TRACK MEN PREPARE FOR ACTIVE SEASON

Training to Begin as Soon as Condition of Track Permits.

REGULAR BASEBALL PRACTICES NOW ON

Veterans Loosen Up Wings and Catch Flies—Diamond Will Soon Be in Shape.

The track enthusiasts are getting out their spikes, omiting their hot biscuits from morning diet and foregoing midnight trips to the Spa, in anticipation of active work, which is announced to begin this week.

Dr. Sweetland says he does not expect to use the stadium if he can possibly avoid it. The track should be in condition for work this week and the training will start at once. Only in case of continued rain will the doctor consider work in the stadium.

Considerable old material is on hand and the showing this year should be a good one.

Among the old men are: Stearns and Marsh, mile; McInturff, sprints and low hurdles; Blackwell, sprinter, jumps and low hurdles; Francis, sprints and weights; Jory, distances; Rowland, distances; Mills, hurdles and jumps; Pfaff, weights; Smith, jumps and pole vault; Doane, pole vault and jumps. It is probable that Mills will not be out. His absence will leave a big gap in the jumps and hurdles.

Brazier Small is the only track man of note that has yet been discovered among the new men. However, many of the new students have asserted their intention of trying out, and it is quite possible that new talent may be discovered.

Manager Blackwell, assisted by Ralph Homan, staked the curves of the track off last week, and it will be put in shape as soon as it dries out. Men are requested to report for work as soon as the track is in navigable shape.

Diamond Artists Out.

The baseball diamonds are practically completed and with the weather's permission, regular practice will now be the daily procedure.

The practice so far has consisted of catching flies and working out the pitchers.

Most of the old men seem to still retain their baseball eye and capture the high ones in old time form.

The pitchers have also been working out, although in the lightest way. The pitching staff will be headed by Raymond Drake, whose success last season assures the team of an "A-1" twirler. Oscar Lund is also putting over some benders and among others, Ferris of the Law school aspires to hold a job in the box.

The new material has not produced any extraordinary finds as yet. "Shorty" Tallman, a former high school star, being the one man who has shown any particular aptitude for the game.

Captain Homan says he is anxious to get regular practice started and that as soon as the weather will permit all the baseball talent in the school will be called on to put in a regular appearance as there will be two diamonds and an exceedingly large squad can be handled.

With a nearly start and a good number of old heads on hand, there is no reason why the University should not turn out a first-class team.

UP-TO-DATE ACCOUNTING SYSTEM TO BE ADOPTED

Whitfield & Co. of Portland Secured to Audit "U" Books and Install System of Reports.

Following out the plan adopted by the Board of Trustees at the January meeting, the auditing committee, consisting of Mayor Steevs, A. A. Lee, Paul Wallace and President Homan, have secured the firm of Whitfield & Co., expert accountants of Portland, to audit the University books for the past year or two. In addition to the auditing, they will work out a system of uniform annual reports for the president of the University, president of the Board of Trustees, and others who have financial statements to make. This will put the business of the University on the highest plane, as the system will be the same as that used by the best business firms.

The Whitfield & Co. firm is considered the best in Portland along its line, being rated highly by Dunn and Bradstreet.

Incidentally, the installation of the new system will give Willamette a splendid standing in a business way. With antique methods relegated, there will be no reason to apologize for the University's system of accounting.

MOORES MANAGES LAW DEBATE

Negotiations for Debate in April With Oregon Lawyers.

The Law Department has elected Ralph Moores manager of law debating for this year. Mr. Moore sent a question to the law school at Portland for their acceptance last evening. They have the choice of sides of the question that is accepted, and will debate with the W. U. law team in Salem.

The debate will be held as early in April as possible. Manager Moores said last evening, that until the date was set he could not state definitely whether there would be a debate, as the local examinations come in May, and he did not wish to encroach upon the time of the students.

Madame Herbert, who delighted the student body by her singing at chapel Monday, invited a number of the women of the University to hear her the same afternoon at the home of Mrs. Moreland. The girls were given a rare treat in the songs which she rendered for them.

