

Class Standings of Navymen Unchanged for Next Semester

Navymen will retain their present class standings, insofar as the spring semester activities of ASWU are concerned, by decision of the student council at its Tuesday night meeting. Second major action of the governing body was the selection of Stan Buch to head the spring semester sale of student body tickets to members of the navy unit.

The decision to maintain the present system of class organization despite the academic standing of navymen was made on the grounds that the class spirit aroused in the past Glee will continue to surpass any that might be developed during the coming semester in classes with new navy personnel. Additional factor was the point that no new navymen will be joining the unit with the beginning of the new term. The action was taken after the few views of the navymen on the council were heard.

In appointing Buch to handle the navy ticket sale, the council gave him freedom to manage the campaign in whatever manner he chooses. It was suggested that he gain information from Tom Murphy, fall semester chairman who leaves at the end of the term for a base hospital. Buch is

Anticipated Battalion Cut Is Reduced

"No navy men will be eliminated from WU's naval unit by the recent screening tests," Lt. Marshall Woodell announced this week. All the men who don't finish their course of study will remain at Willamette for the March semester.

This announcement nullifies the original report that the unit would be cut to a maximum of 129 men. Lt. Woodell predicts that approximately 150 men will be stationed here for the spring term.

The ship will be cut down considerably, however, by the loss of those completing their work here and moving on to midshipman's schools, pre-meds taking their places in hospitals, transfers to flight training and those bilged for academic or disciplinary reasons.

Navymen to Leave Following Last Final

"Navymen may leave the ship after their last exams," Lt. Marshall Woodell announced this week, "and are expected to report to Lausanne not later than 2200 on Sunday, March 4."

Those men expecting to be transferred from Willamette will not be allowed to leave for the spring vacation this early, however, he added.

Brennen Directs Waller Hall Band Concert Wednesday

The Willamette university band under the leadership of Maurice Brennen will be presented in a formal concert Wednesday at 8:15 p.m. in Waller hall. Admission will be free and all students and faculty are urged to attend.

The first part of the program will include "A Marx Overture" by Haydn Wood, "The Lady of Spain" by T. Evans, "Come If You Dare" by Henry Purcell and "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring" by Johann Sebastian Bach.

The concluding part is composed of "Chal Romano (Gypsy Lad)" by A. W. Ketelbey, a fantasy from Gershwin's "Porgy and Bess," a symphonic paraphrase of "Make Believe" from Jerome Kern's "Showboat" and a pre-med student and is handling decorations for tomorrow's Anchors Aweigh dance. He is a feature writer for the Collegian.

By another vote, the council decided to retain Mary Bennett, who will graduate at the end of this term, as student body secretary. Although a graduate, she will be carrying a full course in her fifth-year education course and it was the opinion of the council that her experience in the affairs of the body were too valuable to lose.

In discussing the problem of student attendance at Friday chapels and the Tuesday matinee hops, the suggestion was made that the Friday chapel hour be devoted to both dances and entertainment shows. The possibility was pointed out that dances may be held in Chresto and perhaps in the gymnasium. The matter will be investigated by Jerry Wolfsehr, chapel chairman, and Virginia Hobbs and Von Kaufman, matinee hop chairman.

Pin-up Girl, Band Scheduled On KSLM Dance Broadcast

With men of the battalion working night and day to complete the biggest Anchors Aweigh dance yet, word has come that KSLM will broadcast from 10 to 10:30 p.m. tomorrow night from the gym. Not only will the local station air the music of Freddie Keller but will also give the pin-up girl a chance to say a few words.

Announcement of the battalion pin-up girl will be made at the dance just before the broadcast. The winner will also be entered in the national contest sponsored by Lambda Nu Phi, fraternity of College of the Pacific at Stockton, Calif. The coeds from whom the pin-up girl will be selected are Arline Boehi, Barbara Cutler, Nina Graves, Marilee McFarlane, Ruth Nelson, Barbara Ross, Donna Shafer, Frances Sopp, Leona Tingstad and Pegge Weinert.

Mary Brown and Dave Rea, co-chairman of the dance, refused to drop any hints as to who she might be but were willing to talk at length on decorations for the semester affair. The theme will be nautical and is centered around a lighthouse in the middle of the floor and a ship at the south end of the gym. On the ship will be placed life preservers carrying the names of the men leaving at the end of the semester. Clouds will adorn the ceiling. With soft lights, Keller's sweet music and pin-up girl, the dance is guaranteed to satisfy the heart of the sailor.

Con Pavlock, chairman of the program committee, removed the programs from the secret classification saying the covers would be blue with two yellow anchors on them and "Anchors Aweigh" between the two anchors.

Other committee heads for the dance are Stan Buch and Chuck

"Commando March" by the contemporary writer, Samuel Barber.

Spring Registration March 5 Class Schedules Available in Registrar's Office

Spring semester registration for returning students will be held in the library Monday, March 5, according to announcements from university administration offices this week, cancelling pre-registration during the present semester.

Tuition will be payable on that date also. As students register for courses, they will receive the names of textbooks to be used and given assignments for Tuesday and Wednesday classes in order that work may be begun immediately.

Outlines of the spring curriculum may be obtained from the registrar's office. Class registration cards, however, will not be available until registration day.

New students of whom about 15 are expected, will register on Saturday, March 3 as well as taking physical, psychological and English placement tests before the opening of school. The newly registered freshmen will be introduced to students and faculty during the week. On Friday, March 9, they will be guests at a president's fireside at University house, taking the place of the usual fall term reception.

The new registration procedure is made possible by the fact that there will be no new V-12 students coming to the campus and that the spring registration will be simplified for most students to the extent that it can be completed the first day of the term. The method has been used in past years but more recently the plan of pre-registration during the fall term has been followed.

Latest new courses to be announced for spring semester are four new ones in the religion and speech departments. Prof. John L. Knight will teach the English Bible as Literature and a new seminar course, Religion and Health, open only to pre-med and religious majors. Prerequisite for the literature course is one semester of Bible History.

