MEDICS OF '09

The Class is Composed of Eleven Bright Men.

C. O. Boyer is Head of the Department of Chemistry for the Medical College, and Grover Bellinger is Assistant to the Professor of Histology.

The class of '09 Willamette University Medical College is considered by many to be the strongest class, taken as a whole, that has ever been in the institution. The scholarship of its members is above reproach. "Press toward the mark" seems to be the thought, controlling their activities. They established a new precedent among medical students this year by declaring an improvement day, on which the entire building underwent thorough renovation and the floors were treated with a new coat of oil and paraffin.

Three members:

C. O. Boyer, A. G.

Nace and Geo. Lounsbury played on the University football team. C. O. Boyer is head of the department of chemistry, F. H. Thompson is assistant in the same department, Grover Bellinger has done able assistance in the histological laboratory and J. O. Matthis is house physician at the Salem hospital. The members are, reading from left to right, sitting: Geo. Lounsbury, Fred Thompson, C. O. Boyer, F. G. Haas, W. C. Smith, M. C. Fox. Standing: Grover Bellinger, J. O. Matthis, J. I. Russell, F. D. Lewis, A. G. Nace.

MARKER IS CHOSEN AGAIN.

Will Represent the Philodorian in the Inter-society Oratorical Contest.

Last Friday evening the Philodorians cast a unanimous vote for A. R. Marker for their representative in the annual inter-society oratorical contest. This contest is held at commencement time and is conducted by the literary societies of the University. The prize which goes to the winning society is a beautiful silver cup. The societies names are engraved upon it and under them respectively are engraved the names of the successful representatives, if there be any. Any society winning three times in succession gets a clear title to the cup and may keep it as a memento of battles fought and won.

W. U. WON DEBATE

Discussion Was Full of Snap and Vim.

Reichen and Winslow for Willamette, and Davenport for Whitman, were the most forceful, convincing, and interesting speakers of the evening.

The debate last Wednesday between Whitman and Willamette resulted in a splendid victory for W. U. The speakers were well prepared with facts, argumentative and historical, and the whole debate was full of snap and vim. Although the burden of proof was upon the affirmative side the Willamette team won the unanimous decision of the judges. The discussion was open by H. Parcel of the affirmative. He presented many historical facts in a clear and forcible manner. Mr. Woodward, of Whitman, was the leader of the negative. He presented more argument than had Willamette but at first was somewhat nervous. Reichen, of Willamette, presented one of the best speeches of the evening and won the admiration and good will of his audience by his directness and wit. Davenport was undoubtedly Whitman's leading speaker. He is self-possessed and at ease before his audience. His argument is clear and forcible and he had the facts back of him. He also had the rebuttal on the negative and in that speech he might be criticised as he gave too much time in answering a few questions in detail and not enough in summing the argument put forth by his side. Mason, their third speaker, was well supplied with information, but he lacked force and positiveness in presenting it. Winslow, Willamette's third speaker, made up in positiveness for what all other speakers may have lacked. He has had much experience in debating and knows how to convince. His rebuttal was much better than that given by Whitman, as he covered the ground more thoroughly.

The evening's entertainment was diversified by several musical numbers. A piano duet was played by ton.

Piano solo, "Tremolo," Gottschalk—Mr. Arthur von Jessen.

Conferring degree—Pres. John H. Coleman.

Vocal selection, "Outside the Heavenly Gates," Chattaway—Fleur De Lis Harmony Four.

Charge to class—Dr. L. F. Griffith.

Piano solo, "Valse Caprice," Moszkowski—Mr. Arthur von Jessen.

Benediction.

The members of the class are as follows: Mista Louis Austin, Walter Herman Baker, Joseph R. Barr, David A. Forbes, John L. B. Lorin, Leroy Hewitt, Frederic G. Hewitt, R. Roy Hamilton, William

This series of contests was begun last year and the Philodorians were victorious. Mr. Marker, their representative at that time will hold the same position this year. He is most excellently qualified for literary and oratorical work, and has had considerable experience in public speaking. He was Willamette's representative two years ago in the state oratorical contest and raised Willamette's standing from near the bottom to third place. He is one of the few athletes who has an enviable reputation as a thorough, high grade literary student. Mr. Marker has a rich and extensive vocabulary, a com-

ELLIOTT PRINTER

Eight points out of a possible nine is the record Willamette has made in debate this year.

The condition of "innocuous desuetude" in which intercollegiate debating has languished at the University during the past several years, has happily given way to a new interest in the laudable form of student activity. While the rivalry at the local tryouts was not as keen as it doubtless will be hereafter, Willamette has cause to be proud of the teams that have represented her in debate this year. Great credit is due our gallant champions of the forensic arena for their exhaustive study of the questions and for the spirited manner in which they upheld the banners of "Old Willamette." Credit is also due the debate council for their faithful labors in arranging debates, selecting questions for debate, and in obtaining competent judges to decide them. But the lion's share of credit is due Prof. Prideaux for his faithful and efficient services as coach. Prof. Prideaux takes a keen interest, and it is largely owing to his competent instruction, as well as his ardent enthusiasm, that Willamette has made such a notable showing this year.

