

Old Chem 'Lab' Soon to Be Music Hall

$18,000 Program
Will Be Step Toward Acceptance by NASM

Approximately $10,000 worth of new equipment and remodeling work on the old Chemistry building are the latest steps being taken toward the expansion of Willamette's music school. Work on the building will be completed late in October before a committee of the National Association of Music Schools considers final accrediting of the school late in November, according to Dean Melvin H. Geist and at that time several new pianos, the recently-presented Carnegie set of 600 of the world's best records and the finest of electric phonographs, and new furnishings will be installed.

When completed, the building will offer the most modern of facilities to WU musicians. On the main floor an auditorium, two studios and the Dean's offices are being prepared. In the basement will be many sound-proofed practice rooms. Two large class rooms, a library for scores and recordings, the Carnegie music set room—large enough to accommodate 40 to 50 persons—and two studios will be found on the second floor.

All rooms will be acoustically corrected and finished in a modern note.

Vespers Series Lists Notables

With the first event, a reception last night for new students, already past, University Vespers plans a series of outstanding speakers for the first meetings, according to June Wolcott, vice-president.

First on the list is Dr. R. Franklin Thompson, dean of freshmen, next Sunday night at 8:30 o'clock. Others are Bishop Bruce R. Baxter, President Carl S. Knopf and Harvey C. Brown of Nashville, Tenn.

These student leaders form the nucleus of the Executive Committee, central ruling group of the A.S.U. New students are urged to get acquainted with them.

Willamette Opens 100th Year

New Courses To Be Offered

Proof of the fact that Willamette is steadily advancing in the scope of higher learning is shown by the fact that four new courses have been added to the curriculum since the publication of the new catalogue.

In the education department, Drs. Hutchins and Lantz will offer an Education Workshop on Thursday from 4 until 9 p.m. Another new course in this department will be curriculum, taught by Dr. Lantz.

The other two courses offered are Legal Aspects of Domestic Relations, on Tuesdays and Thursdays at 7:45 in the sociology department by Dr. Lockenour, and Economics of Public Utilities in the economics department by Prof. Anderson.

The one hour course for freshman journalists, listed in the mimeographed sheet of courses for this semester as "time to be arranged" will be given by Prof. Mürco Ringnald on Wednesdays at 3:05 p.m.

Schlesinger New Ad Manager

Appointment of Ralph Schlesinger as Publications Manager is expected to be confirmed this week by the publications board as it holds its first meeting of the school year.

Schlesinger was named to the post late last spring after the resignation of Ray Hutchinson, '43, was accepted.

Because a quorum was not present when Schlesinger was selected, the move was made pending the approval of the board.

Speaking of Schlesinger's work on the first edition of The Collegian, Hale Tabor, editor, said, "The first issue of The Collegian would not have been possible without the efficient work of Schlesinger and his newly-appointed assistant, Mary Jo Geiser."

'Cats Throttle Airmen 19-0

Willamette university's northwest conference champions posted their first 1941 victory in the books with a 19-0 win over the U. S. Army Air Base of Portland on Sweetland Field Friday night.

Amassing 272 yards from aerials and scrimmage to 16 for their opponents, the Bearcats kept the airmen well in hand, though they looked decidedly rusty at times from only seven days' practice.

Not until midway in the second quarter did Willamette's heralded man-in-motion offensive shake loose Chuck Furno on an off-tackle slant behind nice downfield blocking to pay dirt 34 yards away.

Taking the second half kickoff, the Bearcats drove to the Airmen's 1-yard line on a 13-yard jaunt by Glen Norquist and a pass from Reynolds to Diner with a lateral to Norquist, good for 47 yards. But the Bearcats failed in four plays against a strengthened Army line.

Late in the third period Ted Ogdahl intercepted Jackson's aerial on the Willamette 42, and scampered 38 yards to a score. Stewart made good the conversion attempt.

Neil Owens culminated a sustained 50-yard drive midway in the fourth quarter by carrying the ball over the center of the line from two yards out.

Students returning to WU will find six additions to the faculty, Earl Stewart in the history department, Dr. Robert Tschudy in the biology department, Mrs. Margaret B. Ringnald, dramatics; Dr. Robert E. Lantz, education; Grayden Anderson, economics; Joel W. C. Harper, business administration.

