Many Events Scheduled For Weekend

By Nadene Mathews

With the freshmen putting the campus in epic-and-span condition at the annual leaf rake at four this morning, the 1942 Homecoming activities opened today on the Willamette university campus. This will be the last menial task for the freshmen if they win the traditional freshman-sophomore bag rush tomorrow between halves of the Willamette-CPS game, according to Kent and Keith Markee, co-managers of the 20th annual Homecoming.

"The Homecoming celebration this year was planned for the special pleasure of parents as well as alumni and friends of the students. This is the first time a special event has been planned for the parents of university students, and the schedule of events, from the dance tonight to the presentation of "The Philadelphia Story" tomorrow night, is planned to give them a sample of Willamette life and hospitality," the Markees said.

Parents, alums and students will dance tonight from 8:30 until 11:30 in the gym to the music of Had Reeves' 11-piece orchestra from Oregon State college. A large Bearcat mural in red and aqua designed and painted by David Foster will serve as a backdrop for the orchestra and an attraction for all other events held in the gym. Around the balcony will be white line-figure caricatures on red, depicting Willamette life and activities from the wearing of wooden shoes, to the wooing and winning of women. Soft rose lights will play on white panels flanking the murals, and the cardinal, aqua and white color scheme is to be carried out in the false ceiling. Special lighting effects will be used by the band, too. (Continued on Page 11)

Band Slates Field Show

Marching band members this week braved the winter elements—rain, mud, cold—and also 4 o'clock gym classes to practice field maneuvers for the annual Homecoming game. Despite prospects of rain (and the actuality of it) maneuvers have gradually improved so that a real show should be forthcoming tomorrow, according to Director Lewis Pankaskie.

Two freshmen women, Phyllis Neal and Olive Torbet, have been added to the majorette group and together with Drum Major Chuck Morris will make their debut at tomorrow's game.

Frosh Leaf-Rake in Early AM Opens Homecoming Festivities

The combination of Homecoming, six-weeks exams, a 12-page Collegian, and the annual frosh leaf-rake were just about too much for the Lausanne ladies this week. Just after retiring at about 2 a. m. after studying for that 8:40 Friday morning test, they were rudely and unmusically awakened by the male frosh serenading the Lausanne frosh to get up (at 4 a. m.). It didn't take more than 30 minutes for the last frosh to vacate the place, but alas, at 6:30 came Lausanne's rising bell which is played to the time of "You Gotta Get Up" all on one key. Then at 7, you really gotta get up, that is, if you want any breakfast at the hall. With unfond memories of last year's frosh who came in from the leaf-rake rantin' ravin' hungry and ate up all the food, the upperclass women trooped down a bit apprehensively, but to their joy they found their breakfast intact and untouched.

This mystery was solved by further investigation which disclosed that the frosh had breakfasted at the 'Cat Cavern on donuts and coffee after their work of raking the leaves and dumping them into the hole (formerly Kimball hall).

Those who harbored thoughts of sweet dreams between breakfast and class, however, had them turned into nightmares, because the frosh had to come home and get ready for Western Civ.

Logger Team Strongest in Years As Annual Sweetland Tilt Nears

By Bill Habernicht

For the first time in ten years Willamette Bearcats will face a College of Puget Sound team that comes up to the needs of the local team, for a Homecoming game. The Lumberjacks, possibly inspired by Dr. R. Franklin Thompson's coming to their campus, are looking forward to a "anybody's game" tilt tomorrow afternoon.

After the two o'clock game tomorrow afternoon, all will know whether the Loggers have finally outrun the Willamette standard of football to take home a win. The Loggers are undefeated in the last three games. This is an event unprecedented for nearly a decade.

'Cats Handicapped

The 'Cats with the loss of their two ends, Marshall Barbour and Ralph Rude will be facing their toughest conference game they have encountered for the past two years. Captain Teddy Ogdahl has been out of scrimmage for the past week, but was reported last night to be in top shape for tomorrow's encounter.

The Loggers will be depending upon their pass pitching Jack Spencer and their line smashing Bill McMaster in the tilt. The Tacomans have been reported as saying that these two lads should be able to keep our Bearcats from getting bored with the contest.

Rally Squad Set for Game

Jane Findley, Helen Craven and Myra Madsen were chosen this week to complete the rally committee which will decorate both sides of the field and the goal posts for the Homecoming game Saturday.

The girls will wear white sweaters with a red letter and one will have a white skirt while the other two will wear blue. Boys will continue with all white uniforms.

Those Markees . . .

The Markees have scored again. But then those who have known them on the campus for two years realize by now that they never miss.

Coming from their Canby high school alma mater two years ago as already leaders among their fellow students, they were not long on the Willamette campus before they came to be known for their leadership, scholarship and friendship, of which the last is far from the least.

From the start the twins have been outstanding on the campus. Their contagious enthusiasm, common sense and wit, plus a consistent modesty could hardly help but be a winning formula. Many achievements in student leadership have gone on their record while they were both maintaining a near four-point grade average. It will be a great loss to the campus as a whole and to each student individually when the boys leave Willamette to enter medical school at the end of this semester.

It was a long step toward a successful Homecoming celebration when the executive council named those double trouble-shooters as co-managers of the annual event. Working under financial and other handicaps, the Markees Keith and Kent have introduced innovations and organized preparations for what promises to be an unsurpassed Homecoming celebration.

They are our nominees for recipients of a great big orchid apiece. Thanks again, Markees, for, among many other things, a really well-planned Homecoming.

Hi, Mom and Dad . . .

To the first wartime Homecoming celebration at Willamette we welcome the parents as well as grads.

