CONCERT SPONSOR

The Portland Youth Philharmonic is pleased that one of America's major corporate citizens, Citicorp, is once again sponsoring one of our concerts. We are grateful to Citicorp's continuing commitment to the community, the arts and to our young people. Their generous gift provides significant support for the Orchestra, and helps our young people continue a tradition of excellence in classical music.

Edwin Schneider,
President
Portland Youth Philharmonic Association

Citicorp has a continuing commitment to the community, the arts and young people. Our sponsorship of the Portland Youth Philharmonic's March Concert gives us an opportunity to offer service to each. We hope you will share our pleasure and pride as Portland's finest young talent perform a sample of the world's finest music.

Alan E. Schaal
Area Vice President
CITICORP+

BULLETIN BOARD

THE ORCHESTRAS' BUSY SCHEDULE

The PREP which was heard to such good effect at the Christmas Concert is giving three School Concerts: at West Sylvan-Jackson High School, January 28; at Roosevelt High School, March 18; and at Wilson High School, April 14. At the third event members of the PYP will hold workshops for various instruments with the pupils of the host schools.

The PYP was among the many performing groups who entertained at the Mayor's Ball on February 9.

Between tonight's concert and the Spring Concert the PYP will travel to Albany on March 15 for a performance at Linn-Benton Community College, whose Choir will join the Orchestra.

On March 16, one-third of the PYP will perform the Haydn Mass in Time of War at Trinity Episcopal Church with their resident Choir, at 5:00 p.m.

And on April 7th, the full Orchestra will perform at the Music Teachers' National Convention at the Hilton Hotel Ballroom, at 8:00 p.m.

SPRING CONCERT - April 26

The final concert of the season will bring Eugene Kaza as Guest Conductor during Jacob Avshalomov's spring leave of absence. The program will consist of the Bach Toccata & Fugue in D minor, Brahms Symphony #4 and the Saint-Saens Violin Concerto #3 with Emma Shook as soloist.

THE EXTRA-CURRICULAR MAESTRO

The day after tonight's concert Jacob Avshalomov will fly to Glen Ellyn, Illinois to participate in a festival of his own compositions put on by the College of DuPage.

Mr. Avshalomov has recently completed a work for the rededication of Timberline Lodge commissioned by Friends of Timberline. It will be performed at the Lodge by members of the PYP in September 1987.

ALUM NOTES

Word comes from Todd Seeber that after graduating from Boston University he has been engaged as Principal Bass of the Buffalo, New York, Symphony.

Rick Olsen will serve as Assistant to the Conductor during the term that Mr. Kaza is Guest Conductor.

MEMBERSHIP

The PYP depends heavily on membership support for its operation. It enables us to grant scholarships for lessons and summer music camp experiences for our young musicians; to prepare a full season of performance experience for our players, and to administer our many programs.

CHORUS OF THE SHADES

The coldness of death, night of the tomb,
 Eternal sound of the tread of time,
 Black chaos that kills all hope,
 Black chaos that kills all hope,
 When, oh, when, will you be ended?
 You who live, who live, death will always devour you.
 Always make a new feast from among you,

And the earth will continue to yield to him
 New pastures for such harvests.
 And one will always give one's self to him
 And make of oneself a new harvest.
 When, then, night of the tomb,
 Eternal sound of the tread of time,
 Black chaos that kills all hope,
 When, oh, when, will you be ended?
 When, oh, when, will you be ended?

BRIGAND'S SONG

CAPTAIN

If I had another hundred years to live,
 A hundred years and more, rich and happy,
 I would prefer to live it as a brigand
 Than as a pope or beloved king,
 Leaping over crags and streams!
 Today is a day of riches!
 Let us drink to our mistresses
 From the skulls of their lovers!

"The Prince is dead, pierce my heart,
 And let me follow him to the tomb."
 We carried her then to the high rock
 The next day, and she was drunk
 For she had drowned her sorrows
 From the skull of her lover.

CAPTAIN AND CHORUS

CHORUS

And when these weeping beauties
 Demand some consolation,
 We'll change their tears to tears of love,
 We'll make a joyous coupling.
 To the mountain and the old convent
 Each one must go to confess
 Before drinking to his mistress
 From the skull of her lover.

Faithful and tender doves,
 Your lovers are dead. Good!
 To die for you was their destiny,
 With heavy feet, walk upon their tombs
 No more sad hours for you
 But glory because we met by chance.
 Yes, yes, we will drink together
 From the skulls of your lovers.

CHORUS

CAPTAIN

Fair Zora did not wish to survive
 Her brave and handsome defender.

Let's go.
 The old hermit is waiting for us
 Captain, we follow you! We are ready!
 Let's go to the mountain!

FANTASIA ON SHAKESPEARE'S "THE TEMPEST"

(Sung in Italian)

CHORUS

Miranda! Miranda!
 Come to the one who is your destined husband.
 You will know love.
 Miranda, the sun will rise
 On a new life for you.
 Miranda, goodbye, goodbye, Miranda!
 Miranda! Be happy, for here is your husband.

Caliban! Horrid monster!
 Fear the anger of Ariel!
 O Miranda, they are taking you away, you go!
 O Miranda, we will see you no more!
 We will search for you in vain
 On the breeze-swept shore.
 The sweetest, loveliest flower
 That blooms on earth,
 We will see you no more, sweet flower.
 O Miranda, we will see you no more.
 Goodbye, goodbye, Miranda.