Registration this year will be held in the library instead of the gymnasium. Registrar Walt Erickson has reorganized and improved the registration system, and all students are asked to follow closely the directions printed elsewhere on this page as well as the instruction sheet that will be handed to them.

According to advance registration, there are eight star-Alaska, Hawaii, and four foreign countries represented in the class of '45. Washington will send the largest out-of-state representation, and California will also be high in registrants.

Rook Bible Given With ASB Ticket

Following registration, freshmen will be given their student handbooks when they receive their student body tickets at the office of Lestle J. Sparks, business manager. The handbook may be recognized by its white cover and gold letters. Take a good look at the student body officers in the front of the book; don't hesitate to consult them on any questions.

Many changes have been made for this special Centennial Edition by Mary Jo Geiser, handbook editor. The book is square, indexed on the side and has a waterproof cover.

Welcome, Freshmen

To you, the Class of 1945, Greetings! The word of welcome I extend you can not be overemphasized. From all indications you will be a truly outstanding group. I am sure you will do all you can to justify those indications.

To freshmen and upper-classmen alike, I express the sincere hope that you will enter into all student body affairs with all the spirit which has characterized Willamette's past century. This will be a busy, enjoyable year for us all if we can maintain that spirit.

Any suggestions on student body affairs which you may bring to my attention will receive my most careful consideration.

Please accept my welcome and best wishes to all.

Ralph May, President, ASWU.

The New Collegian

Easier to read!

Easier to handle!

Easier to plan and make up!

That's the new style Collegian! Today the tabloid Collegian makes its first appearance. The tabloid is not a new idea but this is the first time that it has been possible for the staff to give such a paper to the student body.

Tabloid form has numerous advantages for reader and newspaper worker alike. The old-style "blanket sheet" was a hangover from archaic newspaper habits of the last century and while Willamette is a hundred years old, the school is not behind the times. In keeping with WU's spirit of modernity, the Collegian tabloid now comes forward.

The new format offers you—our readers—a more attractive, easier to read newspaper. At the same time it offers staff workers an opportunity to avoid the strict "channeling" of news, editorials, society and sports which was made necessary by the 4-page sheet of past years. Tabloid form gives more flexibility to presentation of news and more chances to seek the goal of all newspapers—attractiveness.

Contrary to first reaction, the tabloid Collegian is just as large a paper as the old style 4-page, 8-column sheet—it's just made up differently.

Getting Acquainted

Always we must become acquainted with new faces, new conditions, changes of all kinds. That is the law of life, and though it is sometimes painful to watch the old and familiar pass by, yet the new and unfamiliar will in its turn become close to us. We must learn to look forward to these changes while holding on to what is good in the old. Our first century is past, or nearly so, and we must look forward to the next with anticipation. It is in this spirit that we extend our heartiest welcome to the freshmen, Dr. Knopf, and the other new faculty members. We want to know you, and know you well. We hope you feel the same toward us. Willamette is not such a large school but that each student may learn to recognize all of his fellows well enough to speak. One of our best traditions is the spirit of friendliness. So we are looking forward to know you new people as well as we know those who have been on the campus for some time.—P.W.

Centenary Year

By WINSTON H. TAYLOR

Advent of the class of 1945 brings Willamette university within a few months of its 100th birthday. From small beginnings has grown the world-known Bearcat school of today.

Events of the centennial year to look forward to include the arrival of a new president, Dr. Carl S. Knopf; completion of the new music hall and razing of old Kimball to make way for a lawn; a highly probable celebration early in the second semester—even possibly with beards and catco skirts.

Three books dealing with the events are due to be out during the year—"Son of Willamette University," the story of beloved Dr. James T. Matthews, student and professor of mathematics since 1883, written by himself; the memoirs of Dr. Carl G. Doney, president for several years until 1934, and a history of the university written by Dr. Robert M. Gatke, professor of political science.

The date was February 1, 1842, when the Methodist mission group, which had settled Salem and was headed by Jason Lee, decided to establish an academy. Planning in a land which had not yet declared its allegiance, the ambitious founders stated the school should become a university as soon as able.

Oregon Institute was the name chosen, and, though it was intended to be Methodist, the articles said it should be taken over by any evangelical Protestant church able to conduct it.

