Pres. G. Herbert Smith

Smith Greets Students; 'Same Willamette Spirit'

It is indeed a pleasure to have this opportunity to greet the student body of Willamette university as we start the fall semester in 1943. Since commencement last June, great changes have taken place in the life of the university. We have completed a full sixteen-weeks' semester, and have made the adjustments necessary in the new college training program of the navy. During the past sixteen weeks, we have had our complete navy unit present, as well as almost one hundred civilian students.

Now we welcome the new freshmen who are entering Willamette for the first time, and greet the old returning students. You will find that with all the war readjustments the essential spirit of Willamette remains the same. I am sure you will feel that it is your Willamette and that you will at once sense the friendliness of the campus.

The purpose of the university during these months is to serve the regular constituency with the broadest possible program of liberal arts, and to serve the nation through the V-12 program of the navy. In so doing, we will have as fine a student body as any university in the land, and I pledge you the entire resources of the university in the development of the characters and minds of the young people who are to receive their education on this campus.

Loyally yours,

G. HERBERT SMITH

President

Navy Brings Many Changes

With civilian students registering today and tomorrow, and incoming navy freshmen arriving on the campus Monday while the remainder of the naval contingent returns from furlough Sunday, Willamette begins the second lap of its first 12-months school year and its first year as a navy school. The new apprentice seamen and the returning civilians are coming to the campus to find few visible outward changes, except on Sweetland field, where the north grandstand, no longer serviceable, was torn down. An obstacle course was set up at the east side of the gymnasium near the tennis courts.

No other changes are noticeable outside, but alterations have been made inside many of the buildings to which summer semester students have become accustomed. The mechanical drawing classes have been moved from the drawing labs on the first floor of the science hall to the south end of the museum on the second floor of Waller hall. The room formerly occupied by the drawing lab has been turned over to the physics department to accommodate the increased classes.

The navy administration occupies the law school building at the eastern end of the campus. This building was vacated during the second semester of the last year because of lack of sufficient fuel to keep the building heated. The law school, now located in the library, will continue in that building this semester.

There is a general switch in the basement of Waller hall, with the Collegian and the Wailulah exchanging office rooms. In order to concentrate student activities in Waller hall, the office of the new general manager, Dr. Robert E. Lantz, is now housed in the room that formerly was occupied by the University printing shop.

The only major changes in construction were made in Lausanne hall to prepare the building for occupancy by over 200 navy men. The dining room has been changed to offer cafeteria style service and the basement now accommodates a shower room, a laundry room, a vegetable room, a store room and quarters for some of the cooks.

Other changes in Lausanne include linoleum instead of carpets in the lobby and front stairway and waxed floors in the halls instead of the former carpet runners. Floors in the rooms have been sanded and the rooms have been equipped to accommodate four men apiece. The remainder of the naval men are housed at the YMCA.

The two small parlors in the first floor of Lausanne are part of the mess hall and the large parlor is converted into a lounge. To enlarge the kitchen, the partition between the kitchen and the serving room was knocked down and serving is done cafeteria style in the mess hall.

The infirmary, now the sick bay, is equipped to give the men their physical examinations and only minor illnesses are treated there.

Class of '47 Enrolls Today

Students Hear WU Prexy At 7 Tonight

A change in the printed program for Freshman Week moves the Welcome to New Students, originally scheduled for 8 p.m. tonight up an hour earlier, to 7 p.m., Pres. G. Herbert Smith announced yesterday. The earlier time was scheduled so that members of the Community Concert association may attend tonight's Welcome and still have time to go to the Salem high school to attend the Paul Draper and Larry Adler concert.

At tonight's shortened meeting in Waller hall chapel, Pres. Smith will talk to the students briefly, welcoming them to Willamette and explaining to them some of the school tradition. Prof. Lestle J. Sparks will show some of his reels of school life, which will include such famed events as Freshman Glee, Homecoming and May Weekend.

Cavern Seeks New Manager

As usual at the beginning of every semester since its opening in the fall of '42, the status of the Bearcat Cavern was still undecided as the Collegian went to press last night. The Cavern was opened during the summer term under the managership of Jay Oliver (who later resigned in favor of Welora Williams) and did a landslide business as far as selling all available supplies was concerned.

The trouble now, however, lies in getting more supplies, and most of all, in securing the services of a new manager. Walt Erickson, a member of the board of control, said yesterday. Neither Oliver nor Miss Williams will be able to continue as manager, and until another manager is found the Cavern will not be opened, according to the decision of the policy committee.

Willamette Library Is Center Of Registration Activities; Change in Tuition Payments

Registration for Willamette university's fall semester begins this morning with a record number of freshman women indicating intention to enroll today and returning upperclass students registering tomorrow. About 35 civilian men are expected, and approximately 50 new seamen will arrive Monday morning.

Dr. R. Franklin Thompson

Dr. Thompson Speaker for Graduation

A welcome visitor to the Willamette campus will be Dr. R. Franklin Thompson, president of the College of Puget Sound and formerly Dean of Freshmen at Willamette, who will be here next Friday to deliver the address for Willamette's first fall commencement exercises.

Nine students who completed the work for their bachelor of arts degrees during the summer term will receive their diplomas and certificates of graduation in the services at Waller hall chapel at 10:45 Friday morning.

They are Robert Byrd Albert, Dean Hathaway Byrd, Oral A. Davidson, Mark Odom Hatfield, Wendell Arthur Johnson, Norris R. Joyce, Andrew Rogers, Ralph Daniel Schlesinger and Elizabeth LaVerne Smith. All of them will not be present to receive their diplomas, however.

There will be a regular faculty convocation and the faculty members will all be present in their caps and gowns. Special music for the service is being planned by Dean Melvin H. Geist of the school of music.

Give A Cheer!! No More 7:45's!

And another thing you returning students may give a cheer for is no more 7:45's! With the advent of the navy and the schedule they live by, they're standing out in front of Lausanne for muster at about that time, so the first class in the morning now is scheduled at 8 a. m. The class hour continues as the regular fifty-minute period, with 50 minutes between 11:40 and 12:10 designated as the chapel period.

Freshman women and men will enroll with Registrar Walt Erickson in Easton hall this morning and after that, will take their English placement tests and attend group meetings. At three this afternoon, they will register and consult their professors in the university library, and arrange for consultations with the Dean of Men or the Dean of Women.