Shall the Trees Be Cut Down?

The unsightly appearance of the torn-up sidewalk along the State street side of the camps has brought before the students of the University a question that has been interesting many of the prominent people of Salem, that is, the question as to whether the long avenue of beautiful maple trees on the north side of the campus shall be destroyed. The students are taking a lively interest in the subject and have sent a petition to the city council asking for the preservation of the trees. It is earnestly hoped that the city authorities will accede to their request and the wishes of the town people as it is one of the beautiful features of the city. If we lose these trees the most delightful walk of the town would be lost and no city, however, beautiful can afford to give up one of its most attractive features.

Reclaimed.

A child I was, a wayward child,
Wandering o'er the mountains wild;
Climbing now this rugged height,
Cropping now in lands of night;
Caring not for tempest's roar,
Caring not that me it bore
Farther 'way from God.

At times and 'oft white wandering there,—

Could it an answer be to prayer—
My mother's prayer? There came quite oft

A call from God so clear and soft:
"Come unto me, O wandering son;
Eternal life for you was won
By Christ on Calvary."

With haughty pride my Will led on Through brambles thick, o'er sharpest stone.

A close escape had I each day,
From Satan's snares placed in my way.

Peace and rest, two things, though sought.

In lands with sinfulness so fraught,
I found nowhere to exist.

But Love divine, so tender, true,
Still followed me this desert through
And in its kind persuading way
Has led me back to lands of day;
Where milk and honey flowing free,
Where Love in all its purity,
Binds safe to Christ above.

A Theolog.

Those Beaux and Belles.

(With apologies to Sir Thomas Moore.)

That love-sick pair! that love-sick pair!

How oft I've seen their faces fair
In chapel, hall and library
Where love-sick hearts are wont to flee.

Those spoony hours soon pass away,
And that poor boy who now is gay
With ears boxed cold, and torn-up hair,

Will curse the doom of a love-sick
pair.

And so 'twill be when I am gone—
Some love-sick fool will still flirt on;

While other bards writhe in despair
At the follies of a love-sick pair!

Signa Gama.

The members of the Signa Gama enjoyed an oyster supper given by the chairman of the grand consul last Tuesday night. It has been the boast of the University that no fraternities would be tolerated, nevertheless, this order, Signa Gama, has been organized for three years and has grown until it is one of the strongest organizations of the college. This year it is especially strong. Besides its old members, several new members have paid their initiation fee, signed the stringent contract, took the oath of the society and have been admitted into the secrets of the order. There are also several applicants to be admitted at the next regular meeting.

The workings of the society and its members are most strange. Secret members attended only by members in good standing are held regularly, but seldom in the same place. Its members are sent on journeys and given difficult work to do, and are called upon to sacrifice pleasure to obey the rules of the order, but all who go feel more than amply repaid for the sacrifice.

So here to the Signa Gama,
And the men for which she stands;
To friends they make,
And the journeies take
To their allotted lands.

Gratitude.

Last Saturday evening the three debating teams that have represented Willamette this year gave to their coach, Prof. Prideaux, a surprise party. A luncheon was served and a wreath of beautiful carnations was given to the professor.

Juniors Take a Trip.

The junior baseball team journeyed to Albany and Corvallis the last of the week, crossing bats with Albany H. S. Friday and with O. A. C. Saturday. Albany proved an easy mark, the juniors taking them into camp, 14 to 2. O. A. C., however, were too many for them and the score stood 12 to 0 in favor of the farmers at the close of the engagement. The absence of Nace from the line-up proved a serious handicap to the boys.

W. U. Won Debate.

Messrs. Catlow and Eakin, and a vocal solo was rendered by Charles Roth.

At the close of the program and before the judges decision was given a number was given by the Willamette quartet.

Governor Chamberlain presided and the judges were Judges Wolverton, Bean and Slater.

Why Collars Crack==

You'll often find, among your new laundered collars, some that are scratched or blistered on the seam—that is, unless we do your laundry work. It's not a necessary evil, either. The explanation is simple—the seam of a double fold or wing point collar should be evenly dampened before folding; otherwise it blisters or cracks. We have a machine to dampen those seams. It must dampen them evenly, for it does it with mechanical precision, and the girl that operates it knows her business. You'll get no cracked collars from us.

PROF. KAUFFMAN TO GO AWAY.

She Will Leave Willamette and Her Friends to Travel in Foreign Lands.

When Prof. Kauffman returned to America from China a year and a half ago it was her intention to travel by way of Italy. She was prevented by a severe attack of illness. The wish to see Italian art and architecture has haunted her for years and she has decided to postpone the pleasure no longer. She will go abroad next autumn. She says that it is with deep regret that she severs her relation with Willamette University and even after one year's acquaintance she feels a friendship for many of the professors and students that will be a lifelong benediction.

Judge Wolverton Speaks.

Last Wednesday evening Judge Wolverton, of Portland, spoke before the Y. M. C. A.