Under first chairman of the board Jason Lee the institute purchased a three-story frame structure on the present campus, built for an Indian school founded also by Lee, but discontinued. This was its home until 1867. A boulder on the gymnasium lawn marks the location of the building.

The academy actually opened its doors to students August 13, 1844. Nine years later, the university was launched. In 1859, Emily York, who entered in 1855, was granted the first degree. No more were given until 1862, when 13 students were graduated.

In 1867, people of the valley celebrated the completion of Waller hall, the "old historic temple" of song, which still stands at the traditional center of the campus. Waller was built of bricks made from clay excavated for its basement.

Next in line of structures remaining on the campus was in 1905, the medical college, later science hall and soon to be music hall; 1906, Kimball hall, then a school of theology and at present used for music; 1908, Easton hall; 1920, Lausanne, and 1923, the gymnasium.

In 1938 the old Salem postoffice was moved to the campus to become the college of law, and a residence from the statehouse grounds was moved to near Lausanne hall to be University House, residence of the president. That year also the new library was completed, to be matched by the newest Collins hall—occupied by the departments of science, only last spring.

The teaching staff has grown from three to about 50. In 1853, the president of the university was also principal of the institute and professor of philosophy.

During the latter part of the 19th century, the university granted as many as eight different degrees—a student could major even in medicine, pharmacy and oratory. Today only the bachelor of arts, laws or music or the master of arts in teaching are regularly bestowed.

Baseball, boxing and track were the only organized sports at Willamette before 1890. The former was played on the site of the capitol building. In these and in sports added since 1890, the Bearcats boast many championships in the Northwest conference.

Change has been immense in the first 100 years of Willamette's history, and it seems destined to continue, with a new president and a changing faculty of recognized instructors.

Dr. Knopf Is Versatile

Dr. Carl Sumner Knopf, Willamette's newly appointed president, will arrive in Salem October 1 to take over his administration duties.

Dr. Knopf comes to Willamette directly from the University of Southern California where he was dean of the School of Religion, and chaplain and professor of biblical literature and archaeology. He graduated from USC where he obtained his AB and his AM. He later received his BD and his PhD at Yale. His versatility is shown by his experience in teaching economics, ancient history, psychology and ancient languages. He was once visiting professor at Yale university.

At one time Dr. Knopf was delegated as speaker to Great Britain under the Committee on Interchange of speakers between Great Britain and America.

A few more of Dr. Knopf's many accomplishments are memberships in Phi Beta Kappa, Phi Chi Phi, Sigma Sigma, Mu Alpha Mu, and Masonic order (Royal Arch Mason).

He is past president of the Southwest Archaeology Federation, past president of the League of Western Writers, president of the Southern California Academy of Sciences, president of the South Coast Improvement association and member of the Board of Governors of the Los Angeles Opera and Fine Arts club.

Dr. Knopf recently spoke before the Oregon State Teachers' association in Portland. He is also the author of nine books and monographs, and of numerous articles on religion, philosophy and archaeology. Besides all of this, he is an ordained Methodist minister.

For hobbies, Dr. Knopf enjoys music, photography, handicrafts and mechanical work. He is married, but has no children.

So Long, Dr. Baxter

With the coming of Dr. Carl S. Knopf next month, our beloved president for the past seven years, Bishop Bruce R. Baxter, will turn to other duties. These past seven years have been eventful ones. They have seen Willamette grow in size, prestige, tradition and spirit.

During Dr. Baxter's stay with us, Willamette has seen the addition of four buildings—the library, the law school, University House and Everett Stanton Collins science hall—the expansion of her educational facilities, the near-doubling of her student body and, above all, a growing, modern outlook which has not lost sight of the Christian ideals and standards which are the very foundations of the institution.

Not yet completed, but begun under Bishop Baxter's administration is the expansion of Willamette's school of music.

While Dr. Baxter is leaving the presidency, he will not be losing all contact with the school for he will still be a member of the board of trustees and we are sure he'll be a frequent visitor on the campus. Therefore, we don't want to say "Goodby"—just "So long."