Freshmen are to complete their registration by ten tomorrow morning, at which time the upperclassmen returning to the campus will follow a similar procedure of enrolling and registering. Seniors are reminded to check their senior requirements carefully before completing registration and the candidates for teaching certificates must secure their application cards at the circulation desk.

Students who were on the campus during the summer term pre-registered during the week before final exams and the majority of them will not return to the campus until classes begin Monday morning. Navy men also pre-registered at that time and are now on furlough until Sunday.

Tuition Payments

The new one-charge flat tuition rate adopted by the Willamette board of trustees last spring goes into its second semester with the registration today. Under the new plan, all special fees are abolished, and tuition is an even $100, with a $10 student body membership required of all civilian students. Fifty percent of the total amount is required to complete registration today and tomorrow, according to R. W. Fenix, business manager, and the remaining 50% is due on December 15.

Private lessons in applied music, however, are charged for extra, in accordance with the number of lessons. Students who carry more than 17 academic hours are charged $7.50 for each hour over that limit. Those who take less than 12 hours are charged $10 plus $7.50 for each hour.

The new arrangement on payment dates was made in order to eliminate the confusion that arose during previous semesters at the time of final exams, when some of the students still owed money, Fenix said.

Board and Room

Board and room in the dormitories is set at $150 for the fall term, with $50 due on the date of registration and two subsequent $50 payments due on December 15 and January 15. The university reserves the right to increase the charge for board and room during the second semester if necessary. Students living at private homes but eating at the university dormitories will pay for their rooms in advance to their hostess at the first of each month.

College Life

With the beginning of a new semester, we're welcoming many new students, both civilian and V-12 members, to the campus. We hope that they will take an active part in the activities which make up Willamette's extra-curricular program. College life is made complete by these extra-curricular activities. The navy has shown its belief in a well-rounded education in the training it provides for future officers and it wants its trainees to be a part of the university and members of the student body association. It wants to have trainees fit into college life as far as possible under training conditions.

If the navy believes this important in the shaping of a naval officer, surely civilians would also gain benefits from participation in student activities. We are all shaping our lives for the places we will take in life; and a well-rounded education, including studies and time devoted to college activities, will help us to meet the problems of a naval officer as well as those of a civilian.—E. D.

The Welcoming Committee

Last spring as school was ending the big discussion on the campus was the problem of welcoming the navy men and making them feel at home on the campus. That job during the summer semester was left to a handful of civilian students who found it their lot to plan activities and make friendships with about 260 navy men.

That the task was accomplished this summer was proved by the air of friendliness that pervaded the campus and by the way in which navy and civilian students alike joined in any activity that arose. A combined group of navy and civilians joined in putting across the Willamette Victory Drive last semester. They set a goal of $5000 in the sale of war bonds and stamps, and before their three-week Drive was ended, they sold a total of more than $26,700. They set a goal of 75 students per week for donations to the local Blood Bank and more than 100 signed up each week as donors.

An Inter-Platoon series of competitive chapel shows was formed, and civilians and seamen worked side by side on the project with the civilians "rationed" out to the various platoons.

Seamen found their niche along with civilians in forming a host and hostess group for school dances, and they took a prominent part on the editorial staff of the Collegian and helped in taking pictures for the Wallulah.

In short, during the summer, the distinction between 'navy students' and 'civilian students' was erased and the classification became 'Willamette students.' It is this united group now who will take the lead in welcoming to the campus Willamette's new and returning students.

Laus-Annie Doesn't Live There Any More

Just as a warning to you returning women students and both of the returning civilian men. Women, don't forget yourself and go dashing over to Lausanne to do some rushing and Men, don't go calling at the Hall for your favorite coed. Annie doesn't live there anymore! The place is no longer a land of ladies. Yes, Lausanne, whose hallowed halls used never to hear male footsteps except in the lobby, and whose second floor was absolutely taboo for any man except some coed's father or Uncle Bill, now houses over 200 handsomely clad boys in blue. It's the home of the navy and it's known as the USS Lausanne.

We're warning you, see, 'cause we made this mistake when we first hit the campus last summer. We lived at Lausanne for two years, and a habit of two years is hard to break, so the first place we hit on the campus was the swinging door of Lausanne hall. But lo—no "ring bell and wait in lobby" sign out front, and no scratched up paint, but a nice spotless white front door. Thinking "Oh, well, it's about time," we barged on in, expecting to rest our weary feet on the soft, beautiful, cool green carpet in the lobby. Nothing soft about that! Sure that our eyes could believe, though our feet might deceive, we took a quick look floorward. Could that be red and black squared inlaid linoleum in whose highly polished surface we saw reflected our astonished faces? It could be and was, and it extended clear up the stairway that used to make such a picturesque setting for the women in their formals.

Nertz, No Nurse

By this time we were ready for the infirmary for a mild shock treatment, and started thataway, slipping and skidding our noses on the recently uncarpeted and waxed and shined hallway. And what greeted us in the infirmary? A nice white starched uniform? Oh, no, not that. We met up with a navy blue uniform with white stripes. Remembering the penalty for having a man in our room, we said we wouldn't tell, if he'd tell us where the nurse could be found.

He patiently explained that he was the pharmacist's mate, that the doctor wasn't here yet, that this was now the sick bay, that the Hall no longer housed women but over 200 navy men, and that he was preparing to give the men a series of seven different shots for everything imaginable when they arrived on the campus.

Recovering from this, we remembered too late that Willamette has become a navy school and that we women had been shoved out of Lausanne to make way for the sailors.

You civilians now won't get a chance to go beyond the lobby and the mess hall, (even Miss Jack can't go use the Hall telephone and she manages the place!) but we went over last summer before the navy got here and made a quick dash to room 27. Because we were wondering how the navy would like the robin's egg blue and the mill stream view of our former room, we scrambled up the first flight of stairs (all right, so it is a ladder) to the second floor and found two double decker beds against the walls and smack in the middle of the room where we never kept it was our old study table, surrounded by four chairs. Two of the four men staying in that room were awful mad when they found out that the table had only two drawers! Later on the men were given individual study tables.

What at first glance appeared to be chests of drawers turned out to be our old dressers without mirrors. On the wall near the washstand was the mirror that used to adorn one of the dressers. We used to have to kneel on our knees to comb our hair, but we'd sure like to see four fellas get shaved in twenty minutes in one mirror. We'd just like to see four fellas!

