregon today. Several weeks of constant practice have brought Gilmore's six man team in shape for active competition.

These matches and others to come in the near future will be primarily to get the courtmen into shape for the Northwest conference meet to be held in Portland May 18. Ten men answered the team call several weeks ago and have been practicing when weather permitted for a position on the team. To date only four of the six man team have been named—Wayne Sturdivant, Bill Bonnington, Dave Bristow, and Dick Smith have team berths with the remainder to be selected as matches are played.

Other matches on Willamette's home series with Reed college, schedule include a home and Portland university, Pacific university and Linfield.

OSC Downs Linfield

Behind the five hit pitching of Bob Clarke, freshman from Yakima, Wash., Oregon State's baseball team concluded its pre-season schedule by soundly trouncing Linfield, 13 to 1, at Corvallis Tuesday. The victory gave the Beavers a record of five wins and two losses to date. The game for Linfield was likewise their last before commencing NW conference competition on Friday against Willamette.

The Orangemen took the lead in the second when they scored two runs on two hits, two stolen bases and an error. Six Beaver runs crossed the plate in the eighth on four hits, including a triple by Clarke which drove in three runs.

Willamette's team in order of play was Bud Reynolds, Chuck Reynolds, Putnam, Fred Graham, Merle Long and Rich Wicks.

Personality Parade

Starting in 1941 EARL HAMPTON, like many other returning vets, thought that he would be through at Willamette in '45. However, with the coming of the war Earl found himself being pushed around in the naval circle of activity. After the navy called in February of '43 Earl found his work in San Diego as a specialists aid, second class, assisting in athletics. As company commander, his station became permanent until he was discharged in December, 1945. While at the California base he played some basketball for the navy team of Camp Elliot.

Solons Down WU

SOLONS Down WU 13 1 11½m In a very one sided game yesterday at Water's Park the Salem Senators defeated the Willamette baseball nine by a 13-1 score. This was the second defeat for the WU club at the hands of the Solons this week.

Jim Foster was the starting pitcher for the Solons and was relieved by Jack Shaeffer at the end of the fifth. The Bearcats used three pitchers on the mound, Howard Olson, Clay Patterson, and Carl Butte, each hurling three innings apiece.

The Solons got 13 hits during the game while WU had to be content with eight and five errors. Willamette's score came in the sixth heat.

OSC Swamps WU Golfers

Willamette's golf team teed off for their first interscholastic competition Saturday against Oregon State at Corvallis. When the final dust from all shots had cleared, State's six-man teams rested victors by a 26-1 count. Thirty-six holes were played, which included individual matches and best ball foursomes.

The morning round which saw Bearcat divot diggers team up for the best ball game, was a shut-out for OSC. The score on that count was 9 to 0, best score being fired by Beaver Ken Strong was a 74. Strong was closely followed by teammate Bill Webber with a 75. Willamette's best was Roger Putman with a 77.

In the afternoon things were much the same with the State team taking 17 of 18 individual match point. Putnam again showed well by capturing the only Bearcat point of the day in defeating his opponents in the back nine.

Hampton Batting

Willamette's number one and two hitters traded places last week, Earl Hampton moving up to the top notch with Joe Dispenzere slipping to a close second. Both are still batting the ball at a better than four hundred clip.

Hampton connected for eight hits in 17 trips to elevate his average to .455, ten percentage points better than the last calculations. Dispenzere in getting three for eleven in three Oregon State games dropped 134 points to give him a .409 total in six games.

In the RBI column Hampton again leads with 11 and Dispenzere follows with nine runs batted in.

Contrary to all belief, Earl proves that some men remember their wedding dates, because on June 27, 1944, he was very happily married to his wife "Connie."

March 11, 1946, saw Earl enrolling at Willamette again to finish his history major under Dr. Lovell's guidance. Being in his sophomore year, Earl will be able to gun for the Bearcats for another two full years.

Returning to 1941 we would see Earl going to Hawaii with the 'Cat traveling squad as full-back. It is not certain that he'll turn out for that position next fall, but it is fairly certain that he will be a part of the revised backfield for Coach Walter Erickson.

Right now Earl is batting around .450 and doing a good job on second base. He is a firm believer in the team and thinks that with a better field for practice the Hanauka nine would be doing very nicely.

Hailing from Molalla, Oregon, Earl is one of the better examples of "Local Boy Makes Good."

