

High School Basketball Tournament Underway

Springfield Pre-Tilt Favorite; Navy May Watch at Liberty

By George Lund

The twenty-fifth annual high school basketball tournament began on the Willamette court yesterday and will last until late tomorrow night. The teams represent the finest in high school basketball throughout the state of Oregon and the outcome is anybody's guess. The tournament as in the past has been divided into two classes "A" and "B". The teams in the class "A" division include Corvallis, Oregon City, Ashland, Washington, Pendleton, St. Helens, Springfield and Bend. Teams competing for class "B" championship will be Grant-Union, Pleasant Hill, Powers and Knappa-Svensen.

Surprising enough, one of the smallest schools in the "A" division has been picked as the pre-tourney favorite and that is little Springfield, who won its way to the tournament by defeating the always powerful Eugene Axemen. Another good ball club to watch will be the Washington high team from Portland. They are winners of the Portland Interscholastic league championship, which is considered by many to be one of the toughest leagues in the state. Washington's record includes 11 consecutive wins.

From southern Oregon comes the other favorite, the rugged Ashland team. They had to get by such teams as Medford, Klamath Falls and Roseburg to gain their place and this alone is enough to convince the experts that they will be a tough hurdle to clear by the other clubs.

The class "A" division has two brackets. The upper bracket includes Bend, Oregon City, Corvallis and the favorite, Springfield. In the other will be Washington, Pendleton, Ashland and St. Helens.

Navy men on the campus will

Night Phone Numbers New

A change in after-hour telephone service was announced by the business office yesterday. After-hours includes the time from 5 p.m. to 8 a.m. Monday through Friday and from 12 noon Saturday through Sunday. In the past, the service has not been satisfactory because a rotation of three numbers has been used. The new plan promises to be more effective.

Hereafter, anyone wishing to speak to a navy official at the naval administration building or at the watch office should call 9266. To get in touch with Pres. G. Herbert Smith at his office or Lester J. Sparks at the gymnasium, call 9265. The new number for USS Lausanne is 9267. If the line is busy, the busy signal will be given. This new plan is only for after-hours when the switchboard is not in operation.

Seniors, Juniors, Sophomores Elect Class Officers Today

All classes but the freshmen will vote today for class officers. The polls will be located in the newly-opened student body office in Waller basement from 9:00 until 11:30 and from 1 till 5. Student body tickets are required to vote. Frosh will nominate Tuesday.

Seniors unanimously reelected two of their officers. Hollis Huston was retained as president and Dorothy Estes as representative to the student council, as recognition of their work during the past term. Candidates for vice president are Mary Anne Owen and Eloise Findley; secretary, Mary Lou Moore and Lois Phillips; treasurer, Helen Zimmermann, Jan Johnson, Jackie Judd.

be allowed to see the games during their free periods in the afternoon today and on their regular liberty period tomorrow.

Washington defeated Pendleton by a lone point, 36-35, in the opener which went overtime. Other game scores not available by press time.

Smith, Spears Meet Alums In California

The first formal introduction of Sybil Spears, newly appointed alumni secretary to an organized group of Willamette graduates, will be an occasion of the luncheon meeting of the Los Angeles Alumni chapter Thursday. Miss Spears will be presented to the organization by Pres. G. Herbert Smith, who will also address the group.

The appearance of Smith before the California chapter is among the engagements scheduled for his week's visit in the southern state where he will contact other alumni associations and attend to other university affairs. Smith left the campus yesterday and expects to return the latter part of next week.

April Journal Has Article By Schultz

The April issue of the American Journal of Physics will contain an article by Prof. W. W. Schultz, of the Willamette physics department, entitled "Diffraction Gratings at Low Cost."

Students enrolled in physics will have an opportunity to study these diffraction gratings when they study the subject of light, as Schultz has perfected the gratings for use in demonstration purposes.

The diffraction gratings were formerly obtainable only at a comparatively high price, but Schultz has discovered a method of producing them in lots at approximately ten to fifteen cents apiece.

The gratings have been used by Schultz at Reed, where he spent about six months in preparing them for use, and obtaining material for the forthcoming article.