And new floor plugs! This was too much, for we used to create all kinds of fire hazards by draping our extension cord across the floor under the rug to hitch up a lamp we wanted on the opposite side of the room. To complete the picture, the splintery floor boards had been sanded. No snagged nylons for the navy!

Those bare bulkheads (walls) are going to stay bare, for navy regulations say no pictures or other articles will be hung on the bulkheads and only bona fide photographs may be displayed. No posters, no magazine covers, no fancy pictures, no Esquire portraits, no Hummel prints, but then what would a man be doing with a Hummel print? (Or an Esquire portrait?)

No Drapes to Shape

There will be no colorful drapes in the rooms either, and this reminded us of what we did with our yellow ones with the bunny rabbits on them that we had last year. We took 'em home and made pinafores out of them and wore them all summer. The only thing the fellows will have to make anything out of are the venetian blinds, and they can't do that cause they'll get a demerit if they do.

Then we shuddered with horror to learn that the men will get to smoke in Lausanne hall. We remember when our neighbors got caught smoking in Lausanne. First a visit from the Hall president, then the head proctor came in to tell them "No, no, Naughty, naughty!" And then from her quarters away over in the other end of first floor Miss Jack got wind of it, then they were brought up before house council, and finally they had a trip to the Dean of Women. The only stipulation for the men is that they do not smoke in their bunks or on the first deck!

But the biggest surprise came when we glanced out on our beloved sleeping porch and nary a bed graced the bare grey boards. The men, we were told, will sleep in.

Taste the Salty Tongue of the Navy

You'd better start now, because Willamette is adopting a new language, and you'll be lost in a foreign country if you can't understand the vernacular. By navy regulation the apprentice seamen are enjoined to use naval phraseology at all times in both official and unofficial correspondence and conversation.

Here are a number of naval terms translated into civilian language:

DECKS—The various floor levels.

ALL HANDS—Entire body of men.

HOLD—The basement of the building.

BEAR A HAND—Hurry up.

SHIP—The school or building.

BELAY—Stop.

MAIN DECK—The entrance level.

BINNACLE LIST—Sick list.

BRIDGE DECK—The second floor level.

BREAKOUT—To get an article from its storage place.

QUARTERDECK—The area at the main deck adjacent to the main entrance.

CARRY ON—To go ahead with what you are doing.

GANGWAY—The entrance steps.

FIELD DAY—General cleaning day.

PASSAGEWAYS—The corridors.

GANGWAY—Passageway. As a command, "Clear the passageway, step aside."

LADDERS—The stairways.

GEAR—A term for miscellaneous articles, as "Mess Gear."

HOISTS—The elevators.

HANDSOMELY—Carefully.

PORTS—The windows.

IRISH PENNANTS—Loose ends giving an untidy appearance.

SICK BAY—Dressing station, Lausanne Hall.

KNOCK OFF—Used as a command to stop doing a thing.

FORWARD—That end of the building to the right of the main gangway as you enter the school.

AFT—The opposite end.

LUCKY BAG—Place where lost articles are stowed until claimed.

MUSTER—An assembly at which the roll is called.

STARBOARD—The main gangway side; the front of the building as such.

PORT—The opposite side.

QUARTERS—A person's rooms or living space.

SECURE—To make fast or as a command to stow gear or dismiss personnel.

TOPSIDE—Upstairs.

STAND BY—To be in readiness.

BELOW—Downstairs.

SILENCE—Very important command and means silent and motionless.

HEADS—Toilets.

TURN IN—To go to bed.

THE ENSIGN—The flag; the National Colors.

TURN TO—To commence working.

SCUTTLEBUTT—Drinking fountain.

GALLEY—Kitchen.

MESS HALL—Dining room.

GOUGING—Cheating in examinations.

LOCKERS—Closets.

GOUGE—Answer sheet.

BULKHEADS—Walls.

GREASING—Apple polishing.

BUNKS—Beds.

ON THE TREE—Failing a subject, on probation.

OVERHEADS—Ceilings.

SWABS—Mops.

And while you're at it, you'd better get used to telling time the navy way instead of by the usual a.m. and p.m. designation. Navy time runs 24 hours in the day rather than 12 hours in the a.m. and 12 in the p.m.

The hours are designated by hundreds, and the minutes by units and 10's. For instance, 6 a.m., when the apprentice seamen hit the deck, is 0600, and 8:10 a.m., when they start calisthenics before breakfast is 0810. The first afternoon class begins at 1325, or 1:25 civilian time. The men are confined to quarters at 2200 (10 p.m.), and lights go out at 2400, or midnight. One minute past midnight is 0001.

R. W. Fenix Succeeds Savage In Willamette Business Office

Robert W. Fenix, former assistant professor of business at College of the Pacific, Stockton, Calif., came to the campus during the summer semester to serve on the university staff. Fenix was elected by the Willamette university board of trustees during their annual spring session to the post of business manager.

He arrived about the middle of June to succeed N. S. Savage, who retired after 22 years at the post. The board requested Savage to remain in office until August 1 in order that his successor could become acquainted with the situation here.

In addition to his duties as business manager, Fenix teaches classes in the business administration department.

Fenix has served three years as cashier at the College of the Pacific, in addition to his teaching experience. He was also in charge of vocational counselling at the California college.

Married to the former dean of women at College of the Pacific, Fenix has a daughter 32 months old and another seven months of age. His degrees include the B.A. and M.A. from the College of the Pacific in economics and business, and a master of business administration from the Harvard graduate school of business administration. He has completed the course work for a Ph.D. degree at Stanford and has done graduate study at the Universities of California and Southern California. Mrs. Fenix has a B.S. degree from the University of Minnesota and an M.A. from Syracuse.

WU Bookstore Open Monday

The Willamette bookstore, in the basement of Waller hall, will be open for business all day on Monday and Tuesday from 8:30 a. m. until 5 p. m., except for the lunch hour, Mrs. Helen Savage, manager, said yesterday.

Since Mrs. Savage came to manage the bookstore during the summer term, the hours have been from one until five in the afternoons, but anticipated business rush during the first of the semester is the reason for the full day on Monday and Tuesday. On Wednesday, the bookstore will go back to its regular afternoon schedule.

On hand to help Mrs. Savage during the rush days next week will be Ruth Ransom, who will sell books to civilian students only. Papers, pencils, inks and other supplies will be sold to all navy and civilian students by Peggy Wallin, Doris Holmes and Mrs. Savage will sell books to navy students only.

