

Misses Elizabeth and Charlotte Tebben

Never in the history of Willamette have the literary societies known such rushing as that which has been in "full force" for the past two weeks. With three men's and women's societies as rivals, the interest in new students has been unusually keen.

Without doubt, the happiest occasion of the week-end was the arrival of Company M boys in Salem. The university students were exceedingly glad to welcome the boys, now in the government service, back to W. U., and only regret that it is impossible for them to remain longer on the campus. The best wishes of the entire student body go out with the Willamette boys wherever they may be sent, and a longing desire that the time will not be long before they are again in Willamette's halls as students.

The most impressive of all Y. W. C. A. services is the Recognition Service held in the early part of each school year. On last Thursday, the recognition of new members to the association took place in a very quiet and serious manner.

The new members, all dressed in white and carrying small red candles entered the room in procession as the old girls sang "Hymn of Light." Miss McKenon, president, presided and in her pleasing manner welcomed the new girls to the association and its work. After the reading of the aim and purpose of the Y. W. C. A., the president presented every girl with a red carnation. Miss Lela McCaddam sang a solo during the afternoon. The meeting was dismissed by the benediction sung by a trio consisting of Misses Benson, Campbell, and Findley. A short social hour was enjoyed immediately after the program, and the new girls were made feel a vital part of the organization.

It was a jolly bunch of girls that gathered promptly at 2 o'clock on Saturday afternoon and were guests of a few of the Adelantes at a theatre party. From the assembling place, the crowd bombarded the Ye Liberty theatre and there the follies and frivolous things of life were enjoyed in the picture comedy "Baby Mine." After the show, the guests were conducted to the Spa where a delicious "Willamette Special" was served. Places for the sixteen girls were marked with pretty and dainty Adelante place-cards.

Following the afternoon entertainment, the girls went en masse to the football game of Company M and Chemawa. Those girls who were entertained on Saturday afternoon were Misses Yanke, Harrild, Winifred and Mary Eyle, Ruth and Vera Wise, Charlotte and Elizabeth Tebben, Notson, Baker, Spoor, Cooley, DeLong, Drake, Harris, and Campbell. New and old girls alike had one of the very best afternoons such as they all enjoy.

Following the Y. M.-Y. W. joint vesper service, a delightful supper was served in the apartments of Misses Charlotte and Elizabeth Tebben to several of the new girls as well as some of the upper classmen. The afternoon was spent in happy reminiscences of past events at Willamette and the explanation of the same to the freshmen girls. A delicious two course supper was served by the hostesses. The color scheme for the afternoon was blue and gold, and from each salad plate hung a delicately tinted Adelante card. The guests of this Sunday night occasion were the Misses Minton, Croisan, Steeves, Mason, Harrild, Garrett, Baker, and Cooley.

On Friday night, a delightful birthday dinner was the occasion for much celebration at Dewdrop Inn. The dinner was in honor of Miss Blanche Baker, and she was allowed to serve the birthday cake. Mr. Harold Eakin was the only guest of the occasion.

For dinner Sunday noon, Miss Mary Notson entertained in honor of her brother Lee Notson, who is now in Company M, in her apartments on Union street. According to reports from the boys, the dinner was an excellent one. The guests were Dean Pollock, Lee and Robert Notson.

Miss Lola Cooley was the dinner guest of her aunt on Sunday. The occasion was the celebration of the home-coming for a few hours of Victor Cooley with Company M.

Last Tuesday night the Lausanne hall parlor was the setting for a novel scene. All the girls of the hall were invited to a freshmen hop and the result was a jolly time for all. Between 9:30 and 10 hilarious sounds filled Lausanne and everyone vowed to come again soon.

Mr. H. N. Lynn, of LaPine, was a Lausanne visitor last week, visiting his daughter, Margaret Lynn.

Miss Eva Parrott, of Lausanne hall, went home this week-end to Newberg, Oregon.

Miss Bernice Knuth's cousin, Miss Cecile Knuths was a Lausanne hall guest Sunday.

Mrs. W. J. McClure and family came from Portland in a car Sunday to see Miss Sybil McClure, of Lausanne hall. They took Miss McClure, Miss Mildred Haworth and Miss Carolyn Weber, of Lausanne, and Miss Ferguson, of the Dewdrop Inn, to visit friends at Independence.

Taking advantage of the fact that the sophomore girls were attending the class party and the girls of the upper classes were at the reception, the freshmen girls of Lausanne hall enjoyed fudge a la whiskers and candle light in Myrtle Mason's room Saturday night. Those present were Myrtle Mason, Mildred Wells, Sybil McClure, Mildred Haworth, Anna Packenham, Sibel Smith, Caroline Weber, Florence Skinner, Elizabeth Berg and Margaret Lynn.