Candidates for junior class president are Phil Sorenson, Bill Cate and Janet Blake; vice president, Jean Fries, Pop Oslund, Francis Busby and Wilma Freeman; secretary, Louise Cutler, Kay Wilson and Betty Provost; representative, Jim Elliott, Warren Hunter and Marv Brown.

Prep Speakers Compete at WU

Representatives from Oregon high schools will convene on the campus today and tomorrow for the tenth annual prep school speech tournament, sponsored by the University. Contests in oratory, humorous and serious interpretation, extempore and debate will be offered. The tourney opens at 12:30 today with registration.

An added feature of this year's tournament will be a student Congress, open to both high school and college speech students. The congress is conducted upon the same principles as state or federal legislatures, and is to be held tomorrow in the hearing room of the state capitol building. This is believed to be the first student affair of its kind held in the state building.

There is a need for university student judges for the contest, and those students qualified by past experience are asked to contact Dr. Herbert E. Rahe in the third floor Waller speech office.

The schedule of events follows:

Today—
12:30—Registration.
1:00—First round of debate.
2:00—Second round of debate.
3:00—First round interpretation.
4:00—First round of oratory and extempore.
4:45—Third round of debate.
6:30—Second round of interpretation.
7:30—Second round of oratory and extempore.
8:30—Fourth round of debate.
Tomorrow—
8:15—Semi-finals and finals in debate.
10:30—Finals in interpretation.
11:15—Finals in extempore speaking.

Cups for the first place winners and awards for the runners-up will be presented tomorrow morning following the completion of the final round of speeches.

Matinee Hops Start Today In Chresto

Matinee dances will begin in Chresto cottage today to continue every Friday between the hours of 4:05 and 5:30. The dances are to be purely informal, none-date and everyone is invited to come and to get acquainted with faculty members and fellow students.

Jeanette Mack has been appointed chairman of the matinee dances. She says that as she and Bette Burkhart are to be present for the first affair today, it really won't be necessary for any other women to attend as they are perfectly capable of taking care of all the men at once, but if other women feel so inclined they may attend just to observe the Burkhart-Mack technique and provide a little competition.

Decorations will be of the simplest nature consisting of a fire built by Miss Mack and Chuck Strong.

Cain Secretary

Ethel Jean Cain, junior, is acting as secretary to Prof. John L. Knight, counselor on religious life. She will be in charge of all correspondence, mimeographing work and the general office work.

Darlene Dickson will attend the Pan-American speech meet at Stanford next week.

Pan-American Meet Calls Dickson

In hopes of continuing the streak of speech honors won by Willamette students this year, Darlene Dickson will leave Monday to compete in the Pacific area regional contest on Pan-Americanism, on the Stanford university campus.

Word that Miss Dickson's manuscript entered in a national discussion contest on Pan-American affairs sponsored by the United States government, entitled her to compete in the regional contest was received, just after she won first place in senior women's oratory at Linfield.

Miss Dickson will take part in a discussion and give a prepared talk at Stanford Wednesday on "Inter-American Trade as a Basis for Permanent Pan-American Cooperation." The winner of the competition, which includes representatives from Oregon, Washington, Idaho, Arizona, California, Utah, Wyoming and New Mexico, will receive a trip to New York and a $500 study award for work in Mexico this summer.

Strong Heads Student Chapel Programs

Chuck Strong was appointed chairman of student chapels yesterday by Dick Maxwell, newly elected president of the student body. A vacancy occurred when LeRoy Hale, former student chapel program chairman, was assigned to midshipman's school in Plattsburg, New York.

Strong is a sophomore and the commander of Company "A." He also was the writer of the sophomore Freshman Glee song and played the role of Uncle Stanley in "George Washington Slept Here."

Because the high school speech tournament will be using the chapel of Waller hall today there will be no student chapel but regular student chapels will begin again on Friday of next week.

Willamette Men's Debate Team Wins First in WATS Meet

Willamette's Junior Men's Debate team, Dave Teeter and John Pike, took the title championship and the trophy in their division of the Western Association of Teachers of Speech late yesterday when they defeated the Northwest Nazarene team from Nampa. Curiosity of the event was the fact that one of the Nampa men was Ed Dowd, a freshman at Willamette last year.