We wanted you to come, parents, because we felt that, in view of the part you play in giving us the privilege of attending college, we owe you some official recognition in our program of campus activity.

We believed you would be interested in what happens to your sons and daughters after you loose their hands from the apron strings and, perhaps a bit dubiously, send them off to face alone the awesome Deans, the stern professors and the cold, cruel world of campus life.

We hope you have come to join us in this annual event because you want to get acquainted with Willamette, her professors, students, campus and traditions. We want you to feel that we are representing you here and that you are a part of the Willamette family.

And we're glad you're here because—well, heck; it's just good to see you. Hi, folks!

Dear PRIVATE JOHNNY

Darling:

Of course I can't mention the weather, but that stuff that precipitates is, and that other stuff is blowing the leaves like it was a rush order to harvest them. The gutters are already full of leaves and the walks are full of puddles. It's fun to go walking; there are two techniques, the unprotected moccasin technique which is a lively and diverting game of choosing the high spots. Interesting too, because the feet soon feel chilled and vigorous plodding is demanded to keep the circulation up. The rubber boot technique is a straight path through puddles and gutters with only a little necessity of caution concerning depth.

Remember the fire escape at Lausanne? You should. Remember the night I was wearing a formal and high heels and almost got stuck and you had to—well, we won't go into that. This year's crop of Laus-e-Annes have discovered the fire escape too, and very well polished it's kept these days, weather to the contrary. Probably because it's the end of the month and the "late pers" have been used up.

All of this is very calm in the face of Homecoming tomorrow. When I think of all the places I've got to be at once tomorrow I'm reminded of the resolution I make every year that I'll enjoy these school holidays as a spectator instead of rushing around participating. Honestly though, I wish you and all the fellows could come "home" for tomorrow. Really it begins tonight, with the dance in the gym, with an orchestra and everything. There's the leaf rake in the morning for the freshmen, then the game with CPS, "Thompson's Terrors" in the afternoon, followed by a mixer in the gym with supper for everybody. My folks are coming; there's some of the faculty I want them to meet, the profs I don't have. I'm excited about an all-school get-together; so rare but so good, yes?

Finally there's the play and confidentially I snuck into a rehearsal t'other night for a snuck, I mean, sneak prevue, and it's a riot. Funny as anything and funnier than most. It really is comical to see Barbara Hathaway as a dramatic thirteen-year-old in ballet slippers and a false accent. I know that YOU would enjoy Uncle Willy, a wealthy old aristocrat whose eccentricity runs to pinching ladies' behinds. And Steinbock, honestly, if you could see him as the executive self-styled out of a coal miner you too would agree that as Tracy (Lois Phillips) says, "it's wonderful what a little soap and water can do." And there's some pretty torrid stuff between Cordy and Puck, too; all in all I can hardly wait. Furthermore it only costs a nickle to get in; remember that amendment to the constitution last year? And of course my student body card. And it's just at Salem high so I won't have to walk far. And still I wish you were here to go with me; ain't that devotion?

If I had time I would reprimand you for your cool letters. You'd think you were in Alaska, or is that a military secret. Really, though, it's disgusting; I could let anybody in the House read your letters without a blush; that can't happen!

Love I think,
Willie.

For MEN Only

By Gil Lieser

ANY UM-BR-ELLAS TODAY? . . . Pipe what those dudes of the diamond, Clint Cameron and Earl Toolson are carrying around in lieu of walking sticks. Grandpa's old black bumbershoots have been requisitioned to keep the rain off the receding foreheads of those Waukeegan wolves for the duration of the winter . . . styled for men only.

PATRIOTISM EVERYWHERE—but not a flag in sight. Wonder what our navy visitors thought Tuesday when Willamette students arose in chapel to sing the Star Spangled Banner without a flag to fix their gaze on . . . and tomorrow for the second time this fall our band will parade to the center of the field before game time to play the traditional Star Spangled Banner, but again no flag to look to. Flag-waving is only one small part of our patriotic duty, but its absence is the first to be noticed. Already visitors to Willamette have commented on the obvious absence of the American flag on this campus, and we are due for a lot more of the same this weekend.

DOES WILLAMETTE EVEN OWN AN AMERICAN FLAG? . . . If it does why is it ashamed to display it . . . If it doesn't perhaps the students should take up a collection since it seems our school can't afford to purchase one. This writer has been approached by two outsiders who, amazed at Willamette's cardinal neglect of its duty in displaying the flag, have signified their intention to donate one if the school does not take the matter into its own hands soon.

KEEP THE LOWER LIGHTS BURNING . . . Say one word against the new dimout ordinance and fifty Winter street Romeos will put you on their blacklist. Old Lausanne has added new charms since those front porch beacons have gone the way of all outdoor Mazdas for the duration, and only a shy ten-watter lights the homeward steps of the inmates and their suitors.

SWOOSH . . . and that reminds us of another owl flown south to Winter.

Introducing Waldorf

Habby, and the Delta Phis, ah, the Delta Phis have Waldorf (not from Astoria). And very appropriate, too, what with Hallowe'en tomorrow night (ha, ha, ha, bet you thought it was Homecoming.)

You see, Waldorf came into the DP's lives via a jacket pocket on a bicycle; oh yes, the jacket was on Toddie and Toddie was on the bicycle. Accompanying her on the piano, er, no—on a bicycle, was Elvy Fredrickson, and frankly, Waldorf was a pickup.

The threesome arrived at the House early Sunday night to be greeted by screams and squeals of delight. For Waldorf is very handsome, tall, (especially in the ears), dark and very handsome. There's a delectable little white tie under his chin, and although his legs are slightly warped by starvation, he does cut a dashing figure, or should we say scratch?