Vespers Sets Open House

One of the time-honored events of Freshman Week is University Vespers open house, which is scheduled for Sunday evening at 6 p. m. in the Carlier room of the First Methodist church. University Vespers is a non-denominational organization of university students, and an invitation to all new students to attend the open house is extended by Jean Fries, president.

Jack Glasse will be the speaker of Sunday evening's informal meeting, and plans are now under way for a quartet of apprentice seamen who will sing several spirituals. Wilma Froman is in charge of music for the open house.

Erickson Directs Activities Of Annual Freshman Week

Officers Set Activity Program

Freshmen and other new students will have their first chance to meet each other informally tomorrow night at the university gymnasium when the campus Y's sponsor an informal game night and mixer for incoming students. Bettliellen Payne and Richard Wicks, presidents of the campus YW and the YM, respectively, are in charge of tomorrow night's activities which begin at eight.

The first introduction to student body officers will come Wednesday morning at chapel time in Waller hall when a meeting of the freshman class is scheduled to start class organization and to hear the student officers explain Willamette's student activity program, which includes such activities as all-campus social events, sports and student publications.

Civilian students are immediately assured participation in the student activity program, since student body membership for them is obligatory, but for the navy students membership is voluntary. A muster to explain the ticket situation to the navy will be held for navy men during the first part of the second week. According to student council action taken during the summer months, navy men will be sold student memberships at a reduced rate, in keeping with the nation-wide trend.

A campaign to sell them tickets is now being formulated by the student officers. The ticket price for the navy will be $7.50 and there will be no admittance to any campus functions for any student except through the presentation of student tickets.

Orientation of New Students Starts With Registration

With the dormitories opening for women students yesterday, they were given a chance to become acquainted with each other and to get settled before the hectic activities of Freshman Week opened today. Both Dean Walter Erickson and Catherine Thomas, a junior who has been helping with pre-college guidance program this summer, were busy all day and almost all night Wednesday and yesterday helping new students move into their respective homes.

The calendar of events for Freshman Week is as follows:

Today

8:30 a.m.—Freshman enroll, Eaton Hall.

9:30 a.m.—English Placement Test, Eaton Hall.

11:00 a.m.—Meeting of new women, Chapel; Meeting of new men, Collins Hall.

1:15 p.m.—Psychological Examination, Eaton Hall.

2:45 p.m.—Information regarding registration, Chapel.

3:00-5:00 p.m.—Registration of freshmen, Library.

7:00 p.m.—Welcome to new students, Chapel.

Tomorrow

8:00 a.m.-5:00 p.m.—Physical examinations for freshmen women, Gymnasium.

8:30-10:00 a.m.—Registration of freshmen, Library.

10:00 a.m.-5:00 p.m.—Registration of students above freshman rank, Library.

8:00 p.m.—Y.M.-Y.W.C.A. Mixer for new students, Gymnasium.

Sunday

11:00 a.m.—The churches of Salem extend a cordial invitation to participate in the services of the first Sunday of the college year.

6:00 p.m.—University Vespers Open House, First Methodist church.

Monday

8:00 a.m.—Classes begin.

8:00 a.m.-5:00 p.m.—Physical examinations for freshmen men, Gymnasium.

Wednesday

11:40 a.m.—Meetings of leaders of student activities with the freshmen, Chapel.

Thursday

11:40 a.m.—First regular Chapel meeting, Chapel.

Friday

8:00 p.m.—President's Reception for new students, University House.

Dean Walter Erickson

Frosh Exams Moved Ahead

A last minute change from the printed Freshman Week program puts the physical examinations for the new women students on schedule all day tomorrow instead of all day Monday and Tuesday morning, as listed in the program. Examinations for entering civilian men will be all day Monday, Pres. G. Herbert Smith announced yesterday, and no physical examinations will be given on Tuesday.

Sybil Spears, first vice president of the student body, is serving as acting president. Darlene Dickson is secretary of the student body and of the publications board. Janice Patterson is publications manager in charge of advertising for Willamette student publications. Margaret Pemberton is the editor of the 1944 Wallulah, Willamette yearbook. Nadene Mathews is editor of the Willamette Collegian and president of the publications board. Miss Spears is a Beta Chi. Miss Dickson and Miss Patterson are Delta Phiis and Miss Pemberton and Miss Mathews are independents.

Sybil Spears Acting Student Body President

Women Head Student Body; Elections Will Fill Positions Vacated by Macy and Barnick

For the first time in its over-a-century history, Willamette will have a woman serving as student body president this semester. Sybil Spears, first vice president of the associated students, will take over the post of student prexy, but only temporarily, for the first part of this semester, when John Macy leaves with the V-12 seniors.

Miss Spears is next in line for the presidency after Macy, but she feels that she can be of more service to the students in her present position as first vice president and campus social chairman, so she will only handle the presidential duties until a student body and class election can be held. Dr. Robert E. Lantz, general manager, hopes to be able to schedule the elections in the latter part of this month. The post of second vice president, held by Don Barnick, who is leaving with Macy, will also be vacated and thus subject to a new election.

Nominations for student body officers must be made by petition signed by 25 students, filed with the student executive committee and sanctioned by that committee. Then the names must be posted on the bulletin board and published in the Collegian before the election is held. Class officers may be nominated from the floor in class meetings.

In the meantime, until an election can be held, the reigns of student government at Willamette rest in the hands of the five women students pictured at the top of this page. With the exception of Margaret Pemberton, Wallulah editor, all of the women attended student council meetings during the summer months, although only Sybil Spears and Nadene Mathews were the only ones registered in school.

'44 Wallulah Plans Made

Arrangements for a lithographed section in duotone blue, featuring photographs of the campus are among the chief plans made during the summer months for the 1944 Wallulah, WU yearbook, by Margaret Pemberton, editor. Handling of other traditional sections, such as classes, faculty, living groups and activities, will not be definite until the new term gets well under way.

Kennell-Ellis will again handle the photography for the pictures of students for the class panels and the scheduled time for students to start having their pictures taken will be announced soon, probably with the freshmen starting first.

Although Miss Pemberton was not on the campus during the summer term, Nadene Mathews, editor of last year's book, handled the work for the '44 book and took the needed pictures during the summer. Doris Holmes was in charge of the schedule of class pictures and the senior activity records for those students who are not returning to the campus.