Willamette and Northwest Nazarene had tied at the top of the competition by each winning seven debates and losing three. Their loss yesterday put the Nazarene team in second place in the conference, which includes schools from California, Idaho, Oregon, Washington and Utah.

Darlene Dickson won first in senior women's oratory at the meet held at Linfield, and Catherine Thomas took second in junior women's impromptu and third in senior women's extempore.

House Dances To Continue

A popularity poll taken of the living organizations following the platoon dances Wednesday night demanded a repeat performance which is set for next Wednesday night. At that time, Company A Platoon 1 will go to Fredrickson hall while Platoon 2 of A visits Delta Phi. Kappa hall will welcome Company B Platoon 1 and Alpha Phi Alpha will greet Company B Platoon 2. Company C Platoon 1 proceeds to Alpha Psi hall as the Beta Chi's entertain Platoon 2 of C.

Hours at all houses will be from 9:00 to 2:00 with refreshments being served by the hostesses.

Navy Slates Comprehensive

Navy comprehensive tests will be given today to all V-12 students who by July 1, 1944, will have completed two semesters of college work, including any college work taken prior to entering the V-12 program, and all V-12 students who by July will have completed more than two terms, but who have not taken any of the achievement tests given previously on April 20, September 28 or November 30, 1943.

Students taking the tests will report at 0900 for the morning session which will end at 1130 and report back to work from 1330 to 1630.

Book's Quick Return Brings Dollar Reward

A reward of one dollar is offered for the return of a black loose-leaf notebook inscribed "Ship's Service, Willamette University," and containing records and bills of the ship's service in USS Lausanne. The records are of value to no one but the business office. The record book was lost Wednesday, presumably in Eaton hall. The finder is urged to turn the book in to the business office and collect his dollar.

The Incomparable

Good News! Good News! A successor has been chosen to fill the horrible chasm left by the very lovely Miss Byrd when she unfolded her graceful wings and flew the coop two weeks ago. Yes, you lucky little darlings will now be able to read a column written by one who, in her own modest way, is as nearly comparable to the incomparable Miss Byrd as any mortal could be—and that individual is me. Who is me? Watch this column for further developments in this exciting mystery.

My first column will be devoted to a cause which I feel sure my predecessor would heartily approve. One of the worst factors on this gorgeous ten-acre field of loveliness, our campus, is the cliquishness of its student body and I might even dare to add, of its faculty and administration. Whyp, you little liberal artists, do you know what that box-like building on the west end of the campus contains? Have you ever been inside it? Do you know anyone who has been inside it? For your edification, I will state that it is the music hall, and within its walls are to be found some of the most fascinating characters on the campus—Mr. Ludden, Mr. Pankaskie, Miss Merritt, Mr. Ludden, Mr. Pankaskie, AND Mr. Ludden, and oh, just hoards of others. You really should take a course over there sometime, and if you try real hard you just might pick up a little culture. Believe me, it's not too great a disgrace to be seen over there.

And you budding musicians (I am not just sure that is the term to be used), you are the worst set of all when it comes to being cliquish. If a musician is ever seen in Collins or Eaton he is immediately branded as an outcast and a pariah by the other members of the musicians' union. What do you do all the time in that building? Except for the magnificent sounds emerging from your edifice, one would think the building was unoccupied. To paraphrase Sinclair Lewis, it might be said of almost any Music Senior: She (or he) disappeared into the Music hall four years ago and I haven't seen her since. But perhaps it's just as well you stick to yourselves. Certainly no liberal artist and musician would have a thing to talk about, except possibly the weather. Even at that, I sometimes doubt if the musicians get outside often enough to determine what the weather is doing.

I must say, too, that the budding scientists are almost, if not quite, as bad as the musicians. They also disappear into the gloomy halls of their building and are seldom seen in the sunlight until they graduate. Fortunately, the science requirement takes the liberal artist to Collins at an early age and he may become acquainted with the delights of nature and her devotees. In past years the language requirement for scientists brought them to Eaton but now since those classes have been moved to Collins, the neophyte scientist does not have to stray away from the fascinating aroma of chemicals, plants, and things long dead. Nor does he ever stray of his own accord, thereby creating another bad clique.