In the speech department, Dr. H. E. Rahe is offering Voice Training and Interpretation as well as Play Direction as new courses. Consent of the instructor is pre-requisite to enrollment. Principles of Expression, basic speech course, may be started second semester but the student must make up the first semester work at a later date, according to Rahe.

Rosella Bell To Take Over Skopil Post

Rosella Bell, senior in biology, will serve as biology laboratory assistant next semester, according to Dean Chester F. Luther. Miss Bell takes the place of June Skopil who leaves this week to join her husband, Lt. Otto Skopil, recently returned from duty in the Pacific.

Miss Bell will receive her degree at the end of the present semester and has been a four-year student here. She has previously served as a student laboratory assistant. During the present semester she has headed the student chapel committee and taken an active part in Freshman Glee. Other school activities include class and sorority offices. She is a member of Pi Beta Phi.

Perhaps all too often, all too few of us fail to recognize the opportunities immediately before us, either through lack of foresight or because of closeness to oneself. Salem Citizens Vote Today On Bush's Pasture Measure

Salem citizens will go to the polls today to decide the fate of the proposed Bush's pasture measure. If the voters endorse the purchase of the property by the city for the building of city park facilities, the measure stipulates deeding of seven to ten acres of the area to Willamette for the construction of a stadium and athletic field.

Because the land has already been planned for subdivision as a private real estate investment, if the measure fails in today's election, the property will be sold as lots, making the cost of further attempts to acquire the land for development of the proposed recreational facilities prohibitive.

Women of the four sororities on the campus have been aiding the civic organization in distributing pamphlets prepared by the advisory committee of the Salem Chamber of Commerce, outlining the advantages of the measure.

In an open letter to the people of Salem, Lt. Comdr. Roy "Spec" Keen, USNR, urged strongly the approval of the measure, noting Salem's need for adequate recreational and athletic facilities, pointing out the long-talked-of desire by schools and civic groups for a municipal auditorium, museum, etc., citing San Francisco's Golden Gate park and Kezar stadium with its adjoining civic auditorium as a fine example of foresight in long-term civic planning.

He concluded with the following suggestion, "Personally, I would like to see it Salem's Living Memorial to veterans of World War II."

Smith then joined the Chamber of Commerce and other civic groups in urging all eligible persons to vote for the measure, especially students of the university who are registered voters.

$8900 Will Give Loans, Scholarships

Willamette university will receive a total of $8900 in various bequests made in the will of Dr. Frank G. Franklin and his wife, Viola Price Franklin. Made jointly, the will of the former librarian and Mrs. Franklin left other bequests to members of the family, the First Presbyterian church, the Salem art center and city YMCA.

Largest gift to the university was a sum of $4000 to be used for sophomore, junior and senior students of character and social vision. An emergency loan fund of $1000 was provided for the use of students ineligible for existing financial aids.

Another $1000 was left to the school, income of which is to be used to maintain the Frank G. Franklin lectureship. Purpose of the lectureship is to bring annually some prominent scholar to Willamette to lecture on the subject, "Demands of Social Progress and Justice." Coincident with the lecture fund is another bequest of $2000 whose income will be used to purchase books for the Willamette library in harmony with and promoting the Frank G. Franklin lectureship.

Scholarship prizes are to be given from a smaller fund of $400 and gifts of $250 apiece were given to the campus YM and YW organizations.

Delegates to Schedule Spring Social Events

Major social events of the spring semester will be scheduled by representatives of the campus organizations at a social calendar meeting Tuesday at 4:15 p.m. in Dean Olive M. Dahl's office. All groups desiring to schedule events are urged to meet and select a representative to attend the meeting.

An Open Letter ... To the Student Body

Freshman Glee for 1945 is now history. Activity on the night of Glee made evident that spirit which has characterized Willamette over a long period of years—a spirit which serves not only to unify the student body, but also to recreate in individual members a keener feeling for student participation. For this, Glee equals—perhaps surpasses—that of other years and consequently will be long remembered.

There remains, on the other hand, however, a memory of one part of Glee participation—that of paying bets on the Monday following Glee—which certainly does not equal the high quality of bets in the past. To members of the student body who remember other Glee's, there appeared this year a decided lack of cleverness in bets.

Bets have, generally speaking, always been in the spirit of good, clean fun, and at the same time have observed the general rules of our campus and the rules of decent conduct. Yet this year this was not consistently true.

Compare, for example, bets which called for some fellows to kiss every girl on the campus or for girls to smoke pipes, come clad in bathing suits, etc., with the originality and decided wit of the actions of Jerry "Beggar" Wolfsehr and Bill "Pool" Habernicht. Ask any member of the senior class which bet he remembers best, and the reply will not be a bet typical of the former group, but a bet similar to the one in which Dick Stacer, '43, clad in night-gown and night cap, rode astride a horse carrying the message that "the British are coming!" Bets of this more clever nature are ones which we think that the members of the student body really appreciate.

Moreover, a worthwhile practice of "Glee Monday" has been the policy of going to classes, of observing campus rules concerning smoking and drinking; for it has been generally agreed that this day gives no license for action contrary to a spirit of decency. The important thing is to observe these things, and yet pay bets—original, clever bets—within their boundaries. Some of the most clever actions in the past have been in the classrooms. What's more, the profs expect it and enjoy it in the same spirit that we do.

The same principle applies to the tradition of the losing class going in the mill stream of their own free will, thus ending Glee for another year. We do not deny the validity of inter-class rivalry and an occasional trip to the mill stream. But "Glee Monday" is not the time to try to brawl between classes, for, after all, the losing class did lose.

This letter is not meant to censure what has already been done by any individual or by any class. But it is hoped that a realization will come that the Monday following Glee can be much more worthwhile and have a great deal more meaning than it did this year.

We have been able to maintain Glee as a tradition because we, as a student body, have been able to govern our actions in a manner which preserves our own respect and that of others for us. Let's become aware of this and thus safeguard our right to maintain Freshman Glee and all of its incumbent activities as an inherent part of our lives as students at Willamette.

The Members of the Student Body Council.

Six for the Team . . .

Plaudits to the basketball squad, managers, trainers and coaching staff (such as it was.)