At a meting of the Juniors yesterday morning, Ralph Homan and Lauro Heist were elected as representatives of the class to the meeting of the State Oratorical Association. The other classes have not yet elected.

MANAGEMENT LINES UP MATERIAL FOR ANNUAL

PHOTOGRAPHS FOR WALLULAH ALMOST ALL TAKEN

Editor Gilkey Looking for Cartoonist—More Subscriptions Needed to Insure Success.

The work of the Wallulah is moving along in leaps and bounds. For some time, the results were a litle discouraging to the management, but it would seem from present indications that the students are going to back the Junior class in mammoth endeavor.

At present photographs are in of almost every individual in the student body. And in connection with this phase of the work the manager would like to have this clearly understood. First those students who now have proofs out from the studio are requested to return them at once. It is necessary to have the proof with approval to be able to guarantee you satisfaction. If the photographer does not have work ahead that has been accepted he will have to retouch the others without regard to the choice of the individuals.

The studio will be closed to Wallulah work Saturday afternoon. Get there before that time.

There is a great deal of other work to be done on these pictures, after they are printed, and only ten days to do it in.

Not many jokes have yet been given the editor. Dig them up; they're here. A poor jooke section is a matter of ridicule, a good one makes interesting reading, which shal we have? It's up to you.

The management just now is on a still-hunt for a cartoonist.

Many pen and ink drawings of all kinds could be used if they were available.

See the editor, Carl Gilkey, and find out what he wants along this line.

The paramount thing desired now is more subscriptions. After each reminder several individuals make known that they want the book. How many will this bring? This student body should take at least 400 copies. Today they have only contracted for about 175.

The management wants the backing of every student, must have it, in fact, to assure success for the book. Subscribe now.

DELAY IN SECURING FELT MAY DELAY AWARD DAY

At Student Body meeting, after chapel next Friday, March 7th, the awards for the past year will be presented, as announced, unless a little difficulty in securing the proper felt should prevent. Chauncey Bishop, of the Salem Woolen Mills Store, through whom the sweaters were secured, was unable to secure the shade and quality of felt used in the letters in Salem, and on his ability to secure this at once from Portland or Seattle will depend the giving of the awards at the time set.

President Homan will preside at the presentation.

Dr. Sheridan Speaks Tonight.

Rev. Dr. Wilbur F. Sheridan, general secretary of the Epworth League, will address a mass meeting of young people at the M. E. church this evening (Wednesday) at 8 o'clock. Dr. Sheridan is a man of national renown in Methodism, and has amesasge for young people. Willamette students will be welcomed at the service.

Charles and Elmo Ohling spent Sunday with their parents at Albany.

DECORATIONS FOR GLEE WILL BE "SOME CLASS"

Little and Russell, Artists at Work, Will Spend Appropriations Made by Class.

Plans for the Freshman Glee are now practically complete. At a recent meeting of the frosh, the committee on general arrangements was authorized to expend thirty dollars or as much more as is necessary for printing programs, decorating the chapel, etc.

Little and Russell, the famous Freshman decorators, who have received special mention for their work at the governor's New Year's reception and other prominent affairs will have charge of clothing the chapel in proper garb for the occasion.

The date is definitely set for Saturday, April 5.

Oregon Football Date Set.

Manager Paget announces that the Oregon-Willamete football game has been definitely agreed upon for Oct. 18. A later date was desired but could not be obtained. This game will open a season of the best contests that the local fans have ever witnessed.

SINGER DELIGHTS STUDENTS

It was an unusual opportunity afforded the students, when Madame Herbst sang at chapel on Monday morning.

In a most charming manner she sang several selections of English song. Madame Herbst has a soprano voice of wonderful sweetness and power, and these qualities, together with her fine personality, held her audience spellbound. The ease with which she sang, the purity of tone, and the reserve strength distinguishable in all her singing, mark her as an artist of high rank.

Madame Herbst is a native of Oregon, her parents now living in Union. She studied for several years in Europe, singing several times before the Kaiser. She has been in grand opera for a number of years and is at present with the Metropolitan Opera Company of New York.

