NO. 10

THE QUARTER-BACK'S SOLILOQUY

To punt, or not to punt,—that is the question:—
Whether 'tis nobler in the mind to test
Another play 'tween tackle and left end,
Or else a rush athwart the other side
And, by opposing, victory? To punt,— to run,—
No more:—and by a run to try to ease
The struggles of the tired guards who hold
The line, and plunge,—'tis a consummation
Devoutly to be wished. To punt,—to run,—
To run! perchance to lose;—ay, there's the rub;
For in that run what dreams of gain may wane,
When others hold the ball and dash our line,
Must give us pause; there's the respect
That makes half backs nigh worked to death.
For who would bear the "knocks" the gibes of fools,
The critic's smile, the old, "I told-you-so,"
The dread of dire defeat, the gloom,
The word of cheer denied, and all the rest
That falls on blameless shoulders off,
When he himself might the victory snatch,
With a mere signal? Who would hesitate
To call upon the full-back for a try
But that the dread of that which might ensue,
A well-blocked ball and loss of ground so dear,
In radium worth its weight, puzzles the will
And makes us rather use the good we have
Than seek for others that we know not of?
Thus foot-ball does make cowards of us all;
And thus the signals that might win the day
Are buried deep in minds for future use,
And dreams of touch-downs, goals and safeties
With this regard are wafted up in smoke,
And perish in their birth.
—J. F. Wickman, Holy Cross Purple.

CO-EDS WIN.

Defeat McMinnville Co-Eds
11 to 2.

The basket ball season was ushered in last Friday evening, in a most pr pitious manner, by our girls winning from the McMinnville, the score being eleven to two. Although the visitors were clearly outclassed from the start, both in team work and good throwing, they put up a plucky fight, and deserve much credit for holding the score down as well as they did. The game was quite rough on both sides, and a great many fouls were called, but this was to be expected as it was the first game that either team has played this year.

McMinnville's team work was poor, but individual playing was first-class. Capt. Kunes was their star, making two points from the foul line.

On the part of Willamette no particular star can be named—rather it can be said that the players were all stars.

On account of the illness of Capt. Randall, Miss Jennie Coyle acted as Capt. and made nine points on three field goals and three from foul line.

Miss Swafford made a very pretty basket from field.

After the game the visitors were given an informal reception by Miss Katherine McDonald, at the girls' hall, where all enjoyed a pleasant evening.

Our relations with our Baptist sister school have always been the most pleasant, and not only was there no ill feeling over the game, but the good fellowship existing between us was augmented.

The line-up of the two teams follows:

Willamette—Forwards, Coyle, Swafford; center, Holmstrom; guards, L. Randall, Gray.

McMinnville — Forwards, Kunes, Sears; center, Cook; guards, Hay, Griffith.

Referee—Brewster, of McMinnville.

Umpire—Judd, of Salem.

Time-keepers—Long, of Salem, and Prof. Collet, of McMinnville.

Scorer—Graunis, of Salem.

JUNIORS ORGANIZE.

On last Wednesday evening the Juniors from all departments of the University met in the office and perfected an organization. Although they are the last to organize, they are by no means the least or the slowest people in school. This is the first time in the history of Willamette that a class has been organized from all the departments, and it is another indication of the unification of the University.

The following officers were elected:

Pres. J. O. Van Winkle (Medical.)

Vice-Pres. Gertrude Johnson (Oratory.)

Sec. Chester Catlow (Music.)

Treas. Lila A. Swafford [Liberal Arts.]

The following committees were appointed:

Entertainment—E. K. Miller, H. A. Beauchamp, Chester Catlow, Bertha Hewitt.

THE Y. M. C. A. CONVENTION.

A Great Success.