It is my extremely valuable and worthwhile opinion that you students should have a broader education and take at least one class in each of the buildings, or failing that, at least get acquainted with a few people outside your own scholastic sphere. You will be surprised what interesting specimens you will find and you will become mentally broader and more thoroughly plastered with culture. Just look at me. I've had classes in all of these buildings and where could you find a better-rounded and developed (intellectually, of course) person? When I wrote this I forgot that you don't know who I am, but if you did, I am quite certain you would agree.

So now I open my campaign for the breaking down of barriers and the more intermingling of departments on the campus. There will be a small fee to cover expenses incurred in handling this campaign; please pay them to my manager, Miss Mathews.

The Call of Fame

Answer to the Rook Book question "What Willamette grad received the Sperry award for achievement in aeronautical engineering?" as all good freshmen know, is Edward Curtis Wells. Another distinction came to Wells this week when he was named "Seattle's Young Man of the Year" by the Seattle Junior Chamber of Commerce. Wells has been at Boeing in Seattle for ten years, is their chief engineer and expert on four-motored bombers. He is credited with the basic design of the Flying Fortress.

Lt. (j.g.) Brongwyn "Bronc" Williams, former Willamette university football player, has been cited for heroic action, at the risk of his own life as the repair officer of the USS Lexington. The citation read, "Williams, USNR, exposed himself to poisonous gases, dense smoke and acid-covered decks to remove wounded personnel, prevent spread of fire by opening petcocks on carbon tetra-chloride tanks, riding the fantail of ignited smoke bombs. This action was accomplished in the face of continuing enemy attacks and was in accordance with the highest traditions of the naval service."

Jenny Mack

The spotlight was excited and pantin' like a banshee this morning when it hit the campus. Found out the reason in time—Jenny Mack. She bumped into it last night and gave it that old Mack line. Want the particulars? Okay, here it is, the Gospel truth, so help us.

Jenny's life stretches back to that momentous evening when she entered the big, wide, bewildering world. Now it's the world that's bewildered, not Jenny. First incident of any importance in her life was a few moments after her birth, when her excited and frustrated father threw her into the corner with the rest of the towels. (Well, she was wrapped in one, and we all make mistakes.) For the first eight or nine years, her mother worried horribly whether it had affected her mind at all. However, when Jenny learned to wave "Bye-bye" at the age of 14 it was obvious that she was perfectly normal.

At an early age, our heroine of the day entered Garfield grade school. It was here that she met Pat Byrd and first came under the influence of the Good Life. Here it was also, that she had her first important love affair. She quickly became attracted to little Stinky, because of the chewing gum he always had to offer. Notes flew back and forth with breath-taking constancy, our own Lennie Steinbock being instrumental in passing them. Jenny has always been rather bitter toward Lennie—he read them first, the cad. What might have developed into a lovely romance was nipped in the bud when Stinky moved away, never to return again.

Her indomitable spirit enabling her to recover from this blow, little Jennie gathered her forces together and pushed on to Leslie junior high, and then on—to Salem high, where her theatrical career made its debut. Yes, at fifteen years of age, Jenny was chosen for the part of the fairy queen in an opera. All went along smoothly 'til the long, red wig she wore slowly began to slip. By the end of the performance she bore a marked resemblance to Barnum and Bailey's bearded lady. The effect in the eyes of the audience was indeed odd, and in the eyes of Jenny, it was almost enough to warp her entire personality.

This tragedy overcome in time, Jenny became active in committee and club work. No one would know, to look at her, that she is the club woman type, but her cherished ambition is one day to become president of the local PTA, where her main platform will be "free expression at all times."

Miss Mack took two years between high school and college to learn about life, after which time she came to Willamette to rest and find her niche in the world. She found it in a booth in the Bearcat Casern, where one may find her any time during the day or night.

Upon leaving college behind her, Jenny plans either to become an intellectual bar-fly, or perhaps a social butterfly. "In either field," states Miss Mack, "I see boundless opportunities to pass on to those with whom I come in contact, the aesthetic qualities I have acquired here at Willamette university." The Good Life—see?