There were a number of old friends of Madame Herbst present. Among these were: Judge and Mrs. Eakin, Judge and Mrs. Moreland and Miss Moreland, Judge Burnett, Mrs. Thomas Wilson, and Miss Chamberlain, an alumna of Willamette. Mrs. Wm. Burghart, Jr., acted as accompanist for Madame Herbst.

CROOKS TALKS ON "SOCIABILITY"

President Homan Is Speaker of Y. M. C. A. Next Saturday.

Sunday afternoon H. M. Crooks, president of Albany College, spoke to the Y. M. C. A. on "Sociability, Its Relation to Success.' This was the second of the president's series on success. The address was witty, interesting and thought-inspired. President Crooks spent some time on sociability and, and then spoke on friendship.

The first number of this series was given by President Campbell, of the U. of O., the Sunday previous. He took for his subject 'Scholarship in College, and Success in Life." The last one of these talks will be given Sunday by President Homan on "The Force of an Ideal in Achieving Success."

Have you subscribed for a Wallulah? If not, why not? See a Junior!

FUTURE OF LAW SCHOOL DISCUSSED BY MC NARY

In Talk at Banquet, Says It Will Be Continued for Time at Least.

THIRD AFFAIR IS LARGELY ATTENDED

Bingham, Miles and Turner Also Speak—McInturff, Toastmaster —Next Banquet in March.

The third banquet of the season participated in by the affiliated classes of Willamette College of Law was held Saturday evening in the Sunday School room of the First Methodist church and was attended by about sixty students, their wives and friends, and members of the faculty.

The principal address of the evening was delivered by Chas. L. McNary, dean of the College. Owing to the fact that there have been numerous rumors as to the future status of the College of Law, Mr. McNary's remarks were given the most careful attention by every one present. The speaker assured the class of 1914 that its members would be graduated from old Willamette, and left the impression with his hearers that after June of next year the law school would cease to be a part of the University. Mr. McNary praised Salem's advantages as a location for a law school, expressed his deep gratitude to the members of the local bar who have given their time and talents to the up-building of the school and spoke feelingly of the cordial relations that have always existed between the student body and the faculty.

Geo. G. Bingham, instructor in pleadings, in facetious vein discussed the "seven lean years" that confront every young lawyer, and warned his hearers that if they expected to succeed without hard and constant work, they had selected the wrong profession.

Others who spoke briefly were D. W. Miles of the Senior class and Rex Turner, president of the Junior class. D. N. McInturff acted as toastmaster in a very satisfactory manner.

The committee which arranged the banquet was composed of T. A. Rinehart, chairman, Mrs. R. K. Page, F. E. Schmitt and Murray Wheat, and this committee, as well as the ladies of the M. E. Church, who prepared the excellent menu, are deserving of much praise for the success of the affair.

The next banquet will be given late in March and will be in charge of Rex Turner, Max Page and Ernest Blue.

W. S. C. Takes Championship.

Washington State College has the Northwest basketball championship safely tucked away, having completed their schedule with a percentage of .750, winning 12 and losing 4 games. University of Washington will hold second place, although it is possible that O. A. C. may tie them by winning the four games with Oregon to take place this week.

Idaho Faculty Places Bans.

According to a recent faculty ruling at the University of Idaho there will be no more "ragging" at student proms and another ruling also placed a ban upon smoking on the campus. A still further ruling relates to that which becomes more and more prevalent over the campus as time begins to approach the "lonely" month of May, when the fragrant flowers begin to bloom, the song-birds to sing and the thoughts of the young man begin to turn slightly to love. The ruling is "Thou shalt not fuss" on the campus.

A NOBLE ATTEMPT.

Wasn't it splendid! Wasn't it just simply glorious and awe-inspiring, the way a few heroic specimens of the unsurpassed and unapproachable Freshman and Sophomore classes promoted, propelled and otherwise propogated the idea of a holiday yesterday in honor of Wilson's inauguration. Doubtless Wilson would have been highly complimented, not to say flattered, had he been able to witness the exhilarating scene of vast, vast throngs of zealous and conscientious students, as they harked to the eloquent extolment by venerated student leaders, and to realize the reverence, the patriotism, which was welling up in their breasts, and inspiring them to valiant deeds. How bitter was the struggle to tear away from the pursuit of knowledge, but how noble the outcome, when patriotism conquered!