Patterson Heads Advertising Staff

Janice Patterson was officially named publications manager for Willamette student publications during the summer when Betty Randall resigned from the job of co-manager. The two sophomore women were appointed co-managers last spring.

Margaret Hughlett was picked by Miss Patterson to be assistant manager, and both women, although they were not on the campus this summer, have been working regularly on Collegian advertising, in addition to holding down full-time jobs at local stores.

Bob Batdorf, who attended school during the summer term, also helped in soliciting advertising for the Collegian.

Today's Collegian Tells Events Of Interest During Summer

Your Willamette Collegian comes to you today as a part of what you get with your student body membership, as an effort on the part of the Collegian's staff to help you become acquainted with some of the campus personalities you will come to know during the semester, and as a synopsis of the events of importance that took place during the summer term. Many of the stories in today's edition which will be news to you are now well-accepted facts by the students who were on the campus during the summer.

The Collegian is published regularly each week on Friday, but in order to allow for the change-over from free distribution, as has been the custom in years past, to the system whereby Collegians will be distributed upon the presentation of student body tickets, there may be no paper next Friday. This will allow time for staff reorganization. Since many former staff members are returning to the campus and since Herb Rhodes, who has been serving as assistant editor is leaving, reorganization of staff positions will be worked out by Nadene Mathews, editor.

Doris Holmes, who served as news editor for the summer Collegian, will continue in that capacity for this term. She was named to the post in July upon the resignation of apprentice seaman Jack Wittliff, who did not have time for the activity. Wittliff remained on the staff, in charge of news and features emanating from the USS Lausanne.

John Macy, student body president, and Don Barnick, second vice president, are among the group of V-12 seniors expected to leave the Willamette campus Sunday. Both men are members of Alpha Psi Delta fraternity and Blue Key.

Navy Seniors Are Expected To Leave Campus Sunday

Although the navy does not permit publication of movements of groups of men, Lt. Marshall E. Woodell, executive officer of the Willamette naval unit, told the Collegian yesterday that of approximately 50 V-12 seniors who are expected to return from furlough and to leave the campus Sunday, three Willamette men received "breaks" on their assignments.

Ammon Adams, a Willamette senior and member of Kappa Gamma Rho fraternity and Blue Key, is the only senior who will go immediately to midshipmen's school. He was assigned to the reserve midshipmen's school at Columbia university in New York City.

Dix Moser and Ben Schaad

are reporting at the navy air station at Seattle for temporary duty, awaiting further transfer to the navy supply corps school at Harvard's graduate school of business administration in Boston, Mass. Moser will serve as assistant to the supply officer while he is in Seattle.

Last year Moser was editor of the Willamette Collegian, president of the publications board, a member of Blue Key, a member of Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities, and he received a straight four point grade average. Schaad was senior scholar in physical education, president of Alpha Psi Delta fraternity and president of Blue Key.

The remainder of the V-12 seniors on the Willamette campus were assigned to a training station in the east, awaiting further transfer to midshipmen's schools. Among this group are John Macy, student body president; Don Barnick, second vice president; Herb Rhodes, assistant editor of the Collegian, and Elmer Harrold, president of Sigma Tau fraternity.

Scholarships Go to Three Students

Coming just at the close of the summer term was the announcement by the scholarship committee of the winners of the Meier and Frank and the Florian Von Eschen scholarships.

Nadene Mathews, editor of the Collegian and president of the publications board, was the choice of the committee for the Meier and Frank scholarship of $100 which is awarded each year to an upperclassman on the basis of scholarship and participation in extra-curricular activities. Miss Mathews is senior scholar in journalism and last year was editor of the 1942 Wal-lulah, Willamette yearbook.

Loren Winterscheid, sophomore pre-med student, was awarded the Florian Von Eschen scholarship. This scholarship, honoring the late Willamette science professor, extends full tuition to a student who has distinguished himself in school work, leadership and sportsmanship. Winterscheid is a member of Kappa Gamma Rho fraternity.

Earlier in the summer, Jean Fries, a junior and president of University Vespers, was named recipient of the Charles E. McCulloch full tuition scholarship. Miss Fries has a four-point grade average and is a member of Delta Phi sorority.

The scholarship committee includes Dean Chester F. Luther, Dean Melvin H. Geist, Dr. Robert E. Lantz, Dean Walter E. Erickson and Pres. G. Herbert Smith as an ex-officio member.

43 Students On Honor Roll Spring Term

Forty-three students of the Willamette student body achieved the honor of being listed on the honor roll for the spring semester of the last school year.

Nine of the forty-three students obtained a grade average of four point. Four of the nine students who achieved this standing were members of the junior class. They are Jan Johnson, Leroy Long, Dix Moser and Kenneth Torgeson. Sophomores with 4 point grade averages were Jean Fries, Catherine Thomas and Richard Wicks. Merle Palmer, senior and Allan Voigt, freshman, are the other two students who made this high average.

Although the junior class had the largest number of students with a grade average of four point, the freshman class had the largest number of students with a grade average of 3.5 or above. The 16 freshmen are Allan Voigt, James Ingwersen, John Cotton, Margaret Hoover, Margie Noll, Loren Winterscheid, Charles Lovell, Laura Jean Bates, Nona Butson, Dorothy Hoar, Betty Jean Tucker, Gloria Wunsch, Warren Downs, Miriam Day, Wilma Froman, Patricia Kenney.

Juniors were Jan Johnson, Leroy Long, Dix Moser, Kenneth Torgeson, Darlene Dickson, Mary Anne Owen, Dorothy Estes and Betty Ann Swanson.

The senior class had eight members on the honor roll the second semester: Merle Palmer, Zoe Fretz, Betty Sackett, Helen Davis Simpson, Eloise Smith, Beulah Briggs, Jean Jackson and William Nesbitt.

Sparks, Lantz Get New Jobs During Summer Semester

One of the changes returning students will soon be well aware of is the shift in the positions of Prof. Leslie J. Sparks and Dr. Robert E. Lantz. Sparks was named acting head of the department of physical education at Willamette by the university executive committee of the board of trustees at the end of July, when Spec Keene, for 18 years head coach at Willamette, resigned his position here to accept a commission as lieutenant-commander in the navy.

