

Hathaway Second In State Oratory

Dr. Rahe Names WU Delegates to Linfield Tournament; Other Speech Contests Near

Barbara Hathaway, Willamette sophomore, won second place honors Wednesday morning in the state peace oratorical contest, sponsored by the Intercollegiate Forensic association of Oregon. In reporting the rating, Dr. H. E. Rahe, forensic coach, also announced details concerning the Linfield tournament next week and other coming speech meets.

Miss Hathaway's speech, entitled "These Things Abide," was technically awarded a tie for first place in the first judgment of the contest, but subsequent judging granted her second place.

Following the contest, held before the student body of Pacific university, contestants were entertained at dinner by the Rotary club of Forest Grove.

Delegates to the Linfield tournament at McMinnville will leave Wednesday evening for the contest to be held Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Probable lineup for representatives in the various contests includes: after-dinner speaking, Barbara Hathaway, Kenneth Brown, Nevitt Smith, Don Burton; debate, Leroy Long and Richard Wicks, Charles Wicks and Kenneth Brown, Dave Smith and Hollis Huston; oratory, Darlene Dickson, Barbara Hathaway, Leroy Long; Extemp speaking, Darlene Dickson, Catharine Thomas, Louise Wrisley, Dave Smith, Nevitt Smith, Don Burton.

On March 5-6 the annual high school speech tournament will be held on the WU campus. Students with experience in forensics will be chosen for judges. Sections for the contest include humorous and serious interpretation, oratory, extemp and debate.

Another contest scheduled for the near future is the state old-line contest with a tentative date of March 10. The contest is having its 50th anniversary this year and is to be held on the Willamette campus. An interesting aspect of the contest is the fact that the original contest was held at Willamette, Dr. Rahe noted. Orations may be on any subject and should be approximately 10 minutes in length.

Mark Hatfield Named Head Of May Day

At an ASWU executive student council meeting last night, Mark Hatfield was selected as manager for the 1943 May Week-end, annually sponsored by the junior class. Working with him will be junior class officers. The date has been definitely decided as April 30-May 2.

Hatfield will be responsible for all arrangements including the annual dance, play and coronation. Committees for the activities will probably be made in the near future, junior class heads said.

Hatfield's activities have included directing the Friday chapels for this year and he was director of last year's May Week-end parade. He is first vice-president of Kappa Gamma Rho fraternity.

The council also acted on routine business during last night's session.

Mark Hatfield, who was named last night by the ASWU executive council to manage the 1943 May Day celebration.

Psis Plan Program

Merle Palmer, social chairman of Alpha Psi Delta fraternity, holds the plans of today's student chapel program, the annual Alpha Psi entertainment. One highlight of the production will be a solo by Millard Leslie, accompanied by Wilma Froman. Other features are held "dark secrets."

Alumnus Copies Go To 2500 WU Grads

The first edition of the Willamette Alumnus, alumni publication, was off the press Wednesday and will be in the mail this week-end. Edited by journalism professor Murco Ringnald, it provides a background of Willamette doings to re-acquaint alumni with the school.

The Alumnus is the first official publication for Willamette alums, and it is planned to make the paper a regular quarterly publication not only for alums, but for all students who have attended Willamette. The first edition condenses much of the news of the past few years and tells about present campus happenings.

A picture of Dr. Smith on the front page accompanies an article about his inauguration in April. Other front page news includes curriculum changes to fulfill training requirements of the armed services, and the campaign to raise $50,000 for the Centennial War Fund.

National recognition of Willamette's college of music, the outstanding record of student publications, and the continued high scoring of Bearcat teams on the gridiron, diamond, and basketball floor, and Willamette's 60-year-old law school which suffered a 75 per cent cut in its 1942-43 enrollment, furnish material for the inside pages.

Dr. Robert M. Gatke's "Chronicles of Willamette," now in the printer's hands, is the subject of a full column story. Prominent place is given to Willamette's new buildings—the library, Collins hall, the remodeled music hall and the Cat Cavern.

The editorial page presents a sketch of Dr. G. Herbert Smith, "a man of youth, experience and vision," to the alumni. An editorial asks for alumni contributions to the Centennial War Fund.