Mr. M. R. Smith, of Vancouver, Wash., was visiting his daughter, Sibel, at Lausanne hall Sunday.

Miss Twidwell, dean of women, was a Eugene visitor this week-end.

The Chrestomathians report a business meeting Friday.

Among the Y. W. C. A. Girls, Chestnut farm suggests one of the jolliest social events of the year. The very atmosphere of the place calls for absolute relaxation and a rollicking good time. With such an attractive spot in Salem, what other place could serve so well the purpose of the two Chresto societies last Wednesday night? Their object was to get acquainted with all the new men and women of the university, and undoubtedly Chestnut farm afforded the best opportunity.

At 7:30 two heavily-loaded trucks started from Eaton hall. The air was clear and crisp, the stars were cold and bright and the ponderous truck crunching along suggested to more than one the magic word, "slighting." There were ukas along, of course, and all the way the best-loved college songs dispersed the quiet of the darkened streets.

By the time the last person had left the truck there was no one who was not fully prepared to court around for a partner for a progressive grand march, or to laugh over the old game "my grandfater died this way," or giggle just at the wrong time when "poor pussy" meowed. There were other games, too, that kept everyone busy until time for a short program.

Aileen Dunbar sang a solo for which she was roundly encored. Dr. Doney, in his quaint, Scotch manner, spoke briefly about the advantages of a good literary society. May Mickey closed the program with two of her airiest piano selections.

After lunch several minutes were spent singing Willamette songs and popular airs. As the trucks were heard coming down the road, the grand old strains of our two favorite national anthems boomed out over the stillness. When all were again seated in the trucks we sped home to the gentler strains of "Aloha," "There's a Long, Long Trail," and others like them.

Private Charles Randall was the Sunday evening guest of Ruth and Louis Stewart for supper.

Private Lee Notson visited with Louis Stewart during his stay in Salem with Company M.

Entertaining informally Miss Vesta Mulligan invited a number of friends to her home at 1660 Fairmount Ave. Friday evening. Chatting and singing in "ye good old college style" about the fireplace occupied the time until the Doctor and his wife, traveling artists, arrived and presented a most original and unique program. A dainty lunch was served by the hostess to the following guests: Lelia Johnson, Marguerite Wible, Beth Briggs, Bernice Knuths, Genevieve Yankie, Velma Baker, Mable Garrett, Mildred Garrett, Virginia Mason, Muriel Steeves, Charlotte Croisan, Blanche Baker, Rita Hobbs, Ruth Spoor and Faye Bolin.

The Adelante literary society held their regular meeting in the halls on Friday afternoon. A short program consisting chiefly of Indian music was given. The program was as follows:

Piano solo, "From an Indian Lodge," Mabel Garrett.

Vocal solo, "An Indian Love Song," Velma Baker.

Paper, "Indian Music," Charlotte Tebben.

Piano solo, "Indian March," Vesta Mulligan.

Vocal solo, "Indian Song," Ruth Spoor.

After the program the Adelantes and their guests enjoyed a short social hour.

A business meeting followed at which time the following girls took the pledge of membership: Bernice Knuths, Mary Notson, Blanche Drake, Marguerite Wible, Rita Hobbs.

Miss Bernice Fisch spent Saturday and Sunday with her parents in Milwaukie.

Misses Ruth and Fay Perringer were dinner guests at Roselawn, Sunday.

Miss Creta Jones spent the week-end at her home in Gervais.

Mr. McGrew was a luncheon guest at Roselawn, Sunday evening.

Miss Fannie McKenon entertained Miss Olive Mary at lunch Sunday evening.

Friday evening a patriotic party was given by the Jason Lee Epworth League for the new students of Willamette university. A recruiting office was stationed just inside the door with Blanche Drake as Goddess of Liberty, in charge and each guest was required to enlist either in the army or navy.

After fall had enlisted a drill contest took place between the two divisions. The commander of the army, Dr. Hall was decorated with an iron cross for the grand showing made by his men. The rest of the evening was spent in games of a lively nature. Refreshments were served in regular army style.

A dainty Sunday evening supper was that served in the apartments of Miss Ruth Perringer, the guests who were invited for the occasion being the Misses Genevieve Yankie, Anna Packenham, Odell Savage and Fay Perringer.

Misses Averill Harris and Terena Fowle entertained the Misses Florence Scheurle and Marjorie Minton at a theatre party after a show at the Oregon, the guests were taken to the Spa.

Saturday night, the sophomores held their informal party at the W. O. W. bungalow at the state fair grounds. The social committee had kept the location of the place where the party was to be held secret. The class members met at the home of Mr. Kenneth Legg on South High street. After all the sophomores had arrived at the meeting place they were taken in autos to the fair grounds where an unusually delightful evening was spent. Professor and Mrs. Von Eschen chaperoned the party.

