MONSTER FOOT-BALL RALLY

University Band Will Furnish the Music

Parade Through Town Followed by a Big Bon Fire on the Athletic Field

There is one event in the University toward which the students always look with a great deal of expectation. This is the annual foot-ball rally which will be held this year on Friday evening, October 21, just preceding the big game with the Agricultural College. Those who have the matter in charge are working very hard to make this rally the biggest and best that Willamette has ever known.

Local Superintendent Page, of the Portland Railway Light & Power Co., has donated a thirty-foot pole, together with a pile of old ties, to be used as foundation for the bon-fire. And then several loads of boxes, tar-barrels, boards, and other articles too numerous to mention, such as neighboring wood-piles, etc., will add greatly to the success of this portion of the rally.

Line of parade will be formed at seven-thirty on the Athletic Field, headed by the University band, numbering eighteen pieces, and proceed to the business part of town. Return march to the Athletic Field will be the next order, where speeches will be made by Coach Sweetland, Dean Patterson, members of the team, and Alumni who have come to attend the game, and others.

The students in the affiliated school, particularly of the Medical department, are working to make this rally a huge success. The band, under the direction of Mr. Ellis and Mrs. Fisher, of this department, will add greatly to the parade.

The enthusiasm which is being displayed regarding this rally is only another evince of the new spirit which is found among the students of Old Willamette. Let each student do all in their power to help make this annual meeting one which will long be remembered. To do this each student must be in attendance and do whatever is requested of them.

JUNIORS ORGANIZE.

The Junior class of the University, as a whole, met in special session Thursday night between five and six o'clock and organized into a harmonious and compact body, notwithstanding everything else to the contrary. Mr. DeLong, Law college, was elected president; Chas. B. Harrison, Liberal Arts, vice-president; Alta Aaltman, Liberal Arts, secretary, and Clyde Wain-scote, Medic, treasurer.

INTERCOLLEGIATE.

Pacific University has five new members on her faculty this year. They are Prof. William Harrington, Public speaking, Prof. Lester B. Shippee, History and Economics, Prof. Earl D. West, Mathematics; Prof. A. G. DuMez, Chemistry; James O. Convill, Physical direction.

WILLAMETTE TO HAVE ANNUAL

Juniors of All Departments Take up the Matter

Editor and Manager Elected and the Plans Begun to Make the Affair a Big Success

Thursday night, October 13, the Junior Class of Willamette University met in the chapel and elected an editor and a manager for the Junior Annual, which the class proposes to publish this year. Edgar Martin and Alfred Schramm were elected editor and manager respectively.

That Thursday night will be long remembered by all present on account of the beautiful pyrotechnics displayed. Members of the college of law, medicine, oratory and liberal arts were present but not a Theologue was to be seen.

For five years no annual has been put out by the students of Willamette University. Now, in the course of human events, when the university is coming into her own again rapidly, it is necessary for something to be done, and the Junior Class is going to do it. Those barren years since the 1905 Waiulah will be broken. The hour of silence is past; the time for action has come; and, with all its force, power, ability, and genius, the Juniors are going to be the People of the Hour.

To push the undertaking to a successful climax, to make it a howling, reverberating, and continuous success, every Junior must do his or her level best, for the honor is not alone to the editor and manager but to every Junior, big, little, great, small, etc. Now just put that in your pipe and smoke it.

ADELANTE SOCIETY.

Girls Have Informal "Jolly-up" After Program.

The program given by the Adelante Literary Society last Friday afternoon was on the author, Thomas Norton, the numbers comprising a sketch of his life and works, and criticism of the "New England Canaan." Instrumental solos were given by Misses Dorothy Pearce and Hattie Beckley. After the program the society adjourned for a more informal session, in order to promote good fellowship and acquaintance among old and new girls. Under the management of Frances Pohle and Edena Clarke several unique features in the line of entertainment were participated in, and many a hearty laugh indulged in. Light refreshments were served at the close of the afternoon. The Adelantes have always had the reputation of being workers, and are no whit behind in any social or literary line.

