SALEM, OREGON, WEDNESDAY, MARCH 23, 1904.

NO. 21

A GREAT ENTERTAINMENT.

Best of its kind ever given at Willamette. Prof. Savage and Miss Phelps will read. The Glee Club will sing, Prof. Drew and Mr. Zercher will sing solos. Miss Tillson will furnish instrumental numbers, and "Chap and Mark," the stuntists, will make you laugh if you never laughed before. Friday evening, March 25, 1904, in Chapel, 8 p. m.

Students and Salem people in general have been pleading all year for an opportunity to hear Prof. Savage, and now their request is to be granted. She will furnish two numbers. Miss Phelps will give her "Hiawatha" in costume, which won her such renown while with the Juanita Concert Company. Special lights are being prepared for this number. The other numbers need no comment. Come and be entertained, enlightened and amused. Never before has such an array of talent been presented at Willamette, and no one can afford to miss it because of its merit, and much less because of its purpose, viz: to wipe out the football debt. Come one, come all. Admission 25c.

ATHLETICS.

Past, Present and Future.

The closing of the basketball season inspires this review of athletics past, present and future for this year, with a word or two regarding the prospects for next year.

In football we did not place ourselves in the front rank among the Oregon colleges, but we did, nevertheless, make a forward step. Considering that it was the first season the men had been under a coach the results were highly satisfactory. Some good men were developed and, almost without exception, will be on hand again next year to form an excellent nucleus for the '05 team. The manager is endeavoring to secure a certain well known football man to coach. If this man is secured it will surely mean a "something doing" team for Old Willamette.

In basketball our team played a very successful season. Only three defeats are against them, one early in the season at the hands of "All Stars," one from the Dallas team, and one from the U. of W. team. The first two defeats mentioned above are each balanced by a decisive victory. The other, the Washington game, should have been a victory, and we believe it would have been if our "Big Polly" had been placed against "Giant Tom McDonald," of the visiting team, in both halves of the game. The men of this year's team will be in school next year probably without exception, which looks good for 1905.

And now we come to examine the track outlook. We are taking up track work this year in earnest. In the first place we will have the best trainer on the coast, "Dad" Moulton, of Stanford. Secondly, the men are ready and willing to work. We have good men for nearly every event, besides many new men eager to learn. For instance, we have Cathey, J. S., Dart for the short sprints; Miller and Riddell for the quarter and 220; Whiteman, Simpson, Judd for the half and the mile; Cathey, Spies, Riddell and Matthews for the hurdles; Long and Grannis for the high jump; and James, Zercher, Love, Hewitt, Unruh for the weights.

Inside training has now commenced, cross country runs have also been inaugurated. The track will soon be placed in condition, and with Mr. Shipp to look after the men, all will be in readiness for Mr. Moulton to take charge of a fair beginning for a track team upon his arrival about the middle of April.

The following songs are found in a promising young vocalist's repertoire:

When love is gone
Madeline, my Madeline,
Love's philosophy,
Oh, promise me.

DR. COLEMAN RECEIVES

Faculty and Students Spend a Social Eve at the Hall.

The weather was fierce. The wind was vindictive. But as some one said, "Dr. Coleman gave the reception, what less could we do than attend." And all things to the contrary notwithstanding, a jolly, good natured band of gay happy students interspersed here and there with the dignified presence of the professors gathered in the young ladies boarding hall to pay their respects to our great President. This is the first time this year that all the college of the University have come together. Introductions and conversations occupied the greater part of the evening. A delicious lunch was served in the well decorated diningroom. A small card with a picture of the President and his little girl helped in the choosing of partners for lunch and were kept as souvenirs. These had been prepared by the Faculty committee without the knowledge of the president. He appreciated the compliment as those who cherish souvenirs appreciated the privilege.