SPORTLIGHTS

By GRAHAM

As was mentioned once before and will be brought to attention again—the sons of Portland university are expending themselves in production of an athletic reputation which will put all others in the background. To date they are well on the way to success in their bid for fame. Jack Wilson, former Boston Red Sox hurler and presently employed as tutor for Portland's highly touted baseballers has caused northwest colleges to look up and take notice. If feats to date are any indication of what is to be expected in the future—the eyes of those concerned will be bulging. The Salem Senators WIL contenders were of the first to taste a bit of the poison tossed out by the Pilots. These Senators were dropped 9-6 for their only defeat thus far in their training schedule. It might be added that they were a might lucky to even walk off the field with a smell of victory. Of course the ultimate results of said defeat were disastrous for Salem's rep., so they challenged Portland again. The second duel was a Salem victory, but had Portland not been forced to use their two ace chuckers earlier in the week at the U of O we hate to think of the embarrassment that the Senators would probably be suffering.

Oregon Drops Two

Oregon's nine was another outfit to feel the pace set by Portland. To date they have dropped two of three tests, one being a one hitter (infield single) tossed by a little man by the name of Carloscio—another a six hitter pitched by Vince Pesky, brother of big times Johnny Pesky. Willamette has yet to see the powerful Pilots in action, but when that time comes (and it will next Tuesday) the consequences could be pretty awful, unless the infield sorespots can be remedied.

Fielding Poor

The Bearcats themselves, while potentially a good ball club just haven't hit their stride. The hitting and pitching is consistent enough, but that same old ailment is still bothering them—POOR fielding. Hanauka had better solve his problem in a hurry, too, or our woeful 'Cats will find themselves down and out as far as the northwest conference is concerned, for come this Friday Linfield college will be invading the Salem lair for the opening conference contest. Linfield to date has shown very little more than Willamette, but have had fewer contests to get warmed up in. This will be the first in the western series to determine which of the three WU, Pacific, or Linfield will be journeying to Walla Walla for the conference playoffs with the winner of the eastern leg of the conference Whitman and College of Idaho will be competing to represent the eastern division.

Track repairs began in earnest last week with the county grader coming down, to clean it up and 35 members of the freshman class do the rest. The many boulders which once adorned the track along with an excess of large holes are now no more. The finishing touch to a fine job would be a topping of cinders—but that at the time is a sad question. It seems that all of the cinders in the northwest are tied up at the moment. The Union Pacific (or some such railway concern) had a few to spare, these being promptly snared by Portland high schools. Director of Athletics Walt Erickson, has his bid in for a load of cinders—but his hopes aren't too high—sand is the alternative. Jumping pits have already been dug and a soft bed of sawdust laid for those inclined toward high jumping, broad jumping and pole vaulting. All in all the track situation is well in hand.

Patterson to Pitch Conference Game With Linfield Tomorrow

Willamette's Bearcats, after a not too heavy pre-conference schedule will open their conference play tomorrow against Linfield college at George Waters field in Salem. Little is known of the Wildcats to date, except that they are traditionally producers of good baseball material, according to 'Cat coach Bill Hanauska.

Hanauska will be starting his number one hurler Clay Patterson, with Howard Olsen as his ace in the hole should Patterson falter somewhere along the line in the nine inning tilt. Howard Blanding as usual will be the battery mate with remainder of the lineup being much the same as in previous games.

Playing definitely out of their class, the Willamette Bearcat baseball nine lost 9-1 to the Salem Senators at Waters' park Monday afternoon. The game was one of the many practice tilts scheduled this week for the Senators, who are finishing up their training in preparation for the opening of their regular season of play.

Coach Bill Hanauska of the Willamette squad pitched the first five innings of the game. Hanauska is a proball player and is under contract with the Brooklyn Dodgers, but he refused to report to the Fort Worth, Texas, camp this spring. Hanauska saw the Senators touch him for eight hits but only two earned runs in the five heats he pitched. Howard Olsen followed Hanauska in the pitching box and gave up one hit during his stay.

Andy Adams worked the mound for five heats for the Solons and allowed two hits and no runs during his stay. Steve Gerkin finished up for the Senators and gave three hits and the lone earned run to the WU nine.

The Bearcats collected five hits from the Solons and Ollie Williams led this field with two singles. George Vico led the Senator batting attack with a three bagger and Ralph Arnott got two hits and drove in three runs as his contribution to the Senators' attack.

Hanauska's Tossers Drop Two Games

Oregon State's baseball nine turned back the Willamette Bearcats twice over the weekend by taking both games of a doubleheader played on the Corvallis diamond, 15-8 and 3-2. This was the third straight win for the Beavers over the 'Cats for the season.