Every Man Should Make the Best of This Opportunity and Try to be Present

An opportunity that should not be lost! is offered on next Sunday afternoon, at the Y. M. C. A. meeting.

At 3 o'clock Sunday, in the Websterian Hall, Lyman B. Sperry will address the Y. M. C.

Dr. Lyman R. Sperry, of Oberlin, Ohio, will be in Salem October 23, 24 and 25.

A. on the subject: Purity. Sperry is a noted lecturer and for his line of work has no superior in the association. It was the privilege of some Willamette men to hear and to know him at Columbia Beach this last summer. They are a unit in declaring him to be the best going.

This meeting will inaugurate the series to be known as the "Fourfold Touchstone Meetings." Following this meeting will occur three others for three Sundays to follow, the subjects for which are Honesty, Unselfishness and Love. The committee is bending every energy to secure big leaders for this series, and is doing every thing in its power to make the meetings worth while. Further announcement to be made later.

CLUB ENLARGED.

The Eator Club has greatly increased its membership this year as there has been a large number applying since the first of the school year. Between 45 and 50 gather round the sumptuous board three times each day.

Last Saturday night an election was held. James Blaine Oakes was elected president, Mr. Lockett was elected vice-president, Mr. Clyde Wain-scott, secretary, and Mr. Woods treasurer.

"Professor Sperry is a traveled man, a fine orator, witty and magnetic."—Sandusky Register.

LAUSANNE HALL HONORS FRESHMEN

Local Talent Exerts Itself for Entertainment

Hall Girls Spend a Joyful Evening in the Spacious Assembly Hall

Wednesday, October 12: This evening the high society of Lausanne Hall, that is to say the Freshmen, were somewhat alarmed, despite the fact that numerous warnings had been given them as to what might happen. At nine o'clock sharp Gabriel tooted his tin horn, and there was a grand rush from the stairway to that well-known seat of judgement, the Assembly Hall. The freshmen found the entrance to this place guarded by a stern figure. Before gaining admittance, every person must needs read a large poster staring them in the eyes: "Show tonight! A Good Modern Play!"

The Three Triplets!"

Then a sepulchral voice informed the would-be theatre-goer that a gentleman had preceded her and had left a ticket for her use. Some of these friends were kinder than others, as one young lady can testify, for she found her place on top of a cushion in Nigger Heaven. The box was occupied by Professor and Mrs. Keller.

Before long the great auditorium was filled. A minstrel took his place at the piano, and the famous drama, consisting of one act and three scenes, began.

The cast of characters was as follows: hero, Edena Clarke; heroine, Pearl Bradley; villain, Ada Mark; priest, Josephine Randle; nurse, June Samson; the triplets, babies as yet having no psychological consciousness; policeman, Jessie Young and Gertrude Reeves. The story involved, as told by Florance Dunlop, may be put into permanent form; thus:

Act I, Scene I.

Place—A beautiful park.
Time—A summer's afternoon.
Characters—Heroine, hero and villain.

Enter heroine. She trips lightly along, plucking the beautiful flowers by the wayside. Her lovely eyes, like two deep wells of cool, sparkling water, are shaded by a huge umbrella.

Enter Hero. He is a student, and is walking down the path with the jaunty air of a member of his profession. To all appearances he is meditating not only on the book in his hand, but also on the girl in front of him. Suddenly she drops her handkerchief. With a quick, agile spring he rescues the lost article, and gives it to her with a sweeping bow. When she smiles back, the romance begins in earnest. Walking at her side, he reveals his great love, and she accepts it all—under the shade of the parasol.

The villain now comes into view as a former lover. Failing to separate the two, he leaves them, not however, without making dire threats.

Scene II—They are happily married.

Big Game on Campus Next Saturday

Coach Sweetland Promises a Fine Exhibition of Football Skill at the Coming Game

The big game of the season on the home field will be played next Saturday, between the loyal sons of Willamette and the coming Farmers of Oregon.

