DEDICATE COLLEGE

Oregon Conference Consecrates Theology Building.

Bishop Warren Performs the Cer- emony in Great Speech.

The dream of the Fathers! The mecca in the future of many a young man called of God! The answer to prayer! The result of great leadership! An expression of confidence! The gift of Mrs. Luella D. Kimball! A blessed reality.

Among the many great things achieved by President Coleman and his four years of arduous and unselfish labor for Christian education, nothing is farther reaching in its beneficence alike to both church and school than his securing the support of Dr. H. D. Kimball and his devoted wife.

They have given to the university a new college and have generously equipped it. But much more than that,—they have breathed into it the earnestness and Christian zeal of their own noble lives.

The building is now completed and occupied. It is an ornament to the campus and its imposing presence adds another bit of testimony to the accumulating pile of evidence that "Willamette" is a university in "spirit and in truth," and as such all must acknowledge her.

Fifty-four feet by 85 feet, with a basement, and two stories and a half, ample room is provided to accommodate several hundred students.

The faculty have been selected. The scholarly H. D. Kimball is dean and he has called to him men of well known ability and spiritual power.

Last Monday was a great day in the history of Willamette. Upon that occasion the Oregon Conference of the Methodist Episcopal church adjourned its sessions at Portland, chartered a special train and came to Salem to dedicate the Kimball College of Theology.

It had been planned to have the service at the college chapel, but on account of the large number of visitors from Portland, they were held in the Methodist church. There was only a small number of students present on account of the announcement that the meeting would be held in the chapel, and that only a limited number of people could be accommodated there. But in spite of the sudden change in the place of meeting, a large number of visitors were present and enjoyed Bishop Warren's great speech.

President Coleman presided at the meeting. The services were opened with prayer by the venerable Methodist pioneer missionary, "Father" Royal. Dr. Driver followed with an appropriate scripture reading, after which Dean Kimball in behalf of Mrs. Kimball, presented the building to President Coleman. Dean Kimball in his presentation speech paid a stirring tribute to the untiring devotion of President Coleman in behalf of the university, and said that the gift of the College of Theology was the fruit of his consecration to "Old Willamette."

President Coleman responded with feelings of emotion, he said, which could not be controlled and with a sense of gratitude which could not be expressed. Grateful as he was for the gift he was still more grateful for the givers. President Coleman in turn presented the building to Bishop Warren, who delivered the principal address of the occasion, his theme being education in general and ministerial education in particular.

Bishop Warren is a speaker of great oratorical power and his rollings and sonorous periods, embellished with many beautiful figures, were listened to with delight.

After the address, Mrs. Kimball, the donor of the building, was called to the platform amidst prolonged cheering, the audience standing and giving the Chautauqua salute.

FOOTBALL OUTLOOK

Prospects Good For a Winning Team This Year.

New Men Here to Take Place of Absent Old Ones.

Great interest is being manifested by both the new and old students at the Willamette's football outlook for 1906. W. E. for the past two years has put forth a team that any university would be proud to call their gridiron gladiators, and the prospects for a winning team this year is much brighter than is apparent at present.

The old home guard who were instrumental in the defeat of Multnomah twice last year will don the cardinal and old gold and prepare to uphold the gridiron honor of Old Willamette. A few of the players of last year's team will have to be filled, but they will be filled by experienced players, who though they may not be as heavy, will be faster and they will be better qualified to play the game under the new rules. Many have been wondering who will coach the team this year and as it will require a man not only experienced in the past methods of playing the game, but a man who can invent plays that will work under the new rules, the athletic committee has thought it very expedient to elect Professor Boyer to this position. Boyer, a few years ago played on the Tacoma Athletic club team which won the northwest championship that year. For the past ten years he has been connected with football and is as well versed in the old methods of playing the game as any man in the northwest. He has an inventive brain, and if any man is able to turn out a winning team at Willamette this year he, with the aid of Trainer Heater, is the man.