The paper will be mailed to about 2500 Willamette graduates located in the United States and in Canada, Alaska, Hawaii, South America, China, Korea and India. Dr. Smith, whose office is in charge of the mailing, expressed his hope that future copies of the Alumnus can be sent not only to the alumni but to all those who have attended Willamette. The next issue will go to press early in April, Prof. Ringnald reports.

Richard Wicks, elected Willamette YMCA president last week when Don Tasker resigned after leaving school, has announced that the Y will meet on February 22 in Chresto cottage with Denn Walter Erickson as the leader of discussion.

Library Hours Changed

Elizabeth Kennedy, assistant librarian, announced yesterday that hereafter the library will open at 8:30 a.m. on Saturdays instead of 7:30 as in the past.

Glee Date Reset For March 20

Senior Comprehensives, Hall Formal Dates Also Changed

A decision from the executive committee this week changed the date of the 35th annual Freshman Glee from February 27 to March 20 and made necessary a revision in the scheduling of senior orals and the Lausanne hall spring formal. A gremlin theme for Glee decorations was also approved by the committee, according to Reid Shelton, Glee manager.

Reserve Calls Come to 25 Campus Men

Notices indicating induction in the near future were received by most Willamette men in the ERC and army air corps reserve this week. Notification was made that they would be called on a few days notice. The calls affect 25 Willamette men, 11 in the ERC and 14 in the air corps.

The officials of the program announced recently that those branches could expect to be inducted sometime in March. They were urged to stay in school until inducted, as there is the possibility of retention of credits through transference to other colleges selected for the training program.

Officials of the naval reserve program stated that all men enlisted in the V-1, V-5 or V-7 must be registered in school and attending classes.

Pankaskie May Leave

No reply to Dean Melvin H. Geist's request for a postponement of induction into the armed forces of Lewis Pankaskie, instructor of instrumental music, had as yet been received as today's Collegian went to press.

Having passed preliminary tests earlier in the week, Pankaskie is scheduled for induction Tuesday pending the outcome of final examinations in Portland today, unless a deferment is granted.

The request for postponement of induction until May 15 to allow Pankaskie to complete the academic year was addressed to his Ann Arbor, Mich., draft board and a report of the board's decision should be received before Tuesday.

Insufficient time for classes to prepare for the annual song tourney was given as the reason for the change in the Glee date.

A schedule for class practices is being made out and will be announced soon. The committee again urges classes to have songs completed by the week preceding the Glee in order that the entire week may be devoted to practice.

At the regular faculty meeting held early in the week, members voted to change the date of senior comprehensives, originally scheduled for April 6, to Tuesday, April 13. Orals will start April 14. Second date to be changed was that of the Lausanne hall spring formal which has been set for February 27 to accommodate the new Glee date.

Glee committees appointed by the freshmen this week were general committee, Reid Shelton, chairman, Wilma Froman and Jim Rath; decorations, Dorothy Hoar, chairman, Marjorie Penman, Don Steudemayer, June Nichol and Viola Jacobsen; program, Charles Wicks, chairman, Pat Lamb and Virginia Hobbs; platform, Lloyd Griffith, chairman, Bud Fairham, Rex Hardy, John Copenhaver; chairs and floor, Melvin Gilson, chairman, Vern Scott; ushers, Warren Downs, chairman.

WU Physician Goes to Navy

Dr. Ralph E. Purvine reported for active duty Monday as a lieutenant in the naval reserve, automatically relinquishing his post as University physician. He will act as naval medical officer for the state in connection with the selective service system.

Purvine is succeeded as physician for Willamette students by Dr. C. A. Dowd, who has held that position in the past. Dowd's offices are in the Salem Clinic in the First National building.

Helen McCullough will continue as resident campus nurse.

Singing actresses and actors portray a scene from "Marriage of Figaro," to be presented at the Salem high school Tuesday in the Community Concert series.

Take a Letter . . .

Use of the term "editorial" in last Friday's chapel in referring to a letter which had appeared in the Collegian causes us to mention a point which we had thought to be generally understood: that signed letters appearing in the Collegian, just as in any other newspaper, do not necessarily represent the views of the paper. In fact, one of the reasons for printing such letters is to democratically insure that both sides of a question may be presented.