The Aggies have one of the strongest teams in the northwest. Nearly all of their last year's players are on the squad, with the addition of several important new men, who are strong enough to gain positions over the older men. O. A. C. has a new coach who has a good reputation and no doubt his efforts will bring results. May, an old Willamette player, is a member of the squad. He will no doubt be given a warm reception by the Varsity men.

The Aggies held their Alumni to a scoreless game, that being the only game played this season.

The strength of the Willamette team cannot be estimated, as most of the last year men are on deck, and work out this season has been harder and more consistent.

The student can not do too much to support the coming game. If the wave of progressive spirit that has come over the school is kindled to a great height, by the support and interest of the students, Willamette will win, and that will be the big feather in our cap.

Every member of our squad should be encouraged to do his best, and we as students should show our appreciation of their efforts. True, the leading conversation among the student body is the game this week, but let us do more than talk, act.

Every student, without an exception, should be present at the Rally and especially the game. The team is worthy of our support, and they appreciate what we do, now let us show our appreciation of their work.

Second Years Organize.

The second year academy class was called together Tuesday afternoon, October 11, by Mr. Lick, the business of the class being organization. A committee was appointed by the chairman to draw up a constitution stating dues and time of meeting for the class.

Officers were elected as follows:

President, Mr. Lick.
Vice-President, Miss Jones.
Secretary, Miss Todd.
Treasurer, Mr. Booth.
Sergt.-at-arms, Mr. Snider.

Much enthusiasm was shown and we are looking forward to a very profitable year as a class.

The Drug business is a business that requires knowledge and skill.

The Capital Drug Store is conducted by men possessed of the above qualifications.

We do not have any apprentices to wait on our customers.

Alumni, students and friends are invited to contribute at any time. If you take interest in Willamette let us know it through its paper. Address all communications to the Editor-in-Chief.

It would appear that a further statement as to "Our Policy" is in order right here. As has been stated before, the Collegian purposes to be fully representative of all departments of the university and all phases of all departments. Now, as to how this may be accomplished. Only a limited number of reporters are appointed by the staff. All others are appointed or elected by the different organizations, etc. If you own allegiance to Willamette University, you owe allegiance to the Collegian as well, and the Collegian owes you space. Therefore, all departments and organizations that want to use the Collegian as a medium of making known their existence and evidence of life and activity should elect or appoint reporters on whom they can depend to attain faithfully to the work, who in turn will notify the editor of their election and proceed to "hand in the copy." We would go around and interview the heads of every class and every organization in every building on the campus, were it possible and within the bounds of reason to do so. We do not think it necessary and do not intend to do it. But because we don't come around and beg for copy is no sign that we do not want it.

Further: Individual and voluntary contributions on any subject of interest are earnestly solicited.

THE MASTER.

Perry Prescott Reigelman.
Master of Earth, and Sea and Sky,
Onward, forever, I speed and fly!
Ever, eternal, upon the Wing,
Moments, like Ghosts, behind me string.
Ages ago, when world was young,
My endless flight was then begun.
Cycles have gone and yet I speed
And centuries fall like winded steed.
Master of Fate, and Hope am I,
Master of Love, the world-old cry;
Changeless, ceaseless in the pace,
Histories written on my face.
Ancient, aged; ever young
As when to life at first I sprung.
Cursed; Invoked; and blamed for all;
Wished, Unheeded when I call.
Formless, silent, speed I by;
Relentless crush each coward cry;
Onward ever, through the din;
Man throws the dice; and I—
I win.

HON. A. E. EATON.

The Collegian wishes to impress upon the new students the fact that Willamette owes a great deal to the generosity and big-heartedness of A. E. Eaton, of Union, Oregon. Had it not been for the gift of "Our Grand Old Man", we would still be in the red brick building to the west of Eaton Hall.