Captain Rader is energetic and has a past record which speaks for itself. All know that he is one of the best players in the west. He with the men behind him like Coleman, Lounsbury, Nelson, Marker, Owens and Nace, will represent Willamette on the gridiron in such a way that will be a credit to the old university.

That which Willamette needs to win victories is college spirit that will arouse the men to action. A live student body that backs the team representing it can put forth a winning team every time, whereas a dead student body, thought it may have the best players representing it, will not be victorious, because the players are not aroused to action by the spirit of the students.

What caused the Willamette team to hold the University of California down to a scoreless game was the spirit of the students back at old W. U. Three telegrams were received during that game, which caused every man to play with the strength of Sampson and the quickness of a David, for they knew that the students were depending upon them.

Several new men are trying out for positions and some of last year's second team such as Belknap, Steiwer, McKnight, and others will make some of the first team men hurry for positions.

All that is necessary for Willamette to do to put forth a team that will be a winner, is for the students to live up and get some college spirit. Coach Boyer and the boys on the team will do their part, and the cardinal and old gold, the colors that every student loves, will float above all others at the close of the season.

Websterians Organize.

The Websterian Debating Society, to whose organization during the last year, is due the great revival of interest in debating and literary work, met in their hall on Friday evening. The officers for the ensuing term were elected and other business transacted. The officers elected are as follows: President, Charles McKnight; vice president, Claude Crandall; recording secretary, James Crawford, corresponding secretary, W. A. Schmidt; treasurer, Roy Shields; critic, John Richen; marshal, Guy Smith.

Many of last year's members have not yet returned but nearly all of them will be here within one or two weeks and the society has every prospect for a most prosperous year. Owing to the joint reception on Friday the next meeting this week will be held on Saturday evening, at 7:30 o'clock, in the hall on the fourth floor. All interested in literary work and new students especially are most cordially invited. The debate will be on the following question: "Resolved, that demoniacal schools should, by mutual agreement, abolish the game of football."

NEW PROFESSORS

Willamette Has Splendid Array of Learned Instructors.

One of the Best Faculties on the Pacific Coast.

Prof. W. E. Kirk, A. B., A. M., the instructor in Greek and Latin took his A. B. degree from the University of Nebraska in 1895. He then taught in the high schools of Edgar, Neb., for a year, after which he returned to the university and took his A. M. degree in 1897. He became the instructor there in Greek and Latin and held this position for five years after which he resigned and went to Columbia University, N. Y., where he remained for nearly two years doing post graduate work.

Prof. Louis Bach received his education in the schools of Germany, France and Switzerland. In addition to his general education he has studied three ancient and five modern languages and has specialized in other courses. For the last sixteen years he has taught modern languages on this coast; ten years of that time being spent in Portland and six at Forest Grove. Exceedingly favorable reports come to us concerning him from those who have been students at the latter place and we feel that Willamette is to be congratulated upon having secured him for this year.

Prof. Katherine E. Kauffman, A. B., A. M., instructor in English language and literature, is a graduate from the Woman's College of Cincinnati and from Ohio Wesleyan University. She took, in addition to her work here, a post graduate course at the University of Chicago in English literature and literature of the Bible. She comes to us highly recommended, but this has been hardly needed for since she came to us she has won a place in the esteem of the students by her own charming manner and personality.

Prof. G. E. Coghill, Ph. D., received his A. B. degree from Brown University in 1896. After this he studied for three years in the University of New Mexico and received his degree of master of science in 1899, and then was assistant professor of biology there for two years. Part of this time however was spent in post graduate work in Brown University, where he received his Ph. D. degree in 1902. He has also studied in the University of Wur-

ELLIOTT PRINTER

Students!

We are just beginning a new year at Old Willamette. Let us work to make this the best in the history of the school. She has done much for us old students in the past and she stands ready and willing to help you—new students. To have a successful and prosperous year we need a wide-awake student body—a student body with college spirit.