We cannot, of course, guarantee to print any and all letters, for both qualitative and quantitative limits must be observed, but students may rest assured that letters written to their newspaper will be fairly considered for publication.

Let There Be Light . . .

The spirit of enthusiastic rooters tramping into the Willamette gymnasium to witness recent basketball tilts was not a little dampened when informed upon entering the main door that students had been requested to use the east entrance. Their dismay, however, was mild in comparison with the chagrin experienced as they sought to grope their way through a heavy pall of darkness, feeling along rough cold walls, stumbling from slippery walk to uneven ground and back again, and finally discovering the coveted entrance only by falling prostrate upon the flight of stairs leading to it.

If Willamette students must use the back door of their own gymnasium, must they find it in the dark? We are willing to accept the revamped basketball schedule made necessary by the transportation situation. We are even capable of a cheerful smile when forced to produce the extra nickel tax imposed at all athletic contests. But are dimout regulations so rigid and priorities so strict that the university cannot obtain a single light bulb to install with the proper precautions in the socket so conveniently located above the entrance in question?—C. T.

To the Students of Willamette University:

This is not written for the benefit of those persons on our campus who seem to distinguish themselves more for their sudden acquisition of authority on student government, than on their sincere and active participation in solving student problems. This article is written for the students and concerns student government and democracy on our campus.

First of all let us examine one of our greatest problems. It must readily be agreed that much more can be done with an ample amount of money than without. It has been the problem of your student leaders this year to promote a student program during a time when costs of materials are much higher and difficulty in transportation is much greater, and to do all this on a greatly reduced budget. For instance, let us look at the figures relating to student income that affect our programs the greatest. Last year the general fund of the student body totaled $720.20. This year it was reduced to $457. Last year the social fund totaled $539. This year it was reduced to $416. Despite this reduction in funds which has gone through our entire student program we have carried on just as extensive a program as any year previous.

There have been criticisms during this school year pointed at what was called "lack of democracy on our campus." This is the most unreasonable statement that could ever be made about our student government. Certainly for a person to make such a statement shows lack of recourse to the facts of the matter. From conferences attended both in Sun Valley, Idaho, and on the University of Oregon campus, your student body president has yet to meet the students of other colleges who are not amazed and envious of our complete freedom of self government. Students of our school are in the majority on every committee that meets on student affairs. And I ask where is there another school where students can vote money away from one department and give it to another, in spite of the bitter opposition of the professor who heads that department? Yet this is exactly what occurred in

For MEN Only

By Gil Lieser

A-B-C-D-E-F-G . . . no, we're not going to swing out with Kalamazoo, we're merely trying to keep ahead of the army air corps which apparently embarked this week upon an alphabetical conscription of its college reservists. As far as we have been able to determine at this writing, all Willamette air corps reservists, whose initials fall along the first seven letters of the scale have received their notices this week. Whether the calling up will be of a periodical nature is anybody's guess but if the present tempo is maintained we venture to predict that it will be nip and tuck whether Spec Keene's Bearcat basketballers will be able to conclude the remaining two weeks of their schedule before at least two of their members, first string guards Irv Miller and Bob Perry, will be called to duty.

In any event it appears certain that with all army reservists and air corps men destined to be called away within a few weeks, Coach Keene will find himself faced with the prospect of fielding a baseball team composed of 17-year-olds, 4-F candidates, and naval reservists, keeping in mind that the civilian expectancy of the latter group is still a doubtful matter.

But though the loss of so many men over a short period of time may prove a source of worry to the university administrators, it doesn't seem to bother Willamette women one iota, particularly those at Miss Jack's Winter street hostelry . . . at the curfew hours the front porches of Lausanne hall and some of the sororities look more appropriately like a Fort Lewis induction center. And for every reservist who leaves Poppa Waller's institution to don a khaki suit, there are two guys already dressed in khaki to replace him in Romeo lane. Too bad the administration can't charge the latter tuition or at least a "parlor" rental fee . . . it might help keep this jolly place off the rocks.