Clay Patterson, a southpaw, was credited with the loss in the first game of the day, but it wasn't all his fault even though he did allow 14 hits during the contest. Most of the loss was accredited to bad fielding that has been the Willamette weak spot all during the season so far. Nine runs came across the plate for the OSCers in a big third inning but not one of the runs was earned.

Don Cecil worked five innings for the winning Beavers and gave up six runs during his stay on the mound. Bill Kruger finished up the game for the winners. In the batting department, Cecil handed in a perfect record with three-in-three. Earl Hampton led the 'Cats with three hits and Joe Dispenzieri got two.

In the second game of the day the WU defense folded at the wrong time and the Beavers scored unearned runs in the fifth and sixth heats. Carl Butte pitched for the WU nine and Bill Frazer held down the mound for the OSC squad. Both pitchers allowed five hits. Hampton led the hitting for the 'Cats with three hits, one of them being a double.

With some two weeks of competition under their belts, intramural volleyballers are entering into the latter half of the first round of competition with only two teams boasting undefeated records. The "Rubes," living up to their name with all sorts of clowning antics, and the rough and ready representatives of the "W" Club are the only outfits that so far have not left the floor with their half of the score on the short end. The game scheduled between the two sextets for the noon of April 30, will undoubtedly be the deciding factor in this year's title chase.

In the seven team mixed volleyball league, each squad has so far played but one game, with the Sigma Tau-Dee Gee, "W" Club, and Independent combos showing their heels to the rest at the present time.

Action in the loop this noon will pit the Lettermen against the Sigma Taus, and Law School taking on the Kappa Gamma Rho lads. Competition in the "coeducational" circuit will include games between the representatives of the "W" Club and the Law School-Pi Phi duet, and the Faculty against the Independents.

Doug Olds, senior director of the intramural activities, announced that softball will begin within the next two weeks. One game will be played each Tuesday and Thursday until after the first of May, when two games will be played twice a week.

Volleyball schedule for the rest of this month:

Thursday, April 18
Law School vs. Kappas, Lettermen vs. Sigma Tau, "W" Club vs. Law-Pi Phi, Faculty vs. Independents.

Tuesday, April 23
Alpha Psi vs. Rubes, Law School vs. Faculty, Sigma Tau, DG vs. "W" Club.

Thursday, April 25
Lettermen vs. Independents, Sigma Tau vs. Kappas, Sig Tau-Dee Gee vs. Faculty, Independents vs. Law-Pi Phi.

Tuesday, April 30
Alpha Psi vs. Law School, Lettermen vs. Rubes, Alpha Psi-Chi O vs. Faculty.

All games in the men's league will be played at 11:40 and in mixed league at 12:15.

Frosh Campus Day Sees Poor Turnout

With one of the poorest turnouts in the history of "Freshmen Campus Days" a small contingent of the frosh class worked over the Willamette track Friday. Don Preiss, frosh prexy, reported that the afternoon was spent in raking the rocks off the track and in digging pits for the broad jump, high jump and pole vaulting arenas. After their work was completed the freshmen adjourned to the Cavern where coeds that turned out for the work day were treated to sodas by the freshmen.

Play Day

Information was given out today concerning the Play Day which will be given April 27th from 10 to 4:30. The Women's Athletic association is sponsoring the event and similar organizations in other colleges in the vicinity and in Willamette's conference have been invited to participate in the events.

The meet will not be in the form of inter-collegiate competition, but will emphasize a getting acquainted policy in order to further relationships with other colleges. Five activities will be available simultaneously and a woman may participate in any that she chooses.

Barbara Kent is chairman of the affair, and she has appointed the following committees to help her. On the welcome committee is Ruth Barber, chairman; Wilma Gorton, Ellen Forslund and Nan Wilcox. Refreshments will be handled by Bonnie Burnet, chairman; Dorothy Boyd and Barbara Crawford. The making of schedules and name cards will be done by Pat Schneider, chairman; Ruth Barber and Juanita Moe. Marjorie Stockman is in charge of locating a place for refreshments and Doris Fowler is to get Chresto cottage in order. Nan Wilcox and Marion Reamer are equipment managers.

Managers and their committees of the various sports include for tennis, Helen Stout, Jerry Jewett, Muriel Oliver and Betty Reeves; for softball, Helen Larson, Dorothy Richardson, Marjorie Stockman and Marion Reamer; for archery, Lora Curtis and Claire Toomb; for ping pong, Margie Smith, Nancy Trask and Doris Fowler; for badminton, Virginia Cannon, Betty Levine, Betty Willard and Margaret Austin.

Mrs. Jean Williams is the directing supervisor.