After lunch the young people sang in the parlors for a while before leaving. All in all the reception tho' ill timed, was well attended and appreciated. If such were possible we would express our enthusiasm for Dr. Coleman in the old stand by "1-2-3-4, who for, what for" and have it spread over the globe and proclaim itself to the whole world.

Trover, the photographer at the Cronise Studio, wants one hundred students to come in and have their pictures taken. Special attention given to the student trade.

Who stole that March?

The Philodorian are arranging a debate with the Gama Sigmas of Pacific University.

Mrs. J. T. Hunt of Shaw visited with her son and attended Chapel exercises Friday.

Ray Starr, who learned to play basketball at Willamette, is now playing with the Oregon City Y. M. C. A.

Why does Kinney study the mechanism of a certain bridge so carefully? Does he intend building one?

The fierce wind of Saturday was too much for the athletic field fence, which now lies prostrated with grief.

Mr. Chas. B. Sternberg, who managed the Albany college football team so successfully last season, was at Chapel Monday.

Rev. S. M. Freeland, pastor of the First Congregational church of Seattle, Wash., conducted Chapel devotional Friday morning.

A GLEE CLUB PRACTICE.

3:55 Boys begin to assemble at Prof. Seley's Office.

4:00 Boys begin to get restless, some one starts to sing "Come let us go"

Prof. Seley appears at the door very angry. "Fellows do be quiet, I am busy." Every body rushes for the out side.

4:10 Prof. Seley dismisses his class, and calls out "I am ready boys." They come and take their seats. Chapler returns outside to see some girls.

Singing commences.
4:20 Prof. Seley misses Chapler and asks where he is.

Miller goes out to look for him.

4:30 Miller returns, says "Chapler is coming."

4:35 Zercher gets funny and forgets to sing. Trill tries to immitate him, but fails.

4:40 Chapler makes his appearance, singing "O promise me."

4:45 Hornsuech complains of being hungry.

Markel remembers that he has been singing without his glasses. Places them upon his nose.

4:50 Van gets up and tells all about the trip. Winslow makes some remarks relative as to how it ought to be done.

4:55 Judd drops in to help sing.

5:00 Prof. Seley dismisses the class.

"Chapler" Complains that he can't learn any thing in such a short time and advises the boys to be on time next practice.

Zimmerman wakes from his sleep and wonders where he is.

5:05 Boys leave one, by one, "Chapler" has one more look at the boarding hall.

A BASKETBALL IDEA.

He sat in the pale moonlight
Within a cosy little bower
She sat near him, on his right;
They had been there just an hour.
Love he'd proclaimed,
She'd not disdained.
His arm round about,
Yet she did not shout.
Then a whistle shrill
Almost gave him a chill,
And he heard the familiar sound,
"Foul for putting both arms around!"
—'08.

ODE TO THE MEDICAL MAN.

The hapless Modern wight is
Is sick with appendicitis,
But what to him
Is wrong and grim
To the physician right is.
When "practice" growing slight is,
The doctor's sole delight is
To sit up late
In solemn state
Inventing something "itis."
He's made mosquito-bites
And alcoholic tighties
Until today
The suffix gay
Unquestionably trite is.
In fact, the sick man's plight is
A state of constant fights.
It seems to me
There soon will be
An awful rumpusitis!
—New Orleans Picayune.

THE PLEASANT SMILE.

The thing that goes the farthest
Toward making life worth while
That costs the least and does the most
Is just a pleasant smile.
There is no room for sadness
When we see a cheery smile
It always has the same good look—
It's never out of style.
—Harry G. Wilson, in Oregon Teachers'
Monthly.

GLEANED FROM THE EXCHANGES.

Young Hopeful—Pa, did God make you?
Father—Yes, my son.
Young Hopeful—Did he make me, too?
Father—Yes.
Young Hopeful (looking at his father, then going to the mirror)—Say, pa, he's doin' better work now, ain't He?

The Law Department of the University of Washington has requested to be represented on the executive committee as a department, and not merely as members of the Junior or Senior class. The request has not been granted as yet.