Along the same line we couldn't help but notice the remarkable gathering of Lausanites among the otherwise sparse crowd at the Camp Adair-Bearcat game Monday evening . . . looked like we'd imagine a roll call might at one of Miss Jack's a. m. fire drills. Just goes to show that one of Uncle Sam's nephews has just as much appeal in short pants as in long pants . . . and they don't have to be khaki.

And now we'll have to close and busy ourselves with sending out comic valentines to all our friends and comrades who, like ourselves, spend more time minding the other guy's business than their own.

one of our amendments just last year. This it seems to me is the height of self-government.

Particularly obnoxious and out of place was the recent reference to our "rankling under domineering faculty commands and injunctions to beware offending the trustees and alumni." This represents one of the most childish and harmful views on our campus. For a long time there has been a tendency to have a closer feeling between all members of the Willamette family, and certainly this is a desired situation. If those who are interested in student government will go back to the early twenties they will find that it was through the assistance and guidance of the faculty and trustees that our present free student government has developed. And certainly no school could ask for a more understanding or finer group of men to serve as trustees than we have here at Willamette. The alumni also are an important part of our Willamette organization, and are hardly to be considered sensitive to every move of the current student body.

One classic example of how these members of our Willamette organization work together and have the best interests of the students at heart is found in the recent promotion of our Bearcat Cavern. First of all, the $300 to finance the enterprise came from a member of the alumni. The trucks that were used to transport the fountain, booths and other materials were given to us to use as we saw fit by a member of the board of trustees. And I wish that every member of the student body could have been with me those few weeks before school opened to see the hard work that Dean Luther, Dr. Oliver, Professor Ringnald, Dr. Lantz, Professor McLeod and Dean Erickson went through to get the Cavern in order before the start of school. I wish all the students could have seen Dean Schulze spend a good number of hours there in the Cavern doing the carpentry work for the enterprise. Surely such examples as these would dispell from any skeptic's mind such ideas as those voiced by Miss Matthews' letter in the last edition of the Collegian.

Miss Matthews brought out a good point in her article of last week, which was that we should not have a defeatist attitude in regard to school. This is the ideal attitude for the student to take of course. Yet everyone surely realizes the tremendous changes, especially psychological, that the war has brought about. It is easy for a person like Miss Matthews, who has no connection with the war effort, or no thought of being called away from school on a minute's notice, to talk about conditions on our campus during war time. But I doubt if Miss Matthews fully realizes the profound effect that this war has had upon the life and the activities of a good many of the students. I say to Miss Matthews, Dr. Hutchins and any other critics of the student body that by their own understanding of the problem it could be evident that there are other and better ways of helping promote better conditions on our campus, than that of criticism.

In conclusion may I say that until the end of my term of office I will continue to perform the duties of the president of the student body to the best of my ability, and am ready and willing to give full consideration to any plans or ideas which any members of the student body are interested in promoting.

ROBERT HAMILTON
President, ASWU

Dear Editor:

The inspiration which prompted the painting of the murals in the Cavern was one of admiration for Willamette university and its traditions and student body. The execution of that project was a pleasure but the criticisms were neither sensible nor constructive. I find that this spirit seems to prevail among some of the writers of our paper. No reflection on the policy of the Collegian; I believe the publishing of this and other letters proves the true Willamette spirit which our editor has always championed.

For the benefit of the column entitled "For Men Only," the author whom I have never met, the theme for the Cavern is "Mary had a Little Lamb" . . . not "row, row, row your boat." Incidentally, 25 hours of far into the night comprises the "Magic" which produced the paintings. Too bad he didn't spend that much time on his column. If he did I'm just as surprised at his results as he is at mine.

I agree, Mr. Lieser, that it was a waste of time for you to try to figure out the murals, but you shouldn't feel too bad about it because it isn't the only time you've wasted. Four years at college and you still find yourself unable to tell the difference between an Egyptian and a Greek. So after all, what is half an hour compared to four years. I appreciate the individual treatment, Gil, even though the Egyptian murals were not included in your review of the Cavern improvements.

DAVID FOSTER.