His topic was, "Closing a Life's Work." He showed the importance of a young man having an aim in life.

The first thing necessary for any calling is preparation. "Get the best education you can, if possible, get a classical education." But if it is not possible for you to get a classical education, get the best possible. Make it your aim to get as broad and as wide an education as possible.

The Judge then showed that for any man to be truly successful he must have faith in God. A Christian man is the truly successful person.

The Y. M. C. A. is fortunate in securing such leaders for their weekly meetings as Judge Wolverton. What the Y. M. C. A. needs is practical talks by men of wide experience.

The Death of Miss Freida Griesler.

With much sadness we record the death of a favorite fellow student. Miss Griesler was loved and esteemed by teachers and pupils. The beauty of her person, the talents of her mind, her grace of manner and elevation of character combined to form a rare personality.

The interment was Saturday afternoon at City View cemetery. Floral emblems from the Young Women's Christian association, the first year preparatory class of Willamette University, from the Queen Esther society, from her Sunday school class and from other friends attest the loving regret felt by all. Sunday at 4 p. m. a memorial service was held at the M. E. church of which Miss Griesler was a member.

Have you seen Trovers' W. U. picture mounts? They are swell.

AWAY FROM MOTHER EARTH.

(By Henry Hamline Coleman.)

On several different occasions I have had the privilege of going up in high buildings. The one that I best remember is the Montgomery-Ward building at Chicago. This structure is a trifle less than four-hundred feet, and at the time I visited it there were only three other buildings of its kind in the world that surpassed it in height. The highest point to which visitors are allowed to go has an extended platform of steel bars placed far enough apart so that one can look through them to the city below. Here one generally reflects what would happen to him should something break. I once, however, had the pleasure of going up in a captive balloon; and from the time I first stepped into the basket until I descended to the ground I experienced some novel sensations. When we left the ground we were lifted so silently and so softly that I did not know we had started. It seemed that the earth was dropping out from under us instead of our rising from the earth. After a short time I was told by the conductor that we were nearly one thousand feet from the earth and that we would soon stop. The scene that I viewed was magnificent and it seemed to me as though the whole state was at my feet. Distance was annihilated. Mountains that were fully fifty miles away seemed close at hand. To have remained up there all day would have been a continued pleasure and the time to descend came entirely too soon.

Student Body Election.

The exciting and interesting political campaign is over and the result recorded in the annals of Willamette's history. The main fight was for the presidency and editor-in-chief of The Collegian. The candidates were the pick of the Student Body and made the election a close one.

Austin C. Price made the successful run for the presidency over John Reichen. Mabel Glover won the secretaryship and Ross Soward the treasurer'ship without opposition.

For the editor-in-chief Murray Shanks was chosen over Royal Bissell by a close vote.

Half cut, shave, porcelain or shower bath, shine and anything you want in a modern barber shop is found at the Model Shaving Parlors, E. Anderson, the W. U. barber, 112 Commercial street.

CLASS BANQUET.

Medics Enjoy a Feed Given by Dr. R. R. Hamilton.

A few weeks ago an agreement was made among the medics of the '07 graduating class that the member receiving the highest standing in the final examinations should give the remainder of the class a feed.

Dr. R. R. Hamilton received the highest average and he fulfilled his part of the agreement last Monday evening.

The banquet was a brilliant affair and much class spirit was in evidence.

During the year there has been much rivalry as to the standing of the members of the class. The result of the contest is as follows:

First Dr. R. R. Hamilton, of Jefferson.

Second, Smith J. Mann, of Salem.

Third, William Kanter, Jr., of Seattle.

Fourth, R. E. Wood, of Amity.

Class of Sixteen.

The following ladies will receive diplomas who have completed the nurse's course: Nellie Arnold, Marie Fleener, Edith Graves, Laurella Holmstrom.

After the graduating exercises the faculty, alumni and graduating class will banquet at the Angelus.

Y. W. C. A.

The girls who missed the Y. W. C. A. meeting last week, missed a very helpful meeting. Miss Glover ably presented the topic, "The Weights That Hinder Our Christian Activity." The lesson was I Cor. 8; and Heb. 12: 1-4. The truth was brought out that the main hindrance are from within. We should have a burning desire to do something; not for a brief space, but for a lifetime. The lack of interest or enthusiasm is a great hindrance. Another cause is lack of sincerity; we should be sincere with ourselves. If we were sincere, and held ourselves to the standard of what we know to be right, the cry of insincerity in others would become a mere farce. The solo by Miss Smith was very much enjoyed.

Practice Court.

An information has been filed by the district attorney of the circuit court of the Philodorian society charging the following students with the crime of riot: Alice Shepard, M. D. Shanks, Birdie Morris, H. Q. Parcel, Gladys Riches, Arthur Windom, Jennie Gover and Fred Hornshuh.

This will be the last trial of the Willamette College of Law for the present year. It will be held in the University chapel May 10 and will be the best ever had at the University.

The attorneys are: Simpson and Stover for the state and Wood and Winslow for the defendants. Admission free.