John L. Knight

Somehow we've neglected to introduce one of the most interesting men on the campus, Prof. John L. Knight. He teaches three courses in religion and according to those who are in those classes, they are unusually interesting. Trying to discover just what might have been responsible for this personality, the spotlight dug into his past and lighted on the fact that he was "born, bred and buttered" in Beverly, New Jersey, where he also went to grade and high school. After graduation he worked for two years as a shipping clerk in Philadelphia, and earned enough money for a "Model A" and a semester at Drew university at Madison, New Jersey. Well, the semester stretched out into four years (he was vague on the fate of the Ford) and he graduated from there. Says that R. Franklin Thompson did the same a few years before, from the same place. Three years later he emerged from Boston university with an STB and an A.M. Then after a year of graduate work at Vanderbilt university at Nashville, Tennessee he was the possessor of an MA. He came here from Bellevue, Tennessee where he was pastor of the First Methodist church.

Roaming around his office, the spotlight fell on a lovely picture of Mrs. Knight, whom he married during his last year at Boston university. Right now she is in Philadelphia visiting her mother so his home life is now consisting of trying to keep those dirty dishes from piling up in the kitchen sink.

When asked about his hobbies, she said he guessed it must be speaking, as he had speeches booked up ahead until sometime next August. This comes partly from the fact that he does church contact work for the university besides his teaching, plus counseling and directing religious activities on the campus. However, he does enjoy swimming and tennis when his activity schedule gives him time to do so.

SCUTTLEBUTT

It Can Happen Only Here . . .

The Collegian always did have a tough time locating LE ROY HALE, but last week, we surprised even ourselves. When he first arrived, he was typographically misplaced as being from USC when he was really from WSC. His high school alma mater listed him as being in the Army V-12 at Willamette. Plattsburg listed him from Lima university. Last week his by-line, which was part of the standing head for Collegian Scuttlebutt, got thrown in with the head, causing the editor almost to lose hers when the paper came out Friday. All apologies to MESSRS. SLATER and COTTHOFF, who wrote last week's opus.

The Dear Departed . . .

Our good friend, the lovely MISS PATRICIA BYRD, who has fought your battles, led your crusades and enlightened you on the Good Life in these columns for a semester, is now the proud possessor of a two-day old job. Yes, Miss Byrd, the friend of the people and defender of their rights, is now employed. She has taken a short vacation from Higher Intellect to pursue a career in the vaults of the local bank, but this, Dear Readers, is only temporary, for Miss Byrd's soaring spirits are even now beating the bars of her prison in their desire to escape to even farther pursuits of even Higher Intellect, and there is no place better than a bank to procure the necessary funds for anything, especially Higher Intellect.

Asbury Park Special . . .

From former second vice president ED FERGUSON in Asbury Park, NJ, the following. FERGUSON and MIKE CAROLAN will go to midshipman's school at Columbia on April 20. MILLARD LESLIE, DICK STRELLMAN and KIM KAUFFMAN leave next Friday for Northwestern and GORDON KUNKE and CARL PLASS go to Notre Dame on June 5.

Y's Guys . . .

Flash!!! Club 302 is now ready for use under the management and proprietorship of E. I. JOHNSON, who has put much time and preparation in on this project to give the boys something in the line of their home life(?) Call of the wanderlust hit the boys over the weekend when a strong contingent trekked to the old northern branch at Corvallis for the Mortar Board ball, according to reports, the boys are going back for more.

Sad News Department . . .

Once again the blow has struck the battalion, this time BOB BELTON and BOB CRABILL are the men leaving for the Idaho Naval Resort (Farragut, to you). Best of luck and let us hear from you.

Question of the Week . . .

Just why is the YMCA 90 per cent sold on student body tickets? That's right, the RODIE-JOHNSON combination. This combine cleaned up at the old club, hooking all the stragglers by questionable but effective methods. Goodnight, Kiddies, (now that we don't have Pat Byrd any more).

On Land, on the Sea, and in the Air

Henry Stoudenmeyer, now serving in the South Pacific, has been promoted to the grade of corporal. Stoudenmeyer, a graduate of Willamette, is a member of a band in an army air force unit.