Bear this fact in mind, new students and old, because of his belief in the advancement of Christian education, and his realization of its value in the struggle for existence, he opened his purse-strings and poured upon Willamette a blessing that will live as long as Willamette stands upon the face of God's green footstool. The gift did not stop with the building; it gave this pioneer institution a great boost on the upward way. When such men as Mr. Eaton and Senator Booth, of Eugene, do great things for this institution, can we hang back and use the hammer?

Back in the pioneer days, when the nation was seeing the end of the Great Struggle, Willamette was conceived and born. It was born into a struggle, it has struggled for its existence down the years, its future is a struggle. Consequently, it has endeared itself to the heart of every man and woman who has lived within its walls.

Willamette has traditions; traditions such as no other school on the Pacific coast.

Founded by the far-seeing pioneers who, like the fathers of old, carried the torch of learning into the wilderness, and became priests of the sacred fire. It is for us to honor and revere the name of Jason Lee, Alvin Waller, and many others who gave the best years of their lives that the institution might live. But read the history of Willamette, and you cannot help catching the divine fire, the divine inspiration that set their hearts on fire.

The Collegian acknowledges the receipt of subscriptions from Misses Ruth Rees and Florence Leighton. Both young women were members of the Freshmen class of last year, and wished to keep in touch with the school in their absence. Miss Rees is attending the University of Puget Sound at Tacoma, Washington. Miss Leighton is at her home in Odessa, Washington.

JOINT RECEPTION.

Last Friday evening, in the Society Halls, the social event of the year took place, when the Y. M. and Y. W. C. A. entertained the students and faculty of the University at a reception.

This is an annual affair, and one always carefully planned by the committee and looked forward to by all the students. This year a special effort was made to reach all students in all departments by announcement and invitation. As a result of this, in part, and in part the wide-awake spirit prevalent this year, an unusual number was present, 250 at the least. The entertainment of the evening was three-fold. Upon entering the room each was given a booklet printed in the college colors in which he was to secure the signatures of so many of those present as possible. Later in the evening an interesting program was rendered. The musical numbers consisted of an instrumental solo by Dean Mendenhall and vocal solos by Mrs. Mendenhall and Miss Shumway. All three were compelled to respond to hearty encores. A few words of welcome were given by Guy Woods, president of the Y. M. C. A. This talk was responded to by Mae Hopkins in behalf of the new students. Perry Reigelman's reading of "No. 5 Collect Street" furnished entertainment and amusement for all present.

After the program light refreshments were served in the Websterian-Adelante Halls.

From reports all present enjoyed a very pleasant evening and went away glad that they had come.

PHILODORIAN SOCIETY.

That the Philodorian literary society is made up of a live, wide-awake, and progressive body of students, who have gone into the work with a determination to make it count in the life of the university, was made evident on last Thursday evening, when the members gathered in their hall, and rendered a program that would have done credit to any society in its mid-year work.

The rapidity with which the society is filling up and jumping into its stride for the year's work, has been a surprise to its most sanguine members. Three new members were voted in at the last meeting, and seven more have applied for membership. Among these new members and applicants are men of extraordinary ability in literary, musical and oratorical lines, and their entrance into the society will be a strong factor in increasing the excellence and raising the standard of its work.

The program rendered during the evening was as follows:
Composition—L. L. Gardner.
Piano Solo—Miss Reeves of the Philodorian society.

Current Events—Robert Shepard.

Ten minutes parliamentary practice.

The debate which followed: Resolved that the single tax should be the bases of the property tax in the state of Oregon, was held for the affirmative by Geo. Wilson and Geo. Winslow; for the negative Harry McCain and Guy Woods. The decision was rendered in favor of the negative.

The regular meeting of the society for this week will be held tonight, and an invitation is extended to all students to visit the society at that time.

PHILOSOSIANS.

Literary Society Entertain at An "At Home".

Last Saturday afternoon between the hours of three and five, the Philodorian entertained. Entertained, gentle reader, not "held off at arm's length," not "saturated the surrounding atmosphere with damp and collar-crushing effusion"—but entertained.