Now one of the best ways to arouse college spirit is to have an up-to-date, lively paper. Such a paper requires a good editorial staff which is able and willing to work. That the Collegian has in Mr. Heltzel and his assistants.

Then we need good management to insure the printing. As for the manager and his assistant, we will say that we are going to do everything in our power to put out as large and good a paper as the staff can prepare. A few facts as to the cost of printing our paper will perhaps be new to most students.

Last year the cost of printing alone was over $400, to say nothing of the expenses for mailing, cuts, etc. This must be paid for by the students and the business men of the city, the students by their subscriptions and the business men by their advertising. The manager wants at least 150 subscribers to begin with this year. Let everybody show his college spirit by having his name on the subscription list to his college paper. You old students! Wake up and fall into line for the paper.

The next way we want you to help us is to patronize our advertisers. New students—and old ones also—look over the list of our advertisers before you buy, and when you buy tell them their ad, in the Collegian brought the sale. Let them know we are standing by those who stand by us. There are some leading stores in this city that will not advertise because they think they have the student trade. Help us to show them that they have not the trade. If you have been buying from a merchant who does not advertise, tell him if he desires your trade the best thing he can do is to put his ad. in the paper.

Now if we can stand together for the Collegian this year, I see no reason why we should not have the best college paper in the northwest.

J. T. ELLIOTT,
Business Manager.

THE NEW AND OLD DEANS.

Prof. W. C. Hawley is succeeded this year as dean and vice president by Prof. J. T. Matthews. Prof. Hawley is a worthy predecessor to Prof. Matthews and we are sorry he no longer hold that office in our school, but we feel he has as worthy a successor in Prof. Matthews. For the past five years he has been dean and previous to that time he had been president of Willamette since 1893 and had carried the school successfully through what was probably the most trying period of her history. Prof. Matthews has also been connected with the school as instructor since 1893, and both have graduated here.

On Friday morning last, while reading the several announcements, Dean Matthews very ably illustrated one of the great principles of oratory and public speaking. "It is not what you say, but the way you say it." The announcement concerning the Philadorean meeting had been written by a couple of the members with a view to honestly and fitly represent the worth of the organization but the manner in which it was read served to seriously detract from what it was intended to convey.

The old and time honored Philodorian society begins her work under new conditions this year. Instead of her own familiar hall she must hold her meetings in that of the Philadorean society. Much hard work and careful planning has kept the Philadorean hall furnished and in a usable condition for many years. For two years the members have been planning to purchase a carpet to cost $150. Enthusiasm has run high and the literary work has steadily improved. Much is to be regretted in the present change. It is feared that the ardor of the girls will be greatly dampened and that as a result their work will be of an inferior grade, but it is also earnestly hoped that for the sake of the girls themselves they will show their true colors and rise above the new difficulties and prove themselves superior to adversity and misfortune.

The business manager and the editor feel very much encouraged over the prospects for the success of the Collegian this year. The business men of the city are advertising and the students are paying their subscriptions as fast they can. If all the students subscribe, as it is believed they will, the size of the paper will be enlarged so that it will contain about three times the present amount of news.

Music.

Welcome to Dr. R. A. Heritage, dean of the College of Music. We are indeed glad and proud to greet our old time friend who again comes to take up this work after being away for eight years.

Dr. Heritage is known throughout the northwest as one of the greatest vocal teachers as well as a remarkable singer. Knowing the Willamette so well and with such a reputation he is planning great things for Willamette in the musical line. Willamette and Salem as well are to be congratulated upon having such a fine musician with them.

For the instrumental teacher Mr. Heritage has been able to secure Mr. Van Jensen, who has studied under Th. Leschetizky, and comes with the reputation of being one of the best pianists ever on the Pacific coast.

The prices are exceeding reasonable so that any one who can possibly find the time ought to avail themselves of this opportunity of studying under these excellent teachers.