How lamentable were the reactionary tendencies of a stern and unprincipled faculty, which, in its narrow, book-bound vision, could not appreciate the deep current of patriotism which was moving intellect before it.

How tremendously significant—(Emotion overwhelms us. We subside.)

Really, wasn't it a childish, irresponsible, ill-considered attempt? It is a more serious matter than a few underclassmen seem to realize to try to stop the work of the University for a day. The would-be perpetrators of the scheme merely held themselves up to ridicule and plastered themselves with placards of irresponsibility.

HOMAN AND TODD WORK ON ENDOWMENT IN PORTLAND

During the month of March President Homan and Vice-President Todd will be busy in the city of Portland working on the additional $100,000 which the trustees have decided to raise. This sum will cover the expenses of the endowment campaign, cover all shrinkage in subscriptions, and place Willamette's endowment high and dry above the half million mark.

Between two and three hundred students have bravely faced the "photog" for individual pictures, to say nothing of numerous groups, during the past three weeks. The job is about completed, Saturday being the last day for sittings. The manager of the Wallulah disclaims any responsibility for plate breakage.

A recent letter from Harry McCain states that there are 4700 students representing 40 nationalities, at Northwestern this year. This breaks all previous records. "Mac" says he likes The Collegian and is in sympathy with its conservative policy.

Friends of Carlos Raines were glad to see him appear on the campus again yesterday after his severe attack of grippe. He is still a little shaky at the knees and rocky on his limbs, but will soon have his fair-weather gait again.

An article by Prof. Cooley on "The Religious Education of Children" appeared in the Sunday morning issue of the Statesman. The thesis may be included in one of the University monthly bulletins.

INSTALLATION TOMORROW

New Y. W. C. A. Officers Take Up Duties—Cabinet Complete—Conference at Eugene Soon.

The president-elect of the Y. W. C. A. has been busy for the past ten days choosing her cabinet for the coming year, and the result indicates an efficient corps of advisers. The new chairmen of committees are as follows: devotional, Mave Lovelace; social, Lottie Penn; extension, Mildred Bartholomew; membership, Kate Barton; rest room, Eleanor Ruby; Bible study, Ruth Owens; mission study, Etna Emmel; publicity, Mary Cone; finance, Helen Wastell.

Since inaugurations seem to be very much in order this week, the new cabinet will formally take up the duties of their respective offices at the installation service tomorrow afternoon. At that time brief synopsis will be given of the work which has already been outlined for the new year. (The date for the inaugural ball is not set.)

Much inspiration and practical help is expected from the cabinet conference which occurs at Eugene during the spring vacation. Quite a large delegation from Willamette are planning to attend.

IT TAKES A RED-HEAR TO BE REALLY GENEROUS

There's no use talking, it's a big-hearted, generous lad we have in "Red" Young, the big blond Freshman of basketball fame. You see, it was like this. Red's mother, knowing him for a man of discriminating tastes and having little respect for Kloshe Klub diet, dispatched a big basket of edibles by Max Ball, blond Freshman No. 2, who was returning from Portland Sunday evening. Ball, it seems, by some evil chance, has got into bad associations, and before delivery to its destination the basket was spirited away. Earnest pleading on Ball's part persuaded the 'spiriters" to go around and at least share the feed with its intended recipients. Young and Mr. M. E. Paget, manager of football, were routed from their trundles and invited to a banquet, and then Red, with characteristic magnanimity of nature, let the whole gang in on the edibles. Kind of him, wasn't it? Chappell, Ball, Paul Homan, Gilkey and Moore will swear to it. Mrs. Young was given a sincere vote of thanks.

THE TEUTONIANS HONOR FREDERICK THE GREAT

Meeting This Week on Friday Instead of Saturday.