New Faces On Campus

Five Profs Replace Absentees; One Takes New Position

Six new faculty members will augment the many new faces which will be seen on the campus as Willamette begins another year. Five of the new professors will fill vacancies in the teaching corps and the other man will take his place in the enlarged education department.

For two of the new faculty members, Earl Stewart and Graydon Anderson, this is in the nature of a homecoming as both graduated from W.U. Mr. Stewart replaces Robert Wilson, who has taken leave or absence to take graduate work at the University of Washington, in the history department. Professor Stewart has his master's degree from Willamette and has done graduate work at the University of California. He is married and has no children.

Mr. Anderson, who takes the spot left by Professor Richard Liebes in the Economics department, has done graduate work at the University of Minnesota and has completed his class work for an AM degree. He is the brother of Chloe Anderson, student body secretary. Anderson is unmarried. Professor Liebes has taken a leave of absence to study at the University of California.

Tschudy Takes Peck's Spot

Dr. Robert Tschudy will fill the vacancy in the biology department caused by the retirement of Dr. Morton E. Peck. Professor Cecil Monk will become head of the department and Tschudy will take Monk's previous position. Dr. Tschudy comes to Willamette from Scripps Institute of Oceanography in La Jolla, Calif., where he was physiologist on the U. S. Naval investigation of fouling of ship's bottoms. He received his AB at Idaho U. and his AM and Ph.D. at Washington U. Tschudy is married, has no children.

Dr. Robert E. Lantz will assist Dr. Hutchins in the education department, making this a two-man unit. Dr. Lantz comes from the University of Nebraska where he has just completed a three-year teaching fellowship. Lantz is married and has two children.

Harper Succeeds Jones

Succeeding Dr. William C. Jones, who has gone to Eugene to become head of the Political Science department at the U. of O., is Joel W. C. Harper. Harper has his AM and has completed most of the work toward a Ph.D. He will be head of the economics department. Harper is married and has two daughters. Joyce, the younger, plans to enter Willamette as a freshman this year.

Completing the list of replacements and additions is Mrs. Margaret B. Ringnald. Mrs. Ringnald, who will replace Mrs. Genevieve Oppen who took leave of absence this week to do advanced work at the University of Washington, is not exactly a newcomer to the campus as her husband, Prof. Murco Ringnald, has been journalism instructor at Willamette for the past year. Mrs. Ringnald taught in the English department at U.C.L.A. for eleven years and was also director of the Los Angeles Experimental Theater, a Little Theatre group. She received her AM at USC and has done graduate work at the University of California.

Student Nurse Willamette Grad

Helen Leslie, a graduate of Willamette university, will take over the duties of campus nurse for the new school year.

Miss Leslie is a registered nurse, having completed her training at the Spokane Deaconess hospital.

Student Body to Have Dance

Plans for the first all-school dance of the year are being completed by Marjorie Waters, student body vice president. The dance which is to be strictly sport will follow the Willamette-College of Idaho football game next Friday night. The affair is to be held in the gym, with Chuck Reagon and his orchestra furnishing the music. Bob Voigt is heading a committee to plan the decorations.

Beta Chi's Are Hostesses at Tea

At the home of Josephine Conoyer, Beta Chi sponsored a tea on Sunday. August tenth to greet Salem freshmen. The serving table was centered with a black ribbon embossed with the gold Beta Chi emblem. The flowers were white with gold gilded leaves.

Enid Nelson greeted guests at the door and introducing to the line was Sybil Spears. In the line were Mrs. Charles McCarger, Miss Lela Johnson and Marjorie Waters.

Mabel Lenz, Helena Schneider and Phyllis Phythian served and actives and alums of Beta Chi floated.

Delta Phi Entertains at Breakfast

Godfrey's was the scene of a breakfast Sunday morning when Delta Phi sorority honored new Salem coeds. Flowers and candles ranging in shades from pale yellow to golden bronze carried out the fall decorative motif.

Grace Covert was toastmistress and during the breakfast hour, music was furnished by Betty Cooper and Mabelle Lilburn.

Planning the affair was Esther Mae Devore, assisted by Betty Wirth.

Oswego Trip Is Event of Summer

Alpha Phi Alpha entertained at a rush party on Friday, August 22. The group motored to Lake Oswego and following a cruise around the lake, supper was served at Ireland's.