'Cats Open Crucial Series With Whitman Tonight

Loop Lead at Stake for Willamette In Games With Strong Whits

"Whip Whitman" is the war-cry tonight and Saturday night as Willamette-Whitman rivalry flares up anew on the Bearcat basketball court where the traditional rivals will fight it out for hoop supremacy in the Northwest conference league. Willamette currently rides atop the list along with Linfield by virtue of two successive wins last weekend over the Pacific U Badgers.

Bearcats Win Two Games From PU

The Willamette Bearcats dumped the Pacific university Badgers twice last weekend in a home-and-home hoop series that put the Bearcats in a first place tie with Linfield in the Northwest conference basketball show. Although looking ragged in plenty of spots, the Bearcats bopped the Badgers 50 to 30 here Friday night and repeated the trick 42 to 31 in the Badger gym on Saturday night.

Staying close with the Bearcats through the first part of the first half of the opening game the Badgers started to slip behind in the closing minutes of the half as Pat White, Bearcat guard, hit the hemp for six consecutive points giving the Methodists a 19-17 halftime advantage.

Despite the scoring of Ernie Gettel, Pacific's one-man show who piled up 11 of his total 18 points in the second half, the Badgers were never able to come close as Willamette forwards Vaughn and Saxton connected freely. Gettel's 18 points were high for the evening with Vaughn coming in second best with 14.

Jumping off to an early lead again in the second fray, the Bearcats were never headed as they piled up a 23-11 halftime lead to go on to win despite the accurate shooting of the Badgers' Gettel.

Both clubs have posted impressive records in and out of the conference so far this season with Whitman, because of stronger competition, having a slight edge. However, with both games being played on Willamette's floor makes the series a "natural."

Leading the way for the Missionaries will be Bill Williams, center, who paced Whitman's two recent wins over Portland U and their 73-66 overtime win over Montana U earlier this week. The condition of Bearcats' Don Barnick and Bob Weaver takes Willamette stock down as both were absent from workouts this past week due to severe colds, but both are slated for duty against the visitors.

Starting for Willamette will probably be Jack Vaughn and Wes Saxton, forwards; Gene Schmidt, center; Bob Perry and Irv. Miller, guards.

WU Rally Takes Tilt From Wolves

Coming from behind in the last minutes, the Willamette basketball team turned what looked to be a losing cause to a victory Monday night when they downed the Camp Adair Wolves, 49-43. This game, being played for a benefit drive to get athletic equipment for service men, made it two straight over the Wolves for the 'Cats.

Baskets by Bob Duffy gave the Timberlines a 4-0 lead which stretched to a 23-17 lead at half time despite the efforts of guard Perry, who kept Willamette in the ball game.

Coming back to the floor as an entirely different team, the 'Cats began to show the good ball handling that they have displayed in previous games. With but six minutes to play, Perry tied the score with a one-hander, but charging basket for basket, neither team was able to get a lead. A quick barrage of shots by Perry, Miller, Weaver, Saxton and Schmidt in the closing minutes spelled out doom for the Soldiers.

Brown of the Wolves, who formerly played for Iowa university, was high point man with 14 points.

Three Teams Top A League; B League Awaits Interest

With the lead in a three-way tie between the Frosh A's, Alpha Psis, and Rubes, the intramural program is finally in full swing. Some B league games have been played, but due to the lack of interest, Director Toolson has not definitely drawn up the schedule.

Playing for the lead of the basketball race after the Collegian has gone to press, will be the Frosh A team and the high-scoring Alpha Psi hoopsters. Likewise the Rubes will be playing to hold their position when they meet the Freshman B team Tuesday. The Kappas and the Sigs will meet Thursday to determine the cellar team.

Showing excellent ball handling as well as sharp-shooting ball players, the Alpha Psi Delta squad literally whitewashed the Kappa Gamma Rho team when they met last week, downing them 47-8. Paced by "Truck" Deiner, the Psis held the Kapgas to six points in the first half while they countered for 19 points. In the second half the Kappas were held to only one field goal while the Psis went on a rampage to score 28 points.

Playing a close first half, the Rubes led all the way to smash the Sigma Tau team 36-19. Scoring 18 points in the first half, while allowing their opponents to have 12, the Rubes had a last minute spre which netted them 18 points, leaving the score 36-19.