The convention of the Oregon-Idaho Young Men's Christian Associations, held at Forest Grove, Ore., Dec. 4, 5 and 6, was one of the best ever held. About 150 delegates present. Willamette was represented by 21 men, which was the next largest delegation present. The session was opened in Marsh Hall Friday evening. The address of the evening was delivered by Mr. Fred B. Miller, of Omaha, Neb. He narrated the work which the Y. M. C. A. was doing for young men the world over, giving us a broader view of that good work. Saturday morning a conference on particular phases of religious work, and in the afternoon a college conference occupied the attention of the delegates. In the evening Mr. A. S. Allen of Seattle gave a very impressive address on "The Religion of Manhood," and Mr. Wilbur Helm delivered a splendid address, "Two Sides of an Ocean." On Sunday morning at 9:5 the delegates met for a quiet hour. It was a blessed time. In the afternoon, at the men's mass meeting, came the climax of the convention. Mr. Colton was the speaker, and he spoke in mighty power, filled with the Holy Spirit. His words went straight to the hearts of men. Many men signified their desire to become followers of Jesus Christ, and about twenty-five came out definitely for Him. It was a rare privilege to be there. Mr. Colton understands the real religion of our Savior, and he understands how to help men to reach out after it.

In the evening we were again inspired by the words of Mr. Colton, on "The Supreme Purpose." It was a magnificent address. Many men felt its force, and will, with the Father's aid, live better lives the coming years in consequence of its influence and inspiration. After the address came the Platform meeting. The speakers and prominent members of the convention gave their parting messages. Mr. Willis gave his in an old, familiar song, "I'll Be what You Want Me to Be," singing it so sweetly and tenderly that doubtless scarce a heart in the vast audience was not touched by its beauty.

Many delegates also told what they had received from the convention, and then came the grand though touching farewell scene. The members of the convention—about 200 men—formed a circle with joined hands and lovingly, prayerfully sang, "Blest Be the Tie that Binds," after which Pres. Fred Wiggins, of Salem, declared the convention adjourned.

It was a most successful convention, especially from a spiritual standpoint. Almost every delegate felt himself to be personally spiritually blest, and in consequence will do a better work for Him. The fellowship with the Christian men was a most enjoyable side feature. When it came to part it seemed as though we had been friends a long time, and many of us will, widen the scope of our private prayers to help some of those splendid speakers, or some of those frank, whole-souled Christian men whom we met at the great convention of the Oregon-Idaho Young Men's Christian Associations, Dec. 4, 5 and 6, Forest Grove, Oregon, 1903.

Entered at the postoffice at Salem as second class matter.

Class spirit is all right, and we believe that the success of the University depends largely upon the amount of spirit manifested by the different classes. The affair of Wednesday night was unfortunate, and yet we hope that instead of lessening the ardor of any class in school, that it will only be the means of increasing it. If we thought the second year's were guilty of any crime or indiscretion we would not be slow to condemn them, but after a careful investigation of the circumstances we are persuaded that the only indiscreet act performed that evening was by certain of the first year's when they permitted an officer to be called. And while we think that there are other and better ways of displaying class spirit, yet we do not agree with the "scissor and paste pot" editor of a Salem daily, who says that no student who really respects him or herself would be found doing such things as the second year's did that night.

For the reporters who have reported so many lies about the affair, done their best to make a sensation out of it, and referred to the members of the second year class as hoodlums, we have nothing but the most heartfelt contempt.

Northwestern University will soon have a new $100,000 gymnasium.

At the University of Minnesota an effort is being made to revive the movement started three years ago, for the purpose of erecting a monument on the campus to the memory of Minnesotans who fell in the war with Spain.

THE CURUPIRA.

A peculiar mythical character among the Indians of Northern Argentine and Southern Brazil is the Curupira, a little brown man, whose feet turn backward, so that their tracks are reversed, anyone trying to run away from him along his trail, runs to sure destruction. He is said to be bald, with enormous ears and green teeth; he lives in the forest and leads people astray there; he calls in the woods, and if anyone follows he does so again, leading his victim on till lost in the forest; then he kills and eats them.

He is also said to be the guardian deity of the forest, punishing anyone who destroys or injures the trees. There are many stories told of this little man.