Honored guests were Evelyn Collins, Jean Carlin, Margaret Wonderlick, Estaleen Smith, Marjorie Bergsvik, Mary Bennett, Carol Young, Gleda Mae Edwards, Elaine Murray, Emma Lou East, Sally McClelland, Donna Belle Savage, Mary Laughlin and Betty Provost.

Hostesses included Dorothy Tate, Valerie Karr, Laura Lee Tate, June Earle, Mary Barker, Barbara Viesko, Phyllis Gueffroy, Nadine Lewis and Madeline Morgan.

Faculty Will Receive Frosh Tonight

First social event of Freshman week will be the informal reception for freshmen given by the faculty. It is scheduled to begin this evening at 7:45 in the gym. Greeting the guests at the door will be Mrs. Maurice Brennen, Mrs. Ralph Purvine, Mrs. Leland Shinn and Miss Charlotte Kalkander. Mrs. R. S. Keene will introduce to the receiving line. Presiding at the serving table will be Mrs. E. S. Oliver, Mrs. Howard Maple and Mrs. Melvin Geist.

Clever plans for getting acquainted have been arranged by the committee. Assisting with this will be Miss Constance Fowler, Miss Gale Currey and Miss Marion Morange. The program is in charge of Dr. R. Franklin Thompson. It will include music directed by Dean Melvin H. Geist and a short talk by Coach Spec Keene.

Miss Bernice Orwig has been general chairman of the affair.

Mrs. Bruce R. Baxter was the guest of honor at an informal tea given by Dr. Helen Pearce, Dean Olive M. Dahl and Miss Lorena Jack at Dr. Pearce's home last Wednesday afternoon. The invited guests were members of the Willamette Faculty Women's club. During the afternoon a handkerchief flower fete Mrs. Baxter.

Gladiolas and asters in varied shades decorated the living room. The serving table was centered by tubous begonias in flat bowls.

Mrs. Ernest C. Richards poured at the tea hour and the hostesses assisted by Miss Dorothy Pearce served.

Mrs. Baxter is leaving Salem with Dr. Baxter take up their residence in Portland.

Willamette Romances Culminate in Weddings

A number of Willamette romances culminated in weddings and engagements during the past summer and early fall.

At the Rose City Methodist church in Portland, Sally Anderson became the bride of Paul Bennett on Friday, August 1. Dr. R. Franklin Thompson read the ceremony. The bride wore white nylon chiffon made with full sleeves and sweetheart neckline. Her veil was of net edged with lace.

Betty Keller, the maid of honor wore pale yellow and the bridesmaids, Anne Faxon, Helen Ferre and Gwen Griffith wore identical frocks of blue.

Gene Stewart was best man and the ushers were Vernon Garret, Otto Skopil, Orville Ragdale and George Sibbald.

Mrs. Bennett was prominent in student affairs on the campus and her sorority was Delta Phi. Mr. Bennett was an outstanding athlete. They are now living in Astoria where she is teaching in the Junior High School.

Terjeson-Coan
August 25 at the First Methodist church in Bend, two of last year's graduates, Margaret Coan and Tom Terjeson were married. The bride asked Helen Chirgwin to be her maid of honor. The bridesmaids were Ann Terjeson and Mrs. Al Klassen. Olaf Terjeson was best man for his brother and ushers were Bill Thomas and Al Klassen.

The couple are now living in Camas where he is a member of the high school faculty. Mrs. Terjeson was a member of Phi Gamma Mu and Mr. Terjeson was affiliated with Kappa Gamma Rho fraternity and Tau Kappa Alpha, speech honorary.

Kolb-Doud
Genevieve Doud became the bride of John Kolb at a lovely ceremony last Wednesday at 4 o'clock in St. Joseph's Catholic church. The bride wore a dress of white silk jersey with long sleeves and tiered skirt.

Betty Jean Doud was maid of honor for her sister. Larry Drury was best man. A small reception followed the wedding. Among those serving were Phyllis Fisher, Marjorie Waters and Mary Ellen Mill.

The couple is now in their new residence, Thirteenth and Nebraska street. Mrs. Kolb was a sophomore member of Beta Chi and Mr. Kolb's very prominent in sport.