That was the first impression. After a week of warmth and food and affection, the girls report Waldorf would rather be loved than anything. (Just Waldorf did you say?) As we started to say, during this week Waldorf's personality began to blossom and a charming character he has turned out to be. Beside the ardent tendencies, there are traces of humor, illustrated by the hide-and-seek he plays behind the woodpile, very engaging since he's so black he looks like a shadow. The hardest trait to explain is the drole quirk that prompts the little dear to rub under one's chin. Even the Delta Phis are stumped by that technique.

As to a Hallowe'en teup, Waldorf has definite plans. As sheltered as he is, his only contact with the Big World was acquired on an escape he made t'other day, in broad daylight to be sure, but his return was definitely triumphant. His purr has a new gurgle and his whiskers a new curl. Waldo has plans.

On the whole, Waldorf has settled down to a well-adjusted existence at the Delta Phi House but with a flick of his skinny tail wants it firmly understood that he's not to be confused with the other cats living there.

"Philadelphia Story" Has Romance, Wit, Intrigue

Whether to sharpen your methods of blackmail, your repartee or shucks, even your fussing technique, you'll want to see "The Philadelphia Story" Saturday night at the Salem high auditorium. Admission is by student body card and a small token called a tax, so even you can afford it. Come early to avoid the rush, and in this case it's not just a saying.

This "Story" has everything, even cut down to Willamette's size and traditions. There's pretty Lois Phillips as the wealthy, accomplished and "rootie-tootie" scioness of a famous family of Philadelphia whose desire for a quiet country wedding with no publicity is thwarted when an old family scandal rears its ugly head. Helping it along the general theme of blackmail are Corydon Blodgett and Ruth Matthews as a writer and a camerawoman who are "doing" the wedding for their magazine.

There's romance in the wedding itself, since by the time the third act rolls around, it's anybody's guess which man will be tripping down the aisle with the glamorous redhead (Lois is too a redhead; she dyed for the occasion). But as an inside tip, we've got it narrowed down to three—George Kittredge, self-made, ex-coal miner executive (Leonard Steinbock), or Macaulay Mike-to-his-friends Connor, played by Corydon Blodgett, or C. K. Dexter Haven who is really Dale Golluhur.

For comedy we recommend Barbara Hathaway as Dinah Lord, the wacky younger sister, whose 14-year-old antics are a cause of much embarrassment to her mother, Darlene Dickson, and a source of much amusement to the audience. She is fond of big words used incorrectly. She is a fiend for toe dancing and theatricals in general, flitting about the stage in adolescent preponderance, a perfect foil for Uncle Willie. We can scarcely with decorum tell about Uncle

Willie, but frankly, he pinches. Dinah calls him "a wicked old man" and from the samples we've seen, we believe it. With him is the family's prodigal father, the cause of all the scandal and source of the blackmail. The two are played by Dix Moser and Charles Lovell, respectively; Charles, by the way, being the youngest member of the cast yet the father of most of the tribe. Incredible what make-up will do!

Providing the only semblance of order in the crazy household is the staff, composed of Lenore Myers, Leroy Long, and Bob Simmons. Parson Parsons, played by Marion Crews, also lends a note very nearly approaching sanity. Otherwise, from clench to fist fight, from drama to comedy, it's no holds barred and a free-for-all, well, plus tax, in "The Philadelphia Story."

Collegian Staff Meeting Slated

Reorganization plans will be explained in an important meeting of the Collegian staff Monday at 11:30 in the Collegian office. Dix Moser, editor, urges all staff members and those interested in working on the paper to attend.

Youth Leader Visits Campus

Dr. Hiel D. Bollinger, national secretary of the Methodist student youth movement, from Nashville, Tenn., spent Wednesday morning on the Willamette campus talking to students interested in the Methodist youth program. At present Dr. Bollinger is touring the nation, visiting various colleges and filling numerous speaking engagements on behalf of this program.

Play, Supper Tickets Ready

Sale of tickets for the Homecoming play, "The Philadelphia Story," will continue until six tonight at the booth in front of the First National Bank building, Bob Ratcliffe, ticket sale chairman, said this morning. Play tickets may also be purchased in the 'Cat Cavern throughout today, and during campus open house tomorrow morning. Holders of student body tickets will be admitted with their ticket plus a nickel tax. There will be no reserved seats for students, but guests purchasing tickets at the bank or the Cavern will be given seats in reserved sections.

The ticket sale for the university supper tomorrow evening closed yesterday noon at the living organizations. Guests' tickets and tickets for town students may still be purchased at the office of Graduate Manager Leslie J. Sparks, in the gym. A few tickets may be available at the dinner itself, but advance sales indicate a complete sell-out before that time.

Working with Ratcliffe on the sale of tickets are Charles Lovell, Anita Jarman, Myra Madsen, Gloria Davy, Marion Cruse, and Betty Cooper. Members of the Little Theatre group assisted in the sale of play tickets.

with no games played the Bearcats have had plenty of time to prepare for tomorrow's tilt. Spec Keene has given the boys everything in the book as far as practice goes on the football field. Not only calisthenics and classes on plays have been on the Keenemen schedule for this breather period, but also Coach Keene has been replacing the men lost with his most capable reserves and tightening up the weak spots that showed up in previous games.

From the Logger camp it has also been noted that the CPS lads have been hard at work for the past few days trying to learn the last minute details from their Coach Leo Frank. Tuesday the second team of the Sounders took on the regulars in a scrimmage that saw the bench sitters throwing Willamette plays at the hopeful pigskinners that they had learned from their Assistant Coach Norm Mayer.