Lt. (jg) Clarence S. Emmons will graduate from naval reserve officer's indoctrination school on April 12 when he will have completed a 60-day course in seamanship, navigation, ordnance and communications. Lt. Emmons graduated from the law school and before entering the service was assistant attorney general.

Robert D. Gardner has been graduated from the army air forces pilot school for advanced two-engine craft at Marfa, Tex. He is a graduate of Salem high school and attended Willamette for two years.

Lt. Ray Lamka of the class of '42, was on the campus Tuesday visiting Dean Chester F. Luther. He has returned from the South Pacific after two years of action in that area. When on the campus he was a prominent band member and was also a member of Second Lt. Andrew Rogers, 23, class of October '43, has just completed his basic officer-training in the United States Marines at Quantico, Va., and is taking his advanced training. Lt. Rogers played football three years while an undergraduate.

Life Saving Classes Start

Life saving classes are being started for those women wishing to be qualified as senior life savers. Phyllis Gueffroy, senior scholar in physical education is in charge.

The American Red Cross will qualify any person who is 17 or over with the necessary 17 hours of swimming. Those whose age is 15 or over and who satisfy requirements, will be qualified by the YMCA.

One class a week held every Friday evening from 6 to 7:30 p.m. has been started. All women interested should see Miss Gueffroy.

Outdoor Sports Featured

Tennis, volleyball and softball will be featured by Miss Gale Curry, instructor of physical education for women on the campus for the second semester.

Conditioning activities are listed as tumbling, judo, tremoline and exercise drills. Dancing is to be continued this spring.

WU Coed Teams In Archery Meet

The women's archery teams are now competing in the 1944 Intercollegiate archery meet. The meet started Sunday and will end next Thursday. The Willamette teams have entered Class C, each player shooting 60 arrows at 30 yards.

The scores for the first week are:

Lorraine Nelson—482.
Verna Stocks—436.
Marion Rowland—428.
Shirley Blackman—392.

Memory System Chapel Topic

A novel and effective memory system will be described in Tuesday's chapel by Lynn Leighton, local Boy Scout executive, who has developed the technique as a hobby. He will perform several demonstrations illustrating the methods employed in the system.

Dr. Guy Goodsell, superintendent of the Portland district of the Oregon Methodist Conference, will deliver the address at the first worship chapel of the spring semester on Wednesday. Artist to be presented by the College of Music on Thursday's program will be Bennet Ludden, instructor in piano.

Continuing the Story Of Penicillin . . .

Dr. Cecil R. Monk and Robert H. Tschudy, whose work on penicillin has been reported in the Collegian as well as other leading newspapers, have found a chance to prove the effectiveness of the drug. And to keep the work on the campus, the patient is a Willamette student.

Wilma Froman, vice-president of Alpha Phi Alpha, has a malignant infection caused by a burn inflicted 18 weeks ago. She tried sulphur, but the burn loved it—ate it up, in fact, and practically asked for more. So, Tschudy and Monk now have the chance long awaited. Miss Froman has been receiving treatment for over a week and claims to be the only person in Oregon who has been treated with it and lived to tell the story.

Father McDonnell Catholic Advisor

The Catholic club has elected Father Bernard McDonnell of St. Joseph's church, Salem, as the new advisor to the club. John Cotthoff is the president of the local university group which meets on alternate Monday evenings in Christo cottage. All Catholic students in school are invited to attend the meetings.

Geist Ill for Week

Dean Melvin H. Geist of the college of music has been off the campus for the greater part of this week with a strep throat and a sinus complication. His physician had ordered him home and away from as much work as possible, particularly singing. Geist has cancelled all voice instruction this week.

Navy News Briefs

Lewis Carroll, formerly one of the three chief petty officers assigned to the Willamette V-12 unit, reported Wednesday at Tucson, Arizona, after receiving his commission.

The V-12 unit at Willamette has obtained authority from the district to employ two women clerical workers to assist for two weeks in the work of the unit. Mrs. Ralph Dobbs, wife of Professor Dobbs of the music faculty, and Mrs. Grace Byington, have been working and will finish their duties this week.