In spite of the few bulwarks of moral support and the qualifications of the coaching mentor, the men individually and the players as a team deserve a vote of thanks from the Willamette student body for upholding an activity that otherwise would have taken a secondary position in the limelight of sports.

To Team Captain Bob Tate goes a well deserved honor and to "Zipper" Zauft a shower of congratulations for his outstanding playing. But the other cogs in the Bearcat machine such as Stofft, Goodman, Gilpin, Ward, Olsen, Sanderson, Waldroff and all the rest are just as important, including those "old faithfuls" who didn't see much action but kept turning out for practice and the games.

And after a brief survey, a round of applause for "Duke" Trotter who put in time and effort as coach of the casaba handlers . . .

Bravo, well-done and good luck next year.—K.M.

Who's Who-- Among Fall Term Willamette Students

From a total campus enrollment of approximately 650, the names of over 301 students have appeared on the pages of the Collegian during the past semester in connection with campus activities.

Individual scores indicate that the navy personnel place highest in the news and the greatest majority of this number fall into the basketball category.

Connie Pavlock, Pennsylvanian, takes over the high-point position with a total of 39 mentions. A close second was Marv Goodman with a score of 36. (He must be parting his hair wrong these days, summer semester he placed first.) Treading closely were basketball star Bob Tate with 32 (a nice score for a new-comer) and old "Aims" Wolfsehr coming in with 30.

Jumping down into the 20's, Paul "French horn" Stofft appears with 26; Gibbs Zauft (Onward, Wisconsin) places sixth with a score of 22, and "caddy boy" Rich Wicks with 21.

Sports Editor Stan Boyd and hoopsters Jack Jensen and Wayne Mayfield came in for 19. Number 18 drew Chuck "Playboy" Larkin, Charles "Tiger" Strong, and Ken, basketball player, Gilpin. Bob Ward and Dick Olson (guess what for) and Bill "Jan's boy" Cate had a score of 17.

In conclusion we might add that perhaps this recognition will somewhat compensate for the lack of attention on the part of the student body during certain performances of forementioned "hooper" boomers.

Onward now to the femininity:

Wilma "Blondie" Froman took an easy lead in the women's field with 22 points. Second-place winner was Nancy "I thought I'd die!" Merki, scoring 14, and Jan "Vespers" Patterson a close third with 13. Jenny Mack had 11 which isn't bad for a bride-to-be!

Fifth place was tied for by Betty "Quince Bush" Randall, and Sue "War Bond" Zimmerman. With seven points Barbara "Frosh" Cutler, and another tie with six for Lee "Bond Queen" Tinglestad and Marilee "Dimples" McFarland.

Introducing - -

This week, we thought we'd give you a big treat, an exclusive interview with a famous personality. First we thought about contacting Bing Crosby, and then we thought Beatrice Kaye would be more suited to the up-to-the-minute character of the school. However, after a brief scrimmage, we came up with a two-tone model, Walt Skrondal—and what do you know, he has a voice all his own.

Walt's career as a roll-em-in-the-aisles-and-stamp-on-'em imitator began rather inobtrusively back in high school where he suddenly found himself yell king (the first time he'd been on a stage since he was student body president in the sixth grade Walt assures us, wide-eyed). One night he was spending a quiet evening at home—playing a record for the 1,896,325th time and going through his usual contortions—when his father (who had now taken to gnashing his gums—his teeth wore out with the last record) had a brilliant idea. "Why don't you give that at school?" he screamed patiently. Skrondal did, and he hasn't had a peaceful moment since.

Now his repertoire consists of eight records including interpretations of Bing Crosby, Beatrice Kaye and Diana Shore. Each record represents over 20 hours work and many of the first ones took much longer.

However, work seems to be no object in human-dynamo Skrondal's tread-mill existence (he's in the navy, isn't he). He has lent his talent to a chair factory and rolled up his sleeves to take a swing at a hunk of ham. The job which has been the source of greatest pride to him, however, is his "stretch" in the crab cannery. Walt, the indispensable man, used to leap out of bed at 6 a.m., speed 35 miles to work, take his place at his chair, poise himself and settle down to 80 hours of placing a round piece of tissue paper on top of each can as it passed.

Now, Walt is still a crab man at heart. When he escapes from the navy, he plans to return to Aberdeen, Wash., the city of opportunity, and amass a tidy fortune fishing crabs from the briny deep. Skrondal assures us, still wide-eyed, that a fairly good day's haul should net about $2000. At present he is doing almost as well, his ship-mates claim, at poker.

Walt spent his freshman year at Grays Harbor State Junior college where he was "pretty busy" with a 23-hour course. He entered the navy at 17, and was sent to WU for two terms. He then spent eight months in naval aviation training, during which he admits he missed deah old Waller. Now he's back again, a junior, with a sizable following among the female population.

But come, come, toe mustn't overwork the artist's tender tonsils. Who knows—one of these days we might really hear him sing.

Minute Observations

While endeavoring to get away from it all, we made a quick trip over to Fredrickson with the express purpose of getting a close look at that Marine of Eileen Lytle's, but what did we see right in the middle of the foyer but Betty Olson with her toes and finger tips pressed passionately together squatting upon the draughty floors "regenerating" . . . Yogi style!

Not accepting her invitation to climb a rope, we hurried on to the library where we found Bob Forman pouring over numerous maps (the paper kind) trying to decide the best route to Mexico. He and Bud Davis plan to take a quick hop to the southern clime between terms. They will take a plane to San Diego, and from there on put their faith in their trusty thumbs.

Heard of the famous Collins Cats (Tschudy and Monk) and the Eaton Eager Beavers (Oliver and McMurtry)? Boy, they certainly made an impression at the Whitman game between halves. Putting on a swell performance of bird-smashing, the Cats came in for a whirlwind victory due to a brilliant, dazzling, surprise play by Monk. The Beavers still claim that confusing the opponent by landing decisively on the posterior region is not sanctioned by the rules.

Class quirks: The class was making an amazing show of excellent preparation in Dean Schultze's recitation period. "Bud Davis, next," called the prof, gloating over his superior teaching methods. "Yipe", screamed the poor stude, "I translated the wrong sentence."