Sparks is not handling the coaching duties and after a long and unsuccessful search for a coach, the university prevailed upon the three chief specialists here in the navy program to shape a football team in addition to their work in the physical fitness program.

Sparks resigned from the post of general manager of student activities upon the acceptance of the appointment as athletic director, his resignation taking effect on September 1. To fill the post of general manager, the student council went on record with a unanimous vote for Dr. Robert E. Lantz and this appointment was approved by Pres. G. Herbert Smith.

During his undergraduate days at the University of Nebraska,

Lantz was a member of a professional journalistic fraternity in recognition of his work on student publications. He served on the student council, the interfraternity council, the Y council, and was also prominent in debate and extempore speech.

Subsequent questioning also proved that he wrote his master's thesis on "The Study of Extra-Curricular Participation in High Schools and Colleges."

At both Nebraska and Willamette he has taught graduate and undergraduate courses on the techniques of directing student activities. He also taught a course in recreation and student activity one summer at Nebraska and has contributed articles to educational journals on developing the extra-curricular program.

Since coming to Willamette, Lantz has been one of the advisers at the Alpha Psi Delta fraternity and was a member of the board of control of the Bearcat Cavern.

Commanding officer for the Willamette naval unit is Lt. George C. Bliss. Lt. (j.g.) Marshall E. Woodell is the navy's executive officer and Capt. George W. Shepard is the medical officer in charge of the navy's sick bay.

Sailor's Day Is All Mapped Out For Him From 0600 to 2400— This Is Second Nature Now!

How does an apprentice seaman spend his time in the naval training unit at Willamette university? The navy has it all worked out for him in a daily schedule which controls pretty rigidly most of the waking hours of the V-12 men.

The schedule, which is, of course, listed according to the navy's system of designating time, begins at 0600, or 6 a.m., when they hit the deck and throw back bed covers. At 0610, or ten minutes later, they report for 20 minutes of calisthenics. Then they have 20 minutes to shower, shave and dress.

First mess for breakfast begins at 0650 and ends at 0715. During this period, the men waiting for the second mess are occupied in straightening their quarters. The second mess lasts from 0715 to 0740, and those who have had their breakfast straighten their quarters. Muster is scheduled from 0740 to 0755, and then the men are on their way to begin the academic day with their first classes.

Classes begin at 0800. They are 50 minutes long and have five minutes passing time between. The chapel time, which under the new university schedule begins at 1140 and lasts until 1215. Navy men will drill at this time on Mondays and attend required assembly in Waller hall on Tuesdays and Thursdays. Religious chapel and Friday student body meeting are voluntary for the apprentice seamen.

First mess for dinner begins at 1220, second mess at 1250.

The fifth period begins at 1325, and the seventh period is over by 1605.

Then comes the recreation, from 1605 to 1725, during which the men may go out for intercollegiate athletics, take part in activities, get their haircuts, or study.

First supper mess begins at 1730, and the second mess at 1800.

Study hours are scheduled from 1930 until 2200. At 2200 the men are confined to quarters, and lights go out at 2400.

WU Navycats Take 2-of-3 In Football

Unable to find a coach for the football season, the university licked the problem by forming a four-man football brain-trust, with Les Sparks at the helm, with the services of the navy's chief specialists Duke Trotter, Lou Carroll and Bob McGuire.

These men whipped a heterogeneous conglomeration of men into a team that took a highly favored Whitman eleven 20-0 on Sweetland field October 9 in what was then touted as Oregon's only college football game this season. However, the next week, arrangements were completed with the University of Oregon for a game with the Army-ducks on Eugene's Hayward turf and again Willamette's Blue-Boys sounded the colors, sending the Ducks down the stream 25-6.

Last Saturday after the close of a grueling week of finals the Navycats trekked to Borleske stadium at Walla Walla for a return meet with the Whitman Missionaries and returned a sadder but wiser aggregation after the Missionaries converted them by preaching a scorching 12-7 sermon to them.

At present, the plans for basketball are under way, with games being lined up with Oregon and Oregon State as well as the regular members of the Northwest conference.

Three Navy Officers Head WU Personnel

The commanding officer for the apprentice seamen stationed at Willamette university is Lt. George C. Bliss, whose headquarters are at the old law school building. Lt. Bliss, before coming to Willamette this summer, was on duty in New York as was the executive officer, Lt. (j.g.) Marshall E. Woodell. Capt. George W. Shepard is the medical officer in charge.

Before entering the naval service, Bliss served as principal in the Oakland public schools. Woodell was registrar and executive secretary at the Southern Oregon College of Education. Shepard served for 35 years in the navy medical corps and was retired.

Bliss and Woodell are not only in charge of the men stationed here, but have under their command the medical students of the University of Oregon medical school and the dental students at North Pacific College of Dentistry in Portland.

Either Bliss or Woodell teaches navy training at Willamette and at the other two schools, both of which are in Portland. This makes it necessary for one of the men to be in Portland two days out of each week, since the schools are so far apart that the classes cannot be scheduled jointly with the two schools together.

Three chief specialists are assisting Professor Lestle J. Sparks in the athletics program. They are L. C. Carroll, H. R. Trotter and Robert McGuire, who have been trained in drill and athletic competition. Yeoman W. O. Byrd works in the offices of the navy administration, H. B. Hannaman is storekeeper and G. S. Norrin, J. B. Reynolds and Johns are the pharmacists mates stationed at Lausanne to assist Capt. Shepard.

Spencer Tells Library Hours

Hours for the Willamette university library were announced yesterday by Robinson Spencer, librarian. A later opening and closing time has been set to comply with the hours set for the navy men.

From Monday through Friday the building will open at 7:40 a.m. and close at 9:45 p.m. It will remain open during the dinner hour.

On Saturday the hours are from 7:40 until 5 p.m. The library will close Tuesday through Friday at the chapel period from 11:40 a.m. until 12:15 p.m.

Strict Set of Navy Regulations Govern Seamen at Willamette

A rigid system of naval regulations govern the life, movements, and practically even the thoughts of the apprentice seamen stationed at Willamette, so the men who came to the campus last summer quite green have found out, since they emerged from the summer's work true navy blue.

The regulations provide for a system of demerits under which the men are limited to 150 demerits for the first semester, 100 for the second semester, 75 for subsequent semesters, and a total of 200 for the course.

Of general interest among the regulations are those which permit smoking only in quarters and prohibits smoking in bunks, on the campus or on the streets.