One day, an Indian hunting, lost his way in the forest. Night overtook him, and he fell asleep at the foot of the tree. The Curupira, the evil genius of the forest came to him, and awoke him. "What are you doing here?" demanded the Curupira. "I have lost my way, and I am forced to pass the night here," answered the Indian. "Then," said the evil genius, "give me a piece of your heart to eat. Fortunately the Indian had killed a monkey during his hunt, he turned around, opened the breast of the monkey, and taking out its heart, gave a piece to the Curupira, who devoured it with much satisfaction, believing it was the heart of the Indian. "It is very good," said the Curupira, "give me the rest of it." The Indian did so, and then asked for a piece of the Curupira's heart." The other believing that the man had taken out his own heart without any bad effects, opened his breast in turn, and at once fell dead. The Indian, free once more, ran away.

At the end of a year, the Indian, remembering that the Curupira had beautiful green teeth, which would make a fancy collar, went back to the place of meeting, finding the skeleton, began to shake it in order to get out the teeth. The Curupira suddenly rose up, smiling at him said, "Thanks, my friend, for waking me. I have had a long sleep." To recompense the Indian for his kindness, he presented him with a magic arrow, telling him that henceforth he would be able to kill all the animals he wished with this arrow, on one condition—that he would never reveal its origin. The Indian who had before been a poor hunter, became the best archer of his tribe. His wife was astonished, and insisted on knowing the secret. He told her all, and immediately fell dead.

Keep your eyes on the Juniors.

Willamette did it again, at the rate of 2 to 11.

Mrs Andrewattha, from Boise, Idaho, is in the city visiting her daughter Bertha.

The Junior Eleven will meet the Multnomah "Scrubs" in Portland next Saturday.

The basketball game played on last Friday night was equal to Willamette's usual way of doing things.

Miss Shirley has returned to school after several days' absence, caused by an attack of appendicitis.

Ask the weather man for snow. It would give some of the classes a chance to get their faces washed.

The first year's had a party and the naughty second year's found it out. The result is hard to relate.

The Freshmen-Sophomore game Saturday evening promises to be the most fiercely contested game ever seen in Salem.

Prof. Hawley has been absent from several of his classes recently, on account of the serious illness of Mrs. Hawley. We are glad to note that she is recovering.

Among the chapel visitors, Monday, were Miss Earnestine Holley, Miss Minnie Cornelius, Miss Bertha Andrewattha and her mother, Mrs. Andrewattha.

The new suits worn by the girls playing basketball are very pretty, and add much to the general appearance of the team.

When the "verdant queen and hopeful white" meets the fatal but regal black on the gym floor there will be something doing. You don't want to miss it.

The boys who have returned from the convention report a most enjoyable time. Much that was helpful to them will be shared later with you.

The following members of the local association attended the Oregon-Idaho Y. M. C. A. Convention, held in Forest Grove: Professor Matthews, Miller, Andrews, M. Averill, Spaulding, Oliver, D. A. Forbes, Will, Love, Winslow, Matthews, Fenske, Omart, Hewitt, Chapler, Shanks, Carson, Mosher and Shepard.

CHAPEL RHETORICALS.

Those who appeared on chapel this last week for their chapel rhetorical were, Alma Hales, Frank Gramis and Ray Andrews. Miss Hales gave the recitation, "My Lost Youth," by Longfellow. The poem was well analyzed and the gestures good. Mr Gramis gave a speech on Russia's acquisition of territory, and her methods in so doing. The thought of the speech was well connected, and showed considerable care in preparation.

On Thursday Mr. Andrews gave the speech, "What it Means to be an American." Probably no better idea of the speech can be given than to quote a few lines from it: "To be an American is, and ever shall be, the greatest of the greatest of the world's vocations." "Better a resident of the United States than a gentleman of England."

Nothing could be more appropriate as a Christmas present to your best "friend" than a bottle of that perfume, for sale at the Capital Drug Store, 122 State St. You will also find a new line of toilet articles suitable for the holiday trade.

Societies.

PHILODORIAN.

Last Thursday evening was an exceedingly enjoyable and interesting occasion with the society boys. It was election night and an ideal time and place for the display of that forensic eloquence which is such a common attribute of several members of the Philodorians. The boys seemed to have been in the proper state of mind, and several good, rousing speeches were made, ranging from the heart-to-heart talk, in low and smooth tones, to the stirring, patriotic appeal, well spiced with forceful figures and classical allusions. After a brilliant display of oratorical fireworks, the following officers were chosen for the coming term:

President, W. C. Judd.