And the other day while sitting in Prof. Kohler's English class, we had a first-hand lesson in self-control. He was reaching the all-important climax, when a panting freight train (probably the one that took part in the senior glee record) drowned out his words of wisdom. Kohler drew himself up to his full height, took a deep breath, became absolutely purple with rage, and remarked, "Oh, that wretched train."

Jennie Mack got a hurry-up phone call Sunday to zip off to New Orleans to marry "the man of her dreams" at 2 a.m. the next day. All she had to do in the available 15 hours was (1) pack, (2) get a permanent, (3) have her "appliances" (braces to the uneducated) taken off of her teeth and (4) cancel her date with Ralph Taylor.

Well, that's about all for this week. Guess we'll go to the lab and listed to Doc Tschudy's instructions on how to obtain a worm—"dark night . . . note reaction to absence of light . . . grasp tightly." What we want to know is, does he want a civilian or V-12?

Though having to postpone one Glee bet payoff, Stan Buch and Art Dickerson finally collected. The bet involved Lab Assistant June Skopil and Betty Hanauka, who owed a dinner to each of the aforementioned navymen. Otto Skopil's arrival in Salem caused the postponement of the original payoff night. So, Thursday night was it, but what to do with Otto? Quickly solved! A party solved it, and Otto was invited. Thus it was Stan Buch and June Skopil, Art Dickerson and Betty Hanauka, and Otto Skopil and Nancy Merki.

Anyone that wants a good laugh should drop in to Dr. McMurtry's Abnormal Psychology class. The laugh isn't in the characters that take the course, but in some of the letters that the good doctor has from some of his schizophrenic friends.

Alias Mr. Edison ... Or, Luxury, Here I Come!

Parkin has an easy life. Little Mr. Edison has managed to cook up as delightful an existence for himself as is possible in the USS Lausanne.

As the mastermind enters his humble abode, he turns on the lights (so far, all is normal). He goes to his closet, turns on the light, and his room light dims to a romantic glow. If he turns out the light in his room, his closet light automatically switches on.

For the benefit of his friends in Fredrickson, Parkin has a blinker which quietly winks away all night without complaining. Whether it says "SOS" or "I love you" has not been disclosed.

Parkin has made himself popular with inspection officers by wiring his doorknob to give a shock to foreign hands.

But all this is very elementary in comparison to his gentle methods of greeting the grey dawn. At 6:15, a hot plate switches on beneath his morning coffee. At 6:25 his radio turns on to some soft "background music." At 6:29, his alarm sounds off, giving him one whole minute to stretch and brace himself for the bell. At the same time, the lights go on—just a dim glow. It would never do to expose those dwake big bootiful eyes to a dweadful ol' 100-watt bulb.

The other morning at 3:00, however, as "the sheik" was snoozing peacefully, the lights switched on, the hot-plate sizzled, the radio blared, the alarm clanged, and the genius had a nervous breakdown. "Something must have gone wrong," Mr. Edison assures us, in not quite so well-chosen words.

Joan Fontaine Fails To Ruffle Oliver Calm

Highlight of his week's trip east was a chance encounter with screen actress Joan Fontaine, according to Dr. Egbert S. Oliver upon his return Monday from the business meeting of the Congregational church missions council held in Cleveland, Ohio.

Stopping off in Chicago on his return trip, Oliver visited the Art Institute where Miss Fontaine borrowed his pencil to give an autograph to a small admirer. Not impressed by the famous and beautiful personage, Oliver merely "shrugged it off as if it were an every day occurrence."

New Members Enroll In Red Cross Class

The Red Cross home service class discussed the financial phase of Red Cross at its Tuesday meeting. New students to enroll were Rosella Bell, Lois Butler and Phyllis Ryan.

Five Seniors To Graduate On March 6

Dr. John O. Gross, of Nashville, Tenn., secretary of the board of institutions of higher learning of the Methodist church and immediate past president of the church related colleges, division of the Association of American Colleges, has been announced as the principal speaker at the mid-year graduation exercises to be held at 10:40 a.m. Tuesday, March 6, in the Waller chapel, according to Pres. Herbert G. Smith.

Information released by the registrar's office this week shows that five seniors will receive diplomas at this second mid-year academic convocation. Of the group, four are members of the class of 1945. Kenneth R. Torgeson, a history major, was originally a member of the class of 1944 but had his work interrupted by a term in the marine corps, returning to Willamette after receiving his medical discharge.

Beth Nordean is another history major who will receive a diploma at the convocation. Rosella Bell is listed as a biology major and Mary Bennett has a major in physical education. Pre-theology student Jack Glasse has concentrated his work in the fields of psychology and philosophy.

State, Coast Contests Added To Forensics Term Calendar

Two major speech contests were added to the growing forensics calendar for the coming semester with the announcement this week of the scheduling of the state Old-Line oratory contest and the Pacific coast forensic league contests. Meanwhile regular Tuesday and Thursday meetings are being held for con-

Geist Leaves For National Music Confab

Tuesday Dean Melvin H. Geist will leave for Detroit, Michigan, for the 21st annual meeting of the National Association of Schools of Music which will be held February 16 and 17. Attending the meeting will be the executive board of which Geist is a member, and the commission on curricula.

The executive board consists of a president, four vice presidents, a secretary and a treasurer. The country is divided into four sections with the presidents of the sectional associations acting as the four vice presidents. Geist is the president of the western section.

The annual meeting of all member school and various committees of the music teacher association, to be held on the 13th to 17th of February was cancelled by the office of defense transportation leaving the executive board to take care of all the necessary business of the year.

Business of the meeting will consist of voting upon the inspected applications of music schools applying for membership and solving the problems various schools of the association are confronted with. Among the problems up for discussion are a consideration of the ways and means necessary toward securing an adequate and balanced music library, the question whether the bachelor of music degree satisfactorily cover present needs and a report of the commission on curricula on its study of the evaluation of educational experiences in the armed services in respect to credits towards degrees granted by member schools of NASM.