Last year at Homecoming the Bearcats put a 42-0 defeat on the records of the hapless boys from Tacoma, not to mention the scores of her previous games held between the Loggers and the 'Cats.

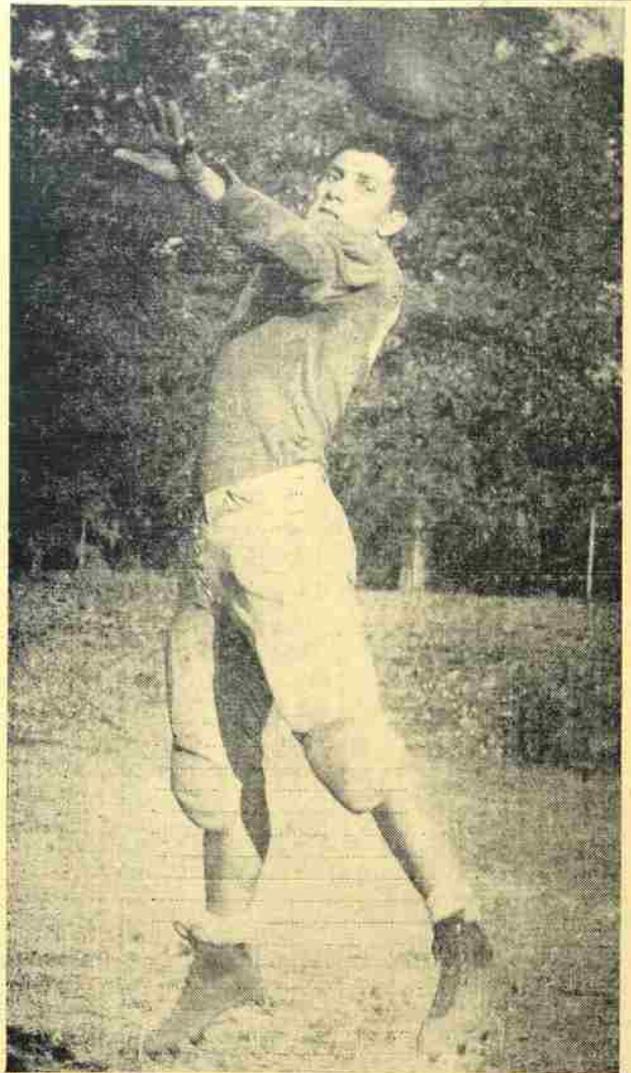

To quote Ed Honeywell of the Tacoma News Tribune, "There's a chance, however, that the Salem boys don't really mean what they say, that their tongues are in their cheeks while they 'Lay it on thick' in a campaign to make the prospective customers believe Willamette is at last to have a little competition from within the Northwest conference."

But whether their statements are camouflage or the real article, they're not alone in proclaiming Saturday's contest as "anybody's game." The Puget Sound camp feels that way about it, too.

The probable Willamette starting lineup will be made up of eight lettermen and three freshmen. Namely, they are Pat White at center, George Constable and Al Barrett at guards, Hank Ercolini and Andy Rodgers at tackle, Dave Kelly and Gene Schmidt at ends, Ogdahl at full, Ken Jacobsen at quarter, and Chuck Furno and Bob Douglas at halves.

Bob Smith Visits

Bob Smith, freshman last year from Cashmere, Wash., and member of the Sigma Tau fraternity, arrived Monday for a week's visit on the campus. Smith is now employed in the shipyards at San Francisco.

Caught in action during a practice session for the Homecoming game tomorrow is Bob Douglas, star pass pitcher from Hawaii. Douglas is one of the most promising players of all the freshmen on the squad. Coach Spec Keene has been working on Douglas' passing ability and the fans should see some of it as the Bearcats say "Excuse it, Puget" to the visitors tomorrow at 2 o'clock on Sweetland field.

'Cats Have Open Dates

After tomorrow's game the 'Cats will be able to relax again into a breather period for they haven't a game for two weeks. November 4 the Bearcats will travel over to Forest Grove to meet Pacific university. After this tilt the 'Cats will again be enjoying a rest. The only game left for them is the traditional game with Whitman on Thanksgiving. Attempts to fill up the gaps in the schedule by Coach Keene have been vain.

Spec May Take Over
As 'Cat Hoop Coach

Rumor has it this week that Spec Keene will have to coach this year's Willamette hoop squad, because of the lack of available coaching power. Howard Maple, coach of previous basketball teams, is still on a leave of absence from Willamette, while he works on the new Alaska highway. His loss to the coaching staff is a great handicap to the sports program.

It seems as though the Bearcats are finally in for a tough homecoming game. The College of Puget Sound is boasting of the best team they have had in a decade this year and the 'Cats are to face this outfit tomorrow in the annual Homecoming tilt. The 'Cats are in good condition for the tilt, but they are suffering from the loss of several valuable players because of the calling of some reserve students.

Big Noise Blew in . . .

All of the big noise from up Tacoma way seems to be about a gruesome twosome composed of a pass pitching Jack Spencer and a line smashing Bill McMaster. We've heard of these two lads for their fine showing for the Loggers in the Pacific Lutheran-College of Puget Sound game. We're quite sure that all the trouble they hand the 'Cats tomorrow will be easily matched with a big headache for the Lumberjacks applied by Bob Douglas with his dynamic passing and amble running of Capt. Teddy Ogdahl of Willamette.

'Cats Should Be Ready . . .