Vice-President, R. K. Andrews.

Secretary, Geo. M. Hunt.

Assistant Secretary, J. G. Heltzel.

Treasurer, C. B. Reese.

Censor, E. K. Miller.

Sergeant-at-Arms, R. C. Glover.

After the election of officers the initiation committee ushered Mr. Sheppard within the portals of the society as a new member, making the membership just thirty in number. Then followed a program of unusual interest, which was composed of the following numbers:

Music, Philodorian Quartette.

Composition, John Reichen.

Lecture, F. W. Poorman.

Recitation, Roy Hewitt.

Debate, Resolved, "That Governor Chamberlain should have called an extra session of the Legislature before January 1st, without placing any restrictions upon the members of either houses."

Affirmative—R. C. Glover, C. B. Reese.

Negative—J. G. Heltzel, W. C. Winslow.

PHILODOSIAN.

Probably the matter of greatest importance to the Philodossians at the last meeting, was the presence of several visitors. Those who honored the society were, Mr. Ronald Glover, the president of the Philodorians, Miss Bessie Stovell and Miss Edna Bell. The McMinnville basketball team was expected, but the girls were too much fatigued with the day's traveling to come.

The program, as rendered, was as follows:

Sketch on Alice Freeman Palmer, Sylvia Jones.

Essay on Mt. Pelee, Jennie Coyle.

Parody on Romeo and Juliet, June Patty.

Impromptu, The last funny story I read, Clara Holmstrom.

In response to the request of the President and an allusion in one of the numbers to the heroism of one Freshman, Mr. Glover gave a speech, which was highly appreciated, on the heroism of Freshmen in general.

Vocal Solo, "Absence Makes the Heart Grow Fonder," Edna Bell.

Miss Jessie Martin and Miss Lily Hardwick were initiated.

Associations.

Y. W. C. A.

As was stated in the bulletin of last week's issue, Miss Mamie Morrison arrived on the 6:19 train Tuesday evening. Miss Morrison is from Maine. She is being sent as a Y. W. C. A. secretary to a woman's college in Japan, by the associations of the Pacific coast. The college to which she is going has not less than 3000 and probably as many as 5000 students. Miss Morrison's position is unique, as she will be the only Y. W. C. A. secretary in Japan. Her visit here was much appreciated by the girls, and brought them to a fuller realization of their part in the work that she is going to do.

The Thursday evening prayer meeting was led by Marie Whipple, and the meeting of Sunday afternoon was led by Dr. Ketchum of the Presbyterian church. Dr. Ketchum gave a splendid talk to the girls on the decisions made in life.

The girls of the association have found it necessary to form another class in Sherman's Bible study, as so many of them can not take the work at the hour which is now given. Miss Grace McConnell will be the leader of the new class.

Carnegie is to build for Princeton an artificial lake on the campus, for the use of the university crews.

EXCHANG ITEMS.

An anti-swearing club has been organized at the new Mexican Agricultural College.

The freshman class of Yale numbers 707, an increase of 115 over last year.

McMinnville College has adopted the student body plan of managing collegiate affairs in preference to the old departmental method.

The subject of the Chicago Northwestern debate is, Resolved, "That Labor Unions, in case of strikes, should have the right to demand, as a condition of settlement, that their employers agree to employ only union men?"

Sixty men tried out for the Harvard debating team that is to meet Yale this month.

Walter Camp, America's football authority, highly praises Heston, Michigan's half-back, whose home is at Grant's Pass, Ore. He hints that the West in Heston shall receive a representative on the All-American.

Washington was outplayed at Portland Saturday, in her game with Multnomah Club. The score, 5 to 0, indicates a bitter struggle, and M. A. A. C. fought desperately for every foot of ground.

The students at Lawrence University celebrated a football victory by raising $550 in chapel, to pay off the Athletic Association debt. It is doubtful if Williamette will follow suit.

President Schurman, of Cornell, wants the students to study eleven hours a day.

"Why did the coach roast the team?"

"Had to, they were on the gridiron."—Ex.