Cavern Fountain Installation Awaits Mid-Term Vacation

Delivered earlier in the week, the new 'Cat Cavern fountain will occupy a corner in the student union until mid-term vacation when it will be installed by the refrigeration man from Arden Farms who has already started testing the equipment.

In preparation for installation of the equipment Cavern Manager Geneva Brown has made out order lists for syrups and new dishes and has started work on a new and more complete Cavern menu to be posted shortly. A sink has been secured and arrangements have been made with Arden Farms for the purchase of a much-needed compressor.

It has been impossible to determine the exact length of time needed to install the fountain since the problem of securing help is involved, but Miss Brown believes that if men on the campus turn out when the work begins that the Cavern will be able to open when the spring semester commences. In event that the fountain is not completely installed by that time, the Cavern will be closed during the first few days of the new semester.

The fountain arrived by Red Star transfer Monday and was placed in the Cavern with the assistance of navymen recruited by Stan Boyd. The equipment was purchased several weeks ago by members of the Cavern board from a Portland restaurant and had been awaiting transport when labor was available.

testants in the Linfield college tournament set for March 8, 9 and 10.

The Old-Line contest will be held the latter part of March at the Pacific college, according to Dr. Herbert E. Rahe. Tryouts will be held March 7, the first Wednesday in the new term, at 3 p.m. in Rahe's office on the third floor of Waller hall. Separate tryouts for the men's and women's contests will be conducted.

The speech for the tryout may be read or memorized and should be completely written out. It must be five minutes in length.

The oration may be upon any subject which the contestant may choose. Suggested maximum time length is ten minutes, absolute maximum time length is 12 minutes. No oration may include more than 200 quoted words. Students may use the time between semesters to write new speeches or revise former ones.

The Old-Line oratory is the oldest speech contest in the state and probably in the Northwest. It started at Willamette over 50 years ago, in the days of the literary societies.

The University of Idaho will be host to the Pacific coast forensic league April 12, 13 and 14 when contests will be conducted for sophomore, junior and senior men.

The state oratory contest offers a $10 prize for first place and a $5 award for second place. Trophies will be awarded winners in the Pacific coast contests as they will be at the Linfield meet. University awards for which speech contestants are eligible include the Rex A. Turner prize which consists of the annual income from $750 to a student who has "high scholastic standing and demonstrates outstanding ability in debate." In addition the university also offers a prize of $5 to the winner in the state speech peace contest and $10 to the winners in the Pacific coast forensics league contest.

Cast for May Weekend Play To Be Chosen

Although the possibility of presenting another major play before the usual May Weekend production seemed out of the question today, serious work on the latter production is already underway with an announcement of castings promised for next week by Dr. Herbert E. Rahe.

Announcement of the play selection was not forthcoming although rumor yesterday had it that Willamette's thespians would be presenting "You Can't Take It With You" in May.

Reason given for the cancellation of the proposed third major production was the lack of interested talent and the short time before the May drama.

Home Ec Classes See Meat Display

In connection with their present study of meats, 20 women of the foods survey class in home economics attended a meat demonstration yesterday by Mr. Moyer of the meat department of Pade's State Street Market. Moyer discussed the different cuts of meats, the types, the grades and the meat specialties on display in the market. The discussion has been held for the past several previous years.

The study being made by the women includes the meat itself, prices, the types—pork, beef, lamb, mutton—the food value of these, the preparation of the meats and the types of dishes made from them. Economy, rationing and the shortage situation are being stressed in the present course.

We Maintain Scholarship . . .

Scholarship has always held a high place on the Willamette campus. Organizations maintaining this outstanding characteristic include Cap and Gown, the senior women's honorary and the "little sister" of this group, Beta Alpha Gamma, sophomore women's honorary. The BAG's, newly organized on the campus, include ten outstanding members of the Sophomore class and are headed by Miss Patricia Otis. They have recently chosen Mrs. R. H. Tschudy as their adviser. With Miss Mary Bennett as president of Cap and Gown, this organization is maintaining its position on the campus. Dean Olive M. Dahl serves as adviser to this group.

Beta Alpha Gamma Plans Future Campus Services

Serving last week at the Cap and Gown banquet for Freshmen scholarship students, Beta Alpha Gamma began one of the services the group hopes to maintain on the campus. With Mrs. R. H. Tschudy as their adviser, the other officers elected are Mary East, vice president, and Betty Louise Sinkola, secretary-treasurer.

Women selected for this honorary were chosen from the standpoint of activities in which group is well underway.

This newly organized sophomore women's honorary was organized a few weeks ago and ten outstanding women from the class were chosen to make up its membership. A little sister to Cap and Gown, the honorary for Senior women, the group will be under their supervision until they can proceed on their own.

They parallel the Sophomore men's honorary, Sigma Alpha Chi which was organized last summer. Plans for both organizations were made at this time.

Patricia Otis has been elected president of the honorary. The they have participated, their interest in campus affairs, leadership ability shown in organization and scholarship.

As they go into their first year of service the group plans to be one of the active campus groups, and a group to which Freshmen women will look forward to being members. Definite plans for them to assist in the annual frosh orientation program are underway.

Cap and Gown Aims for Mortar Board Standing

Members to be pledged for Cap and Gown the coming semester will be the thirteenth pledge class to be selected on the Willamette campus. Cap and Gown was organized in the fall of 1932 by aiming at the National Mortar Board organization. Willamette may reach this goal in a few years after the war.

Qualifications for this group include a 3.00 grade point average for the four years. This was decided by a group of faculty members and students on the campus when the group began. Other qualifications include qualities of character, leadership, scholarship and Christian service.

The name Cap and Gown was chosen by this group with the help of the Senior women's honorary at Oregon State college which was petitioning Mortar Board at that time. The Corvallis group sponsored the organization until it got well underway, and maintain the interest that it may gain national standing.

Five women make up the membership of the group this year. They are: Betty Andrews, Lois Robinson, Jean Fries, Mary Bennett and Catherine Thomas. Mary Bennett is president of the group.

New members will be elected from the present Junior class in April.