Tennis Tournament

Women's intramural tennis will be inaugurated tomorrow and will continue for the next couple of weeks whenever the weather permits, announced Helen Stout, tennis manager, today. The various living groups and organizations have entered representatives; however, others may enter still if they see Mrs.

Williams immediately.

Entrants as they are placed on the tournament ladder include Jean McLaughlin, Nancy Stuart, Helen Stout, Ellen Forslund, Bernice Hughes, Aldene Gould, Winona Dillard, Nan Wilcox, Virginia Cannon, Muriel Oliver, Mary Ann Wittliff, Mary Phyllis Gerth, Barbara Sheridan and Barbara Miller.

Volleyball Mix-up

The co-recreational volleyball games are continuing this week with many of the coeds revealing unsuspected athletic talents. Although most of the participants need more training and a workable knowledge of the science of the game, and despite the confusing original rules the series have proved most successful according to various reports.

Adding much to the lost cause of the faculty's team was Mrs. Minnie Mortimore in canary yellow sharskin shorts and her good serve. Also, in yellow shorts and showing off exquisite legs is Cecil Connors and his pal Cookingham. Promoting good strategy and playing for their team are independents Ellen Forslund, Helen Larson and Dorothy Richardson who is very talented at killing and placing her shots.

Oregon State Thumps 'Cats

In the first of a series of three games played over the weekend the Oregon State Beavers defeated the Willamette baseball nine with a decisive score of 17-7. Charlie Sauvian, a freshman southpaw from Woodburn, pitched for the winning OSC squad.

The games were originally scheduled for Waters park here in Salem but were shifted to the Corvallis diamond at the last minute because the Beaver field was in better playing condition.

Willamette scored four runs on two OSC errors and two singles in the third. Sauvian kept the Bearcat batting down to seven hits during the tilt and also added 10 fanned batters to his record. Score:

New Catalog Shows Fall Term Cost, Curriculum Changes

WU's new catalog for the fall term announces changes in university costs and living expenses and altered curriculum, according to Dr. Henry Köhler, editor of the publication. The catalog is off the press and now ready for distribution.

Tuition costs for next year will be the same as this year. Pending a constitutional vote of the student body, student body membership fees will be raised to $15. Room and board at Lausanne hall will be $175, an increase of $25. This increase is necessary due to longer semesters and higher cost of facilities. Everyone living in the other quarters will be charged $160.

Bible History will be changed in the curriculum from a 2-hour one semester course to a 4-hour two semester course. Bible Literature will not be offered separately, as these two subjects are being combined under the heading Bible History and Literature.

Upper division students have opportunity for three new courses being added to the Department of Education. They are:

Educational Tests and Measurements to be conducted jointly by Dr. L. A. Riggs, Dr. Robert E. Lantz and Dr. Chester F. Luther.

Secondary School Curriculum under Lantz, and Service Aspects of Community Life, a series of special lectures with Riggs in charge. This course is meant to provide a comprehensive view of local community services, of use and interest to the citizen as an important part of the resources offered him by community life.

As far as is known now, Dean Daniel H. Schulze plans to offer a course in Greek. Russian also will be taught if a professor can be found to fill this post.

Addition of these courses will depend, however, upon the success of the university in securing new professors. Willamette is looking for additional instructors in foreign languages and the social sciences, particularly history, sociology and economics and for pre-engineering.

Students may obtain a new catalog by asking for it at the Registrar's office.

French Camp Director Here With Movies

French classes enjoyed Thursday afternoon a visit from Dorothy M. Punderson, who is the director of Le Camp Francais. Miss Punderson showed movies in technicolor, which were taken at Le Camp Francais, which is located at Strathcona Lodge, Shawnigan Lake, British Columbia, Canada. She also showed some which were taken at Lake Minatoka, Minn., where the camp was held during the war years.

Miss Punderson also entertained the students with French Folk songs, among which she sang the favorite "La Vie Entre Nous est si Belle."

She gave an address in French, the purpose of which was to interest the students in attending Le Camp Francais, which is beginning its ninth season on July 5.

Miss Punderson was the house guest of Miss Marion Morange on Thursday evening. With her was her brown cocker spaniel which obeys only when spoken to in French.

The Amen Corner

With the coming of the training courses for YMCA secretaries to the campus, it seems at least someone should be inspired enough to start plugging toward that goal—a YMCA organization here on the campus. Why the lack of interest is, we can't figure out, but at present it looks like a pretty desperate situation to cope with.

Proud—We Should Be

It seems that Prof. Knight is really going places in the short time he's been out here in the wild and woolly west. The latest achievement was being asked to speak at the Sunrise Services in Portland. The speakers are picked from all over the country, and are noteworthy people. Must be your irresistible personality, huh, prof?