The evening of February 22nd found the Teutonians at the home of Eunice Miller enjoying a literary and musical hour. Although it was the day on which every American heart is aflame with the memory of the noble deeds and magnanimous life of America's greates hero, national pride for the time was absorbed in the cosmopolitan spirit of paying homage to a sister nation's great statesman—Germany's Frederick The Great.

The youth of this world famous hero was briefly sketched by William Schreiber, who pointed out his interest in the classical rather than the practical and the influence of art, music, and literature in shaping the trend of his tastes. How relations could be established between this great man and Voltaire, one of the ablest French writers, proved another point of interest. Harold Jory set forth the facts which showed that a relationship did exist between them.

And then came the vivid description of one of the greatest military careers ever chronicled by history, when Frederick led the Prussian forces against the Austrians and a seven-year war followed. Eunice Miller was here the one who had guided her pen to a successful issue.

Flora Cone did double duty for not only did she describe the "rough-rider" Zieden, the general who saved many a victory for his commander, but was also forced to awaken German harmonies from the piano, to the delight of all.

George Schreiber, as newly elected president, gave an initial talk on "The Modern Tendency in Germany Literature." The remainder of the evening was spent in a social way.

All students interested, please note that on account of the lecture course on Saturday evening, the regular time of meeting has been changed to Friday at 7:30. The members of the club will be the guests of Miss Lucile Emmons at 658 Center street, and a full representation is looked for.

EMBRYO ENGINEERS MAKE PLOT.

Co-ed Members of Surveying Class Have to Learn Squint Act.

The surveying class organized for an elementary study of surveying is in full operation now on the campus. Every fine afternoon the squads from the class can be seen somewhere about the campus or on a street, doing assignment of Prof. Matthews, professor in charge. The class has twelve members, two of whom are of the less stern nature. These are doing their work with the best of the class. The squint act of the ladies is being perfected so they can use the instruments in proper fashion.

The first task allotted the class was the platting of the campus. Every one was required to hand in a map which included every building on the campus. Prof. Matthews says that the clas was doing finel in the work. Several members have had previous experience in practical surveying, and these act as leaders of the squads.

ADELANTES AND PHILODOSIANS IN JOINT MEETING

The Adelante society was the guest of the Philodosians on Friday afternoon. An excellent program was rendered, consisting of: piano solo, Miss Schramm; mandolin and guitar duet, the Misses Goltra; lecture, "What Is a Lady?" by Miss Pennington; reading, Miss Loughridge. At the close of the program, refreshments were served and a social half hour enjoyed.

The lecture given by Miss Pennington was interesting and very helpful. The modern lady was contrasted with the lady of the days of chivalry; her intellect, ability, physical strength, and beauty were portrayed in contrast to the pale, helpless creature who lived in the castles of earlier days. Manners, appearance, speech, action, thought, soul—all these are attributes of the lady.

"She who sings and loves and prays,
She who sweetens bitter days,
She who thinks and understands,
Who silent calls you to your best;
Calls, then puts on you the test,
True herself to life's demands,
She is Lady of Shalott."

Miss Kenworthy at Y. W. C. A.

The meeting of the Y. W. C. A. on Thursday of last week was one of the most interesting of the year.

Miss Kenworthy was the speaker, and her topic was "Across the Seas. Why Not?" Miss Kenworthy handled her subject in a practical manner and gave her audience a glimpse of her life as a missionary in India, and of her work there, which left with them the feeling that after all a life of service in India is not essentially different from such a life in our own land.

Amendments Posted.

The constitutional amendments which were read in chapel last Friday will be voted upon Friday, Mar. 14. These amendments deal with the taking over of the Tennis Association by the Student Body; the election of the Debate Council; and the bonding of the manager of The Collegian. The text of the amendments will be found on the Eaton Hall bulletin board.

The Strollers Quartet, appearing as the fourth number on the Redpath-Slayton Lyceum course, will be at the Christian church next Saturday evening, March 8.

INDIAN WORKERS AT CHAPEL

Robert Hall Tells of Value of Work Among Indians—Has Been at Chemawa.

Robert Hall, who is at the head of the Y. M. C. A. work among the Indians, delivered a short but impressive address at chapel Monday.