Dean Olive M. Dahl, adviser to Cap and Gown who was instrumental in founding the organization.

organization and basing its qualifications on the rules of this group.

Cap and Gown is still hoping to gain the Mortar Board requirements of maintaining a graduating class of 50 women for five consecutive years. If the war can be excluded from the years included in Willamette's appli-

Bearcats Finish Season With Win, Loss

1. Bob Tate, high scorer for the season; 2. Bob Ward, smooth and cool; 3. Gibbs Zauft, fireball guard; 4. Kenay Gilpin, fiery ball-hawk; 5. Paul Stofft, center, who went up after 'em; and 6. Mary Goodman, dead-eye guard throughout the season.

'Cat Casaba Squad Concludes Season with Torrid Tussles

The Willamette Bearcats ended their current basketball season by gaining a split in the two-game series against the highly touted Whitman Missionary aggregation last weekend. Because of limited travelling time the Whitman team could stay but one day, so the two games were played Saturday.

The first, beginning at three in the afternoon, was won 55-53 by the 'Cats, who had to come from behind a 13-point halftime Whit lead. The second game in the evening was a close affair all the way with the Missionaries edging out the 'Cats in the final minutes of play, 50-47.

This was Willamette's 20th annual meeting with the Missionary basketballers and hoop rivalry was every bit as fierce as in the Northwest conference in days prior to V-12 units at both of the schools.

Coach Duke Trotter's sailors grabbed the opener after roaring from behind a 33-20, half-time deficit in one of the most rugged games seen this season. The all-around work and 17-point pitching by Willamette's scrappy guard, Gibbs Zauft, paved the way for the victory. Zauft and Marv Goodman almost personally conducted the 'Cat rally in the opener as the Whits tried frantically to halt the avalanche of Willamette baskets.

Zauft ended up with 17 markers and Goodman was a step behind with 15. Newly elected captain, Bob Tate, came through for nine.

The game was exceedingly rough with a total of 52 fouls doled by the striped shirts.

Whitman lead 20-19 at the half in the nighter and from then on it was nip and tuck all the way, no team going in front more than five points. With ten minutes left, Willamette was out front 36-32 but then Ackerman and Sawyer, big guns for the Missionaries, went to work with long ones from the side and clever pivots under the basket. The Bearcats were caught at the 42-41 mark and from there on lagged behind.

Whitman seemed to be a bit stronger in the reserve department and the game ended 50-47. Sawyer of the Whits took scoring honors for the evening with 18 points. Zauft and Tate teamed together to split 22 markers evenly between them. Thirty-six fouls were whistled in this second game making a grand total of 87 fouls for the two tilts. The twin bill split leaves the Whitman-Willamette series victory list at 22 to 18 for the Missionaries.

The battle ended the present season for the 'Cats. The squad won six and dropped 13 against top-flight competition, eight of their losses charged to Oregon and OSC. The games climaxed Duke Trotter's second year as head basketball coach for Willamette.

WOLFSEHR

By the Cat Cagers

Every season there is at least one star that develops here at Willamette U. The past basketball season bloomed out with, not a varsity star, but an intramural flash, who didn't gift the public with his appearance only because the school couldn't afford a uniform his size.

This "casaba character" then turned to the sport page of this publication to keep the public informed of the shot he made in last night's game, his vicious tackles in the Washington game, how many alms he collected, and—oh yes—the varsity players' latest nick-names. It is the players' desire that the entire column, instead of only three-fourths, be devoted to the one and only "Jersey Jerry" Wolfsehr (nick-name contributed by Paul Stofft.)

Jer stands five feet, ten inches, no matter what position he may be in, but his weight is unknown due to the lack of special scales in the near vicinity. Most of his experience was gained at the parties of Beta Theta Pi—a group of Belgian Congo bachelors to whom he tips his mug. The large handle on his mug makes this easy. (This slipped in by Bob Tate and Gibbs Zauft with all apologies to President Smith, who was born 30 years too soon, Ken Gilpin excused because of his position on the team and Stan Boyd because he gets last crack at this column before it goes to press.)

It could easily be said that the "Butterball" would pack a lot of weight, no matter whom he played for. His specialty is a length-of-the-court play in which he hides the ball in his tummy at one end and rolls to the other, paddling with both ears. Upon reaching the offensive backboard, he suddenly explodes, and, with the aid of a Norden bombsight concealed behind his 90 candlepower nose, sinks a lay-in for two points.

Another of his favorites is his "float shot" which he easily drops in after inflating with helium his ever-visible waistline tire.

"Woeful" Wolfsehr is also quite a football star. After starring for the Tenth Street Tigers, the frosh of Oregon State's Southern branch (by Beaver Wayne Mayfield) and helping Pruyn Schappacher hold Washington to a 71-0 score, he has lately received offers to play with the professional Boston Bears, doormat for the Chicago Bears. (contributed by Marv Goodman.)

Wolfsehr's ability was summed up very well by Wolfsehr on the afternoon of February 6 when he said, "I've just got it."

P.S. Will Gallagher's contribution, after deletion by the censor, wasn't enough to print.

Frosh Whip 'Mural Stars; Jensen Tops

The Willamette Frosh battled a team composed of all-stars from the battalion Wednesday night and came out victorious, 39-34. Jack Jensen, ex-intramural, ex-varsity flash, led the Froshmen with 21 points in a brilliant casaba display. Bill Cate and Bob Finney led the losers with 12 and eight points respectively.

The stars started things off in a hurry and quickly built up a nine point lead. At this point the reserves took over and the frosh forced them to relinquish the lead, leaving the floor at half-time with a 22-13 lead.

With the first squad back in action, the stars tried desperately to overcome the frosh lead but fell five points short as the final score indicates. With but thirty seconds remaining, the frosh held a three-point lead. Tex DuHadway slipped in the final two points.

Twelve men were named on the battalion all-star team this semester and are believed to be a representative group. They are: Bill Cate, Bob Finney, Sol Menashe, Collins Uiter, and Dick Olson for the first five, and Dick Sheehey, Ed Gothe, Bill Work, Gary Hawley and Howard McDonald.