Dr. Heritage is already at his work, starting in with 23 students in the vocal department alone. Besides his private work he will soon

Philodorian.

A very enthusiastic crowd of girls assembled in the "Philadorean" hall Friday afternoon to elect officers for the coming year. A number of new girls were present and gave evidence of their interest by expressing their desire to become members. Miss Olive Rigby, a senior in the department of oratory, was elected president for this term, Miss Coryell will serve as vice president, Miss Lena Schindler was elected secretary and Miss Mabel Glover, assistant. Miss Iona Fisher will occupy the chair of sergeant-at-arms, and Miss Alma Hales that of censor.

The young ladies are anxious that many of the new students join the society, at once. Many of the most able workers have not returned to college this year, but already a goodly showing of names of prospective members has been filed. Though as one of our members confessed lately, "we are without a home." We hope that this state will not last long and are anxious that it may not effect the interest taken in the work of the society.

The Philodorian, as the only literary organization of the young women, extend a most cordial welcome to all new girls to enter their society.

Philadorean Society.

The Philadorean hall, on Friday evening, was once more the assembly room of debaters and literary critics. Not only was the old members there to resume their work after their vacation, but a number of promising new men were present, and as an evidence of their appreciation of the good to be derived from the Philadorean's work several new names were offered for membership.

With the enthusiasm shown by both the old and new men in literary efforts and in debating, the prospects are bright for the best year in the history of the society. The officers chosen by the members are good representative men of the society, and will, without doubt, fill their offices with credit as each man is well suited to his office. They are: President, James G. Heltzel; vice president, J. Winans; secretary, Ross Soward; assistant secretary, Geo. Winslow; treasurer, Roy Hewitt; censor, Andrew Marker, sergeant-at-arms, Clark Belknap.

All men interested in strong literary work are invited to attend the next meeting on Saturday evening at 7:30 p. m.

Frank Grannis, alumnus, was seen wandering through the classic and venerable halls of the university with a look of wistful melancholy in his eyes and humming plaintively a bar from "Auld Lang Syne."

George Lounsbury hibernated among the pleasure-seekers at Seaside during the summer. On account of an accident in which he tore a ligament loose in his side, George has been put out of commission for the gridiron and will not be a candidate for the team.

As usual the class of '07 has proven the most enthusiastic class in the college. The class organized on Wednesday last when the following officers were elected: President, Vera Bartlett; vice president, Edward Winans; secretary, Lena Schindler; treasurer, John Elliott.

College of Law.

The Law College opened on Monday with the largest classes that have entered that school in the past few years.

Those in the senior class are James G. Heltzel, Andrew Marker, Geo. Simpson, W. H. Gehlar and W. Wood. While the junior class will consist of some twelve students, one of whom is a young lady.

Students, see Mosher about his suit club.

Y. W. C. A.

Sunday at 3 o'clock p. m., in the Philladorian society hall, the Young Women's Christian Association of the university held its first regular afternoon meeting of the year. Miss Swafford, an alumna of the university, whose exemplary ways while in college are fresh in the memory of all her acquaintances who remain, was the leader and delivered a most interesting talk on the subject, "Decisions." A part of the third chapter of First Corinthians was read, and the thought emphasized that we are all temples of God,—to be made holy by our decisions for right during the coming year. Attractive, instructive, and helpful as all the addresses are, there is a much greater benefit derived from personal contact with girls allied in such noble work as the Y. W. C. A. possesses. No girl should miss the slightest opportunity for ennobling and perfecting her character, and in the Y. W. C. A., of Willamette, she may find many such opportunities. All girls are most cordially invited to attend.

Classes in Bible and mission study will soon be organized. Girls, do not fail to join one of the classes for it is making the most profitable use of your time. The courses to be offered in Bible study are White's "Old Testament," "Character Study," by Blodget, and Sharman's "Life of Christ," all of which will be led by able persons.