After a breather period of three weeks, the 'Cats should be in readiness for the all important fray tomorrow at two. They have just finished a three-week period of practice and are reported to be in condition for anything. The Loggers have been going through intensive practice at their camp for the past week and are looking forward to a close game. They believe it will be a close game, as do we, but they still have hope of breaking down Willamette's defense this year, just long enough to take home a win. The 'Cats say, "NO" to this and are out to stop them when they get up enough courage to charge the Bearcat line.

A win for the Loggers would indeed be an event for the Tacomans, for it has been many a year since the local lads have suffered a defeat at a Homecoming event. It has been so long that it is no news any more when Willamette wins. Everyone takes it for granted that the 'Cats will be on the top side of the score, but this year the Loggers have their chance for the first time in the history of CPS-Willamette Homecoming tilts, the teams are fairly evenly matched. The match is so close that the deciding factors will be the ingenuity of the plays the teams use, and the injuries sustained by the teams during the contest.

Basketball Nears . . .

This year's basketball prospects are as bad as were the football possibilities at the beginning of its season. At the present time the only available coaching material seems to be our football mentor, Coach Spec Keene, and our graduate manager, Lestle Sparks. The shortage of man power will be an acute problem also in this sport.

BATTLING AVERAGE

Correct 7
Incorrect 3
Percentage .700

Looking back at our previous predictions, we find that we aren't doing too badly, but we could do a lot better. We missed getting our forecasts in the week before last issue, so we omitted it from our percentage calculations.

This week we're going to try to pick the winners in the Pacific Northwest Conference as well as the coast conference. The games in this conference are easy ones to pick this week for the teams aren't very well matched. The most important game to us of Bearcat land is the traditional homecoming clash between the local lads and the Lumberjacks of the College of Puget Sound. This should be a close one, but we sincerely think that the 'Cats will come through again this year with a win, although it will be a close game.

Other games in this league will be the slashes of Pacific U. at Forest Grove with the College of Idaho and Linfield's eleven meeting with boys of Whitman in Walla Walla.

Stanford's win over University of Southern California last week was the win of the year for Stanford, for USC holds a win over the mighty Cougars of Washington State.

Even though Stanford looked good last Saturday, we will pick the Uclans over Stanford this Saturday. The Uclans look like they are Rosebowl bound.

Billy Bearcat to Greet Alumni at Dance

The gym will be the scene of a festive Homecoming dance, and faculty attending. Had Reeves and his eleven-piece orchestra from Oregon State will play for the affair.

Decoration committee for the dance and other events of the weekend is Eleanor Purcell, assisted by David Foster. Billy Bearcat is the center attraction of the mural but on either side are events of school life which consist of a winsome coed sipping a coke on one and on the other the more serious side of Willamette, test tubes of the laboratory. About the balcony with a red background will be different attitudes and relationships of the students.

YW Holds Annual Tea

Mrs. G. Herbert Smith opened the University House to a university group for the first time Thursday afternoon when the annual YWCA silver fashion tea was held. Mrs. Roy S. Keene and Mrs. Earl Brown poured. Jackie Macaulay was general manager of the affair with Lois Butler, Jean Wing, Margaret Herd, Mary Jane Fisher, Miriam Day, Corine Carpenter, Mary Nims, and Ann Strother serving. Assisting the servers in the kitchen were Yvonne Kaufmann and Shirley Fairclo. The rooms were decorated with fall flowers.

Patrons and patronesses for the evening will be Dr. and Mrs. G. Herbert Smith, Dean and Mrs. Walter Erickson, Dean and Mrs. Daniel H. Schulze, Dean and Mrs. Chester F. Luther, Dean and Mrs. Ray L. Smith, and Dean and Mrs. Melvin H. Geist.

On Behalf of the Visiting Firemen

By PUCK

Conventions . . . no, dear firemen, not the Atlantic City kind . . . but like getting up at seven every morning, eating lunch every noon, wearing brown shoe strings with brown saddles . . . it's something that goes on and on and further on. But to break the monotony of conventional things, clever people like Ruth Matthews add a dash of red pepper to the daily salad, and we all eat it up.

Our ally islands in the Pacific are still contributing toward the scrap that's the love of the co-ed . . . costume jewelry. Ruth wears a delectable double strand of sea shells from Samoa, of which we wish we had samoa. (Excuse it, Puget). They're a debatable color of lavender-pink-orchid that are set off by a blue angora sweater and Miss Matthews. From Hawaii a lengthy strand of love beads . . . brown seeds of a confusing name . . . add to a pretty color scheme of Edna Mae Hopper's . . . leaf brown sweater and rust skirt. And Hoppy wins the brass door-knob for those green plaid shoe strings that really let themselves be heard. Suzie Schramm is another adopted "hulu-lulu." From his station in the islands, Chet sent her a waist length necklace of Hawaiian berry seeds strung alternately with small pieces of coral. Suzie wears it with a new choklit brown sweater that's the talk of the town.

But that string of pearls is still doing alright . . . even without G. Miller . . . and proof of it is Mary Bennett who makes a sporty outfit of light blue look mighty fine and dressy with her strand of natural Coro's.

With fall in her prime, her daughters fall in line with smart suits and smarter lapel pins. Sybil Spears rates an all time "ah-h-h" for her beige and blue plaid suit and gold bugle complete to a triple strand of fine gold chain. And have you seen Syb in her new red rainhat direct from the little boy's department in Bishop's basement?

A mustard yellow pleated skirt and matching long jacket displayed by Jan't Johnson is a bright background for "Lillian Beatrice," the little horse with real and curly hair . . . both Lillian and the hair recline comfortably on the lapel. Darlene Dickson wears a lovely lady with plastic curls on the pocket of her bright brown and blue plaid suit.