The Athenaeum, published by the students of the University of West Virginia is advocating the adoption of Monday as a holiday in place of Saturday. This has been tried with gratifying results in a few eastern institutions.

Wisconsin and Iowa are far from entertaining a friendly feeling for each other. After breaking off relations for debate with Iowa, Wisconsin has also refused to schedule a basketball game with her.

The new pipe organ at Mandell Hall of Chicago, is being installed. Leon Mandell, who donated the money for the theatre, is also the giver of the organ. It cost $10,000 and is comparable to the best organs in the country.

The faculty of Colorado College has granted their permission for the formation of fraternities at that institution. Quite a discussion has been raised in consequence.

The board of editors of the Monthly Maroon, the literary magazine of the University of Chicago are offering cash prizes for the best short stories written by any resident student of the university.

Of the cases presented by Harvard and Yale in the December debate on trade unions a stenographic report, with lithographs, is being published by the Yale Debating association.

Wisconsin defeated Chicago in a field meet, March 12, by the narrow margin of 39 to 38 at Madison. The most remarkable performance was the quarter mile, which Taylor of Chicago won in 53.25 seconds.

Michigan had an easy time of it with the First Regiment team of Chicago, winning by a score of 42 to 28. The meet was productive of an American record. Rose, a Michigan Freshman, put the 16-lb. shot, 47 feet 6 1/2 inches.

The Juniors and Seniors at Nebraska recently indulged in a good old fashioned class scrap. The bone of contention was the following sign nailed to the top of a telephone pole near a green fence: "Senior fence; Juniors must keep off."

Yale, Harvard, Pennsylvania and Massachusetts Institute of Technology engaged in a fencing tournament last week, which Tech. won by a good margin. The Tech. captain did not lose a bout and won first prize, while one of his team mates and the Penn. captain were tied for second place with 8 bouts won and 1 lost.

The relations that the evolutionary theory as originally laid down by Darwin has come to have in what would once have been regarded as widely removed fields, is to be specially considered by the zoological department of the University of Michigan, the second half of this college year.

Minnesota intends to send a gymnast team to New York this month to compete for the championship of the United States. To provide for the necessary expense a big circus was recently held in the Minnesota gym in which all the miraculous monstrosities of the world were presented to the student body.

Five of the most prominent German educators will soon visit Chicago University and elaborate arrangements have been made for their entertainment. The five Germans to come are Mr William Herman, Prof. Deubruck, of the University of Jena; Prof. Edward Meyer, historian of the University of Berlin; Prof. Ehrlich, and Prof. Kohler.

Tufts College has consolidated the A. B. and B. D. degrees and it is now possible to secure both in five years.

Michigan has a Girl's Glee club and it is contemplating a tour of the cities in the vicinity of Ann Arbor. The club has eighteen members.

Another case of alleged plagiarism is up in the college world. This time it is over in Iowa. A. O. Knapp, of Coe College, has been charged with "cribbing" his oration, delivered in the recent Iowa state collegiate oratorical contest, on "Greater Britain." In trying him almost a day was consumed. He was acquitted by a vote of 21 to 20.

Green Guy (to the waiter)—
Do you serve lobsters here?

Waiter—Yes, we serve any one; sit right down.

A $40 prize has been put up for the Brown man who makes the best showing in the preliminary for the Johns Hopkins debate

The mould of a man's fortune is in his own hand.—Bacon.

Whitman representatives are noted for their gentlemanly conduct when on trips of any sort and the Glee Club is no exception to the rule. Everybody noted them as a quiet (?) gentlemanly lot of fellows. The good conduct of students when out on these trips is one of the best advertisements for the school, and Whitman surely gains friends every time a team is sent out. This shows that Whitman is doing her work well as a trainer of men.—Pioneer.

Teacher—What is the feminine of sock?

Louise—Stocking.