The bungalow with its rustic interior was artistically decorated with big grinning jack o' lanterns, corn stalks and Indian blankets white candles and a big roaring fire in the fire place lighted the room.

During the evening, various Halloween games were played and by the jack o'lanterns that miraculously grew out of small pumpkins, the sophomores demonstrated that they had not yet forgotten the art of carving faces. Perhaps the greatest joy of all was found in welcoming back to W. U. Messrs. Bolt, Payne, Pollock, Notson, Taylor, and Gilbert, members of the sophomore class who had enlisted in Company M.

Singing, fortune telling, and toasting marshmallows helped to make the evening pass all too quickly.

To Miss Ethel Fogg, chairman of the social committee, and her competent helpers is given the credit for the success of the party.

On Friday evening, Oct. 19, there was a very profitable and enjoyable evening in the auditorium of the College of Theology when the upperclassmen gave a reception to the incoming class.

The musical attractions of the evening were:

The Kimball College male quartet which appeared for the first time and scored a good inning.

Violin solo by Mr. Barton.

Vocal solo by Mr. Miller, accompanied by Mrs. G. R. Abbott.

An address of welcome was given by the president of the student body Mr. T. Acherson which was replied to by Mr. McGrew, representing the incoming class.

Mr. Wm. Nicholl, an alumnus, spoke on "A Student's Care of the Spiritual Side."

Dr. Doney spoke on "A Student's Relationship to His College."

Dr. Talbot, president of Kimball College spoke on "The Good Things of College Life."

The Luella Kimball Club served the refreshments of the evening.

Miss Gladys Carson '17 had as her guests Saturday evening, Ethel Davey, of Mills City, Fern Wells, Fay Wells, Wesley Hammond and Carl Carson.

Last Friday night a group of girls gathered at the home of Miss Ruth Boyer, ex '16, for a merry supper party. Three tables were set for the guests, and the supper was served cafeteria style. The tables were decorated with roses, and tiny candles which gave forth a soft glow, proclaiming the fates of several of the guests. This was the first of the good times planned by this club of girls for the winter. The membership of the club included many old W. U. students, as follows: The Misses Helen and Dorothy Pearce, Carrie Cooksey, Genevieve Avison, Ruth Boyer, Lyrn Miles, Inez Goitra, Ola Clark, Beryl Holt, Laura and Ada Ross, Louise Benson, Eva Scott, Harriet Rigdon, Laura and Lida Bell.

The Philodorian girls and their guests entered into the very spirit of autumn last Friday afternoon at a program entitled "Harvest Moon." Louise Benson sang two appropriate songs which created that atmosphere of blue haze and falling leaves which is always associated with autumn days. The poem entitled "Cornfields" which Beatrice Walton read added a touch in keeping with the theme of the program. An original paper by Lilia Packenham painted a charming word picture of Indian summer, suggestive of autumn woods; the bank of smoke; and wild geese circling high above marsh lands.

From within her little brown jug Ruth Perringer brought forth an article labeled "Moonshine" which proved to be a collection of verses and pseudo proverbs of local coloring which were refreshingly clever. The culmination of the program was a scene entitled "Harvest Moon." In an artistically arranged garden with an autumn moon looking down upon her, Esther Cox as heroine, soliloquized upon her soldier lover who had long been absent. His unexpected return makes a happy and effective ending for the quaint and graceful sketch.

Imbued as they were with the atmosphere of the program the Philodorian girls and their guests were in just the mood to enjoy to the fullest extent the hours spent afterwards in the woods. After a stroll through twilight fields and piney woods arid with autumn colorings the girls, as the guests of Helen Goitra, came back to a delicious supper at a real log cabin. When twilight deepened into darkness and a crescent moon swung in the sky above the pine tops every one gathered in about the fire place there to chat and sing the songs dear to the heart of every college girl.

This friend is J. Read Buhn who was sent out from these sacred halls with the abnormal class of 1915. He was a member of the class that pledged themselves never to forget the dear old school in all the coming years of time and regardless of the place of residence.

And behold! The black sheep, J. Read is now robbing the dollars as principal of the Klamath Falls high school and yet he has so far forgotten his better half as to write to the Collegian and say that he is now so far removed from Willamette that he does not wish to spend a few pennies each week to read the best college paper. It can't be beat. The eyes have it.

Seniors and Freshmen Make Lasting Addition to the Old Roof.

Will the old historic grandstand last as long as its new roof? Perhaps when the structure has toppled beneath the weight of all the paint which has been piled upon it through the years; the new shingles, which have been laid by the class of 1918, will remain above the mill stream as a monument to the memory of the seniors.

It may also happen that the new paint with which the freshmen have adorned another section will continue as a memorial of their recent triumphs over the seniors.

The seniors carried out their de-