One hundred per cent of the men at the Willamette V-12 unit again are signed for insurance under the plan provided for men in service. New men were signed this week when Ensign W. G. Sasser, district insurance officer, met with them on Tuesday evening. Last summer, with the initiation of the V-12 unit at Willamette, 100 per cent of the men were signed for insurance, a fine record for units in the district, according to Lt. George C. Bliss, commanding officer.

Inter-Faith Group Elects Payne

Bettliellen Payne, senior, is the newly elected chairman of Inter-faith Council, with Faith Idso as secretary. A policy committee, newly appointed, will determine the general functions and policies of the new organization, and as a group includes Catherine Thomas, John Cotthoff, Jean Fries and Laura Jean Bates.

Representatives in the council are from the Inter-varsity fellowship, YWCA, Methodist student movement, Catholic club, University vespers, Jason Lee and the Leslie clubs.

A special meeting of the Inter-faith council is planned for March 27, in order to vote on the report of the policy committee and to act on immediate business.

... or how to relax on leave

What more friendly way to welcome a soldier to a family gathering than the hearty invitation "Have a 'Coke'". It's like saying, "We're happy you're here. So be sure you have Coca-Cola in your ice-box at home. From "down under" to back in the U. S. A., Coca-Cola stands for the pause that refreshes,—has become the symbol of friendly folks the world over.

Victory Musicales Wednesday

Mu Phi Epsilon members are sponsoring a "Victory Musicale" in the chapel of Waller hall at 8:15 Wednesday night. Admission is free but those attending are asked to buy war stamps, available at the door.

Willamette music students will present the recital, consisting of violin, piano, voice and flute selections.

The purpose of the program will be to raise money for the fourth war loan. It has been scheduled after the platoon dances on Wednesday night in order to enable all university students to attend.

Members of the Phi Lambda, Willamette chapter of Mu Phi Epsilon, who will be featured in the program are: Yvonne Mozee, Barbara Dieffendorf, Mary Margaret Livesay, Marjorie Duckwall, Dorothy Niles, Freda Bucureneh, Eunice Massey and Louise Wisley.

Fry to Marry In San Diego

The marriage of Miss Marcia Fry and Ensign Wendell Johnson will be solemnized this weekend in San Diego.

Miss Fry is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Thomas Fry of Grants Pass. She is a senior at Willamette this year and a member of Delta Phi and Mu Phi Epsilon.

Ensign Johnson is the son of the Rev. and Mrs. Darlow Johnson of Portland, Oregon. He attended WU and was prominent in music. Recently he graduated from midshipmen school at Northwestern and has since been in Florida, from where he was transferred to the west coast.

Halls Elect New Officers

The outcome of elections held at Fredrickson this week saw freshmen women take most of the offices.

Rosalee Smith was elected president; Marjorie Beadles, first vice president or head proctor; Miss Suzanne Zimmerman, second vice president or social chairman; Alberta Adkins, secretary; Verna Greenlee, treasurer; Miss Betty Louise Sinkola, song leader; Evelyn Chapman, reporter; and Teddy Nelson, Evelyn Deal, Donna Chambers, Donna Kinkley, Virginia Muhle and Nancy Hoak as the house council.

Alpha Psi

Doris Holmes has been re-elected as house president at Alpha Psi hall this semester. The new vice president, who is to have charge of social activities, is Barbara Deiffendorf. Other officers are Lorraine Hollman, secretary-treasurer; Margaret Pemberton, song leader; Verna Stocks, member-at-large; Lucile Randall is reporter for the house.

Hell Week Anticipated By Members

Sorority pledges may look forward to a week of punishment to be inflicted by members due to informal initiation week scheduled to begin Monday morning. It will be carried out on the campus throughout the week until the final night at the house. Informal initiation will be followed by formal initiation on Saturday at the chapter houses.

The three sororities on the campus have had members busy since the first of the semester making plans for this eventful week. All pledges will undergo informal initiation whether they plan to become members this term or not.

Pledges at the Beta Chi house will be serving at the house as has been a custom in the past.

Delta Phi pledges will be guests of the members at lunch and dinner. The only difficulty is that silver will be replaced by other instruments.

Alpha Phi Alpha members too have innumerable plans in store for their pledges.