The privileges mentioned would more than compensate for the time devoted to them, but there is still another opportunity that the association offers its members and that is to attend the annual conference of the Young Women's Christian Association of the northwest held at Gearhart Park late in the summer. Here you come in contact with the strongest members of the Christian associations of Oregon, Washington and Idaho, which in itself is an inspiration. When, however, you meet and listen to the leaders, then is the time when you realize what an important factor you ought to be in

Y. W. C. A. Reception.

Saturday afternoon the girls of the Y. W. C. A. held their annual reception. It was given this year at Chestnut farm. There were about eighty present, consisting of ladies of the faculty, professor's wives, new and old students.

The afternoon was an ideal one for a lawn party, and when the girls arrived in gay little crowds they were greeted by the merry voices of the girls who had preceded, and had taken full possession of the beautiful lawn and hammocks.

A short but very interesting program was given and the afternoon passed rapidly away with games and conversation.

One of the very interesting features of the afternoon's pleasure was a large table which was laden with a "harvest spread," consisting of all kinds of ripe fruits. Late in the afternoon dainty refreshments were served, and the guests departed.

Y. W. C. A. Cabinet Meeting.

An enthusiastic meeting of the cabinet of the Young Women's Christian Association was held last Friday—a week—to discuss and plan the work of that organization for the present year. The interest of the meeting was greatly enhanced by the presence of the five young ladies who represented Willamette at the summer conference at Gearhart.

Y. M. C. A.

The Young Men's Christian Association of Willamette University is the strongest organization in the institution. It includes among its members men from all the departments. The strongest men in the university, the leaders in athletic circles, in the social life, and in the literary and scholastic work, are the same ones that are found leading off in the work of the association. The president of the association, Chas. H. McKnight, is an excellent leader and a man well qualified for this position, but he needs the co-operation of every man in the university, in order to make this year's work the glorious success which it ought to be.

During the year the association will conduct a regular devotional meeting every Wednesday evening, from 7 to 7:45. These meetings will be led by students and professors and by visitors from the town and outside. At these meetings topics of vital interest to thoughtful college men will be discussed. At 11:40 a. m. every day, the noonday prayer circle meets for about five minutes in room 15. These meetings are a part of a college experience which every man should take advantage. They keep alive the religious side of a man's life which is so easily neglected in the rush and hurry of college life.

The association also offers a complete course of systematic Bible study. A four year cycle is arranged by the international committee which is followed by our association. Six or eight classes are to be carried on this year. Every man should take advantage of this excellent opportunity of studying the scriptures.

In past years, the Willamette association has made very brilliant records, but the prospects for this year are the brightest for a number of years. Let every Christian man in the university do his part and this year will be the most glorious year that the Willamette Y. M. C. A. has ever known.

He has taught in the public schools for some time and then took his post graduate course of two years at John Hopkins University, where he received his master's degree. For five years he was professor mathematics and physics in Puget Sound University. He then spent one year in Portland University and for the past five years he has been instructor in mathematics and astronomy in the University of Pacific, at San Jose, Cal.

Mr. Roy Heater has been elected physical director for this year.

Dr. R. H. Heritage has been connected with the Willamette University before and is well known to many people of Salem, if not to the present student body of the school. His work has been of a high char-

AIM OF THE COLLEGE

To assist young men who seem to themselves and to the Church to be called of God to the Christian ministry to qualify themselves spiritually an intellectually for their great work. The teaching must therefore be held in alignment with that of our Lord and His apostles. Those of either sex who, while not contemplating the work of the ministry, desire to fit themselves for larger usefulness in Christian work will be admitted to all class privileges upon the same terms as candidates for the ministry. For further information address the dean,

Business College

Salem, Oregon

The school where a practical training for business may be had. There are two kinds of education—practical and ornamental. The first should be secured by all because it may be put to use quickly. The latter is desirable—

The Former Is Essential

Our courses are arranged with a view of usefulness. We do not dabble in a little of everything, but devote all our energies to conducting a first class business school. Send for catalogue.