Pollock-Mars
The Church of Our Father the Unitarian, Portland was the scene of the marriage yesterday afternoon of Lare Marshall and Jack Pollock. Margaret Sehon was honor attendant and Robert de Prez sed as best man.

SPORT LIGHTS

By GIL LIESER, Sports Editor

Another year of college is at hand, which to us means more specifically that another nine months of sports writing is on tap, mixed in with a little studying slipped in here and there.

We won't wait until next June to apologize for the mistakes we'll make, and to the people we may bore or offend. May we extend our "humblest" now for such faux pas, and assure our readers they will happen as infrequently as possible.

We're in this capacity not merely to praise the alma mater to the skies but to present as accurately as we can, our version of northwest collegiate athletic activities and those of our Bearcat teams in particular.

NEW NAMES AND NEW FACES

Probably never before since World War No. 1 has there been the turnover of college athletes that there is at present on campuses throughout the nation.

The long arm of Uncle Sam and the lure of well-salaried defense occupations have combined to make serious gaps in the rosters of many top flight grid teams who were tickled for championship seasons less than a year ago.

Whether these gaps can be filled or whether defense program requirements will strike even more deeply at these terms and others during the ensuing three months, is the burning question one hears at every hand.

There is no answer to such speculation other than the old one that only time will tell. But whatever the outcome, it is a certainty that college football at least for the present will not suffer in quality or color, though there will be plenty of new names and new faces in the programs this fall.

SPEC HAS NO THEME SONG

While other coaching associates are dusting their tonsils with that increasingly popular theme song, "Gone With the Draft," our Spec Keene is busily polishing the rough edges off a squad of gridmen, the great majority of whom were still pushing clouds 21 years ago.

Whether mentor Keene can coordinate his flock of 24 lettermen and 20 or so promising freshmen into a machine that will again roll to a Northwest Conference championship remains to be seen. But, at least, while many other coaches and character builders alike are worrying over where Uncle Sam will strike next, Spec can devote his full concentration to matters pertaining to such trivial things as end-around sweeps, double reverses, and stuff like that there.

The Passing Parade

Dick Weisgerber says the game of blind-mans-bluff he has been playing behind the plate of Western International league ball parks the past two years is a tougher racket than football any day in the week. . . . Says a standfull of antagonized fans can deal out more punishment than the Chicago Bears and their model T.

Two sun-kissed maidens from the land of flowers and Poi gave a convincing preview of what may be expected when the Bearcat entourage visits Hula-land in the Xmas month, at the Lion's Club luncheon. . . . Hawaii, here we come! Line forms at the right.

Bones Hamilton, energetic leader of Willamette's Pep committee, has an ambitious program outlined for this fall's football games, and deserves every bit of cooperation from the student body . . . for those who aren't football bugs. Bones has a couple of enticing Drum Majorettes on tap who'll give half-time performances with a crack 50-piece Cardinal and Gold band.

24 Lettermen Return to 'Cats

Draft Doesn't Worry Spec; Rooks Make Vets Hustle

In Willamette University's centennial year comes along an edition of the Battering Bearcats that has never been, and probably never will be equalled again in numbers and distribution of returning lettermen.

Losing but six lettermen, four by graduation and two to defense industries, the Bearcats present a lineup studded with lettermen two-deep in every position.

And, adding cheer in the Bearcat lair, is the prospect that none of the 24 returning lettermen will be called into the service via the draft route before the close of the coming campaign. The chief reason being that four starting guard berths. At center, Pat White, sophomore who saw regular service in his initial year will battle for the starting post with three-year letterman Wally Olson.

The fullback position on the Bearcat eleven will be capably handled by "Dynamite" Al Walden, a potential Little All-American back in every sense of the word. Halfbacking duties will rest with Willamette's passer de luxe, Buddy Reynolds, and sophomore Ted Ogdahl, leading conference scorer and second on the Pacific Coast in his first year of college. They will receive able support from triple threat Gene Stewart, and the diminutive but shifty-hipped Chuck Furno, who was clicking in brilliant fashion when the 1940 season closed.

Being groomed to fill Larry Drury's shoes at quarterback are Jim Burgess, and Ken Jacobsen, both better-than-average blocking backs.