Games! stunts! the ingenuity of some people's ideas is almost alarming. Matching candy hearts for partners is a process requiring trepidation to a degree undreamed of; and playing the gentleman, in a lady-like manner, while delicious refreshments are being served by "color-schemed" damsels in dainty dresses is, without question, one of the most blissful conditions of terrestrial existence.

Permit us to remark that we might seriously consider a second invitation to attend Philodorian "at-homes".

A. VISITOR.

Poor Freshmen.

The Freshmen of the this year's crop have been the brunt of some jolly times in the past few weeks. A report comes from Bozeman, Montana, that the Freshies "Swallowed mud". It seems that the frog pond needed its annual cleaning and the upper classmen placed it upon the Sopr.-Fresh. classes to decide to whom the dirty work would fall. A tug of war was held across the mire and the accommodating Freshmen "went thru." Report has it that they accomplished their task to the satisfaction of all, even their deadly enemies—the Sophs.

PROVOST RESIGNS

Provost Charles Curtis Harrison Resigns.

Charles Curtis Harrison, provost of the University of Pennsylvania, resigned his office as the head of the institution on October 4th.

Provost Harrison is in his sixty-sixth year. For the past sixteen years he has been the active head of the university. He will still continue to act as a trustee.

Y. M. C. A.

Sunday afternoon, the Y. M. C. A. held one of the most interesting meetings of the year. R. R. Perkins, religious secretary of the Portland Y. M. C. A., gave a fine talk in which he clinched the point that regular Bible study is necessary to a man's religious life. Mr. Perkins is a forceful, interesting speaker and is always very much in earnest.

An appreciated feature of the meeting was a song by Irma Shumway.

Just before the close of the meeting, Mrs. Watkins, a graduate of over twenty years ago, spoke a few words to the men.

The meeting this Sunday will be led by Dr. Sperry as announced elsewhere.

HEAR SPERRY SUNDAY.

IDEALS

Of all women, the college woman should have ideals. The very fact that she is in college presages that she aspires. From the time she enters college as a Freshman until she attains to the dignity of a Senior these ideals will be constantly changing to fulfill the demands of her deepening vision.

To my mind a woman's ideals are the surest index to the real woman; our ideals are no higher, deeper, than our highest conception, our deepest understanding.

To be of any value to us our ideals must be so much a motive force, so much a part of us, as to dominate our entire being. Some one has said very truly "We grow like what we admire," then surely dreams have their place. I speak not now of idle dreaming but of the dream glorified by a thousand loyal subjects in the gems of our best literature; that dream which has the power to make or mar the dreamer, that dream which is the germ of achievement. Lift your dreams, your ideals to the clouds and following them there, keep sacred watch over them for they are the children of the upper air and elude the grasp and vision of the sordid soul.

FRANCES GITTENS.

(From Philodossian Gleaner.)

Prof. J. A. Horner, of O. A. S., was given official notice that he had been nominated by the Democratic party as state superintendent of public instruction.

Prof. Horner is well known throughout the state in educational circles.

Oregon Agricultural College has at present an enrollment of 1011 students, with the possibility of 1800 or 2000 before the year is over. There is a great increase over last year in the number of students taking graduate work.

Miss Alice Shepard, while leaving the Science Hall last Tuesday, fell on the cement step and sprained her ankle quite seriously. From last reports she is improving rapidly and hopes to attend classes next week.—O. A. C. Barometer.

Miss Shepard is a former Willamette student and has many friends here.

FINE ENTERTAINMENT

Websterian Society Render Good Program.

The Websterian held a rather short meeting on Thursday evening on account of the reception on Friday.

Roll-call was responded to with quotations from Webster.

Harold Jory recited Kipling's most recent poem "If" and Cook spread himself over the current events of the month. Day talked briefly on "Great Facts of Oregon." The debate, which was on the question of woman suffrage, was won by the affirmative, Minton and Homan, who convinced Harrison and Hollingworth that woman suffrage is the proper state, condition, or whatever you may call it, for Oregon.