The concentrated, pocket-size edition, colley ball tournament that is being run off between the platoons this week at the rate of four games a night is already all but completed. Of the six teams, C-1 has failed to present an outfit, and consequently forfeits all games. Bravely trying to keep out of the cellar position, both platoons from Company B stand at the bottom of the list with one win and three losses, for an average of .225.

A-2 to date has been riding on a really hot streak, having run roughshod over A-1, B-2, and the basketball-winning C-2 outfit, while bowing to none, A-1 and C-2 are running a close second, having dropped their only game in four to the present leaders.

B-2 takes the honors for the most hotly contested game, by dropping a close 16-14 decision to A-1. The C-2 volleyers came out from under in one engagement by snatching two lopsided victories from B-2, with a team of but five men.

Both of the cellar teams also share honors for the poorest performance in any one game, B-1 having dropped a 15-2 score to C-2, and B-2 bowing by the same score to the leading A-2 outfit.

Doing a large part of the tipping for the various platoons are A-1, Work, Hess, Bauman, Bennett, Larson, Tate, Olson and Armen; A-2, Goodman, Zauft, Larkin, Olson, Wolfsehr, Boyd, Edson and Cate; B-1, Ford, Schuster, McGinnity, Bunnet, Mayfield, Ditty, Stone, Cunningham; B-2, Rea, Shum, McIver, Ward, Stunz, Brown, Ludwig, and Poorman; C-2, Ott, Pavlock, Stern, McDonald, Bremer, Odegard, Thompson.

The results to date stand:

A-2 over C-2, 15-18, 15-6; over B-2, 15-2, 15-7; over A-1, 15-5, 8-15, 15-11.
 C-2 over C-1, forfeit; over B-2, 15-7, 5-15, 15-5; over B-1, 10-15, 15-8, 15-2.
 A-1 over B-1, 15-10, 15-4; over C-1, C-1, forfeit; over B-2, 15-11, 16-14.
 B-2 over B-1, 15-13, 15-11.
 B-1 over C-1, forfeit.

The Doff . . .

The doff this week goes to the entire Willamette basketball squad for a successful season. Those two wind-up games were the best we've seen in a long time and for those of you that didn't turn out to see your squad take one torrid game from the Missionaries and nearly take the other, a hearty raspberry.

Bob Tate was elected captain of the squad by his teammates immediately following the first Whitman duel. The Faker has proved his worth all season, not only sparking the squad, but also piling up more points than anyone else on the 'cat quint.

Jensen Scoring High . . .

Jack Jensen is not only leading the frosh squad in scoring, but he is also setting the pace in the entire City League competition. So far in the season he has piled up 61 points—and mind you that's just in the City League games. He has also been consistently high in other frosh tussles as per his 21-point performance against the battalion all-stars the other night.

Those named on the all-star squad are for the most part those who were high in scoring for the season. One exception is Bill Cate who, though totaling 39 counters, maintained a 13-point per game average—good enough for any quint.

Another Doff . . .

Two doffs this week, the other to go to Drs. Monk, Tschudy, McMurry and Oliver for their grand exhibition barminton match between halves of the evening Whitman game. It was the sciences against liberal arts as the Monk-Tschudy duo outlasted the English and psychology departments in a well-played match. We're sure that more than one student was surprised at the agility and vigor displayed by the august professors.

All-Campus Volleyball . . .

Concerning the possibility of an all-campus volleyball tournament, there has arisen one point of discussion. Some are afraid that the girls wouldn't be able to play against the men on account of the fact that the men smash 'em pretty hard. In talking to several girls, however, we find that they believe that though they may not win too many matches, they could still give the men a good game. We would like to hear some of the coeds' ideas on that score—we're always open to suggestion.

If such a tournament could be worked out, games would probably be played two nights a week, alternating with badminton. It is planned to have a bird tourney of both singles and doubles. The doubles may be men, women or mixed.

C-2 Winner, C-1 Runnerup In 'Mural Ball

In somewhat of an anti-climax, the two final games hanging over from the recent mural basketball circuit have been played, bringing the league to a definite close. In the first game, played last Thursday, C-2 only served to make its title all the more decisive by eking out another customary close one over B-1, 19-18. Although Menashe high-pointed the evening by racking up ten points for the losers, C-2 managed to scrape together enough points for the win.

This game gave C-2 the hoop laurels with a record of nine wins against one loss, well ahead of second place C-1.

C-1 climbed into second place by virtue of a 33-25 victory over A-2 Tuesday evening, breaking the second place tie with B-1. Bob Finney, mural ace sharpshooter, cut loose again for 17 points, while Bill Cate sparked the losers with 12. Cate, though not among the mural ten high, has averaged quite high for the few games he has played.

It's great to be here... Have a Coca-Cola

...or helping a soldier feel at home

When he's back on furlough, three words, Have a Coke, bring a soldier's old life back to mind. . . his days after school or after work, with the gang and with his girl. Ice-cold Coca-Cola holds a friendly place in American life. It should have a place in your family icebox. Wherever Americans go, Coca-Cola stands for the pause that refreshes.—has become a symbol of our friendly way of life.

It's natural for popular names to acquire friendly abbreviations. That's why you hear Coca-Cola called Coke.

Preachers, Choir Directors Among WU Students, Faculty

In a survey released this week by Prof. John L. Knight, campus religion counselor, comes the news that students as well as faculty members are taking an active part in the formal church programs of churches in Salem and neighboring towns.

Among students who are acting as ministers is Jim Zeller who is in charge of the Methodist church at Falls City. Nevitt Smith in a similar capacity conducts weekly services at the Turner Methodist church. John Pike, another student, occupies the pulpit of the Lashish Evangelical church.

Three ordained ministers are included in Willamette's faculty and are serving churches as are students. Dean Daniel H. Schulze is acting as the substitute pastor at the Tillamook Methodist church. Dr. R. M. Gatke is the regular minister at the Pratum Methodist church and Rev. John L. Knight preaches weekly in various churches throughout the state as university representative to the Oregon Methodist conference which includes 141 churches.

Dr. Egbert Oliver, although not an ordained minister, is continuing to give his time at the Congregational church at St. Helens as substitute minister.