For dressy occasions there's nothing nicer than a couple earrings to set off a dark dress. Rosella Bell wears heavy gold circlets that clamp on the tip of her ear lobe and dangle merrily, a pretty addition to her brown crepe dress with gold braid.

And Janet Woods sets off anything she wears with her collection of coin silver bracelets . . . the more the better, they say, and Janet has four . . . one with a dainty turquoise set to match her ring.

Can it be said there's a better way of giving a "break" to conventions . . . with the exception, of course, of Sirs Cameron and Toolson and their big black umbrellas.

Couple Are At Home November 1

This seems to be the alumnae week and to further the news about the grads who once traveled the walks to classes we should remark about the beautiful wedding of Miss Phyllis Haugeberg to Harold W. Zeh of Longview, Wash. It took place October 17 with the Rev. Oryal M. Whitman of Methodist Community church officiating.

The bride is a graduate of the university and was affiliated with Delta Tau Gamma. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward T. Haugeberg of Rainier and the ceremony took place at her parents' home.

Mrs. C. E. Haugeberg was the matron of honor and the best man was C. E. Haugeberg. Theo Haugeberg lighted the candles.

A reception was held afterward with Miss June Woldt of Portland, another alum, cutting the bride's cake and Mrs. C. E. Haugeberg pouring.

Mr. Zeh is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Zeh of Bell Vernon, Pa., and was graduated from University of Pittsburgh.

The couple will be at home in the Blackstone apartments in Longview after November 1.

Gang Has Rare Tear

The Jason Lee gang all had a "rare tear" on their hayride Friday night. Forty two of them started out complete with horses, hayrack, and hay. A minor casualty of the evening was the breaking down of the vehicle upon which everybody is depending now. Repairs made, the group continued on to folk dancing beneath the moon. Cider and doughnuts were served during the course of the evening.

Women Pledge Delta Tau

CARRY YOUR CHRISTMAS PACKAGES . . .

★ ★ ★ That's the Spirit

THIS wartime Christmas, every American is determined to spread as much happiness and cheer as possible among loved ones. For in holding firmly to the traditions which so truly symbolize our joyously free way of life, we keep faith with those who fight to make that way live forever. Another important way for thereby sparing the truck tires and gasoline of stores like this—so you to keep faith is by carrying home your Christmas packages, that those those trucks will be available longer for the delivery of purchases too cumbersome to possibly be "carried". You know and we know that this war is going to be fought for many, many more months—on rubber and oil. You know and we know the preciousness of these essentials in view of the risks of loss in shipping, the time required to make deliveries to the war fronts and the frightening limitations of our rubber supply. That is why we know that you will understand, that it is part of our prayers for a speedy Victory—when we ask you to make the very tangible contributions of slight—(but so important)—inconvenience . . . when we say "Please Carry Your Christmas Packages! THAT'S THE SPIRIT".

Campus Welcomes Alumni, Parents to Annual Event

Campus Open House

Tomorrow morning is campus open house from 10:30 to 12. Parents and friends will be given a chance to meet the professors, who will be in their offices at that time to greet all campus guests. The university museum and library will be open during these hours and visitors will be welcome to inspect the displays there. They will also have an opportunity to see the new student union (officially now the Bearcat Cavern) in operation. The union was opened this fall in the basement of Waller hall.

Alumni will meet during the morning with Frank Bennett presiding, and luncheon at the living organizations will follow the open house and the alumni meeting.

Band to Play

When the game starts at two tomorrow afternoon, there will be no stopping place and no lag of time between any of the events, which will close with the presentation of the play at 8:15. During the half at the game with College of Puget Sound on Sweetland field, the Bearcat band will perform under the baton of its new director, Lewis Pankaskie, formerly of the University of Michigan. Following the band's performance is the frosh-soph bag rush. The bags were filled by the frosh after they raked leaves this morning. If the frosh lose the rush, the frosh men must wear their rook caps, frosh girls their green ribbons and both must endure kangaroo kourt until Christmas. If the frosh win, however, freshman-upperclass hostilities cease at once.

Immediately after the game is an informal mixer in the gym to give parents and grads an opportunity to meet and renew acquaintances with members of the faculty and students. Homecoming guests will register at this time. The committee of alums greeting the guests includes Beryl Holt, Gale Dennison, Betty Taylor, Bertha Babcock, Eleanor Trindle, Mrs. Ralph Nohlgren, Mrs. Bruce Carlin, Mrs. Floyd Utter, Mrs. Ray Smith and Mrs. Ralph Barnes. Members of Cap and Gown and Blue Key, men's and women's scholastic honoraries are also acting as hosts and hostesses for the mixer.

Supper in Gym

One of the outstanding events of the 1942 Homecoming celebration promises to be the university supper tomorrow evening following the mixer in the gymnasium. Invitation to the supper is extended to all parents, students, alumni, and friends on the campus. Honored guests of the university at the dinner are President and Mrs. G. Herbert Smith and Dr. and Mrs. R. Franklin Thompson. Thompson, formerly vice president of Willamette and dean of freshmen, is now president of CPS. Both Thompson and Smith will speak at the dinner. Alumni president, Frank Bennett, will serve as master of ceremonies and Melvin H. Geist, dean of the school of music, will lead group singing of school songs.

Last event on the Homecoming calendar is the presentation of "The Philadelphia Story," Philip Barrie's well-known sophisticated comedy, by members of the University dramatics department. Presentation is scheduled for 8:15 in the Salem high school auditorium. This play ran on Broadway with Kathryn Hepburn in the lead, and later was made into a movie starring Miss Hepburn, but this presentation by the Willamette group is one of the first by amateur players.