However, no veteran's berth will be safe because a talented group of first year men are set to follow the example of last year's freshman and take a back seat to no letterman. Among those certain to see plenty of action in the coming campaign are ends Jim Sherwood and Mervin Goodman; tackles Keith Wy-more, George Pittard and Bill Blake; guards James Fitzgerald and Bob Bennett; center Al Barrett; and backs Earl Hampton, Bob Smith and Basil Peterson. Plenty will be heard from these boys and many of the other promising folks before the season is very far along.

On paper Willamette's veteran grid machine looks like an odd's on favorite to capture their eighth Northwest conference championship in nine years, but it's a long, long road until the final game in Honolulu December 6. And the Bearcat's chances to cop the title and a majority of their non-conference tilt will depend on freedom from injuries and the ability of veterans and freshmen alike to live up to advance expectations.

GENE STEWART, Spec's triple-threat halfback of the seven players above the draft age are married men with responsibilities, which, though seeming to interfere little with their gridiron ability, will justify keeping Uncle Sam away from the doorstep.

Thanks to the good fortune of being gifted last year with an exceptionally talented array of freshmen, who chased veterans out of five starting berths, Coach Spec Keene can present two full teams of lettermen averaging less than 29 years of age. As a result, draft worries are the farthest from the Methodist mentor's mind as he drills his charges for their opening Northwest Conference encounter with the College of Idaho Coyotes here on Sweetland field, September 26th.

Most greatly missed from the lineup of the defending champions will be 200-pound blocking back Larry Drury, and efficient wingman Johnny Kolb; both four year lettermen who won Northwest Conference All-Star posts for the past two seasons.

Bill Reder, Paul Cookingham and Marshall Barbour will see a lion's share of the starting duty at end positions. Two-year lettermen Martin Barstad and George Constable, and hefty Neil Morley, a sophomore letterman with plenty of savvy are counted on to carry the tackle load.

Anthony Jo Fraiola, who received unanimous recognition on opponent's all-star teams last year, and Gordon Moore, a smart three-year veteran are slated for

Wardell May Fill Blocking Back Position

Blocking-back problems which became acute this year with the graduation of four-year letterman Larry Drury may soon be solved according to the latest from Coach Spec Keene.

Jack Wardell, 210-pound quarterback from Sedro Wooley, Wash., has been making an excellent impression with his hard blocking since joining the Bearcat clan Friday.

Wardell comes from the Sedro Wooley high school team which ran up 350 points against none for their opponents while capturing the "B" championship of Washington.

Veteran lettermen with whom Wardell must battle for a starting post are Ken Jacobsen and Jim Burgess who both gave a good account of themselves in Willamette's initial grid clash Friday evening.

Bud Reynolds With Nation's Grid Greats

Buddy Reynolds, ring-leader of the Bearcat's aerial circus last year, posted a 8.36 yard passing average second only to Marvin Tommervik on the Pacific slope and fifth in the nation; according to recently released statistics covering 1940 collegiate football achievements.

Reynolds completed 28 out of 59 attempted tosses, and had but eight throws intercepted; for an average of 484. Buddy's 28 completed aeriels were good for a total of 593 yards.

Tommervik, who ranked tops on the coast and third in the country, had 75 completed passes to his credit out of 136 attempted. His grand total of 1292 yards gained on completed passes gave him a decided edge over the country's other top-flight passers.

Combining his effective passing average with an excellent yards gained from scrimmage figure, Reynolds took eighth spot in the nation among the individual total offense leaders. His average in this department was 5.76.

Both Elevens Well Matched

Last Thursday was Hawaii day in Salem as Willamette university and the Lion's club entertained 33 members of the University of Hawaii touring football club which met Portland U. in Multnomah stadium Saturday evening.

The party of football players and entertainers headed by Coach Luke Gill, brother of Oregon State's Slats Gill, and formerly assistant coach at Willamette, made a brief tour of the capitol buildings in the morning and then did most of the entertaining during the Lion's club luncheon in their honor.

Following a tour of the state penitentiary and Oregon Paper Mill the husky Hawaiian grid-ders clashed horns with Spec Keene's Willamette Bearcats in a sneaky preview scrimmage which gave a definite indication that a real battle may be expected when the two elevens meet on the turf in Honolulu, December 6th.