In the field of music, Melvin Gilson, student in the College of Music, is the choir director at the Salem Leslie Methodist church while the dean of the music school, Dean Melvin H. Geist, fills a similar role at the First Methodist church. Among the members of his choir are Dr. Lawrence Riggs and Dr. Kenneth McLeod.

Organ accompaniment is provided at the Salem Jason Lee Methodist church by music student, Alice Rose, and at the First Methodist church by Prof. T. S. Roberts. Also to be claimed by Willamette is Mrs. Ralph Doobs who is organist at the First-Methodist church.

Prof. Maurice Brennen fills a dual role at the Lutheran church where he is both organist and choir director.

Among the prominent lay leaders in the First Methodist church is Pres. G. Herbert Smith who is a member of the executive board of the church.

Two Willamette Men Killed In Action in European Area

Word was received in Salem Tuesday of the death of Sgt. Elbert McKinlay in aerial action over Italy on January 21. McKinlay was a sophomore at Willamette when he enlisted in the air corps in October, 1942. Earlier announcement was made of the death of Lt. Tom Pickett, former WU student, in Belgium.

McKinlay attended Oregon State college for one year before entering Willamette. While here he was an active member of the university orchestra and also played with the Salem symphony. He was affiliated with

Strong-Wolfsehr 'Super Useless Carrot Oil' Exposed

By Stan Buch

Deep in the far dark corner of Lausann's second deck live two members of the American chapter of the Drive for Science club. Who? Chuck Strong and Jerry Wolfsehr, of course.

They have been hard at work for this whole semester attempting to revolutionize world industry by flooding the market with carrot seed oil. In fact, Wolfsehr has so much faith in the outcome of the corporation's endeavors, that he has sunk his entire "alms for the poor" collection into carrot seed stock.

But all jokes to the rear, for the moment, Strong and Wolfsehr, have labored many long hours with a real interest and desire to at least scratch the surface of this relatively unknown field.

Their research embraces the Daucus carota, a common weed also known as the Queen Ann's lace. One breezy autumn day almost four months ago, the boys ventured into the deep, treacherous wilds of Bush's pasture and collected four shopping bags full of the plant tops. From this they obtained a total of four pounds of seed, which form the nucleus for all their experiments.

With the aid of Dr. Tschudy's "milkshake mixer," the seeds were ground into a mash so they could be more easily used. In the chemistry lab, extraction apparatus was set up, and the oils contained within the seeds were extracted with ether and benzene. Out of the entire four pounds of seed, only about 150 cc's of the oils were obtained. At this point Wolfsehr took back half of his "alms for the love of Allah" haul.

The deficiency of oil yield was supplemented by the smell of the oil product. As Strong puts it, "The stuff's pungent!" With this oil, Strong and Wolfsehr intend to make such tests as refraction index, boiling point and specific gravity. After the physical tests are complete, the boys will attempt to find its chemical composition and some uses for the oils.

The carrot-oil corporation may dissolve next semester if orders send Wolfsehr to parts at present unknown, but Strong intends to put a service star in his window for Wolfsehr, and carry on alone.

Both Strong and Wolfsehr said many nice things about Dr. Johnson, Dr. McLeod, Dr. Tschudy and Miss Plummer, for so willingly offering much needed help and advice in the progress of the research.

The two scientists, in embryo, also invite all members of the faculty and student body to buy Carrot Extract Corporation stock now, while there are still 100,000 shares left. First, buy War Bonds—then carrot oil stock—and then, "Alms for the poor, poor Strong-Wolfsehr Uplift Fund."

The AMEN CORNER

No Vespers a week from now (exams) or a week from then (spring vacation) and maybe not even a week from then (new semester.)

But there will be a Vespers meeting this Sunday evening at 7 with Rev. Dudley Strain of the First Christian church as speaker. His topic will be "The Christian State in the Future." Dr. Lawrence Riggs of the university education department talked last week on "Personality and God."

Dr. Irving Fox of the First Baptist church spoke in the Inter-Varsity Christian fellowship meeting on Monday night at 7. "Inspiration of the Scriptures" was the topic for the evening. Catherine Alexander, staff member for the Oregon Fellowship, was present.

Inter-Varsity is an interdenominational group with meetings from 7 to 8 every Monday evening. "All students are invited to attend," says John Burnett, president of the group.

"Planning to arouse a more definite interest in the student government of the campus, YW will hold a panel discussion on campus affairs, the part played by politics and pressure groups and how the campus is run," states Marge Beadles, chairman for the meeting.

A member of the student council will lead the discussion so that there will be factual and first-hand knowledge of the situation presented.

The organization will meet in Chresto at 7 p.m. Tuesday.

Keep An Eye on the Presbyterians

Eighteen different religious groups are represented here on the Willamette campus, reports Prof. John L. Knight. Surprising is the fact that in a school which has long been predominately Methodist, the Presbyterian group has 119 while there are only 105 Methodists. However, these two groups far outnumber the other denominations.

To Be or Not to Be

That group called non-committal, the little atheists, came third with 49 among them. Catholics are fourth (too bad, Paylock!) having 43 members. The Episcopal church boasts 39 supporters while the Christians and Baptists are close behind with 35 and 32 respectively.

Next down the list we see Lutherans with 27 and the Congregationalists have 23. Sixteen students are registered as Evangelical and there are 13 Christian Scientists. Mormons have ten members. (The odds are against you, Mr. Smart, four to one.)

Seven students are of the Jewish faith while there are three in both the Church of Christ and the Nazarene church. Two are members of Friends churches and each of these three have one: Seventh Day Adventist, Evangelical Monnonite Brethren and Church of the Brethren.

Knight Does Right

Most of the credit for harmony in these religious groups—many of them active—goes to religious counsellor and friend, John L. Knight. Students feel that he has taught tolerance and respect for other groups. His fine spirit of cooperation was shown in his aid in organizing the Catholic club. Take a bow, Prof.

The Willamette in the future, we believe, will see more variations because people will realize more and more that this is a non-sectarian school with a place for students of every religious creed.