Outside Liberty

During the recreation period, from 1605 to 1725, the men are on liberty to leave the campus, but are required to remain on bounds. During the rest of the day they are confined to the campus. Liberty outside the liberty area is granted once each month, and the men may select the weekend on which they want

After-Supper Restriction Still Holds

"The men now realize that the navy is serious business," said Lt. (j.g.) Marshall E. Woodell in reporting that the regulation restricting V-12 men to the campus from supper time until 2200 (10 p. m.) would not be rescinded for the fall term.

During the first five weeks of the summer term the men were at liberty to leave the campus during the evening hours before they had to be back in their rooms for 10 p. m. bed-check, but at the close of the first grading period the regulation was imposed, so the only time the men may leave the campus now is during the recreation hour from 4:05 until chow-time, and from the close of Saturday afternoon inspection until 2200 Sunday evening.

War-Time Needs of University Met by Additions to Faculty

To meet increasing war-time needs, new professors have been added in almost every department of the university, students returning for the fall term will find.

The ever-expanding music department found it necessary to add two new instructors to its roster in the persons of Ralph Dobbs, well-known concert pianist who will head the College of Music piano department, and Miss Evangeline Merritt, instructor in voice as assistant to Dean Melvin H. Geist.

Dobbs is to be presented in recital November 8 as the first in a series of faculty recitals to be presented this semester, and Miss Merritt will appear early in December. In the opinion of Dean Geist, the addition of these two instructors will make a distinct contribution to the cultural life of Willamette and the surrounding area.

The mathematics department added Perry Spelbrink, former Willamette grad, at the first of the summer term, and Maurice Brennen, former director of the Bearcat Band, returned to the campus to handle refresher courses in math and to take over the engineering drawing classes. This term the versatile education professor, Dr. C. H. Hutchins will also assist with two of the math sections.

Stepping into the econ post is Stephen Smith, graduate of DePauw university, who came to the campus late in September to take the classes that had been handled by Neil Brown of the Salem high school in the absence of Dr. J. W. C. Harper.

The Rev. John L. Knight, Jr., was added as assistant professor of Bible and religion and student counsellor on religious activities. He will also represent Willamette in the churches throughout the conference.

Dr. Morton Peck, retired Willamette biology professor, will return to handle a class in plant biology.

Chapels Resume Regular Schedule

Well, it was fun while it lasted! During the summer term, civilian and navy students went to chapel only twice a week—to a general program on Tuesday and to a musical program on Thursday.

With the return to the campus of all the regular students, however, the regular three-a-week chapel program will go into effect, according to announcement from the administration.

The first of the regular chapel meetings is next Thursday, with Pres. G. Herbert Smith making the opening address for the semester's services. On Thursday, November 11, which is Armistice day, Lt. George C. Bliss, commanding officer of the Willamette naval unit, will make his first address before the student body. The regular Tuesday general chapel and Wednesday morning worship chapel will also be held that week, although no speakers have been announced as yet. The regular Thursday chapels are musical.

Friday is reserved for student chapel programs. During the summer, the platoons put on a competitive program series with Platoon One of Company C winning the prize of a free ice cream feed in the Bearcat Cavern.

Calendar Lists Few Holidays

Nine whole days of vacation have been set aside for Willamette university students during the fall semester and they had better use them to advantage as the spring semester will mean four months of grueling toil without a letup.

Although Armistice day will not be recognized by the school as an official holiday, students will have a breather on Thanksgiving day and a seven-day rest for the Yuletide season. Christmas recess will begin December 22 and end December 29. New Year's day will be a school holiday.

Classes for the fall semester will begin November 1 with a special Armistice day convocation being held on November 11. Pre-registration for the spring semester will be conducted the week of February 7 through 12 with final examinations following between February 21 and 26.

Orientation and registration for the spring semester will commence March 3 and 4.

New Courses to Aid Students In Planning Semester's Work

University heads yesterday announced changes in the curriculum for the new semester to meet the new needs and demands arising from the war.

Of particular interest to the women students is the faculty approval to give two hours credit to a limited number of students in a nurses' aide class. A probable two hours credit will be given to a class limited to 20 women. The class will meet for one and a half hours twice a week at the Deaconess hospital. Qualifications for the two hours credit will consist of 35 hours of classroom lectures and demonstrations, 45 hours of supervised practice and 150 hours' experience. Women desiring to enroll in the course should get in touch with Olive M. Dahl, dean of women.

New Religion Course

Also approved by the faculty is the addition of a course entitled Religion in America to be taught by the Rev. John L. Knight, Jr., new religion professor now on the campus. This course will meet first period on Monday, Wednesday and Friday and will include a historical study of the transfer of Old World faiths to the New the development of religion in America in the light of environmental factors, the various denominations and their influence on the sum total of American life and thought, and the contribution of organized religion to the social history of the American people.

Fowler Teaches Crafts

A new course is being offered in the art department according to Miss Constance Fowler, art instructor, principally for the benefit of those interested in playground work. The course is called Arts and Crafts and will be conducted as a laboratory workshop. It will include a study of various crafts such as block-printing, carving and modeling. The class is scheduled for the second and third period on Monday and Wednesday.

Science Changes

Changes in the schedule for the new term were announced this week from the office of Chester F. Luther, dean of the college of liberal arts. Two courses have been added to the original science schedule. Organic chemistry for four hours' credit under Dr. C. H. Johnson will meet the fourth period on Tuesday and Thursday in room 202 in Collins. General college physics for four hours' credit under Prof. E. T. Brown will meet Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday first period in room 115 in Collins.

Changes in previous courses were made in Mathematics 2 under Hutchins which will meet in Room 37 in Eaton instead of room 115 in Collins. German under D. H. Schulze will meet in room 2, Eaton instead of Collins 213. Evolution under Dr. Robert Tschudy has been changed to an evening class tentatively scheduled for Wednesday and Friday.

Rush Teas Wednesday At Willamette Sororities

Sorority rushing at Willamette will open Wednesday when the three sororities hold their annual teas. All unaffiliated women on the campus are invited to attend. Hours will be from 4 to 6 p.m., and are arranged so that guests have ample time to visit each house.

Alpha Phi Alpha house is located at 965 Court street, just across from the state capitol building. Mary Bennett is president. The Beta Chis are two blocks east of the campus at 1445 State street, with Mary Jean Huston as president. Eleanor Todd is president of Delta Phi sorority house, at 1610 Court street.