Homecoming Different In the "Good Old Days"

"But the dream of many years ago has at last come true" said the Collegian of November 7, 1923, in telling about the first Homecoming celebration on the Willamette campus. It seems that several years before Homecoming was actually started in 1923, there was a need felt for a weekend as the time for the alumni to return. Until 1923, the grads came at graduation in June and had meetings and dinners. "The first Homecoming has been a huge task, it is a difficult thing to introduce a custom to friends living near and far, who still wish to return and yet have many matters of business to fill their minds. Yet withal, many former athletes, student body presidents, and prominent students are guests of the student body today and tomorrow. This is the beginning, and a great beginning indeed, of a new tradition at WU," said that first Homecoming edition.

Homecoming was November 9-10 that year, and another glance over the paper shows that the W club men seated "themselves at the largest banquet held within several years. . . . The affair has been decreed to be an informal one, and in keeping with the spirit of the occasion the present wearers of the "W" will appear in their award sweaters." The houses were "vying with each other in good natured rivalry for the honors of being acclaimed the most attractively decorated house. New curtains, new calcimine, dusted corners, all await the prodigals' return from the far-country."

Frosh Bonfire

Chief event of Friday night that year was a rally and freshman bonfire which "lit up the clouds above Sweetland field." There was a reunion around the shooting flames to "boost and cheer for the team that meets the Whitman huskies on the morrow." A detailed description of the erection of the 40-foot pile and the elaborate system of flues followed.

But Saturday was the day, for on that day there was the "Dedication of the new university gymnasium, one of the finest of its kind on the Pacific coast. . . . Although a few minor details are yet to be worked out, and lockers are yet to be installed, it is expected that the gymnasium will be almost completed in time for the dedication. Following the dedication of the gym, a cement sidewalk between Eaton hall and the gymnasium, was presented to the university as a gift of the freshman class.

Country Fair

Saturday evening everyone gathered in the gym for "the most uproarious, hilarious high-jinks of the campus year." This took the form of a country fair with the motto "On with the fair—Let joy be unconfined." At the fair which promised "some real fun" there were booths of all sorts, stunts, fortune telling, palmistry, musical comedies and puppet shows. The freshmen came up with a play called "Cherubs of '27" and the junior class presented "Barney Google." There was also a general minstrel show and throughout the evening everyone's spirits were "kept up by Beck's jazz orchestra, composed of local artists and 'foreign' airs."

Homecoming just ten years ago in the fall of '32 found our friend (before the publication of this article) Walt Erickson as student body president. All we could worm out of him in the way of information was "Everyone came home. It rained," for be it from him to enlighten us.

Whitman Whipped

Arthur Erickson (no relation) was Homecoming manager that year and "Willamette students were electric with school spirit." Big events included a bonfire, a Whitman pep banquet (we actually did whip Whitman 6-0) and a Dreamland rink skate. It seems that the sophs won the frosh-soph bag rush that year, so the kids ran around in frosh caps and cardinal and gold ribbons until Christmas.

"Massacre the Missionaries" was the slogan in '32, which slogan duly executed, became rare material for the development of Homecoming signs." First place was taken by Alpha Psi's new number and second by Sigma Tau.

Alumni banqueted at the Masonic temple and "fortunately not many of the students attended this banquet for many of the college pranks recalled during this fest would make the professors shudder with fear that they might be repeated."

There was a formal banquet and a campus clean-up "without a mistake or a letdown in Homecoming spirit." The last event was "at 8:15 Saturday night (when) Theta Alpha Phi presented one of the most spectacular and artistic dramatic performances which Willamette students have produced in many years, 'The Rivals,' by R. B. Sheridan."

An event which we would like to have a little more information on was the chariot race for girls, but Walt was non-committal.

Ticket Sale Open to Frosh

Freshmen and transfers will have the opportunity this week to obtain tickets to the 1942-43 Community Concert Series which will include among its attractions Bidu Sayao, colorful South American soprano, Albert Spaulding, well-known American violinist, Paul Robeson, great Negro baritone and a presentation of the opera "The Marriage of Figaro." Tickets will be on sale at $2.75 including tax in Eaton hall from 10 to 12 Tuesday and Wednesday morning according to Mark Hatfield, first student member of the series board. Payments on tickets sold to sophomores and upperclassmen will also be due at that time.

Sign Contest Opens Today As Houses Complete Displays

"Excuse It" took on a double meaning this morning as those in charge of the Homecoming signs at the living organizations stumbled around and bumped into other people after they had spent most of the night working on their sign. Work was more difficult this year, according to the sign managers, because they had such trouble planning a sign adaptable to the 1942 Homecoming slogan, "Excuse It, Puget."

Although work on the signs has been going on all week in the form of planning, drawing, nailing, papering and painting, the contest does not officially open until noon today when the signs may be put up. All seven living groups have announced their intention of winning first place, which the men of Sigma Tau have captured the past two years.

Regulations do not limit the size of the sign, but they do limit the total cost to $5 per house. They must be designed for daylight display, but lights may be used if they are turned off after sunset, since dimout regulations forbid the use of night-lights this year, according to John Macy, who is in charge of the contest.

The signs will be judged tomorrow morning by a committee of faculty members including Walter Erickson, dean of freshmen; Leslie J. Sparks, graduate manager, and Miss Elizabeth Kennedy, assistant librarian. Entries will be judged on adaptability to the theme, artistry, and the general effect of construction and placement.