The Hawaiians, featuring a light, but snakey-hipped set of backs behind a not-too-light line, gave conclusive proof that they

Walden Ranks Second Among Nation's Backs

Averaging 7.04 yards per try from scrimmage, Willamette's pile driving fullback, Al Walden, gained national recognition this year with his sensational average which placed him second in the country in the rushing department. Only James Farrell of Lafayette college topped Walden with an average of 7.22.

Walden's record was amassed from 74 scrimmage plays in which he gained 538 yards while losing only 17.

Bud Nygren of San Jose State ranked second to Walden among Pacific Coast backs with an average of 6.24 yards.

will be nobody's set-ups during the coming pigskin campaign.

Following Saturday night's game with Portland U. the Hawaii squad left for Stockton, to meet Alonzo Stagg's College of Pacific team next Friday before returning to the islands.

Larry Drury, Bearcat Grid Assistant

Ogdahl High In Scoring

Ted Ogdahl, the Willamette Bearcat's man-in-motion ace, who led the Northwest conference scoring pace last fall in his freshman year, ranked 22nd in the nation's scoring records, according to figures recently released by "What's What in Football."

Ogdahl scored 42 points on seven touchdowns; most of them coming from spectacular broken field runs. Only four other Pacific coast players topped scoring feat. They were Harshman and Taylor of Pacific Lutheran's world beaters; Canadeo of Gonzaga and Nygren of San Jose State.

Punting Average Places Walden 27th in Nation

Al Walden, Willamette's potential little All-American won a place in the "What's What in Football" book of fame this year with his 40.86 yard punting average which placed him 27th in the nation in the kicking department.

Walden's sensational punting average put him only five places below Dean McAdams, All-American back from the University of Washington, who ranked 21st with a 41.52 average.

Al's average was derived from a total of 1754 yards made on 41 punts.

Death Takes Two Prominent Willamette Alumni

Death came to two prominent Willamette graduates during the summer. Willis C. Hawley, former president of the University, and for 26 years representative in Congress from the first Oregon district, died of a paralytic stroke July 24 at the age of 77 years.

Dr. Paul Herbert Doney, aged 41, son of Dr. Carl Gregg Doney, former president of the institution, was drowned August 9 near Ocean City, Md.

Willis Chatmen Hawley, known principally for his joint authorship of the Smoot-Hawley tariff bill and for his period as president of Willamette university, was born May 5, 1864 in the old Belknap settlement near Monroe in Benton county, Oregon. In the late 1870's he entered Willamette university where he was granted the degrees of bachelor of science, bachelor of arts, bachelor of laws and master of arts. He was admitted to the Oregon bar in 1888.

Hawley became principal of the old Umpqua academy at Wilbur in 1884 and in 1886 president of the old state normal school at Drain. From 1893 to 1902 he served as president of Willamette university. For 16 years he was instructor in mathematics, history, economics and public law.

In 1906 Hawley was elected to the lower house of congress on the republican ticket and held this position from March 4, 1907 until 1933.

In addition to his chairmanship of the house ways and means committee of the 71st congress, he served on numerous committees.

Dr. Paul Herbert Doney was born in 1900 at Columbus, Ohio, and was graduated from Willamette in 1920. He also received degrees from Wesleyan university, Boston university and Harvard. He received his Ph. D. in 1928.

By 1929, Dr. Doney had risen from a student assistant at Harvard to the position of associate professor of English at Dickinson college, Carlisle, Pa. During this time he filled the English chair during Willamette summer courses.

After going to Dickinson, Dr. Doney served as supply pastor for the Methodist church in Pennsylvania, rising to a leading position in Carlisle's civic life. The 1941 edition of the Dickinson yearbook was dedicated to him.

Paul Whipple, '41 Writes Article For Magazine

"Students Have Something to Contribute to Religion" is the title of an article written by Paul Whipple, '41, in the September issue of Motive, national Methodist student magazine.

After parts of two of his Collegian columns were used in the magazine last spring, Whipple was asked by the editors to prepare his article, one of a symposium, which includes outstanding churchmen, on "What's Wrong With Religion on the Campus?"

The September issue is the first since May of the magazine, which was begun last February as a unique publication. Willamette's representative on the student editorial board is Winston Taylor.