Two weeks are allowed for the informal parties and dates for these have been set as November 9, 10 and 11. Dates for the second rush are November 16, 17 and 18. Silence day will be November 19 followed by preference dinners Saturday, November 20. Pledge services will be on the following Sunday.

Sororities are asked to simplify their rush functions this year, according to Dean Olive M. Dahl. At a meeting of the intersorority council last spring it was decided to dispense with the customary buffet suppers due to food rationing and to hold informal parties instead. Dean Dahl asked that only light refreshments be served at the rush affairs.

The rush booklet being made up for the first time this year is scheduled to be finished this weekend according to sorority members who are working on it. The booklet will be mimeographed and will contain rush rules, rushing procedure, general information about the sororities and rush dates. Working on the book are Bette Burkhardt of Delta Phi, and Lois Butler of Beta Chi.

Smiths Honor New Students

One of the biggest events of Freshman Week will be the informal reception for the new students and the new faculty members at University House, home of President and Mrs. G. Herbert Smith, next Friday evening at 8 p.m. This reception replaces the traditional annual YM-YW formal reception held previously in the Willamette gymnasium during Freshman Week.

In the line with President and Mrs. Smith will be Dean and Mrs. Melvin H. Geist, Dean and Mrs. Chester F. Luther, Dean and Mrs. Daniel H. Schulze, Dean and Mrs. Walter E. Erickson, Dean and Mrs. Ray L. Smith; and Dean Olive M. Dahl.

There will be music and other informal entertainment throughout the evening.

Women's Dormitories Were Fraternity Houses

With navy men evicting freshman and independent women from their traditional home at Lausanne hall, women students are being housed in two fraternities, one dormitory and several private homes. A large freshman enrollment necessitated the use of private homes for the overflow of students from the halls.

Fredrickson hall located across from Lausanne hall, will house the largest group. Mrs. Myrtle Mendenhall will be housemother to the 46 women living there. Second largest dormitory is Kappa hall, formerly the Kappa Gamma Rho fraternity house, which will have 24 occupants. Alpha Psi hall, also a former fraternity house, will be home to 20 women. Housemothers are Mrs. Helen Goodenough at Alpha Psi and Mrs. A. A. Reed at Kappa.

Nine women will reside with Mrs. Dan Madison at 266 N. Capitol and six at the boarding house of Mrs. J. A. Barham, 1433 State street. Four students will live in each of the homes of Mrs. F. A. Legge, 1499 State street; Mrs. Charles Johnson, 362 Jarris avenue; Mrs. A. H. Davis, 500 N. 20th, and Mrs. Herman Brown, 143 S. 13th. Six will live at 1189 Court street with Mrs. J. Scott.

Mrs. S. B. Laughlin will have two freshmen at her home at 1705 Court street and one woman will live at 1434 Ferry street. Three are living at 633 Ferry with Mrs. Charles A. Raffety and three with Mrs. E. I. Piatt at 364 N. 12th.

Housemothers for the Alpha Phi Alpha and Beta Chi sororities are Mrs. W. E. Kirk and Mrs. J. A. Davidson, respectively. Mrs. S. A. Elliott, of Salem, is temporary housemother at the Delta Phi house until a permanent one is found, according to house officers.

The women students housed in the private homes will have their meals at the dormitory nearest their home, thus assuring them of more contact with other university students.

History Institute Brings Fame To Campus

Bringing nation-wide famed people to the campus and nation-wide publicity to the university during the summer semester was the Institute of American History and Civilization which was held here during the last five weeks of the summer semester.

Dr. William Warren Sweet, historian from the University of Chicago, was the Institute's featured speaker, giving a two weeks' chapel series on American history. Other people of national renown here for the program included Bishop Bruce R. Baxter, former president of the university, who was in charge of the Institute's religion section.

Ernest Haycox, writer of western stories used as the basis for the movies "Stagecoach" and "Union Pacific" gave the last feature talk on "American Character."

The Portland Oregonian was co-sponsor of the Institute program, which received widespread publicity in the New York Times and other eastern papers. David Hazen, Oregonian interviewer, and Philip Parrish, Oregonian feature editor, also gave talks during the Institute.

Willamette professors, too, took part in the program, for Dr. Robert M. Gatke was in charge of the northwest history classes and Dean Melvin H. Geist, assisted by the entire music faculty, gave classes on the history and development of American music. Miss Constance Fowler handled American art and Dr. Helen Pearce and Dr. E. S. Oliver taught American literature.

The purpose of the Institute was to develop and promote intelligent patriotism and to inculcate loyalty to the country through a broad knowledge of American history and the part played by America and Americans in the development of a cultural civilization.

University Health Services Include Dispensary, Sick Bay

"An improved and extended health service will be available to the regular students returning to the campus this term and the university is planning a joint medical service with the navy department to take care of the navy men," Pres. G. Herbert Smith said yesterday.

Dr. C. A. Downs of the Salem Clinic will continue in his capacity as head of the health service, and the university will furnish the civilian students the health service as stated in the college catalogue, which includes the complete physical examination, tuberculin test for all new students entering the university and the smallpox vaccination for those who have not had it. Medical consultation and certain specified drugs will be furnished and the university provides for three days hospitalization.

In addition to the regular service a dispensary is open in the east end of the first floor of the gymnasium. Mrs. Minnie Mortimore is the full-time nurse in charge and the service is open to both the navy and civilian students. Hours for the dispensary are from 8:00 until noon every morning and from 3:30 until 5:30 every afternoon. Those cases needing the attention of a doctor will be referred to Dr. Downs.

The sick bay for the navy is located in the former infirmary at Lausanne with the navy medical officer, Capt. G. W. Shepard, in charge. He takes care of minor cases at the sick bay, but extreme cases are referred to Downs at the Clinic and to the Salem hospitals.

The university is now making arrangements to secure a house which may be converted into an infirmary for university students.

Lovell Speaks in Canada For Royal Naval College

Dr. R. I. Lovell, Willamette history professor, coupled business with pleasure during the vacation week by traveling to Canada to appear as a guest lecturer at the Royal Canadian naval college in Victoria, B. C., talking on "One Hundred Years of American Foreign Policy." He also spoke at the Victoria Kiwanis club and at the College of Puget Sound in Tacoma, Wash.