Communion To Be Held

Tonight at the Methodist church, communion services will be held. At 7:00 there will be a short meeting in the Carrier room for a brief worship service. Governor Earl Snell will give an address "World's Need of Spiritual Faith." The worship will end with a candlelight service.

Also Sunday night an Easter pageant will be held in the church at 6:30 with Wesley meeting for an informal discussion meeting. Frank Bennett will speak on Easter.

Everybody is invited to attend these functions—whether he be of the Methodist faith or not.

Another thing that came to our attention was the personal touch that Dr. L. A. Riggs added to the spirit of Easter, by sending out programs and letters to each of the students. More people like that, taking an interest in the students themselves, would do a lot for the morale of church activities on the campus.

Life of Peter

Continuing their discussion of the life and writings of Peter Inter-Varsity will meet in room 203, Music hall tonight from 6:30 to 7:30. Miss Dorothy Rensch, IVCF staff member, will lead the discussion. Group singing and special music will be included in the program.

Big event for next Thursday's meeting, April 26, will be the coming of Zarryl Brown, a former Willamette student, who is now a missionary candidate to Sumatra.

No Meeting

The Westminster Fellowship have postponed their meeting till the Sunday after Easter.

Fun Is Planned

On May 1 at Chresto, Father O'Connell from Shaw, Ore., will speak to the Catholic club. Hot dogs will be roasted around the fire during the meeting—all in all, an informal meeting. Father Vincent Koppert will attend the meeting.

Soph Glee Banners Arrive at SB Office

Sophomore Miniature Freshman Glee banners have arrived at the student body office and are available to participating members of the winning class upon presentation of last semester's student body cards.

Each year winners of the interclass song rivalry are presented with small replicas of the large Glee banner in token of their victory.

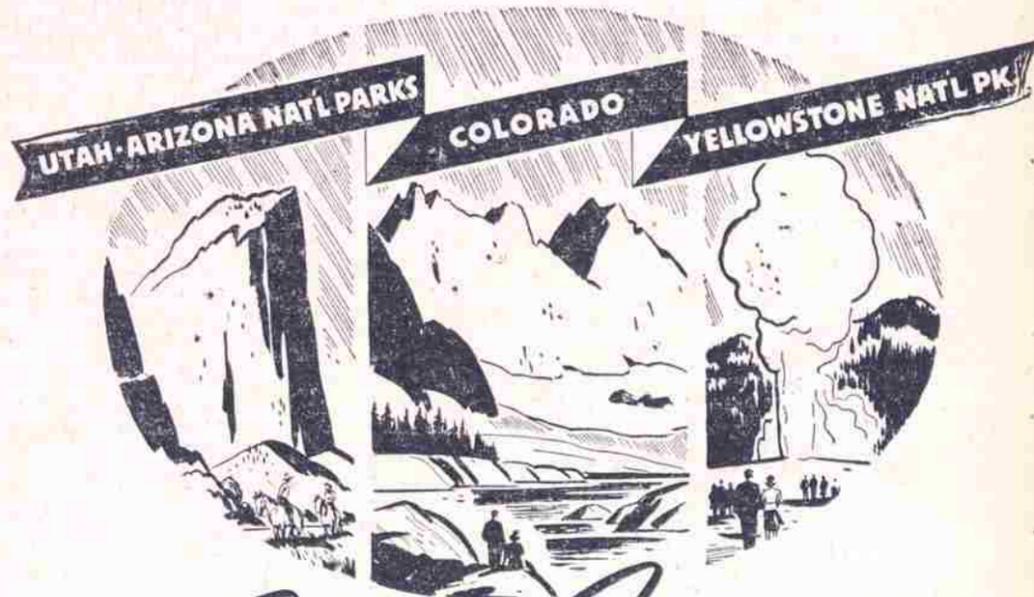

Laughlin Speaks To HS Seniors

Dr. S. B. Laughlin will speak this morning at Waller hall to 85 seniors from the Newberg union high school, who are in Salem to visit the state institutions. Laughlin will tell the students something of what to expect on their visit to the institutions.

Another group on the campus this week consisted of 70 seniors from Park Rose high school in Portland. Prof. John L. Knight lectured to them about the historical significance of Willamette and conducted them on a tour of the campus.

Rahe Elected Speech Prexy

Dr. Herbert E. Rahe, Willamette's forensic, speech and radio director, was elected president of the Oregon Speech association at its meeting at the Heathman Hotel in Portland last week. Amanda Anderson of Salem high school, outgoing president, was director of the meeting.