Three new men, Flegel, Gilkey, and Warford were elected to membership.

Men interested in literary and debating work are invited to be present this Thursday evening. Y. W. C. A. . . . Nioldrhutneh

The regular services of the Y. W. C. A. were held in the Philodossian Halls Sunday at 3:15 p. m. Miss Jessie Young, chairman of the missionary committee, gave the girls a very convincing talk on the "Why of Missions." She is organizing classes for work later in the year and we hope all girls will so arrange their other duties that they can take up one of the offered courses. The attendance so far has been very good but there is room for more and something for everyone to do who is interested in this phase of Christian work among our girls. Come and visit us, then join and fall into line.

Can They Do It?

The Freshmen of P. U. at their last meeting, Resolved that they would keep all their class business secret for ten days. They say they won't even tell a Soph. Can they do it?

The literary societies of the U. of O. met last week to renew spirit in inter-society debating.

A whirl wind campaign was instituted by the Y. M. C. A. of the University of Oregon last Thursday evening. Their aim was to enroll two hundred men in Y. M. C. A. classes in one evening's canvass. Walter Huntington, chairman of that department planned the campaign. Members of the faculty have been secured to teach these classes.

The new Girls' Dormitory of M. A. C. at Bozeman will be turned over to the University December the first. It is a $50,000 structure with all the latest equipment. It will have accommodations for one hundred. The basement will contain the kitchen, dining room, laundry and rooms for the kitchen help.

The Acts of the Sophites. Chapter I.

1. In the second year of Sophomoredom rulers of the Arts, began the reign of Queen Pearl.

2. And against her came the Freshites to battle for supremacy; and great was their strength.

3. Then did Queen Pearl call together her counselors, that they might smite the enemy.

4. After this order were the counselors summoned: Luke, the chief adviser; Lark, the recorder of the deeds of the kingdom; May, the keeper of public moneys; Heist, the main-tainer of order; and Pohle, the reporter for the public chronicle.

5. Therefore, Freshites, watch and remember that by the space of three years, ye are warned everyone, night and day, of the powerful Sophites.

6. Also, ye are commended to the word and life of your benefactors, who are able to build you up, and give you a standing among your fellow-tribes which is worthy of your attention.

7. Now the acts of Queen Pearl and all that she does, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the queens of the Sophites?

Scene III—Time, a year later. Place—The sitting-room of a bungalow.

Characters—Hero, heroine, nurse, triplets, villain, and policeman.

The fond parents are caressing their lovely youngster, for it is the children's hour. It seems as if they cannot leave the little dears to the God of slumber, though it is long past their usual bed-time. Perhaps some presentiment of danger lurks in their hearts. Finally they retire and leave the distracted nurse in charge of the infants. Angered she spansks them, and sitting down her chair, indulges first in a few yawns, and then in a sound sleep.

In the meantime, the villain has been hovering around outside. Now his face is pressed against the window-pane. His opportunity has come, and revenge is sweet. Stealthily he climbs into the house (over the back of a chair, grabs the infants, and makes for the woods, where he wrings their necks with a vengeance.

By this time the loss has been discovered in the little home. The sorrow is heart-rending. The wife faints; then she goes crazy. Policemen are summoned, and the search for the miscreant is begun. Ah! he is found. The babies are rescued and restored to the arms of the father. They are still very much alive and give loud utterance to their joy at seeing papa again. Hearing their wailings, the mother regains her mind, and all live happy ever after.

Finis.

Loud acclamations and laughter shook the hall after this performance, but the fun was not over. The song, "Has anybody here seen Kelly?" was illustrated by Florence Dunlop and Jessie Young. "For his hair is red and his eyes are blue." It is needless to say that Miss Dunlop was a bewitching Irish maid.

After two recitations by Ada Mark and Grace Edgington, the Freshmen were initiated in due form into Hall-life. The climax came when a spread was served, but the end was foretold by the cry, "Lights out." Thus ended an eventful day.