Marjorie Penman and Mary Acheson are in charge of the sign at Lausanne hall; Jean Wing, Rosella Bell and Joyce Harper, Beta Chi; Louise Wrisley, Carol Young, Betty Randall and Margaret Hughlet, Delta Phi; and Dorothy Hoar, and June Nichol, Alpha Phi Alpha.

The Sigma Tau entry is planned by David Geddes; Kappa Gamma Rho by Bob Brown, and Alpha Psi Delta by Bill Herrick and Al Barrett.

Dr. Thompson To Speak

Taking advantage of the fact that one of the most popular speakers at former Vespers services will be on the campus Sunday, University Vespers members have asked Dr. R. Franklin Thompson, president of College of Puget Sound, to speak at their Sunday evening meeting. A former Willamette faculty member, Dr. Thompson will be one of the honored guests at Willamette for Homecoming.

Music and worship for Dr. Thompson's Vespers service are being planned by Jean Alice Carlin, Ethel Jean Cain and Jean Fries, Margaret Pemberton, Vespers president, urged all Vespers members and other University students to attend the meeting at 6:30 Sunday in the Carrier room of the First Methodist church to hear Dr. Thompson speak.

Confab Shows WU Merit

The Willamette student leaders who attended the Oregon Federation of Collegiate Leaders on the University of Oregon campus last weekend all returned home with a greater satisfaction with Willamette. According to their enthusiastic reports, Willamette is generally recognized throughout the state as having the best method of student government, including the management of student activities, finances, publications, and student-faculty relationship.

Willamette is the only school in the state which elects all the student officers including publications heads, and it is the only school which chooses its faculty representative to the student council. In other schools the faculty representative is chosen by the faculty, and publications heads are usually appointed by a faculty committee.

Taking a cue from Willamette, a resolution was drawn up at the meeting on student-faculty relations that students should elect a faculty member to the student council. Another was that students should indicate to the faculty the direction of their interests and capabilities and a file should be kept of these.

Campus social chairmen attending the meeting on social activities and regulations resolved that schools should not cut down on the social program in these times, but should expand it. Weekends should be planned to keep students on the campus. However, they added that there should be a cut in time and money spent on decorations, refreshments and planning and that the number of chaperones should be limited to a minimum of three couples.

One of the largest commissions was the one on the college's part in the war program. Representatives there decided that a victory council should be organized on university campuses to direct activities of students in the war effort, that a warden should be appointed in each living organization, that a person trained in first aid should live in each living organization, and that living groups pledge to buy bonds and stamps.

Realizing the value of college education in times of war as well as times of peace, a resolution was formed here encouraging the students to stay in school. All schools were invited to take part in a clearing house of ideas at U of O which will combine the suggestions of the different schools for participation in the war effort.

The publications commission recommended that college publications take a more active part in the war program as it affects their schools, and promote various activities such as scrap metal drives and the sale of war stamps and bonds. It also recommended that school publications be more active in discovering and developing news sources before untouched by campus papers.

Closing the convention was a formal banquet Saturday evening at which Dr. Burt Brown Barker, vice president of the University of Oregon, was the speaker. Earlier in the afternoon, collegiate leaders attended the Oregon-Idaho game on Hayward field, and Saturday night they were guests of the sophomore class at the annual Sophomore Whiskering and dance.

Representing Willamette at the conference were Margaret Ewing, student body secretary and Nadene Mathews, Wallula editor, who attended sessions on the distribution of college activities and student finance, led by Harold McLain of Lewis and Clark college in Portland; the college's part in the war program, by Dave Baum of Oregon State college at Corvallis; and publications, led by Ray Schriek and Wes Sullivan, from the host school.

Dorothy Tate, first vice president, and Hume Downs, second vice president, attended the commission meetings on student-faculty relations, led by Wayne Kuykendall of Linfield college in McMinnville; and social activities and regulations, by Anna Mary Carly of Marylhurst college at Oswego. ASWU prexy Bob Hamilton attended the closing sessions Saturday.

Jim Ratte of Linfield college was chosen president of the federation for the coming year, and Betty Jean German of Marylhurst, vice president. Lewis and Clark college was named host school for '43. The secretary-treasurer will be chosen from that school. Juliana Arrian, University of Portland, was president this year, and Les Anderson, president of the University of Oregon student body, was secretary-treasurer. Of the 16 schools of higher education in Oregon, 14 were represented at the Federation meeting.

Dorsey Slated For UO Nov. 7

Willamette students were this week invited to participate in the University of Oregon's annual homecoming celebration next weekend. The big attraction Saturday night is Tommy Dorsey and his full 31-piece recording orchestra playing in McArthur court. This will be Dorsey's only appearance in Oregon with the exception of one stage show.

Couples only will be allowed on the floor and ticket sale will be limited to the capacity of the floor. Single tickets will be sold for the balcony and a stag line will be permitted there. In Salem the tickets are on sale at the Music Nook, 420 Court street.

Dimout Needs Met by WU

Willamette kept its wartime pace this week as dim-out regulations caused several changes on the campus. In the library, all windows down to the level of the ceiling lights have been blacked out with building paper. The 'Cat Cavern windows have been treated likewise. Practice rooms in the basement of the music hall have been partially boarded to enable students to continue practicing at night.

Notices have been posted on all class room doors to the effect that dim-out regulations are to be enforced between the hours of sunset and sunrise. Students and professors using any class rooms during this time must comply with the newly effected regulation which stipulate that blinds shall be pulled down to the level of the lowest burning light in the room. Violation of this rule means a $10 fine for the university.

Coach "Spec" Keene has been named dim-out warden for the area including the WU campus.