Without preliminaries, he got immediately at his subject of the great work being done and yet to be done among the Indians. Mr. Hall was born and brought up among the Indians, and knows the red man in every phase of his life as probably no other white man does. He has an earnest sympathy and interest in the Indian and has given his life to redeem that much misunderstood race.

He told the touching incident of the faithful work of an Indian boy in converting his own people. It was this Indian boy who, on his deathbed, exacted from Hall the promise that he would carry on his work of christianizing his tribe.

Then in answer to the question, "Is it worth while?" he told of the meeting of two hostile tribes and the wonderful influence of christianty in bringing about friendship and a feeling of botherhood when no other power on earth could overcome the hatred and hostility between these opposing tribes.

Everyone was brought to realize the importance and value of this great work and the far-reaching influence of Christianty among the Indians, and all were inspired with a more intelligent sympathy for his brother red man.

Paul Kinninook, president of the Y. M. C. A. at Chemawa, was at chapel with Mr. Hall, who has been for several days at Chemawa. His visit has given a great impetus to the interest in the Y. M. C. A. work at Chemawa, and is very encouraging to the men who are carrying on work there from the University Y. M. C. A.

SUPERINTENDENT OF CAMPUS AND BUILDINGS SECURED

C. C. Clark has been recured by the University to act as superintendent of buildings and grounds. The appointment is not yet fixed, but Mr. Clark is now on the job and will in all probability remain. The University has badly needed a man to keep the campus in shape and to superintend the janitor work, so this addition to the staff of help will be most acceptable.

Irreparable Loss.

Lost money may be found or more earned. Lost time and opportunity cannot be replaced—they are gone forever—a total loss. The time and opportunity for securing a business training this winter will not come again. SMITH AND M'CADDAM TO TRAVEL TO IDAHO

Division by Faculty Committee Puts Ohling and Axley on Local Debate.

The debate teams have been chosen and the fortunate members that will see the other side of the mountains this spring will be Glenn MacCaddam and Paul Smith, who will uphold the negative. The affirmative team, composed of Seth Axley and Charles Ohling, while regretting the fact that they have not received the same reward, are going after the affirmative arguments and have decided to make the home debate the big thing of the two.

The teams this year are the strongest that have represented Willamette for several years. The two literary societies are equally represented on the quartet. MacCaddam and Ohling are staunch supporters of the Philodorian banner, while the colors of the Websterians are worthily upheld by Paul Smith and Seth Axley.

The first meeting of the members of the teams was held Monday evening. Prof. Cooley has taken active charge of the actions for the coming four weeks. He may the week before the debate ask a couple of old alumni to assist him in rounding the teams off for the big event.

The manager is making plans for the big time the evening of the debate. While the plans have not been announced as definitely decided upon, the president of the Student Body has been asked to appoint her committee for the Student Body to plan the reception after the debate. The reception will be in honor of Willamette's team and the Idaho team, which is composed of Ellsworth Davis and Philip Evans. The plans for the reception will be announced later.

This is the farst large debate in the past four years, in fact, since Whitman, in '09, came to ignominious defeat at the hands of the Cardinal and Old Gold under the leadership of Roy Shields, '10, James Oaks, '12, and Sam Heltzel, '09. The teams have been selected by a faculty committee and every detail that would affect the debate was considered before the men were paired off. The active work has begun and will continue under pressure until a letup is thought best by the debate coach.

CROSS COUNTRY RUN MAY BE CONFERENCE SPORT

"Shall the cross country run be an intercollegiate affair?" is a question that is being started out from the University of Washington campus. Graduate Manager Ralph Horr, and George Hipkoe, chairman of the Senior athletic committee, are boosting the affair in a red hot manner.

Cross country races are prominent features in the intercollegiate athletics of the East and it is thought that they would prove equally so in the West.

Dr. D. C. Hall, physical director of the University of Washington, objects to the project on the grounds that it would be impossible to manage it financially.

Ferrin Leaves Pacific.