Such policies as sorority pledges not being allowed to speak to men on the campus, a lack of make-up and very different apparel will be seen on the campus this next week.

Oliver Talks To AAUW

"Good Night Sweet Prince" was the topic of a talk given by Dr. Egbert S. Oliver, professor of English, to the literature division of the American Association of University Women of Salem Wednesday. The book, written by Gene Fowler, is a biography of John Barrymore and deals mostly with his life as an actor. Oliver is scheduled to speak to another group of Salem women on the same topic on Wednesday of next week.

Sunday he will be guest speaker at the Congregational church in St. Helens. He previously spoke at the church on March 5.

Around the Campus of Old Willamette

Math and Physics

Changes in the entire math and physics departments have been made this semester with the addition of a great number of elementary physics students. With the addition to the department of Prof. W. W. Schultz of Reed college in Portland, the math class formerly taught by Prof. Maurice Brennen will be taught by Schultz, in addition to which Schultz will take over a physics class and labs.

Due to the large number of engineering drawing students, Prof. Earl T. Brown will give the lecture in Descriptive Geometry, enabling Brennen to devote more time to engineering drawing. Brennen will carry on in the lab.

Third Floor, Collins

Dr. Kenneth McLeod, chemistry prof, now has three large classes in quantitative analysis, whereas prior to the V-12 program at Willamette university, only one small class was held. This division of chemistry is the final requirement for students taking the pre-med course. Classes are comprised mainly of naval reserve men with a few civilian students included. In this four-hour course, the classes are now working on volumetric analysis during lab period.

Second Floor, Waller

An additional lab class has been added to the engineering drawing class, making three sections now meeting for this course. The number of students enrolled has doubled since last semester, and all classes are filled to capacity.

The lab room has been extended ten feet, encroaching on the room allotted the museum on second floor, Waller.

Six tables have been added, plus new equipment. There are 111 students in the beginning section, of which all but 15 are new students.

Take Accounting

Robert W. Fenix is now teaching elementary cost accounting, a new course this semester. The class consists of five members. This is the first time that the course has been offered on the campus, although accounting and cost accounting have been offered before. The only prerequisite is one year of accounting. Elementary cost accounting is an especially helpful course to navy men who wish to go into supply work, according to Fenix.

Band Rehearsals

All students interested in band are urged to turn out for rehearsals in the basement of the music hall Tuesday and Thursday from 1830-1930. Especially needed at present are drummers, and anyone playing trombone, cornet, or saxophone, is especially urged to turn out. Prof. Maurice Brennen will continue as band director.

New Radio Class

Offered this semester as a new course is a Structural and Theoretical Radio class under the direction of Prof. Earl T. Brown. At present there are only three students enrolled, but additional men may add this class as shop work is individual, and students may begin with work in the shop wherever necessary. The course has been in great demand in army and navy programs, as it may be used as a basis for communications work, or other subjects related in this field. The class is concerned with elementary radio work, and there are no prerequisites.

Institutional Management

Miss Lorena N. Jack, along with her duties as manager of Lausanne hall, is teaching a class in institutional management this semester. Miss Jack stated that she taught this course her first three years at Willamette, but since that time has not been teaching. The course, an upper-division branch of the home economics field, is a requirement for those women majoring in dietetics. The three students enrolled this semester are taking it for two hours' credit.

Included in the course is the study of organization and administration of an institution, quantity cooking, institutional equipment, quantity marketing and institutional experience.

Student Offices

Many students, new and old, have been wondering where the student offices are located. The answer to most of these queries is the basement of Waller. The newest addition to student offices found there is the student body office which moved to its present site at the beginning of the semester. Student body tickets and Collegians are available there. The Collegian and Wallulah offices are also situated in the basement of Waller. The bookstore, although not a student office, is also in Waller's basement, as is the Bearcat Cavern, campus refreshment center.

No Orchestra

There will be no orchestra this semester, according to Lewis Pankaskie, symphony director, due to the lack of music students on the campus. While there is "plenty of wind" there seems to be a noticeable deficiency in stringed instrument players. Those individuals who play wind instruments and are interested in taking part in the band should see Prof. Maurice Brennen who directs the Bearcat band.