W. N. Ferrin has resigned his position as president of Pacific University, of Forest Grove. Mr. Ferrin has been connected with the Pacific University for a period of 35 years, 25 years as a professor, and 10 years as president. His resignation was not unexpected, since agitation toward securing it has been carried on for the last two or three years. Last spring, at a meeting of the trustees, the vote stood a tie as to requesting his resignation.

It is probable that Mr. Ferrin will take up some work in the East since his resignation came immediately after an extended trip in that section.

On account of the work necessary for presenting the "Chimes of Normandy" it is probable that the Glee Club will not give the annual spring concert in Salem.

STRIKERS SHOW ALMOST HUMAN INTELLIGENCE

Attempt to Spend Inauguration Day on Campus Work Thwarted by Still Small Voice.

That unexplained and uncontrolable evil spirit which so often infests infants' minds, took posession of a portion of the student body on March 4. After a quiet and not unusual chapel some of the male inhabitants of the campus began to congregate in a rather mysterious manner in front of the chapel steps.

After the usual style of the soap-box orator, a chairman headed the action of the boisterous and smiling conclave. It was proposed that since (1) March 4 is the inauguration day of President Wilson, and (2) we had no holiday on February 22, and (3) this is the last day of the legislature, the work on the campus should be done today by the students. Also a committee was appointed to wait upon the office and report its reply to such action.

No attempt is made to cover up the fact that the steam-roller was used, and there also appeared some other kinds of rollers on the campus. However, it was accomplished, squads got together and began (with almost human thrift and intelligence) to work a wonderful transformation in certain parts of the campus.

Work was done on the tennis courts, the east end of the campus cleared up, wood piled, and much rearranging of the athletic field, in anticipation of the coming baseball season.

After about an hour of excessive labors, there was heard a still, small voice out of a whirlwind (or rather out of a cloudless sky) repeating these words, to-wit: "Behold, I say unto you, all absences today shall be regarded as special and not as usual."

Whereupon the hearts of the lusty youths were stricken sore, and they entered the halls of learning, with the look of those who had fulfilled a mission of service, and return to take up their appointed tasks. Yes, and they were only tardy at classes, after all.

All of Which Means May Day Is Coming.

With the murmur of the babbling brook, chirp of the glad robin, whistle of the lovesick swain and the welcome glitter and sparkle of the sun, there appeared from the third floor of the Chapel building some beautiful young maidens, who tripped the light fantastic over the green sward. They were on a committee, an artistic committee and a worthy one. They are the first glimpse of the coming May Day festivities. They are planning the big thing of the day, the May-Pole dance. It is whispered that it will be something original. The latest imported features from the continent will be there.

May Day comes earlier (not less year) this year and the members of the two ladies' literary societies have elected a committee to work jointly in developing proper exercises for the May-pole dance and also a start the proper spirit which the day demands.

Colleges Unite.

At a meeting held last Saturday of the commissions of the Evangelical and United Brethren churches, appointed for bringing about the consolidation of The Dalles and Philomath colleges, supported by those respective denominations, it was agreed that the new institutions should be situated at Philomath in the present plant at that place. A slight inducement was offered by the city. The plan of uniting the two with either Albany College, Pacific University, or Willamette University was considered but rejected.

The faculty of the University of Oregon is considering a radical revision of the college calendar. They are thinking of dividing the school year into four semesters, any three of which the students may attend, any any one of which a member of the faculty may take for a vacation. They are also proposing to open and close the school year one month earlies than at present so as to make the summer vacation extend from May 15 to August 15.

The annual meetinf all the Y. W. C. A. Cabinets of the valley will meet in Eugene on the 21st of March for a three-days' conference. Last year the conference was held at Corvallis and Willamette sent a large delegation. This year the new cabinet officers will represent Willamette.

Willamette will also have a faculty member in attendance, Dean Patterrson, who will have charge of the Bible Talks of the session.

Whitman has received a large endowment from the General Education Board, the Rockefeller organization of New York City. Whitman will receive the amount of $125,000, which has been voted to her, provided she raises a sum of $375,000 by June 30, 1914. Already the trustees of the college have appointed a committee to begin plans immediately for raising the amount.

Mrs. Edgar Martin was a chapel visitor Monday.
